Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? A NEW DISCOVERY BY THE SHAKERS

For more than a hundred years the Mount Lebanon Shakers have studied the cultivation of medicinal plants and sought to extract from them their healing essences. Their labor has not been spent in vain. They have made a discovery that will prove a blessing to makind. It consists of a cordial that causes immediate relief in cases of indigestion. The importance of this discovery will be apparent when we realize that nearly nine-tenths of our suffering are caused by dyspepsia or indigestion. Nearly every person you meet has this digestive trouble in some of its varied forms—sick headace, distress after the eating, pain and fullness in the chest after eating, palpitation of the heart, etc., are but symptoms of indigestion. To relieve these sufferings has been the study of the Shakers, and they have succeeded. The reason the Shaker Digestive Cordial has such an immediate and salutary effect is that it causes the food eaten to be digested, for it is undigested food that causes the distress. The Cordial causes the food to be digested before there is time for it to ferment and sour on the stomach. When the food is so digested it gives strength and vigor to the feeble body, makes one feel bright and cheerful, and makes one gain in flesh.

The Digestive Cordial is so prompt in its action hat the very first dose will have a preceptibly favorab'e result. It gives immediate relief.

Every druggist has been sent a supply of our handsome Donkey Puzzel Books, and a copy may be had for the asking. It tells all about the Cordial as well as Laxol, the new castor oil.

Try a twenty five cent bottle of Digestive Cordial and see what it will do for you

SEIZURE OF THE DELAWARE.

The Matter All a Mistake on the Part of the Dispatch Boat Dolphin.

Jacksonville, Jan. 15.—The seizure of the steamship Delaware of the Clyde line by the United States dispatch boat Dolphin was all the result of a mistake on the part of the officers of the government vessel. When the Delaware came into port with the lieutenant of the Dolphin in charge much surprise was expressed among shipping men here. It was explained by the lieutenant that the seizure grew out of the lighting of a match and the officers on the government vessel, ever on the alert to catch any filibuster along the Florida coast, flashed its searchlights over the waters to learn the meaning of the little flame. The light settled on a small rowboat in which was seated a pilot awaiting the arrival of the Delaware to bring her in over the bar. The appearance of the man in a small row boat at so early an hour excited the suspicions of the officers on board the Dolphin, and the boat and man was kept under close surveillance. When the Delaware hove in sight before daylight, and the pilot boarded her, the circumstances were regarded with even more suspicion. Lieut. Sutherland then boarded the Delaware and came on into port with her. Upon arriving here he visited the offices of United States Attorney Clark, but the nature of his visit could not be learned. It is presumed, however, that he was satisfied that the Delaware was not a filibuster, for he returned to the Dolphin, going down on the revenue cutter Colfax.

Statement of the New York Agent.

New York, Jan. 15.—William P. Clyde, head of the Clyde Steamship company and owners of the steamer Delaware, which was seized by the U. S. dispatch boat Dolphin yesterday off the St. John's bar near Jacksonville, Fla., was indignant when informed of the report by a representative of the United Associated Presses. "It is absolutely ridiculous," he declared, "to even suspect the Delaware of being a filibuster. State it emphatically that she had no munition of war aboard. The Delaware is owned by the Clyde Steamship company and you may rest assured that none of our vessels is engaged in unlawful trade. The boat was making a regular trip from Boston to Jacksonville and carried a general cargo."

BOARDED BY MONSTER WAVES.

Thrilling Experience on Board the Steamship Dresden in Mid-Ocean.

New York, Jan. 15.—The North German Lloyed steamer Dresden has arrived at her pier in Hoboken with a story of two monster waves which boarded her at sea and threatened to send her to the bottom. The Dresden had rough weather from the time of sailing from Bremen, but the climax was reached at dawn on January 6. The ship was then in mid-ocean. A huge wave swept aboard, broke in the door of the saloon and flooded the compartment. The room of Chief Steward Barre was filled and the steward had to swim to safety. He got jammed in a doorway and had his knee wrenched. All the officers below had a scramble escaping from the flood to the deck. The sea had thrown the vessel down to a dangerous angle, but she righted again. To prevent the steerage passengers, of whom there were seventy-five on board, from rushing on deck in a panic, the door of the steerage was locked. At 7 o'clock another big wave went aboard, striking the bridge and knocking Chief Officer Folger, who was on duty, senseless. He recovered later and came out of the hospital with no injuries save a few bruises. The sea continued very rough and Captain Gross ordered perforated bags filled with oil hung over the side. This quieted the waves and there was no further trouble.

Bliss Not To Enter the Cabinet.

New York, Jan. 15.—Cornelius N. Bliss, who has been prominently mentioned as being secretary of the navy in Major McKinley's cabinet, emphatically denies that he is to have either that or any other position under the next administration. This is believed to open the way for the appointment of Gen. Horace Porter as secretary of war.

Half a Million People Driven from Bombay by the Plague.

REFUGEES IN DANGER OF CHOLERA

Doctors Afraid To Treat the Plague Patients and Many Refuse To Bury the Dead---Bodies Left Lying in the Streets.

Bombay, Jan. 15.—It is estimated that over 500,000 persons, comprising more than half the population of the city, have fled to escape the plague. The streets are practically deserted, shops and bazaars are closed, and business is practically at a standstill. The doctors are beginning to fear treating plague patients, lest they contract the disease, and many of the native physicians have fled. About 80,000 persons are encamped at Andheri, but they will not be able to remain there long owing to the scarcity of water and the unsanitary conditions prevailing. Every condition there is favorable to an outbreak of cholera, but the refugees are more afraid of the bubonic plague than of cholera, and they will undoubtedly remain where they are rather than to return to Bombay. The government is doing everything possible to assist the people, but its efforts thus far have been productive of little real result in the direction of cleanliness. In Poona and Bandra the plague is raging with great virulence. The efforts of physicians to stay the progress of the disease in the slightest degree have been fruitless and the death rate is extremely high. Hundreds of persons attacked by the disease have died in two or three hours, after suffering dreadful agony. The customs of the natives add to the hideousness of the plague. The Mohammedan cemeteries are overcrowded and it is impossible to find men enough to dig graves and bury the dead. The sound of dirges is incessant in and around the places where the Hindoos burn their dead in accordance with their time-honored customs, and the funeral music has a most depressing influence on all who hear it, natives and foreigners alike. It is stated that numbers of dead bodies of Parsees, the religious sect who expose their dead bodies to be eaten by the vultures, are slowly decomposing in the open air in the places in which they are left. They have not been eaten by the vultures, the birds having been gorged by the great abundance of corpses furnished to them. Everywhere the greatest difficulty is found in obtaining men to carry the dead to the cemeteries, burning places and the dokhamas, or "towers of silence" of the Parsees. Even relatives shun this last service to their dead, fearing that they will contract the disease by touching or approaching the bodies. In many cases the bodies have been found abandoned in the streets, their bearers having been overcome by fear while taking them to their last resting place. Up to to-day the number of cases of the plague is placed officially at 3,394 and the deaths at 2,356. A feature of the disease that was noted in Hong Kong and southern China while it was prevalent there is also noticed here. Swine, poultry and rodents appear to be very susceptible to the plague, and great numbers of them have died.

RIVAL INVENTORS PROTESTED.

Portraits of Whitney and McCormick Not To Appear on Silver Certificates.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Secretary Carlisle has directed that portraits of Eli Whitney, inventor of the cotton gin, and Cyrus H. McCormick, inventor of the reaper, be not put upon the new $10 silver certificates as contemplated by Superintendent Johnson of the Bureau of engraving and printing. The number of protests filed against the proposed plate was simply surprising to treasury officials, who had no idea of the hornets' nest of rival inventors they were stirring up.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Union County Roadsters, of Rahway, elected officers the first of the year. The name of A. H. Chamberlain, which has for so many years headed the list of the road officers as captain, was not to be seen on the list. Mr. Chamberlain has been prominently identified with cycling in this part of New Jersey since the days of the good old ordinary and was one of the prominent members of the Rahway club. He made quite a reputation for himself and the club as a racer for several seasons and as acted as starter in all the race meets in this district. He has often officiated at the meets of the Crescent Wheelmen.

No Court at Elizabeth Today.

Owing to the some important matters which Presiding Judge Van Syckle had to attend to in the Court of Errors an appeal at Trenton today, no session of the Union County Court was held. The Grand Jury, it is expected, will complete its labors during the day and make their presentation of bills.

ALL ON GOOD BEHAVIOR

LITTLE WORK FOR THE CITY CADI SINCE THE FIRST OF THE YEAR.

Few Cases Now Occupy the Docket and These Are Minor Offenders—Two Rather Important Ones Tomorrow.

Since the beginning of the year there has been little work for the City Judge to do, that is, in comparison with the record of the last year. Perhaps it has been too cold for the meddlesome temperaments that usually need the decision of the City Judge to settle their disputes. At any rate the number of offenders has been comparatively few during the last two weeks of the new year. Last fall, Judge DeMeza had all his Saturday morning taken up with the affairs of the court but now there are but few cases on the docket. Two offenders are to come up for trial tomorrow, William Brown, the colored man who gave Patrolman Totten such a chase, will appear to answer to the charge of quarreling and fighting and running away from an officer. The other trial will be that of Barney Tracy, who is charged with purchasing liquor for small boys.

Descends on my weary brow,
And then she searches my pockets,
But it isn't so cunning now.

ANNOUNCEMENT EXTRAORDINARY !

Having this 13th day of January, 1897, sold my entire stock of DRY GOODS, CARPETS, HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS, etc., to MESSRS. WOODHULL & MARTIN, of Morristown, N. J., possession to be given March 15th next, and agreeing to reduce the stock prior to inventory, and time of taking possession of same, to as small amount as possible, therefore we will from this date on inaugurate what we will call and offer the ENTIRE STOCK of THE COMMERCIAL PALACE at COST and BELOW COST, in order to bring it down to the required amount by March 15th.

Of course it would be impossible to give a descriptive list of goods to be thus closed out in an ordinary newspaper advertisement, and can only say that the reduction of prices will be on every article in the store, from a hair pin, to a set of dishes or a Moquette or Velvet Carpet.

It will positively be a great event in business in Plainfield, and will afford the public a rare opportunity to buy fine seasonable goods even cheaper than they can in New York.

Not knowing two days before hand that this change was going positively to take place, Mr. Edsall had gone into the Market and purchased several new spring lines of goods, such as an elegant assortment of new and beautiful Spring Wash Fabrics, New Hamburgh Embroideries, New Laces, New Muslin Underwear, New Spring Calico and Cambric Wrappers. New Waists and many other seasonable goods, bright and fresh; all of which will have to be included in this great retireing sale, and be sold at the same sacrifice as the other goods.

The same remark can also be made about the stock in the House Furnishing and Crockery Departments, many new and desirable lines for the Spring trade had also been received there.

Just as soon as the salespeople have time, hundreds and hundreds of articles will be displayed on both floors with placards giving the regular price and the reduced price, so that anyone can walk through the store and see for themselves what great reductions have been actually made.

When the goods are once sold, of course they will not be replaced again, as the object in selling them at such great reductions is to reduce the amount of stock, as stated before. First come will have first choice. This sale will be worth your attention, and doubtless will produce the greatest sensation of any sale ever made in Plainfield. Don't fail to be one of the first to attend. New developments will be announced as the sale proceeds.

THE SANITARY CO.'S SIDE

Seymour G. Smith Talks on the Garbage Question.

COMPANY ORGANIZED ON THURSDAY.

He Says He Thinks That Councilman Frost Exaggerated the Figures That He Quoted, and Recites Various Conclusions to Prove the Company is Right.

There are two sides to every question and the promoters of the Plainfield Sanitary Company, which proposes to erect a crematory near Dunellen if the necessary permission can be obtained from the Common Council of the city, are entitled to have a fair hearing as to the advantages of their proposed scheme. The matter is of especial moment to the people of Plainfield, as the Common Council is expected to take action on the matter at the special meeting on Monday night.

So it was that a Daily Press reporter called on ex-Councilman Seymour G. Smith, last evening, at his residence on Crescent avenue. Although not a member of the company, Mr. Smith is interested in the matter as the system which the company proposes to use is the one invented, or rather improved by him. It is the Vivarttas system and has been modified and improved by Mr. Smith.

Mr. Smith spoke principally of the arguments advanced by Councilman Frost in his recent interview with a Press reporter.

"I think Mr. Frost exaggerated the figures both ways very much," said Mr. Smith. "He gives the impression that the company will make $20,000 but does not take into account any expenses. I don't think the company can do it without going into very heavy expense in order to do it in the thoroughly sanitary method that they expect. All business men know that it costs more pro rata to run a small plant than a large one, but he has reversed the figures. He makes it the smaller the city the less the expenses per capata.

"As far as the city ownership of a crematory is concerned, what the company applied for was merely a permit to locate a plant in the city limits which is according to the laws of New Jersey for 1895, which compells a corporation to obtain a permit from a governing body of any city, town, municipality or borough within whose limits the corporation wishes to locate a plant of this kind. The conditions specified are that the company agree to give absolute control of the sanitary operations of the plant to the Board of Health. By granting this permit, the city would not be barred in any way should they desire or become in position to erect a plant and could advertise immediately for systems and, of course, this company would have to come in as competitors the same as the others, providing any other system could meet the same requirements exacted by the Board of Health.

"Mr. Frost is mistaken in saying that the company asked for a twenty years' franchise and that it was denied by the Council. The company did petition for a twenty years' franchise and it was referred to a committee to get the opinion of the Corporation Counsel on the question. He decided that there was no law under which the council could grant any such petition and so the petition was withdrawn and not denied as stated.

"As to the sanitary qualities of the combined system, adopted by the Plainfield Sanitary Company, it is only a question of combustion in order to make a sanitary disposal of the garbage. By these two combined systems, it has actually been demonstrated that no matter whether soft coal or the most putrid animal or vegetable matter is being consumed inside of the plant, that there is no smoke, odors or gases which escape from there in any form."

Mr. Smith then exhibited a letter he had received from J. D. Miller, a mechanical engineer from New York city, regarding a visit of the latter to the crematory at Scranton where the system is in active operation. Mr. Miller wrote:—

Mr. S. G. Smith,

Dear Sir:—In reply to your inquiry, I take pleasure in stating that in February last I inspected the Vivarttas Crematory at Scranton, Pa., in company with Mr. M. Craven, Sanitary Engineer of the Department of Street Cleaning of this city.

After witnessing its practical operation for two days, visiting the neighbors around the plant, and interviewing the Mayor and Board of Health, I have no hesitancy in stating that plant is thoroughly sanitary.

We also inspected your deodorizer and smoke consumer in operation, and found it doing its work perfectly.

These two symptoms combined, as shown iny our drawings that I have inspected, make, in my opinion, a system for the final disposition of the city refuse, that will not emit any odors or smoke and will reduce all combustible to ash.

Yours Truly,
J. D. Miller, M. E.

TO PLAY FOR THEIR OWN CUP

PARKS WILL MEET NEW ANTAGONIST.

Having Thus Far Been Invincible, They Are Confident of Victory.

The Park Club whist four will meet a new antagonist on Monday evening in a match for the challenge trophy, which was offered by the Park Club. The Parks' opponents will be the team from the Roseville Whist Club, which holds the trophy at present by defeating the Ridgewood players last Monday. The Roseville club is a member of the State league, but the players from tha club have taken no active part in the contests heretofore and the Parks have never met them. So far there has been nothing in the State that could defeat the Plainfield players in the long run and the match will be watched with interest, although most of the supporters of the Parks are confident of the victory of the latter. The Parks will be represented by their regular team, Messrs. Rogers, Townsend, McCutchen and Howell, and the present holders of the trophy will have to put up a great game if they wish to continue to hold it.

BURIED AN UNKNOWN.

THE BODY FOUND ON THE TRACK AND NEVER IDENTIFIED.

Found Near Skillman — Had Evidently Been Killed by a Train—Held for Several Days But Was Not Identified

The body of a stranger was picked up near Skillman, Somerset county, on Tuesday evening, by the Blue Line train that reaches Bound Brook at 7:30. It was found lying along the track. The man undoubtedly had been struck by a train.

County Physician Wagoner was notified and after examining the body he ordered it placed in charge of Director DeMott with the idea of awaiting developments. The man's back, arms and left leg were broken. The only articles upon his body, aside from good clothing, were a Catholic prayer-book, 71 cents in money, an empty envelope, a clay pipe and a bag of tobacco.

In the prayer-book the name of "Annie Lyon, 532 Bank street," is inscribed in many places. The empty envelope is begrimed with coal dust and all that can be made out of the directions thereon is "West Jersey street, Elizabeth."

A special agent of the P. & R. worked on the case but failed to find relatives of the dead man, whose height was about 5 feet, 8 inches. He weighed in the neigborhood of 175 lbs. The body was buried yesterday at Somerville.

A WEEK TO EXAMINATIONS.

ALL IN ACTIVITY IN HIGH SCHOOL NOW

Besides the Studies the Pupils Have Time For Debate and Athletics.

Only one week remains before the semi-annual examinations at the Plainfield High School and the members in the different classes are busy reviewing for them.

All is activity in the Kappa Delta Phi and the interest in that organization has risen greatly with the beginning of the new year. The programme at the meeting yesterday afternoon was a "Random Talk on Miscellaneous Subjects," in which most of the members took part. The subjects and the speakers were as follows:—"Dr. Nansen and His Arctic Explorations," Arthur Lederer; "A New Implement of War," Charles Noble; "Thomas A. Edison," E. Stanley Peck; "Telegraphy without wires," Sydney R. Titsworth; "Continuation of the Life of Thomas A. Edison," William DeLong; "Flying Machines," Henry Eggerding.

The programmes were arranged for the next two weeks. It was decided to have a hash debate at the next meeting, the subject for which was to be selected by the secretary. For the meeting after that, the programme will consist of a hat talk on subjects to be selected by the president. One new member was elected to the club and two more applications were received and placed on file.

A meeting of the young men interested in the glee club was held yesterday afternoon after the meeting of the Kappa Delta Phi and they tried several easy glees under the direction of Principal Travell. There were ten present.

The Athletic association held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the close of the session when the committee on the proposed entertainment made its report. The report was favorable and the association appointed a committee to arrange for one to be held during February. It will probably be held in the Y. M. C. hall. The committee appointed to take charge of the entertainment consisted of Charles Noble, chairman, Lindley M. Hillman, Arthur Lederer, William DeLong and Henry W. Brower.

A MANNING AVENUE WIFE SUDDENLY AND MYSTERIOUSLY DEPARTS.

Her Husband Believes That Her Love for Him Has Been Alienated by a Somerset Street Baker Who is Also Missing Today.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Jones Foreman, of 26 Manning avenue, has been visited by trouble, and all because Mrs. Foreman had left for parts unknown, and persumably with another man. Last week the husband and wife had a quarrel and for several days they were not on the best of terms. This state of affairs had its own reward, for on Wednesday Mrs. Foreman left town and her husband has not seen her since. The bright three-year old daughter accompanied her mother. The husband instituted a search for his missing wife. His efforts were not very successful and he was in a quandary.

Previous to the disappearance of Mrs. Foreman a baker in the borough had been in the habit of leaving bread at the home of Mr. Foreman, and it is said that he and Mrs. Foreman were quite intimate. This news came to the husband and on several occasions he remonstrated with his wife for showing so much attention to the baker. Mrs. Foreman did not like these reprimands and she threatened to leave home, but her husband did not think she would carry out the threat.

Last night Mr. Foreman met baker on the street and asked if he knew where his wife was. The latter professed ignorance concerning the missing woman. In the light of what had already taken place, this reply made the husband angry. Knowing that the people at his house knew differently, Foreman asked the baker to accompany him to his house. At first the latter refused to go, but on second thought he consented. When the house was reached and the baker was confronted with the husband's relatives, he broke down and made a complete confession. He then promised to meet Mr. Foreman this morning at eight o'clock and accompany the latter to Elizabeth, where he said Mrs. Foreman was stopping. It was sometime after twelve o'clock when the baker left the house and started for his boarding place on West Second street.

At the appointed hour this morning the baker was missing and he could not be found at either his boarding house or at his place of business on Somerset street. A Westfield man, who was the baker's silent partner, came to this city this morning and took charge of the business.

It is believed that the baker left left town on the 3:12 train this morning for Elizabeth where he met Mrs. Foreman.

Mr. Foreman who is employed by H. J. Martin, the Somerset street blacksmith, was interviewed by a Daily Press reporter, this morning, and he related the story which is told above. He is nearly heart-broken over the affair and says that he will take steps at once to secure a divorce. He says that he always believed his wife to be a true woman and he cannot account for her going away with another man. Tomorrow he will go to New Brunswick where his wife's folks live and he will inform them of what has taken place. The maiden name of Mrs. Foreman was Miss Applegate and she lived with her folks at Milltown, a place near New Brunswick. She was conceded to be a very pretty young woman, and until recently, she and her husband got along harmoniously together.

Mr. Foreman's sister in-law, Mrs. Smith, who resides in the same house with him, went to Newark last week and secured the former's little girl and she is now with him.

It is said that the buker, before going away, collected as much money as possible, which includes wages due the men who work at the bakery.

BAKER KELLER ARRESTED.

Held as a Suspicious Character in Elizabeth.

In connection with the above it is highly interesting to know that Frank Keller, a Somerset street baker, was arrested in Elizabethport this morning as he was getting off a Central Railroad train, as a suspicious person. He carried a violin and had a bicycle with him. He was committed to await examination.

Keller's business on Somerset street is now in charge of John Beaman, a silent partner, who lives in Westfield.

Health Inspector P. V. Weaver, of West End Park, who recently sustained an injury to his foot by stepping on a wire nail, is still confined to the house and is not yet able to walk.

CAUGHT IN CUPID'S WEB

A PLAINFIELDER TAKES A PHILLIPSBURG BELLE FOR HIS WIFE.

Frank Jones and Miss Anna H. Slater Married at the Home of the Bride Last Monday—Reception at Groom's Home.

A pretty wedding took place at Phillipsburg last Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Miss Anna H. Slater, daughter of Whitfield Slater, of that place, was united in marriage to Frank Jones, of Chatham street, North Plainfield.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas Hall, pastor of the Methodist church of Phillipsburg. The bridemaid was Miss Rewzillia Nixon, of the latter place, and the best man was Thomas A. Randall, of Easton.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones left Phillipsburg on the 4 o'clock afternoon train, and on their arrival in this city, they were given a reception at the groom's home on Chatham street, by a few of their relatives and intimate friends.

The happy couple have taken up their residence at No. 145 East Fifth street. The groom is a valued employe at the Walter Scott Printing Machine Works.

POSSIBLE YALE CHAMPIONS.

PLAINFIELDER'S IN ATHLETIC WORLD.

McGee for the Rowing Crew and McCutchen for the Bicycle Squad.

Plainfield is unusually well represented in the athletic world at Yale University this year. Two of her sons, Raymond A. McGee and William M. McCutchen, have been called out to try for the freshman crew and McGee is considered almost sure of a place on it. McCutchen is doing well but he is pretty light for the position while McGee has all the necessary weight, combined with a very powerful physical system. McCutchen is also out training with the bicycle squad and is about assured of a position on it as he is considered one of the fastest riders in the college. The training for the crew now consists of work on the tank in the gymnasium but as soon as the work progresses far enough, the candidates will be trained on the river and then the list of applicants for positions on the crew will be greatly cut down.

A STREET MUST BE OPENED.

Further Developments Regarding the Intended Action of L. E. Hart.

Further developements regarding the intended action of L. E. Hart in the erection of two houses on the rear of his property on West Front street, show that Charles Hand who sold his property to Edward Vail, has a contract, sealed and signed, with W. R Codington, from whom he originally secured the property, that the proposed street from Elmwood place to Plainfield avenue, shall be opened. This practically settles the matter so far as that property being opened up by Mr. Hart as a private passage way to the houses which he may erect, and and he will have to secure another opening.

Mr. Vail says that he will not allow Mr. Hart to carry out his proposed plans if he can prevent.

BROUGHT TO JUSTICE AT LAST.

The Slippery Colored Man Who Ran Away Fined $8.

Patrolman Totten has had his satisfactian in the case of William Brown, the slippery young colored individua who gave the officer such a chase last fall and finally escaped. As was told in The Press several days ago, Brown was caught by the officer as soon as he returned to town, and this morning he was brought before City Judge DeMeza for trial. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of quarreling and fighting and running away from an officer, but the Judge did not agree with him and found the man guilty of the alleged offenses, for which he was fined $8.

There was a smile on the face of Patrolman Totten when he heard the Judge's sentence, while the colored man looked solemnally.

An Evening Social.

The first of a series of evening socials given under the auspices of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mattis, of Madison avenue, last evening. There were about fifty present, and the evening was spent in playing games, dancing and other amusements. Refreshments were served.

No Entertainments.

The Young Ladies' Missionary society of the First Baptist church has decided that they will not conduct any entertainments for one year, but instead they will raise money in other ways. At present the members are making useful articles for their city mission work which is being carried on so successfully by Miss Shinn, of the church.

ALERTS OWN THEIR WAGON.

THE CITY WILL PROBABLY BUY IT.

Fire and Buildings Committee Recommend Such Action to the Council.

The fire and buildings committee of the City Council, together with the officers of Alert Hose Company, held a joint meeting, last evening, to discuss the proposed offer of the company to sell their hose wagon to the city. It has not been generally known that the wagon used by this company belonged to them. It was purchased by them for about $475, with the understanding that if the city wanted to buy it they could do so.

After a thorough discussion of the matter, the committee decided to recommend to the Council the advisability of purchasing the wagon, provided both parties could agree as to the price to be paid.

Several years ago the company purchased a hose cart which was sold to Warren Engine Company in 1891, when Alerts bought the hose wagon which they now use. At that time the city was not in a position to buy a wagon for this company decided to secure their own.

The officers present were not authorized to name any price and they will have to report to their company before doing so. No difficulty is anticipated in the price to be paid and it is quite likely that the city will buy the wagon.

POTTERS BOWLED FIERCE

AND DEFEATED THE SCOTT TEAM BY 200 POINTS.

The Game Was the Deciding One and Was Doubly Interesting on Account of Each Team Having Had a Victory

The Potter and Scott Press works teams again contested for honors and big scores on the Ulrich alleys on East Second street last evening, and as usual a large number of "rooters" were present for each side. The game was unusually interesting from the start, but the Potter team seem to have come to the front early in the game and made a rapid stride forward until at the end there was a difference of just 200 points in their favor. The contest was all the more exciting from the fact that each team had previously won a game, and this was the deciding one in the series. Following is the individual scores:

THE SACRIFICE OF SELF.

Men Can Not Cover Their Sins With Money, Pomp and Show.

DR. RICHARDS ADVICE TO CHRISTIANS.

The Confession of Sin and the Sorrow for it is What God Wants as a Sacrifice—Christian Life is Broad, But it is Not Quite Deep Enough, He Says.

The union service held in the First Baptist church, last evening, was a fitting close to the series of meetings which have been continued throughout the week. Considering the weather, the attendance was excellent and there was a deep spirit of devotion.

Previous to the regular meeting, the Christian Endeavorers held their service in the Sunday-school room of the church. L. H. Biglow, Jr., led the meeting, which was a thoroughly interesting one.

The service in the main part of the church was preceded by the singing of several hymns under the direction of F. H. Andrews. Drs. Yerkes and Barnes then offered short prayers after which Dr. W. R. Richards took charge and preached the sermon from the sixteenth verse of the fifty-first Psalm which reads: "For Thou desirest not sacrifice, else would I give it; Thou delightest not in burnt offering." The Doctor then spoke in part as follows:

"This Psalm of David was written after the author had committed his great sin. It is strange that anything so beautiful should come out of sin, but it is really a choice bit of Scripture. David was hiding iniquity in his heart against all but God, but he was brought face to face with his own iniquity. You cannot read this Psalm unless you take it in the first person singular.

"One year ago, when revival meetings were being held, one person remarked that the services accomplished some good for they were profitable for the ministers. That was so, but how about the person that made the remark? If we are thinking of others we may never reach the desired goal. David said it is not sacrifice that is desired, but where did David learn that? Had he read the book of Moses? With sacrifice, the blood had always flowed and the smoke had always risen from the altar, yet David presumed to say that sort of thing was not needed. He held that the sacrifice of a goat would not answer for the committing of a crime, and if our sins are ever brought home to us the same as they were to David we shall understand the force of that argument.

"Men try to cover their sins with money, pomp and show, but it is a plainly told truth that God wishes no such sacrifice. God offered the only sacrifice and that we must accept.

"If David had seen the sacrifices that God had provided, what sort of a hymn would he have given us, as compared with the beautiful Psalm we have read tonight?

"A thank offering is the sacrifice that God approves, and a broken and contrite heart He will not despise. The confession of sin and the sorrow for it, is what you see in Paul and Peter. There hearts were broken and they recognized the great law.

"The Christian life of our day is broad and covers a great deal of ground, but it is not quite as deep as it should be.

"Our time is taken up a great deal with what is going on in the world. The newspapers are full of it. It is either the cruelties of the Turk or the troubles of the saloon-keeper. We should leave the newspaper, with all its gossip outside, and devote more time to God. While David was separated from God he had no time to teach transgressors the way. If I ever allow myself to become entangled with the world, Lord deliver me from blood—guiltiness.

"There are sins near enough at hand if we can only see them, and that is what we are praying for, that God may help us to teach transgress the way."

When Dr. Richardson had concluded his remarks, E. E. Anthony offered a prayer, which was followed with a few remarks by Dr. Yerkes. A few minutes was then devoted to prayer and testimony, after which Dr. Yerkes announced that it had been decided to continue the meetings another week and due notice would be given in the newspapers of the city. The singing of a hymn and the pronouncing of the benediction by Dr. Yerkes brought the meeting to a close.

MINISTER WILLIS' DEATH.

The News Received in Washington with Profound Sorrow.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The news of the death of Minister Willis, which occurred at Honolulu on the 6th instant, of pneumonia, was received at the White House and state department with the greatest sorrow. The news, however, was not unexpected, as advices received from Honolulu several days ago announced the serious and probably fatal illness of the minister. His remains were to leave Honolulu on the 13th inst. and they will be laid to their final rest at Louisville, Ky., his former home. Minister Willis' successor will not be appointed until official notice of his death has been received at the state department.

Albert S. Willis was born in Shelby county, Ky., January 22, 1843, and in 1860 was graduated from the Louisville male high school. He was admitted to the bar in 1866. He was district attorney of Jefferson county from 1870 to 1874 and elected to the Forty-fifth congress and served in four succeeding houses. He was temporarily retired from political life by a disagreement with Senator Blackburn in Mr. Cleveland's first term. He was sent to Hawaii as minister on Sept. 27, 1893, to succeed Mr. Blount. Mr. Willis visited this country several times after taking up his residence at Honolulu, and during the past few years lived on the most amicable terms with President Dole and the other leading members of the little government to which he was accredited.

BENIN TRIBESMEN MASSACRES.

Capt. Boisragon and Consular Officer Lock Escape with Wounds.

London, Jan. 16.—Dispatches received at the foreign office this morning report that Capt. Boisragon of the Niger coast force, and Consular Officer Lock, who were on the British commercial expedition which was recently attacked by tribesmen in the territory of the king of Benin, and who were supposed to have perished with their companions, have arrived at New Benin wounded and exhausted. They succeeded in escaping from the onslaught of the natives, and wandered in the brush for a week before reaching New Benin. Consul Phillips, Consular Officer Campbell, Major Crawford, Capt. Maling, Dr. Elliott, two civilians and about 250 Kroomen and native carriers, with the exception of seven Kroomen who made their escape and brought the news of the massacre of the officers of the Niger protectorate, are believed to have been killed.

Held on Suspicion of Wife Murder.

Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—Patrick Donohue, aged 25 years, is under arrest on suspicion of having caused the death of his wife Mary, three years his junior, and to whom he was married Thursday afternoon. After the marriage the couple held a celebration in their home on Darien street. Yesterday morning the husband says he found the body of his wife at the foot of a stairs and in carrying her to an upstairs room he received the blood spots on his clothing. The police are inclined to believe the husband's story. He will be held pending an investigation.

Arbuckles and the Sugar Trust.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Ground has been broken for the Arbuckle sugar refinery in this city on the plot adjoining the Arbuckle coffee plant. It is the intention of the Arbuckles to push the erection of the building with all possible speed. To this end day and night gangs will be employed and the plant may be in operation by next August. This has been made necessary by the agressively antagonistic attitude of the sugar trust.

Plans of the Sugar Men.

Toledo, O., Jan. 16.—H. O. Havemeyer, the sugar king, announces that the plant of Woolson Spice company would be quadrupled, that an immense sum of money would be expended on it and that the trust would become Arbuckle's greatest rival in the coffee business.

Surgeon-General Tryon To Be Promoted.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Surgeon-General Tryon of the navy will be promoted to the rank of medical director, the highest grade of naval surgeons, through a vacancy caused by the retirement of Medical Director Wells on reaching the age limit of 62 years, the 20th instant.

Naval News.

London, Jan. 16.—A dispatch to a news agency from Shanghai says the United States gunboat Yorktown and the cruiser Detroit have been ordered to Nagasaki to join the United States squadron there. Thence, the dispatch says, the vessels will proceed to New York.

Price Holds His Seat in Congress.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The house committee on elections decided the contested case of Beattie vs. Price, from the Third Louisiana district, in favor of Price, democrat, the member now sitting.

OHIO SENATORSHIP

Gov. Bushnell's Aspirations Discussed at Canton.

BELIEVED HE WON'T OPPOSE HANNA

Senator Sherman Says That Cabinet Matters Were the Main Topic of Conversation During His Audience with Major McKinley.

Canton, O., Jan. 16.—The dispatch from Columbus stating that it is believed by many politicians at the state capital that Governor Bushnell will call the general assembly in special session after Senator Sherman's resignation is received to choose the latter's successor, and that it is believed that Governor Bushnell can have Senator Sherman's seat if he desires, is being discussed here with much interest. It is known that Governor Bushnell is anxious to go to the senate and that he is a political opponent of Chairman Hanna. Nevertheless, there is no doubt that he fully understood that it is Major McKinley's desire that Mr. Hanna be given the senatorship. It was intimated some time ago that Senator Sherman was holding back his acceptance of the secretary of state portfolio until the governor's assurance was obtained that he would appoint Mr. Hanna to fill Senator Sherman's unexpired term. While it is understood that Governor Bushnell was not approached in the matter, Major McKinley and Senator Sherman fully believe that the governor will not oppose their wishes in this respect and that Mr. Hanna will be appointed to succeed Senator Sherman.

Plans for the Journey to Washington.

President-elect McKinley has made his wants known relative to how he wishes to go to Washington. His mother, wife, brother and nieces will accompany him. On account of the age of his mother, Mr. McKinley has made a special request of the Pennsylvania company that the train bearing the presidential party to Washington will run on a slow schedule, in order not to have too great a strain on the old lady. Mr. McKinley has requested that if possible the special train leave Canton at 3 p. m. on the afternoon of March 1, and the running time be arranged so that the train will arrive in Washington about 11 a. m. March 2. Major McKinley's escort will leave about four or five hours ahead of the presidential train, in order that the former may arrive in Washington in time to get off the dust of travel and make a presentable appearance when they escort McKinley from the depot to the Ebbitt house, where his quarters have been engaged. Chairman Hanna will leave Cleveland for Washington two or three days before McKinley, and will be on hand to ride with him to the latter's hotel. The infantry escort, the Eighth regiment, will leave Canton four hours ahead of McKinley on a special train, while the Cleveland troop will do the same thing at Cleveland, both arriving in Washington about the same time. McKinley's train will consist of two private cars, one of which will be used by himself and family; two sleeping cars, one baggage car, a dining car and a car for the transportation of the committee and newspaper correspondents.

Senator Sherman's Visit.

Senator Sherman, who just before his depature yesterday afternoon authorized the United Associated Presses to positively announce that he has accepted the portfolio of state, said he had a long talk with Major McKinley and that they discussed many men and measures. The formation of the cabinet was the main topic of conversation. Senator Sherman said appointments and the organization of the work in his department would not be considered until after the inauguration of Major McKinley. It is understood that the appointment of a first assistant secretary of state was not discussed, but the gossips have it that John Russell Young of Philadelphia is under consideration. Senator Sherman was in excellent spirits and seemed full of vigor. The visit of ex-Governor Long so closely upon that of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts is construed to mean that he is not unwilling to accept a place in Major McKinley's cabinet.

Urging Alger's Claims.

Senator J. C. Burrows of Michigan came to see the president-elect in the interests of Gen. Alger, whom he hopes will be appointed secretary of war. Senator Burrows said the republicans of Michigan had counted upon Gen. Alger, and that he had the hearty endorsement of the two Senators. Gen. Alger is also being urged by the old soldiers of the union armies. Senator Burrows did not indicate that the portfolio had been tendered Gen. Alger, but the belief is pretty strong here that it will be. The differences that existed between Senator Sherman and Gen. Alger have been happily adjusted and form no obstacle whatsoever to the appointment of Gen. Alger to the cabinet. This is stated upon high authority. Representative R. B. Mahany of Buffalo and John Milholland of New York city, who is said to be a candidate for collector of the port, were among Major McKinley's callers.

A Metuchen Residence Burned.

Metuchen, N. J., Jan. 16.—Fire last night damaged the residence of St. George Kempson, editor of the Metuchen Record and of the New York Insurance Times, to the extent of about $15,000. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Panama Canal Work.

Colon, Columbia, Jan. 16.—The Panama Canal company has further increased the force of laborers now at work on the canal. Five hundred more men are expected to arrive shortly from Carthagena.

POISON IN ROSES.

Scratches from Thorns Often Cause Unsightly and Painful Sores.

"Be careful and do not scratch your hands with the thorns on those roses. They are poisonous and the scratch means painful and unsightly sores."

The speaker was the wife of a well-known florist on Wabash avenue. She was exhibiting to a customer a lot of American Beauty roses and had laid a large bunch on the counter. The customer in his enthusiasm attempted to take them in his hands, when he received warning.

The florist's wife held out her hands. They were covered with a dozen or more large round spots, whose angry red color showed how painful they must have been.

"My husband's hands are as bad as mine, and we have both suffered greatly. American Beauties have not done well this year, and the growers, in order to kill insects or in some way to help the growth of the flowers, have sprayed them liberally with a substance that contains more or less poisonous matter. If the stems are carefully washed there is not much danger in handling them. But we do not always have time to do that, and in less than a week after the Beauties began coming into market our hands were in the condition in which you see mine now."

"Does the same danger exist in all roses?" inquired the customer.

"Not always," was the reply. "But it is safer," she continued, "to avoid being scratched by rose thorns in any case. Of course, nothing more serious than an ugly sore results, but that is bad enough."

Just then the florist himself came in and corroborated the statement made by his wife. He said there was more trouble from poison in rose thorns this year than ever before, and it was owing to the fact that insects were unusually troublesome. He always warned his customers to be very careful, and he washed the stems of all roses before they were sent out. He added that there was sometimes danger in eating rose leaves and people ought to drop the habit. He had known women, he said, to have sore mouths from eating the leaves of flowers that had been sprayed with poisonous substances.

While the danger is not present in all the flowers that one buys of the florist, it is wise to be careful to avoid scratches and to stop eating rose leaves if one would be entirely on the safe side.—Chicago Tribune.

A Valuable Pair of Trousers.

The boys of Yale in the old days used to bribe the printers' "devils" to get proofs of the examination papers for them. When the college authorities put a stop to this practice a bright idea seized one fellow and he saved the whole suffering party. He hired one of the printers (it was summer) to wear a pair of white trousers to the office and at noon to sit down on the "form" in which were locked the precious questions. The inky seat of that pair of trousers sold for a deal more than the clothes were worth in their original spotlessness.

Severe Case of Dyspepsia

"I suffered from dyspepsia 20 years. I had a feeling as though there was a lump in my stomach. I did not dare to eat meat or warm bread, very few vegetables, for fear of the great distress food caused me. I experienced relief right after commencing to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. My appetite increased, I gained in general health and strength. I can eat almost anything now without discomfort. Although I had been an invalid for twenty years, I can truthfully say that I am better than for a long time. I never weighed so much in my life." MRS. EMILY F. ETHEL WAS VERY SICK.

Mrs. H. H. Watson, 12 Wells St., Worcester, Mass., says:—"My little daughter, Ethel May, was terribly and alarmingly sick. She had twenty-six convulsions in two years. Her nerves were very weak, her appetite very bad: she could not sleep nights, her limbs would draw up, and she suffered, oh, so much! She was as yellow as saffron, and weak and

DELAY FOR TREATY

Senators Regard the Arbitration Document with Apathy.

FEW HAVE GIVEN IT ANY THOUGHT

Members of the Foreign Affairs Committee Believe England Gets the Better of the United States—Will Probably Be Left for McKinley.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The matter of the ratification of the general arbitration treaty with England is not likely to come up formally before the next regular meeting of the committee on foreign relations, on Wednesday. Opinion, so far as congress is concerned at least, is in such a state that to obtain anything like a correct estimate of the sentiment of the senate is at this time impossible. One thing however, can now be stated as a fact, and that is that the treaty is regarded with extreme indifference in congress, considering the interest it has excited outside of Washington. With the exception of a few senators, chiefly the members of the foreign relations committee, who have an especial interest in the question, the treaty is not being discused at all and there are not ten men in the senate who will say that they are possessed of sufficient knowledge of the subject to make their opinion of the merits of the instrument of the slightest value. These senators are, however, well informed enough to discuss the probability of the ratification of the treaty. There can be no doubt that the members of the committee on foreign relations are as a rule impressed with the idea that England gets the better of the United States under the treaty; at least the fear that she might do so is sufficiently great to warrant the most painstaking scrutiny before any report is made upon it. There are the best reasons for believing that one of the things discussed by President-elect McKinley and Senator Lodge of Massachusetts at Canton was the arbitration treaty. Senator Lodge, one of the most active members of the foreign relations committee, is inclined to the opinion that the United States have little to be thankful for in the fact that the general principle of arbitration has been recognized by the great governments of England and the United States, or in the terms of this particular treaty. Judging from what can be learned by talking with senators there is little likelihood that the treaty can be ratified at this session. Some of the leading republicans say: "McKinley is the man to say whether or not that treaty shall be ratified. It should be left to his administration to determine." This is probably what will be done, if Major McKinley so advises. Sherman as the next secretary of state will be responsible for the foreign policy of the McKinley's administration. The resentment of senators at the action of Secretary Olney in publishing the treaty in advance of its presentation to the senate increases daily, and it is in no wise lessened by the plea put forth by the secretary's friends that his alleged discourteous action was merely taken from the necessity of securing the indorsement of the public at home and abroad before misleading reports as to the exact terms of the instrument could be sent broadcast.

Death of Henry C. Baldwin.

Waterbury, Conn., Jan. 16.—Henry C. Baldwin of Naugatuck, who died here yesterday, was one of the best known men in Connecticut. He had been identified with public affairs for a long time. He had been a greebacker and was their candidate for governor of the state at one time. Mr. Baldwin was an ardent populist of late years and took an active part in the St. Louis convention. He was born in 1842, graduated from Yale law school in 1872 and has practiced his profession ever since.

Arrest of Enrique Trujillo.

New York, Jan. 16.—Enrique Trujillo, editor of the Cuban newspaper El Porvenir, who was arrested yesterday afternoon on complaint of the Spanish consul, who accuses him of having aided and abetted a filibustering expedition which sailed from this port on the steamship Horsa on November 9, 1896, and released in $2,500 bail, will have his examination on Saturday, January 23.

Placed on Full Time.

Lambertville, N. J., Jan. 16.—There is much rejoicing among the employes of the Pennsylvania railroad shops here over the announcement that hereafter the shops will be run six days a week and nine hours a day. For the past several months the men have been working only five days each week and eight hours each day.

Chairman Hackett's Condition.

Albany, Jan. 16.—Drs. Vanderveer and Ward, who are attending Chairman Hackett, said this morning that they considered their patient better than he was last evening, the symptoms being more favorable. Mr. Hackett is suffering from stomach disorder, and at one time his condition was most alarming.

Lost Their Lives on Ice Floes.

Marinette, Wis., Jan. 16.—Five of the thirty fishermen who were carried out into lake Michigan by the ice suddenly breaking up last evening were drowned. The ice on which they were caught was only three inches thick and the wind broke it into small pieces.

Fortifications for Galveston, Tex.

Galveston, Tex., Jan. 16.—The government has purchased a site for fortifications on the outskirts of the city. It embraces sixteen city blocks. The site fronts on the gulf.

REFORMS FOR CUBA

Rumored Action of Spanish Cabinet Confirmed at Madrid.

TO GO INTO EFFECT IMMEDIATELY

Spaniards Looking with Impatience and Anxiety to the Effect the Reforms Will Have in America—Sanguilly May Go Free.

London, Jan. 16.—The Madrid correspondent of the Standard confirms the statement that the Spanish government has decided to immediately effect reforms in Cuba. It is added that the government, in taking such a serious step on the eve of Mr. McKinley's advent to office, wishes to clearly indicate that it acted spontaneously in going even beyond the powers voted by the cortes, for which the latter must grant a bill of indemnity. The reforms will show to what extent the government is prepared to go in gradually preparing the colonies for autonomy, without yielding the rights of Spain and parliament. It will also soon be seen that Spain is disposed to make sacrifices in connection with the Cuban budget. The reforms will not be realized without seriously clashing with Spain's material interests. Spaniards look with impatience and anxiety to the effect the reforms will have in America. The reforms are to be introduced immediately, and a decree putting them into effect will be published on the king's fete day. The dispatch also says it is probable that Julio Sanguilly, the naturalized American citizen recently sentenced in Havana to life imprisonment for conspiracy against the Spanish government, will be granted a free pardon.

Alleged Spanish Victories.

Havana, Jan. 16.—Gen. Solamos reports that his column has had a series of encounters with various parties of rebels at and in the vicinity of Caunao, near Santa Clara, in which the rebels were each time dispersed, leaving an aggregate of thirty-two of their dead on the field. The Spanish column lost one lieutenant and two privates killed and a captain and fifteen privates wounded. Besides these skirmishes other encounters are reported to have taken place in the provinces of Matanzas, Havana and Pinar del Rio in which thirty rebels were killed and many wounded, the Spanish losses being two officers and five privates wounded.

Leaves the Army To Go to Cuba.

Washington, Jan. 16.—An army officer has left the service of the United States to accept a commission in the Cuban army. The man is second-lieutenant Charles E. Hays of the 18th infantry, who is a native of Illinois and rose from the ranks five years ago. In his resignation, just accepted by the president, to date from January 6, he made no reference to his future movements, but in transmitting his resignation to his colonel, he said that he was going to fight for Cuba's freedom.

Neame Gets a Divorce.

London, Jan. 16.—The trial of the action brought by Douglas J. Neame against his wife, Leila Olyve Neame, to obtain a divorce resulted in his favor yesterday. Frank Ellison was named as corespondent, but was not represented. The judge did not impose the fine of costs upon Ellison, he being in New York, and beyond the jurisdiction of the court. Mrs. Neame had obtained a divorce from her husband in New York courts more than three years ago. Ellison served a term in Sing Sing prison for assaulting Mrs. Neame's father. He aided Mrs. Noame to secure her divorce and after she rejected his attentions gave evidence to aid Neame.

New York Newspaper Mulcted.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 16.—The jury in the suit of Joseph A. Trapp against the New York World for libel, in which damages were laid at $100,000, has rendered a verdict for $6,250. Trapp was a juror in the case of John Y. McKane, the former chief of the Coney Island police, when the latter was convicted of election frauds. After McKane's conviction the paper charged Tragp with having tried to bribe the other jurors.

Pension Bills Passed.

Washington, Jan. 16.—At last night's session of the house a round dozen of pension bills were passed. The widows of generals Greene Clay Smith and George A. Morrow were the beneficiaries in two of the bills passed, the former receiving a pension of $50 per month and the latter of $75 per month.

New Haven's Water Supply.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 16.—The New Haven Water company will ask the legislature for the right to increase its capital from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000. This increase is desired in order that the company may put in filtering systems at all of its five sources of supply. This will cost about $2,000,000.

All Bids Rejected.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The secretary of war has rejected all bids for the construction of gun and mortar batteries at Key West, Fla., and has readvertised for proposals. The lowest bid for this work was $396,000, but was irregular.

Lasker Wins the Chess Match.

Moscow, Jan. 16.—Lasker yesterday won the 17th and final game of the chess championship match in this city, a queen's gambit declined, after sixty-five moves. The final score was: Lasker, 10; Steinitz, 2; drawn, 5.

Steamer Fuerst Bismarck All Right.

Hamburg, Jan. 16.—The Hamburg-American line steamer Fuerst Bismarck sustained no damage whatever by grounding in river Elbe, where she remained for a week, and she will sail for New York on Monday.

A DELICATE COMPLIMENT.

Editor Runyon paid a very nice compliment to The Press young men last night and virtually acknowledged that with his much vaunted collegiate education and knowledge of all things in general, he knows in bottom of his heart that he he is not what he poses as—the personification of a journalist. The Drone, by chance of good luck, happens to be the correspondent of the New York Herald, and last night that paper ordered a story on the confession of Amelia Miller, admitting that she was the author of the stories about Rev. Mr. Kionka.

The News, of which Runyon poses as editor—and its general makeup betokens such a fact without dispute—printed a story of the confession from the same information that The Press story was based on. Incapable of rewriting the story himself in such a manner as The Herald might use it, he did the same last night as he has in the past, and appropriated the efforts of others. He simply cut the story bodily out of The Press, pasted it on a piece of paper, signed his name to it and let 'er go. But why didn't he use the matter out of his own paper? We assure The Drone that we appreciate the compliment and here acknowledge it.

A PRACTICAL GRAND JURY.

The grand jury that adjourned yesterday and reported twenty-three indictments seems to have taken a good practical view of their duties. Nearly every grand jury brings in a lot of indictments against men whom the courts can not convict on trial, and as a result that there is a heavy expense attached to the county. Twenty-three is said to be the smallest number of indictments reported by any grand jury within the memory of the oldest court habitue. Beyond the credit that is attached to the jurors themselves, there is also praise due Sheriff Kirk for his ability in the selection of a jury that holds such a conception of its duty to the county.

CARSON WANTS THE PORT.

Robert Carson, so the drift of political gossip indicates, is slated for the appointment of Collector of the Port of Perth Amboy by the McKinley administration. Mr. Carson has been a prominent figure in Middlesex Republican politics for many years, and ever since his introduction into public life has been holding or seeking public office. Carson is a close friend of John Kean, Union county's Republican mentor, and it is probable that his influence will be brought to bear effectively and favorably for the former's appointment.

DELAWARE BEHIND THE TIMES.

A young Miss has just been appointed a notary public in Delaware, and is the first of the gentler sex in that commonwealth empowered to take an affidavit. For several years New Jersey has been honoring her fair citizens in this respect and the nicety with which they do their duty has made them a welcome adjunct to the legal world.

THE OTHER SIDE.

The true function of a newspaper, as nearly every one recognizes, is to present all sides of every question of public moment, and in the interview today with Seymour G. Smith with reference to the garbage disposal subject, The Press is but following out the precepts that have always characterized its conduct.

An Evening of Pleasure.

Mr. and Mrs. Boice, of West Front street, entertained the West End Euchre Club at their home last night and a thoroughly enjoyable time resulted. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hartpence secured first prizes which was a vase and a pocketbook. The second prize, a "Yellow Kid" souvenir, was awarded Mrs. Mound, while E. R. Pope, Jr., won the booby prize, a toy donkey.

Another Life Saved.

Human life is not so often sacrifi ed to recklessness as an inability to see danger. Many accidents to people who a tempt to jump on moving trains is the results of defective sight. Such a penalty would have befallen a Plainfield citizen lately but for his having supplied himself with a pair of Colliers matchless glasses, which enabled him to see his danger in time to avoid it.

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF CITY AND BOROUGH FOLKS.

Many Are Temporary Visitors Who Come to Enjoy the Hospitality and Admire the Beauties of the Colorado of the East.

A. W. Meley, of the firm of Laird, Schober & Co., the well known ladies' shoe manufacturers of Philadelphia, was in town yesterday on business.

There is no change in the condition of Fred Sutton, of Liberty street, who is seriously ill at his home. Yesterday he was thought to be slightly worse.

Mrs. Brown, of West Second street, left town today to visit her mother at Hackettstown for a few days. She will return to Plainfield the latter part of next week.

The regular Friday night prayer meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church was omitted last evening on account of the union meeting at the First Baptist church.

F. C. Grant, a college student of this city, has associated himself with John Dalziel, at the Plainfield Manual Training and Grammar school, and will teach the languages and mathematics. Mr. Grant is a young man and he has the highest recommendations as to his proficiency.

HIS CLOTHES WENT UP IN SMOKE.

William Tracy a Sufferer by Fire at Yale College.

William Tracy, of West Eight street, who is now attending Yale University at New Haven, met with a serious misfortune, Thursday. As he came from one of the recitations, he was met by his classmate from this city, William M. McCutchen, and told that his room at his boarding house had just been burned out and he had lost everything except the clothes on his back. The fire had started in his room, how it started is not known and had spread through the house, doing about $2,000 worth of damage before it was extinguished. Tracy managed to borrow enough from his friends to fit himself out until he could hear from home.

An Evening at Cards.

A very delightful evening was spent at the home of Miss Sallie Gray by the members of the Washington Avenue Card Club, last evening, when she entertained the members of the club for their regular fortnightly game of progresive euchre. The was unusually exciting and the first prizes were finally won by Miss Jessie Haynes and Fred Haynes, after settling several ties by cutting for it. The second prizes were won by Miss Sadie Barrett and Clarence Marlowe. After refreshments had been served the members enjoyed a little dance.

—Will the generous donor of groceries and money, which were sent to Mrs. Rosa Woltmann, 669 West Seventh street, kindly communicate with her, giving name and stating for what charity it was intended.

Mr. Smith then said:

"This letter was read at the informal meeting of the officers of the company and the members of the Common Council, held last Saturday afternoon, and George W. Rockfellow, president of the Plainfield Board of Health, who was present, said that the letter showed the same results as he and Mr. Serrell, of the Board of Health, had found on their visit to the crematory at Scranton some time ago. As far as he could see, it was a thoroughly sanitary system. The plant in Scranton is located in the midst of a thickly populated district and in the near neighborhood of a church, and it is pronounced by people living around there to be perfectly free from all unpleasant odors."

Mr. Smith next produced an issue of the Scranton Tribune of Jan. 8th, 1897, which gave the message of the Mayor of that city. In the message there was a slight reference to the crematory. It was as follows: "The value of the city crematory has been amply demonstrated."

In the same paper was an account of the meeting of the Board of Health of that city, and in the report of the health officer was the statement: "The garbage crematory has done an immense amount of work effectively." At the same meeting the superintendent of the crematory offered his report for the month of December, which stated that 1,704 barrels of garbage, eight dead dogs and thirty tons of coal had been consumed during the month.

"It is understood," continued Mr. Smith, "that the company proposes to employ citizens and at living wages."

The papers of incorporation of the Plainfield Sanitary Company were filed at Elizabeth Thursday. The company was incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000, and it will have its office in Plainfield. The incorporators of the company are John W. Murray, Dr. J. T. Fritts, Lemuel W. Serrell, Jr., H. G. Runkle, James Clark, Andrew Lutkins, DeWitt C. Ivins, all of Plainfield, and Cornelius Berrien, of Montclair. The officers of the company are president, John W. Murray; vice president, Dr. J. T. Fritts; secretary and treasurer, L. W. Serrell, Jr.

PASSING COMMENT.

A. P. Simmonds, artist-reporter-athlete and Fred Barker, bicyclist-telephonist, are practicing a sketch that they hope will win them wealth and laurels in the vaudeville realm of the stage world. It is understood that they have applied for a date in Keith's circuit where many stellar lights make their debut.

* * * * *

Secretary Carlisle has directed that the portraits of Eli Whitney, inventor of the cotton gin, and Cyrus H. McCormick, inventor of the reaper, be not put upon the new $10 silver certificates, as contemplated by Superintendent Johnston of the bureau of engraving and printing. The number of protests filed against the proposed plate was simply surprising to the treasury officials, who had no idea of the hornet's nest of rival inventors they was stirring up.

* * * * *

A great many people will be interested to read the following about Miss Leila Stewart, who so successfully conducted the kirmess in this city a year ago:

The trades carnival, which was given recently in Port Jervis under the direction of Miss Leila Stewart, of Middletown, formerly of this city, was a great success. Miss Stewart will go to Rutherford to arrange for a kirmess to be given there in April. Miss Stewart is also considering an offer to give a kirmess at Grand Rapids, Mich., on or about February 1st.

It is hinted that in the near future Miss Stewart will be called to this city to arrange for another affair similar to the kirmess.

Any man, woman or child, rich or poor, who lives in Plainfield and does not know "Farmer Orator" James E. Martine, at least by sight, has no right to lay claim to being a Jerseyman. But it seems there are such people in this city. One day last fall Mr. Martine was walking along Liberty street when his eyes were struck with a cartload of particularly fine looking apples that two boys were pushing on the sidewalk. They were such fine specimens of the fruit, and as Mr. Martine is the owner of a large orchard and an admirer of agricultural products in general, he felt impelled to stop and inspect the apples.

"That's a fine lot of apples you have there, boys," remarked Mr. Martine.

"Yep," replied one of the youngsters in a bored tone, as if expecting that Mr. Martine was going to ask to sample one.

"Where do they grow," again interrogated Mr. Martine.

"Oh, ye kin git all them ye want down to Jim Martine's orchard," innocently and confidently replied the boy.

Mr. Martine resumed his steps, wondering what fame is worth, anyhow.

Dennis Galbraith, of West Sixth street, has recovered from a slight illness.

VANRIPER WILL CASE.

Court Took the Papers and Will Render a Decision.

The VanRiper will case was heard by Judge Hudspeth, at Jersey City, yesterday. Mrs. VanRiper's will cut off her relatives with $5 each, and left the estate to Mrs. Champney, her niece-in-law, and charitable institutions, with the exception of $5,000 left to Clarence Linn, her lawyer. The MacLaughlin family, of North Plainfield, was among those cut off, and they contested the will on the ground of undue influence. The contestants offered no evidence, but insisted that the evidence of the executor in support of the will was not sufficent. Geo. W. DeMeza and Craig A. Marsh appeared for the contestants, and Messrs. Linn & Speer, John Linn, Mr. Randolph and Flavel McGee for the will. The Court took the papers and reserved decision.

CHARGED WITH ARSON.

A Westfield Painter Committed an Alleged Serious Crime.

Augustus Laurente, a Westfield painter, was arrested last evening on the complaint of Chas. Michel, a barber, also living in Westfield. The complaint states that Laurente was detected last Tuesday morning breaking a window in Michel's barber shop and setting fire to the curtains. A few persans saw the affair and extinguished the flames which did not cause much damage.

The defendant was arraigned in court at Westfield and held to await the action of the Grand Jury, which meets next May.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—Malabar Syriac Catholics have been placed by Pope Leo under native vicars apostolic in place of Latin bishops.

—More than 250 young ladies have availed themselves of the privileges of the La Fayette home, founded in Paris by Dr. T. W. Evans, of Philadelphia, for the benefit of his young countrywomen who come to Paris as students.

—Persons interested in the new English Bible will take comfort in the fact that Dr. Paul Haupt, professor of Semitic languages in the Johns Hopkins university, who is supervising the publication, spent his vacation in Europe in consultation with various contributors.

—Miss Martha Ornstein, a young Viennese girl, is the winner of the competitive scholarship at Barnard college this year. Miss Ornstein came to this country a year ago, unable to speak a word of English. In the competitive examination her English paper was exceptionally good—decidedly better than any offered by the American girls. She is only 17.

—Rev. Father Horan, of Rumford Falls, Me., secured the necessary funds to complete his new church by announcing that it would be opened on a certain Sunday, which turned out to be a bitter cold day, and then preached a sermon so long that its close was accompanied by the chattering of teeth all over the house. As if suddenly reminded that it was chilly, he remarked that it was cold indeed, and expressed his belief that the congregation would cheerfully contribute money enough to plaster the walls and put in a furnace, passed the plate and got what he wanted.

—Dr. Temple, the new archbishop of Canterbury, came near missing his career, according to London Truth. He began life as a teacher and became an examiner for the council of education. A $4,000 principalship in a training school becoming vacant, he applied for the place, and finding that a clergyman of the Church of England was wanted, he took orders against his own inclinations and obtained the position. Later he gave it up to become a government school inspector. Dr. Temple's reputation was made as head master of Rugby school, from which he was taken to be made bishop of Exeter first and then of London.

PLEASANT DREAMS.

The Nervous Young Mi[illegible] Peace.

A nervous young m[illegible] remote village had an unpleasant experience, says the Boston Traveler. The old lady at whose house he stayed, in showing him to his room, said: "It isn't everybody I'd put in this room. This here room is full of sacred associations to me," she went on. "My first husband died in that bed, with his head on these pillows, and poor Mr. Jenks died sitting in that corner. Sometimes when I come into the room in the dark I think I see him sitting there still. My own father died lyin' right on that lounge right under the window there. Poor pa, he was a spiritualist, and he allus said he'd appear in this room after he died, and sometimes I am foolish enough to look for him. If you should see anything of him to-night you'd better not tell me. It'd be a sign to me that there was something in spiritualism, and I'd hate to think that. My son by my first man fell dead from heart disease right where you stand. He was a doctor and there's two skeletons in that closet there belongs to him, and half a dozen skulls in that lower drawer. If you are up early and want something to amuse yourself with before breakfast, just open that cupboard there and you will find a lot of dead men's bones. My poor boy thought a lot of them. Well, good night and pleasant dreams."

THE BEARD IN HISTORY.

Pogonotomy, or the Gentle Art of Self-Shaving.

The practice of pognonotomy, the barbers say, is every year becoming more and more widespread. Pognonotomy is what the Greeks used to call the gentle art of self-shaving. Some people shave themselves because they wish to save time, others to save money. But the fashion of going smooth shaven is steadily increasing, and it is quite probable that within another five years beards and mustaches will be still less in vogue than they are to-day.

The decadence of the beard among civilized races and the reason for its disappearance are interesting things to trace. Long ago a luxuriant beard was thought to betoken a high degree of holiness or wisdom. Even now the believers of the Koran reverence the beard, and swear by that of their prophet. But it would seem that in this very idolatry of the beard lay the cause of its downfall, for the possessor of a handsome beard was prone to vanity, and was likely to spend so much time in decorating it that he ran the risk of neglecting more important matters. So the church and state, then closely joined, declared against it. The French swells of less than 200 years ago used to crimp their beards, twine them with threads of gold and hang them with pearls. Philip of Valois, who was one of the leaders of fashion of his day, used to tie golden acorns to his beard. The result was the popes and monarchs began to issue bulls and edicts against hirsute appendages, sometimes with temporary effect, and sometimes with none at all. Pope Leo IX. and Gregory VII. anathematized the beard, and this means that they cursed it, root and branch, for a papal anathema in those days was something sweeping and terrible.

In the army the first reason for abolishing the beard was that of cleanliness. Up to the time of Alexander the Great the Greeks were a bearded people, but that ruler made every one of his Grecian soldiers shave. The Romans, too, made shaving obligatory in the army, and there were few beards or none among the civilians. The beard was then considered to be the characteristic feature of the barbarian. The first Roman whom history records as having shaved every day was Scipio, the conqueror of Africa. In later times Peter the Great of Russia made an attempt to banish the beards from his half-civilized dominions, but achieved only an incomplete victory, and at one time even endangered his throne by the maintenance of his decree. William the Conqueror was another great commander who would have no beards about his court or among his soldiers. In France in 1553 all the lawyers were forced to go clean shaven, and eight years later the clerks lost their beards by law.

And so the barber's trade has grown, but now they themselves acknowledge that their ranks are swelling faster than those of their customers. In times of financial prosperity the barbers' pockets bulge with coin, but when business is depressed, they say, their customers by the score shave themselves.

No one would think of making the modern barber a hero of romance, like the barbers who flit through the pages of the "Arabian Nights," or "Gil Blas." It would be hard to fancy that the ancestor of the man who shaves you to-day and tries to force on strangers all sorts of tonics for the hair and other costly and impossible things was perhaps he who inspired the shears that subdued Samson.—N. Y. Sun.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

F. A. Nelson has gone into the wood business.

Mrs. Bergan Brokaw is entertaining company from Clinton, Hunterdon county.

Mrs. John Case is entertaining Mrs. George Harrison and her son of New Rochville, for a few days.

Miss Josephine Butcher, of Plainfield, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Henry Lyon on Front street.

Mrs. Hoch and Mrs. Ferdinand Reman, of Somerville, spent yesterday with Mrs. Joseph Maier at the Park Hotel.

Clarence Vleit has returned to his home in Philadelphia, after a pleasant visit with his sister, Mrs. William Shirely.

The members of the Dunellen Checker Club met in Coles' office last evening, but there was only individual playing.

Just enough snow fell here yesterday to interfere with bicycle riding. The roads were sticky, and a wheel could only be propelled with much difficulty.

The ice on the New Market pond is now badly cut up in places, and the skating is poor. But there are many skaters yet to be seen on the icy surface every afternoon and evening.

Since the death of the late Thomas L. Thomas, there has been a vacancy in the Board of Education, and it is thought that at the March meeting of the Board his successor will be appointed.

A driver for R Holmes living on the mountain back from here came to town yesterday afternoon, and in driving on W. H. Coles' scales nearly knocked the entire front window of his office out.

A mystic supper will be held at the home of Mrs. Martin on the road leading to Bound Brook next Tuesday evening. A very enjoyable time is assured and a number from this place expect to attend.

Miss Mamie Hunt who has been confined to her Front street home for several days suffering from an attack of the grip, was thought to be convalescent, but yesterday she had a relapse, and has not been so well ever since.

A regular meeting of the Dunellen Athletic Association was held in the W. C. T. U. rooms, on Thursday evening, and the attendance was good. George Richard on was temporary chairman. The main objeet of the meeting was to devise ways and means for the erection of the proposed new club house and casino at Lincoln avenue and Second street. The new structure will be 40x85 feet in dimensions and will be fitted up with first class bowling alleys in the basement, billiard and pool rooms on the second floor and a hall and reception rooms on the main floor. A committee consisting of W. G. Runyon, A. N. Randolph, John Creamer, R. Bogardus and George Richardson was appointed to solicit subscriptions necessary to warrant undertaking the project. The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the committee. The proposed new building is to cost between $4,000 and $5,000, outside of the land.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Louis Morrell will begin early next week to drill a well for John R. Marsh.

Thomas Mead, for a long time a partner of the late James A. Baker, is here from New York State.

Wm. Stanbery and his son, William, were in New York yesterday attending to some important business.

John Blimm visited friends in Plainfield, New York and Brooklyn, yesterday, and "Ran" Marsh looked after his interests while he was away.

Billy Lee has a horse that's a dandy. Yesterday he was driving back from Fanwood when the animal took fright and nearly kicked the dashboard from the wagon.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

The appraisers who have been at work on the late James A. Baker's effects all this week, expect to complete their labors today. The work has been tedious, but it has been carefully gone over. It will be several days, however, before the appraisers make their final report to the executor.

Some of the sports about here are getting together their loose change and their game fowls and preparing for a battle near here one week from tonight. This sport seems to take very well with a certain class of men, who would hardly care to have their names connected with the affair. And the authorities do not seem to interfere.

The Press has before told of the threatened water famine here, caused, it is said, by the subterranean drainage from the Plainfield Water Works. Nearly all of the wells and pumps in the town have gone dry, and many of the residents now rely wholly on the town pump at Emory's for their cooking and drinking water. Mr. Emory found that his water supply was getting low, so he has had his well drilled deeper through the rock at a cost of $18. Mr. Emory says there is no reason for people going dry as long as his pump holds out, and yet it looks odd to see old men and women toting water pails to and from the town pump. Throughout the township reports of the scarcity of water comes, and in some instances the farmers are praying for rain.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

David Blackford has a sword and sabre which has been in the family since the Revolutionary War. It is prized very highly by Mr. Blackford and is kept as a memento of some of the earlier members of the family who fought in that war.

HASTEN THE REFORM.

An Admirer of Clean Streets Addresses Councilman Frost.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Your interviews with Councilman Frost have proved "mighty interesting" reading. Just now let me express the grateful surprise I had to read the following:

There will be a general street cleaning as soon as the conditions require it, after which the city will be divided into districts, with one or two men employed there permanently as street cleaners and repairers; these men will be carefully selected and will be given instructions in their work so as to render them as efficient as possible with practice. They will be properly equipped with the tools for carrying out the work most efficiently and economically and will be required to take care of their special territory in all sorts of weather, etc., etc.

Bless my heart, I said, can this be? With eager, not expectant, eyes I have watched our streets for five years past, and have never once seen any indications of a "street cleaning;" not the shade of a fraction of an attempt to get off the surface even brick, loose stones, tin cans and boards, much less papers and general trash. And are we at last to have it?

"One or two men employed there permanently as street cleaners and repairers!" Why that would make Plainfield respectable again. It can't be.

I am wondering if Councilman Frost has ever noticed on Sunday mornings the masses of waste papers flying about on the streets and in the gutters; those which newsboys and merchants, too, fling around loose "because it's handy;" or if he has been counting up the loose stones, which, for instance, one teamster dropped on Front street six weeks ago. (I counted one day about 2,000 between Richmond street and the city line, and they must be there yet, unless imbedded;) or if he has seen men and women thrown from their bicyles and had arms or (in at least one case) a hip broken from a stone or board in the highway. If he has, here is fruitage. Success to him.

In all seriousness, Councilman, there has not been in New Jersey more slovenly streets than in Plainfield, and it is time for immediate reform. Don't wait "conditions requiring it," they require it now. Though daily watching for it, I have never known, nor can I find another man who has ever known, in years past, a cart going around the streets generally picking up rubbish of every kind. North avenue and a little of Park avenue is cleaned, sometimes, that is all.

And where the street money all goes to, it would puzzle a fellow to visibly find out; the open public returns are meagre. An Observer.

Why Attempt to Cure.

catarrh by the use of so-called blood remedies? That catarrh is not caused by blood troubles is self-evident when you reflect that attacks are always due to sudden climatic changes or exposure, and occur most frequently during the winter and spring, though the blood is as pure then as in summer or fall. A remedy which quickly relieves and cures the catarrahal attacks has been found in Ely's Cream Balm.

AS SEEN BY SPAIN.

Letter from Cadiz Showing Real Attitude of Spain.

Fights for Honor, Not Success—Not Hostile to Americans, Yet They May Make War on Us—Any End Now Welcome.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

Cadiz.—There was once a man in Maine, who said of his ailing wife: "I do wish Mariar would git well—or somethin'."

Spain would be glad to see Cuba conquered—or something; the war ended, in victory, or—ended at any rate.

The better-informed Spaniards regard the war as hopeless. Yet at this moment greater efforts than ever before are being put forth, in one grand outpouring of national resources, in an attempt, which all feel will be the last, to accomplish the impossible. The one desire is to get out of the affair honorably, with the record for Spain of having done her level best. Even a short, sharp war with the United States might, some think, be desirable; it would end the whole trouble quicker.

DRILLING A SQUAD OF SPANISH RECRUITS.

It is, of course, impossible to quote names, for a statement as this, which is, nevertheless, true in the uttermost detail; men high in the civil government of this country, as well as military leaders of distinguished rank, have said, either to myself or to entirely trustworthy informants, that Cuba must be conquered before spring or not at all. This is the most common form of the statement. Some frankly add that success is out of the question, yet the same men subscribe their bottom dollar to the popular loan. Such is Spanish pride! The conduct of the nation in this extremity is something quite as easily admired as condemned.

The great ports of departure for Cuba of men and munitions are Cadiz, Marcelona, Santander and Coruna; but Cadiz is, from its geographical position, by far the most important. The town is full of soldiers; the single railroad leading hither brings carloads of them, and out in the matchless harbor, which ought to be the Hamburg of southern Europe, big troop-ships and transports rise and fall with the tide, tugging not too anxiously at their cables to get away to Cuba. One just came thenee with several hundred sick and wounded, many of whom had developed tuberculosis complaints. The best of care seems to have been taken of the poor fellows on their way home.

But the ship that brought home between 200 and 300 sick men took out 2,000 well ones. Where are the rest? Of the 270,000 Spanish boys that have sailed away to Cuba or the Philippines few have returned; yet we see no mention of large armies in the field. The waste of life is, in proportion to loss in actual fight, unduly great. Nor can the Spanish government be wholly blamed for this. Cuba is not exactly a health resort, and even Cadiz has a death rate which frolics about in the cheerful vicinity of 50 per thousand—four times that of most American cities of the same size.

The stories of bad treatment of the Spanish soldiers on the troop ships grow smaller as one hears their source. Mr. W. G. Forster, the superintendent of the Eastern Telegraph company, who speaks Spanish perfectly, and who from his long experience of military transportation is well qualified to give testimony, tells me that the treatment the boys receive compares very favorably with that upon British troop ships. The French transport service to Madagascar and to Tonquin was much inferior. It is true that the same ships which carry 2,000 troops from Cadiz would not be permitted to take more than 700 to 800 British troops. Overcrowding may, therefore, be admitted, but the food is abundant and a winter voyage so far southward is apt to give pleasant deck weather. I am authorized to say that few of the young soldiers are anxious to leave the ships at Havana. The truth doubtless is that British soldiers expect a great deal, don't get it and grumble; while the Spanish expect little, get rather more and are fairly satisfied.

The transportation and provisioning of an army so far from home is a tremendous undertaking. It is done with businesslike promptitude—again comparing favorably with the recent French operations—probably because the government doesn't do the work, but farms it all out to the Campania Trans-Atlantica, which is making a much better record than Gen. Weyler.

Spain is heavily taxed, but not beyond endurance. She can raise money, and has just proved it. She can indisputably raise troops for years to come at the present rate, taking each year the youths that reach conscription age, just as Napoleon did. But—

The first time I saw a squad of conscripts being drilled was at Linea, just across the neutral strip that divides Gibraltar from Spain. Two American physicians were with me in the carriage. Both cried out at once: "Why, they are nothing but boys!" Physicians should be pretty good judges of age, and both my companions held to it that there were boys in line who looked not over 14—chubby cubs slouching along without order, whacking each other on the back and frolicking in blissful and youthful unconcern at their probable fate. There was no sign of beard on any face. The officers were much larger, and were all mature men.

It is the same in Cadiz. I have in hand a popular Spanish photograph representing the drill of just such a squad of recruits, and in this picture also all the faces are boyish. They are very nice boys, plucky boys, healthy boys, but they are not men. This leads to the heart of the difficulty.

Mr. Forster, upon whose knowledge of Spanish affairs I greatly rely, expresses the utmost admiration for the efforts Spain is making, but deplores the necessity for sending out such immature troops. If the thousands of thoroughly-drilled men in the Spanish garrisons, if the magnificent civil guards could be sent to Cuba, they might make some impression, but the government is afraid to let them go—is afraid of its own people.

One hears in America a great deal about the Spanish republicans. Here more is said about the Carlists. What improvement could be expected from the accession to the throne of a man like Don Carlos it is hard to see, but in a storm any port looks desirable; in bad times any change is acceptable.

It was the republicans who were wholly responsible for the attacks on the United States consulates some months ago. The reason was not hostility to America, but a desire to embroil the Spanish government in difficulties. Charles L. Adams, the courteous and kindly Virginian who represents Uncle Sam as consul in Cadiz, tells me that although three attacks were made on the consulate here, he himself passed through the streets at all times without suffering from the slightest discourtesy. Of the kindness shown them at that time by the Spaniards, both Mr. and Mrs. Adams speak in terms of the highest praise. Many wealthy families urged Mr. Adams to visit them until the disturbance was over, but she pluckily stuck to the consulate. I have not yet met or seen in the railway trains, in hotels, or on the streets the slightest evidence of hostile feeling toward Americans personally, even here in Cadiz, where every guest of the hotel is a man and half of them officers. The Spanish government may at almost any time go to war with the United States as a last desperate resort to settle political matters among their own people; but no one would deplore the necessity more bitterly than the men who ordered the hostilities.

Such a war could hardly prove a serious menace to the United States. The Philippine islands, a far greater and more populous colony than Cuba, are engaged in a promising revolt. The fierce natives there received after the revolution of '78 the benefits of the new constitution, which have proved satisfactory in the Spanish provinces, but which were denied to Cuba. The Philippines used their freedom to import arms to make war on Spain. Cuba has nominally 25 deputies in the cortes. Really she has seldom had more than three or four, and these have had no vote. She now absolutely refuses to be saddled with a debt of $600,000,000, incurred almost wholly in fighting down Cuban reform.

And neither to Cuba nor to the Philippine islands, nor to the United States, can the Spanish men-of-war sail or her best soldiers be transported. They must be kept at home to watch the Carlists. Is it any wonder that some are predicting an end of operations even sooner than next spring?

Are waiting to be worn by some sweet fair.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? HER ALIMONY STOPPED.

Mrs. Southworth's Remarriage Relieves Her Former Millionaire Husband.

Boston, Jan. 16.—A notable case came up in the superior court in this city yesterday when Horatio W. Southworth, the Springfield millionaire paper manufacturer, now resident in New York city, appeared as petitioner before Judge Lilley to have the alimony which was awarded to his former wife in 1890 discontinued on the ground of her remarriage. The marriage was not disputed by the counsel for the respondent, but it was claimed that this was not in itself sufficient to furnish grounds for withdrawing the alimony. Judge Lilley gave his decision in favor of the petitioner, but reported the case to the supreme court, where it will probably be heard in March. There is thought to be little doubt that the ruling in the lower court will be sustained. This decision practically terminates in Mr. Southworth's favor the long continued litigation between these parties which has been in the courts of this state for the past eight years.

Denies That His Daughter Eloped.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Jan. 16.—When Maj. M. A. Higley of this city, the father of Mrs. W. W. Dimond, who is reported to have eloped from Honolulu with Charles Dilard Wilson, was shown the dispatch he denied there had been an elopement. He asserted that his daughter had come to San Francisco upon the advice of physicians to recover from the effect of cruel treatment inflicted upon her by her husband, who has brought suit for divorce at Honolulu. She will return to Honolulu to fight the case.

Escape of Federal Prisoners.

Washington, Jan. 16. — Attorney-General Harmon has been informed by the United States district attorney at New York of the escape from Ludlow street jail of four United States prisoners. What effort, if any, has been put forth by the department of justice independent of the New York local authorities to effect their capture could not be learned last night, as Attorney-General Harmon could not be found.

A Remarkable Sentence.

Danville, Pa., Jan. 16.—In sentencing Paul Tonetska to four months' imprisonment in the county jail, Judge Ikeler delivered a remarkable judicial utterance in order to impose the strictest penalty upon the prisoner. The judge instructed the sheriff to make Tonetska's imprisonment "as hard as possible and to allow him to receive only enough food to sustain life" as long as he remained in jail.

TRADE IMPROVEMENT

The Gains Now Being Made Are Slow, But Solid and Lasting.

NO CRAZY EXCITEMENT APPARENT

Deliberate Judgment of the Ablest and Most Prudent Men in Business Control the Situation---Prices Not Forced Up.

New York, Jan. 16.—Dun's weekly review of the state of trade for the week just ending will, to-day, say: The greatest growth and prospertity the country had ever seen came suddenly in 1879, after several months of disappointment because specie resumption had not yet brought the benefits expected. It is not the largest and most powerful vessel that can be started most quickly, and it takes time for new confidence to reach, through easier money markets, larger orders, resuming mills, expanding employment, and larger distribution, to the results which make still greater and lasting gains possible. Such gradual and steady improvement has been in progress for more than two months. The output of pig iron has gained 12.3 per cent. in December and 41.6 per cent. since October 1. The output of coke has increased 88.7 per cent. since October 1. Sales of wool have again become large, though not yet fully developed. Money markets feel a steady increase in demand for commercial and manufacturing loans. Additional works have gone into operation each week in January, and the working force is larger than at any other time for six months. Best of all, there is so little crazy excitement that the gain may be ascribed to the deliberate judgment of the ablest and most prudent men in business.

Not a Time of High Prices.

It is not a time of high prices. Natural and lasting growth does not begin, as the flurry did in 1895, by forcing up prices without regard to the consuming demand. The lowest general average of prices in 1879, the lowest for ten years after the panic of 1873, came several months after solid improvement had begun. Many who are anxious to get early hold of the markets are making for the moment lower prices than they could afford to maintain. Some have secured orders enough for months to come, and begin to be less keen in competition. With the increase in output of pig iron to 159,720 tons weekly against 142,278 last month, the price is a shade lower at the east and Chicago, but heavy purchases already advance Bessemer a shade at Pittsburg. A sale of 10,000 tons Tennessee No. 4 for export will yield only $6.87 1-2 at the mill, and the shipment of 2,000 tons billets to Manchester will yield only $15 at Pittsburg. Steel bars have been reduced to 1 cent and some other finished products $1 per ton, but the demand, is on the whole, steadily growing. The coke output has risen from 50,000 to 94,342 tons weekly, and minor metals are a shade stronger. Cotton, print cloths, boots and shoes, leather and hides, etc., do not show as yet any very encouraging signs, but men in those lines of busines are hopeful.

The Money Market.

The money market has been disturbed by a combination of large bankers not to lend on call below 2 per cent., which invited all sorts of financial institutions to take the market, caused payment of bank loans for some millions, and left supplies of funds so heavy that time loans were sharply marked down. More was done in commercial paper, though offerings increased but moderately. Receipts from the interior exceeded shipments by $1,500,000. Exports continue to exceed last year's for the week 8 per cent., while imports fell 10 per cent. below last year's. December exports of principal products, showing an increase of $16,282,054, give further assurance that the $40,000,000 of hoarded exchange, some of which London is trying to renew, will not soon be exhausted in preventing gold exports.

Age Limit in Classified Service.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Mr. Gillett, rep., Mass., has introduced in the house a bill fixing the age for retirement from the classified service of the the United States at sixty-five years. All offices are to become vacant when the persons holding them becomes sixty-five years of age, and no person more than sixty-five years old is to be eligible to appointment. The act, however, is not to apply to union veterans of the late war or to their widows.

TWILIGHT COUNCIL'S SMOKER.

Scotch Plains Juniors Have a Jolly Good Time.

The smoker and second anniversary exercises of Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., at Scotch Plains, last night, was a red letter night for that organization. The regular meeting of the order was held in short form and then the doors were thrown open to the visitors.

E. J. Phillips opened the meeting with an appropriate speech concerning the growth and prosperous condition of the order, stating that there were thirty-two members now on the membership rolls. State Warden Long was the first of the visiting speakers, and his remarks had mostly to do with the objects and benefits of the order. Mr. Lightfoot, of Milburn Council, mixed a little humor in his words and entertained the assemblage in a pleasant way. Brothers McMunty, of New Germantown, and Edwards, of Westfield, followed. W. H. Turton responded in behalf of Twilight Council and was greeted with applause all through his remarks. A banquet was served afterwards. The following Councils were represented: Success, of Milburn, 23 members; Central, of Westfield, 8; Franklin, of Plainfield, 6; Overlook, of Summit, 10, also Mt. Bethel and several other Councils.

The condition of J. Fred MacDonald is greatly improved today.

J., possession to be given March 15th next, and agreeing to reduce the stock prior to inventory, and time of taking possession of same, to as small amount as possible, therefore we will from this date on inaugurate what we will call

and offer the ENTIRE STOCK of THE COMMERCIAL PALACE at COST and BELOW COST, in order to bring it down to the required amount by March 15th.

Of course it would be impossible to give a descriptive list of goods to be thus closed out in an ordinary newspaper advertisement, and can only say that the reduction of prices will be on every article in the store, from a hair pin, to a set of dishes or a Moquette or Velvet Carpet.

It will positively be a great event in business in Plainfield, and will afford the public a rare opportunity to buy fine seasonable goods even cheaper than they can in New York.

Not knowing two days before hand that this change was going positively to take place, Mr. Edsall had gone into the Market and purchased several new spring lines of goods, such as an elegant assortment of new and beautiful Spring Wash Fabrics, New Hamburgh Embroideries, New Laces, New Muslin Underwear, New Spring Calico and Cambric Wrappers, New Waists and many other seasonable goods, bright and fresh; all of which will have to be included in this great retireing sale, and be sold at the same sacrifice as the other goods.

The same remark can also be made about the stock in the House Furnishing and Crockery Departments, many new and desirable lines for the Spring trade had also been received there.

Just as soon as the salespeople have time, hundreds and hundreds of articles will be displayed on both floors with placards giving the regular price and the reduced price, so that anyone can walk through the store and see for themselves what great reductions have been actually made.

When the goods are once sold, of course they will not be replaced again, as the object in selling them at such great reductions is to reduce the amount of stock, as stated before, First come will have first choice. This sale will be worth your attention, and doubtless will produce the greatest sensation of any sale ever made in Plainfield. Don't fail to be one of the first to attend. New developments will be announced as the sale proceeds.

BLUE LINER RUNS INTO A LOCAL TRAIN

One Man Dead and a Half Dozen More Seriously Injured.

PRECEDED BY ANOTHER FATALITY.

Two Men Killed at Hopewell Crossing by a P. & R. Local and the Delay Caused an Order For Them to Take to a Siding at Skillman—Engineer Ashton Lost Control of Engine and Ran on to Main Track Again to Get in Line of a Blue Line Express and a Disastrous Smashup Occurred—Injured Men Brought to Muhlenberg Hospital.

The little hamlet of Skillman, which lays about fourteen miles south of Bound Brook on the line of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, was the scene of a frightful railroad accident Saturday evening, when one of the Blue Line flyers crashed at full speed into an east bound local train. Cars and locomotives were derailed and the passsengers of both trains were thrown violently from their seats, while the crews of the colliding trains suffered severely.

The local train, No. 721, is due at Bound Brook at 7:09 o'clock in the evening. The train is scheduled to leave Hopewell a few minutes before 7 o'clock, and on Saturday evening was about on time. As the train approached the grade crossing, which lies just outside of Hopewell, two men were driving in the direction of the crossing at a rapid pace. They were riding in a two horse buggy. Flagman Hart saw them coming and waved his flag at them to wait until the train passed by. They paid no attention to him, however, but started to cross the tracks. He seized one of the horses by the head and tried to stop them, but the driver whipped up the horses and Hart had to step back or be run down. Then they drove directly across the track in front of the approaching train, and the next instant they were struck and the horses, men and vehicle were thrown for many feet. The men were instantly killed, while the horses died in a few minutes and the carriage was completely wrecked. The men were Asher Snook and George Coleman, of Woodville, and they were driving to Hopewell. Snook was a carpenter by trade.

The train was stopped and backed up to the scene of the disaster. The remains were taken back to Hopewell, and then the train continued on its journey several minutes late.

The Blue Line train, No. 524, under the charge of Conductor Powell, is due at Bound Brook at 7:38 o'clock. Saturday night it was drawn by Jersey Central engine 450, Charles Clapp, engineer. The engine of the local was the P. & R. engine 575, with Engineer William Ashton and Fireman George Behl as crew. Conductor Oldham was in charge of the latter train.

It was known on the local that the Blue Line was not far behind and at Skillman, which consists of the station and two little stores with a few houses in the neighborhood, the local train ran in on the siding that extends for about half a mile. The train made the switch all right but, when the other end of the siding was reached, instead of stopping, the engine glided out on the main track again and the baggage and mail cars followed Then the train came to a standstill while the three passenger coaches remained on the siding. In the distance the headlight of the fast-approaching Blue Line was rapidly growing larger. Then came the shriek on the Central engine which was going at a speed of about sixty miles an hour. The crash followed and then screams of the frightend passengers and the rush of the escaping steam drowned all other noises.

Why the local train went out on to the main track again, it is impossible to say. The only two men who can tell, the engineer and firemen of the local train, are not in condition to reveal the cause for a time at least. It is generally supposed that the air brakes would not work and before Engineer Ashton had time to reverse his lever and back the train on to the siding, the Blue Line plunged into the other.

There was only one occupant of the smoking car on the local train and that was Dr. VanNest, of Hopewell. When the train went on the main track again, he became interested, as he knew the fast express was close behind, and got out of the car and walked up to the engine and told the men there that they had better back the train out of the way or there would be an accident. As he looked down the track, he saw the headlight of the approaching train and with a shout of warning to the men in the engine, he fled down the track.

Ashton and Behl heard the warning

AN AGITATED COLLECTOR

HE RAISED A RUMPUS IN FRONT OF A BARBER SHOP.

Claimed That the Proprietor Owed Him Money Which the Barber Declared He Had Paid—The Collector Was Arrested

There was lots of excitement in front of William Classen's barber shop on Liberty street, Saturday afternoon. Alfred Orbann, a little Frenchman, who is employed as collector by L. Sternberg & Co., and it was he that seemed to be at the bottom of the trouble, and after being put out of the barber shop, he refused to leave the sidewalk in front of it until Patrolman Flynn came along and placed him under arrest for disturbing the peace and refusing to move on.

Sometime ago, Classen purchased some articles from L. Sternberg & Co., and he has been making small payments on account for some time. He claimed that he has paid the entire amount, but the company's books did not agree with his, and a comparison follwed. In the instances where they differed, Meyer Leichtentritt, the manager for the company, claims that the customer's account book had been altered, and that the change was apparent by the use of a different kind of a lead pencil in the entries.

The difference came in the collections by Orbann and the Frenchman was very indignant at the imputation on his honesty. Mr. Leichtentritt had never had occasion to suspect his collector before, but he told him that he must go and collect the rest of the money. Very much excited over the matter, Orbann went and demanded the rest of the money, but Classen said it had all been paid. The Frenchman presisted and then the barber at last ordered him to leave the place. He refused and was finally assisted out. He was greatly excited over the matter and attracted a crowd until the officer appeared on the scene and told him to keep quiet and pass on. Orbann refused to do so and was locked up in consequence.

He was brought up before City Judge DeMeza this morning and pleaded not guilty. He was represented by ex-Councilman Walter L. Hetfield. The Judge finally suspended sentence.

"I AM DYING," SHE CALLED.

AND HER DEMISE CAME RIGHT AFTER

A Mother Dies Besides Her Little Sleeping Daughter.

The large circle of friends of Edwin I. Vroom, of Harrison street, will learn with deep sorrow of the sudden death of his wife, which occurred last evening. Mrs. Vroom had not been ill, and this fact makes her death a particularly sad one. Following the usual custom, Mrs. Vroom in putting her little girl to bed, always lies down wtth her until the latter goes to sleep. This was done last evening and Mrs. Vroom told them that she would be down stairs in a few minutes. Presently her husband heard her say, "I am dying!" He rushed up to the room and found his wife lying prostrate on the bed. All attempts to arouse her were fruitless, and the grief-stricken husband sent for Dr. Zeglio at once. When the latter arrived he said that death was the result of the bursting of a blood vessel and that Mrs. Vroom had been unable to raise the blood before it choked her.

It was only a few months ago that Mr. Vroom lost a young son, and this double affliction has made him heartbroken.

Mrs Vroom was formerly Miss Lena Kellar, and she was a most estimable young woman, with a large circle of friends who will mourn her death exceedingly.

"From England to Italy, 1896."

The second series of the papers of travel of the Honeyman Private Tours party has been published in a pretty volume of 210 pages, illustrated with about 30 photographs. These papers are by twenty different members of the party of last summer, who coached in England, and then spent some pleasant weeks in Switzerland on the Rhine, and in Italy. The descriptions cover in the coaching tour considerable of the course along the Thames, including the Henley races, and the journey through the Milton country, with a visit to "the homes and haunts" of great men like Edmund Burke, the poet, Grey, William Penn, etc. A few copies of the work not taken by members of the party are for sale by the publishers, Honeyman & Co., of this city.

Death of Mrs. Daley.

The death of Mrs. John K. Daley, of Pleasant Run, N. J., occurred on Saturday last after a lingering illness. The decedent was the mother of Mrs. Levi C. Kline, of Somerset street, and the latter has been in constant attendance with her mother during the past three months.

NO EXONERATION READ.

REV. E. KIONKA'S PUBLIC VINDICATION SMOTHERED BY CONSISTORY.

The Officials Decided That There Was No Occasion for the Discussion to Be Taken Officially Into the Church.

The congregation that filled the German Lutheran Church at the morning service, yesterday, was one of many strange faces, enticed thither by the hope of hearing the alleged retraction of Miss Amelia Miller who had confessed that it was from her mind that eminated the stories concerning Rev. Edward Kionka's absence from his own flock a week ago, and which resulted in the reverend gentleman suddenly sending in his resignation as pastor.

But all they heard was the usual devotional services and a sermon by Rev. Mr. Kuehne, of New York, who will be the probable successor to Rev. Mr. Kioka. Rev. Mr. Kionka left town yesterday for Norristown, Pa., believing that he was to be publicly exonorated from his own pulpit of the awful charges that had been flying thick and fast among the gossips while he was absent.

The first official action that the church had taken of the affair was Friday night when the Consistory Board, composed of Otto Ebel, Andrew Zeisz, Gustav Grotman, Theodore Leurson and Henry Yaeger, met to consider the resignation of Rev. Mr. Kioka. They were not in session long when they accepted the resignation and decided that there should be no reading of a statement or anything of the kind from Miss Miller as to her conduct towards the pastor. Mr. Zeisz, who is secretary and treasurer of the Consistory, told a Press reporter yesterday that the members of the Consistory were unanimous in the opinion that the church should not become embroiled in any affair that had, outside of the hasty action of the pastor in severing his connection with the society, been wholly between the minister and his accuser. Mr. Zeisz thought that when the young lady had apologized to the pastor and he had accepted her amends, it was time to let the dissension end.

And so it did end so far as the official action of the church was concerned, but while the church as a body put its foot down forcibly on the affair it only added a new and unexpected phaze to the state of affairs, for there was no controlling the wagging tongues of the gossiping ones, and after the services ended there was much speculation as to what Rev. Mr. Kionka would say and do when he learned on his return that his public vindication had been smothered by church officials.

In conjunction with his work in this city, Rev. M. Kionka also conducted a mission in Westfield every Sunday afternoon and by hard work he had just about got the mission to a point where he was to have a regular church organization formed and an edifice built. The removal of their spiritual advisor from this section leaves them on the point of disbanding.

Power to Come From Elizabeth.

The Suburaban Electric Company of Elizabeth will supply the power for the new Elizabeth and Westfield Trolley Company, which, it is believed, will be in operation by next August. Some opposition among property-holders to the laying of the tracks in the centre of Westfield avenue, which was paved with macadam only a few years ago, will be met with; but the necessity of rapid transit to many of the suburbs of Elizabeth will cause many to sign consent.

Prayer and Praise Service.

The Central Council, International Order, King's Daughters, invite all members of the order to unite in a three days prayer and praise service to be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons and evenings of this week in the Madison Avenue M. E. church, New York city. A large delegation from this city will probably attend the meetings.

The Union Services.

Rev. H. J. Johnson, pastor of Grace M. E. Church, will preach at the union revival meeting to be held this evening in the First Baptist church. The union Christian Endeavor service which precedes the above meeting will be conducted by F. H. Andrews.

State Woman's Suffragists.

A meeting of the New Jersey Woman's Suffrage Association will be held in the Y. M. C. A. hall in this city Friday afternoon. The principal feature of the meeting will be an address by Aaron M. Powell on the work of woman's suffrage in England.

No Wink in This Eye.

Frank Splane, who recently lost his eye, was discharged from the hospital on Saturday last. A glass eye will take the place of the one he lost.

RODE OFF ON THE BOOTY

THIEVES EFFECT AN ENTRANCE INTO THE ELDRIDGE BICYCLE STORE.

Stole a '97 Model Columbia—Used a Skeleton Key—Also an Attempt Was Made to Enter Elmer Runyon's House.

A gang of burglars began work in this city on Saturday night and made two attempts to enter buildings and in one case they were successful. In the other, they were discovered while attempting to gain entrance and were frightened away before they accomplished their object.

At about 1 o'clock yesterday morning, Elmer E. Runyon, of 608 Madison avenue, was awakened from his slumbers by a noise at the side of his house. He looked out and saw several shadowy forms standing near the window. He notified the police by telephone but when they arrived the burglars had skipped. Further investigation revealed the fact that the putty had been dug away from around one window pane and the glass was already to be removed had not Mr. Runyon disturbed the midnight visitors in the midst of their operations.

The other attempt was more successful. It was made on the salesrooms of the Eldridge Bicycle Company at the corner of Park avenue and East Fourth street. Sometime during the night the unbidden guests came to the side door of the establishment, which is on East Fourth street, and pushed out the key that was on the inside and then, by the use of a skeleton key, gained entrance to the ground floor. The rooms were filled with the samples of the '97 Columbia wheels and some of the older models. The thieves were very careful to take the best, however, and carefully removed the new Columbia wheel, '97 model, from the front of the store and departed with it.

William H. Miller, night clerk at the Hotel Grenada, resides in the flat above the store. He arrived home about 3.30 o'clock and had just dozed off when a crash, sounding from the lower story, awakened him with a start. He sprang to his feet and listened, but although he waited for some time he heard no other noise and finally returned to his bed and went to sleep. It is supposed that the noise he heard was made by the men who were trying to carry out the wheel or were just forcing an entrance.

The case was reported to the police yesterday morning by Manager W. L. Price, who made the discovery that the store had been entered and that the wheel was missing, but so far no trace of the thieves has been secured. The police are inclined to believe that the burglary was committed by someone who was pretty well acquainted with the place. The police are working on the case.

AROUND THE EUCHRE TABLE.

Saturday Night Club Entertained By Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schultz.

The entertainment of the Saturday Evening Euchre Club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schultz, of East Second street, last Saturdry evening, was one of pleasure to all.

The prizes were elegant and useful, as usual, and consisted of an afternoon tea lamp, which was awarded as first prize to Mrs. Hall. A dainty theatre fan, as second prize, was awarded to Mrs. Dryden. For the gentlemen, Mr. Schultz won first honors, a handsome umbrella, while Mr. Dryden won second honors, a carafee with three glasses.

The members of the club present were Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Terhune, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dryden, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Nightingale, Mr. and Mrs. Longman, Mr. and Mrs. DeLong, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Codington, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Campman, Miss Force, Mr. Salkeld, H. C. VanEmburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schultz. The guests of the club were Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Andrews, of St. Paul.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Codington, of Sandford avenue.

Spilled Milkman, Milk and All.

Milkman John Johnson, of Terrill Road, had a mishap on West Front street, near Clinton avenue, Saturday morning. His horse became frightened at a trolley car, and rearing up broke one of the wheels. Mr. Johnson managed to get out in safety, but he held fast to the reins and was dragged some distance and until the frightened animal was gotten under control.

Not His Housekeeper.

Mrs. Pryor, of West Third street, who was married Wednesday night as reported in these columns, desires The Daily Press to state that she was not a housekeeper for Mr. Pryor. The latter occupied a house a few doors from her and he only rented a room at Mrs. Pryor's house.

SUSPECTED EACH OTHER

TWO DRUNKEN MEN STRIKE AN ACQUAINTANCE THAT ENDS BAD.

Each One Thought the Other to Be a Crook, and in the After Events They Came to Blows and Were Locked Up.

Two men, David Mattis and Samuel Harland, visited a local saloon on Saturday evening. They indulged quite freely and their brains became befuddled. Finally they got acquainted and one asked the other if he had any money and, on reciving a negative reply, said he knew how to get some. At this each man thought the other was a crook and they went outside, each expecting to be told some plan of robbery or other awful deed.

The confidence didn't come, and after walking up and down Somerset street Harland grappled with Mattis, who he supposed was a crook of the first water, and yelled for a policeman. Mattis thought that Harland was going to assault him and throw him down the areaway beside the building, so he struggled to escape such a fate. The men were fighting in a lively manner when Patrolman Myers came on the scene and proceeded to march both of them to the lockup to spend the night.

They were arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning and both pleaded not guilty to the charge of being drunk and disorderly. The Judge disagreed with them and decided that they were both guilty and sentenced them to pay a fine of $5 or go to the county jail for ten days. Mattis handed over the necessary cash, while Harland decided to try his luck at Elizabeth.

HE STARTED ON A RAMPAGE.

NEARLY A YEAR OF GOOD BEHAVIOR.

Tasted the Fiery Liquor and Tried to Clean Out His House.

There was a lively time at the home of Peter P. Brunn, on Stone street, yesterday morning, and all because the former tried to clean house and drive his family out doors. The cries of the family for help attracted the attention of the borough marshals who went to the house immedtately. They found that Brunn had partaken too freely of the fiery liquid and was determined to break up housekeeping. He was demolishing the furniture in the house and breaking every pane of glass he could get at. The family was terribly frightened for they did not know what he might do to them.

It required the combined efforts of Marshals Hansen and Whitely, and John Higgins to arrest the man and get him to the lock-up, where he was arraigned this morning before Justice Crosley, to answer to the charge of being disorderly. It was decided that thirty days at Somerville would be a just sentence, and today noon Constable Steward took Brunn to the county seat.

Nearly a year ago Peter enlisted in the Salvation Army, then afterwards went over to the Volunteers, and has been living an exemplary life until he indulged in his old time enemy and then he came to grief.

WANTED TO BE GAY.

A Trio of Drunks Who Made the Night Hideous.

Patrolman Myers and Special Rockafellow arrested three men last evening for being drunk and disorderly. They were wandering up and down West Front street singing songs that were not exactly of the Moodey and Sankey style. They were locked up for the night to recover from the effects of their little spree.

From the testimony given, the Judge thought that Hall was guilty and, as it was his second offence of the kind, fined him him $10. It was Snyder's second offence and he was fined $8. Jackson had never been there before and he got off with a fine of $5.

The Trolley to the Mountain.

Nothing of any importance was done at the meeting of those interested in the extension of the trolley to Washingtonville, which was held Saturday evening at the schoolhouse. There were about thirty people present and Robert Clark, Jr., presided. The people are desirous that the company make a slight concession and John H. French was appointed a committee of one to report the matter to the company. If the latter agree to grant the concession, the work of building the road will probably be commenced at an early date.

Judgment Against Plaintiff.

The case of Werner against Apgar was tried in Justice Newcorn's court this morning and judgment was given the plaintiff. Summons were issued in the following cases: Doane et als., against Laster; Doane et als., against Sullivan; Edsall against Winn, all returnable Jan. 26th.

OPENED LETTERS NOT HIS

NOT DONE INTENTIONALLY, BUT HE WAS ARRESTED JUST THE SAME.

Meyer Leichtentritt Charged With Tampering With the U. S. Mails—He Seems to Innocent of Intent of the Wrong

Tampering with the United States mail was the charge on the United States warrant which brought U. S. Marshall Haggerty to this city on Saturday afternoon. The resident of Plainfield against whom this serious charge was made was Meyer Leichtentritt, manager for L. Sternberg & Co., whose outfitting establishment is located on West Front street over the Central Market. The complainant is Louis Sherman, of the Sherman Outfitting Company, of Newark.

For about four years Mr. Leichentritt was the Plainfield manager for the Sherman Outfitting Company. He first went with the company when they came to Plainfield and remained with them as long as they remained in this city; after that he went with the rival concern, L. Sternberg & Co.

Mr. Leichentritt has a large correspondence in his present position and he has many letters to look over every day. About two weeks ago he opened a letter, not noticing the address, and found enclosed a $1 bill, with a not from a man in Summit, saying that it was on account. On examining his accounts, Mr. Leichentritt found that there was no such man on their books. He then looked at the envelope and found it addressed to the Sherman Outfitting Company. As it is his custom to visit Newark on every Tuesday, he planned to take it to the office of the company by which he was formerly employed but on that date he claims that it entirely slipped his mind. About a week ago he received another letter to the Sherman Outfitting Company which he opened without glancing at the address. Within was found another remittance from some other man in Westerly, R.I.

Then he sat down and wrote a personal letter to Mr. Sherman explaining the circumstances and enclosing the two letters and their contents. He asked Mr. Sherman to acknowledge the receipt of it.

The next he heard regarding the matter was when the United States officer arrived on Saturday afternoon and took him in custody. He was taken before Commissioner Whitehead at Newark. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $500 bail to appear for trial on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Commissioner's office at Newark. He has retained ex-Judge Henry, of Newark, as his lawyer in the case.

Mr. Liechtentritt was seen by a Press reporter, this morning, regarding the matter and he told the story as given above. He said that he thought that the arrest was caused merely out of spite, because he was now in the employ of a rival concern. He did not, he said, commit any crime that he knew of, although possibly he should have turned the opened mail over to the postal authorities at once instead of sending it personally to Mr. Sherman. If that was the case, then it was from ignorance that he had broken the law and not in an effort to defraud his old employers. He did not think that Mr. Sherman believed he did it with any criminal intent, but had made the complaint purely from spite.

For the Benefit of the Club.

The Cleveland Cyclers now numbers about thirty members, and at the club's meeting at their rooms on North avenue this evening several new applications for membership will be received. Captain Fred Harold is arranging a schedule of some three runs a week to begin early in April. In order to comfortably equip their rooms with carpet, furniture and other necessary appliances, the members propose to give a grand ball in the Gesang and Turn Verein Hall on Thursday evening, January 21st.

Pay Your Taxes

Borough Tax Collector H. N. Spencer gives notice in The Daily Press today that all taxes remaining unpaid January 31st, will be recorded with the county clerk at Somerville, and will be published. It is well to remember that taxes are considered as first lien to the property.

Church Trustees to be Elected.

A meeting of the congregation of the Crescent avenue will be held this evening to elect seven trustees and transact such other business as may come before them. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

—The ladies of the Cecelia Club and any who may desire to join, will meet in the Y. M. C. A. hall Thursday, Jan. 21st, at 4 o'clock. If not able to attend please notify Mrs. A. Collier, 140 East Sixth street.

Miss Brunn, of Stone street, is confined to the house by illness.

CABINET FORMATION

McCleary of Minnesota the Latest Treasury Possibility.

FAVORABLY MENTIONED AT CANTON

The President-elect Anxious To Fill That Position Outside of New York and Thus Avoid Suspicion of Complications with Wall Street.

Canton, O., Jan. 18.—Yesterday was a quiet Sunday at the McKinley home. Cabinet-making ceased, the major's study was deserted, the litter of paper had disappeared, and the president-elect rested and went to church. Webb Hayes, a son of the late president, dined with Mr. and Mrs. McKinley and took a drive with them in the afternoon, returning home on an early evening train. Now that Senator Sherman has accepted the portfolio of state, the rest of the cabinet seems to centre on a secretary of the treasury. Charles Emory Smith has been mentioned frequently in connection with this important position, but another name has been suggested which will also receive consideration at the hands of the president-elect. The latest treasury possibility is congressman J. M. McCleary of Minnesota. He attracted the attention of the president-elect by his forcible speeches in congress on the silver question and was here once during and once since the campaign. Maj. McKinley is very favorably impressed with Mr. McCleary. Representative McCleary is a Canadian by birth and was an educator before he entered politics. The president-elect would be glad to find a suitable man for secretary of the treasury outside of New York in order that no suspicion of complications with Wall street may attach to him; still, if the best man for the place is clearly shown to be in New York, the appointment will be made from that state.

Gen. Alger's Friends Hopeful.

The friends of General Alger who come here from time to time are feeling very hopeful at present. The republican party of Michigan has practically been consolidated in favor of General Alger, according to Senator Burrows, and in this respect he is a stronger cabinet possibility than either Henry C. Payne of Wisconsin or ex-Governor Merriam of Minnesota. Both Messrs. Payne and Merriam are opposed by influential factions in their respective states. It is apparent to all careful observers that Mr. Payne, Mr. Merriam and General Alger cannot all be appointed to the cabinet for the reason that they come from the same section, so if Mr. Payne and Governor Merriam should be dropped from the list of possibilities, the chances of General Alger would be measurably improved. It is likely that the present week will see the president-elect reach a definite conclusion respecting the appointment of a cabinet officer from the Pacific slope. Judge Jos. McKenna is thought by those much given to cabinet speculation to be in the lead. He served in congress with Major McKinley and was on the committee on ways and means with him. There hangs in Major McKinley's library a photograph of the ways and means committee of which Major McKinley was chairman and the man next to the president-elect in the picture is Joseph McKenna. On the walls of the same room is a large and handsome picture of Judge Nathan Goff of West Virginia, who is one of the strong cabinet possibilities. An effort of great persistency and vigor is being made to secure the appointment of this state to the position of secretary of agriculture. The other name most frequently heard in connection with this place is that of ex-congressman James Wilson of Iowa. Mr. Wilson was strongly endorsed by Senator Allison and is a practical, successful farmer and man of affairs. The president-elect is in no haste about making this appointment and it may be one of the last agreed upon.

Cyclist Bald's Challenge.

Buffalo, Jan. 18.—Eddie Bald made a proposition Saturday night to Ed Plummer, the manager of the English contingent of cyclists, to race either Tom Linton or Jimmy Walburton, a distance of one mile, for a stake of $500 to $5,000. Plummer was taken back by Bald's bold defi and made no attempt to make a match. Linton offered to accept the challenge if Bald would allow him to have his own pacemakers and the race to take place in England. Bald agreed to race in England but insisted that the same pacemakers should act for both men. Linton would not consent to this and it is not likely that America's champion will get a chance at the crack foreigners in a match race.

Death of Hotel Proprietor Willard.

Washington, Jan. 18.—Joseph C. Willard, owner of the well known Willard's hotel, died at his residence in this city yesterday, aged about 80 years. Mr. Willard was a native of Vermont and with his two brothers came here from Albany many years ago and became sole owner of the hotel property. Although he was very wealthy and owned much valuable real estate in Washington, he has lived as a recluse for many years and was little known, except by name, to the present generation.

St. Johns Blocked with Ice.

St. Johns, N. F., Jan. 18.—The whole east coast of Newfoundland is blocked with ice. An Arctic icefloe is now visible off this harbor, and the port is almost entirely blocked. All shipping and traffic is suspended.

Central American Republic.

Madrid, Jan. 18.—The cabinet has decided to recognize the newly formed Central American republic

WEEK IN CONGRESS

Programme Contains But Little of General Importance.

APPROPRIATION BILLS IN THE SENATE

Pacific Railroad and Nicaraguan Canal To Be Discussed To-day---Cuban Resolution Shelved---No Business Arranged in the Lower Branch.

Washington, Jan. 18.—Appropriation bills will demand the attention of the senate this week. The army bill has been reported and the military academy and legislative bill will be reported from the committee to-day. Senator Morgan will address the senate to-day on his bill for the appointment of a board of government trustees to operate Pacific roads until the government's claim is liquidated. The Nicaraguan canal bill, in accordance with the decision of the republican steering committee, will be made the unfinished business to-day. The proposition to guarantee the canal bonds will be antagonized by Messrs. Turpie, Vest, Teller and others. There is no indication of any intention to call up the Cameron Cuban resolution. The utterances of Mr. Sherman on this subject since the formal announcement of his acceptance of the state department portfolio are looked upon by his associates as a request from the incoming administration that nothing should be done pending its accession to power. Several influential senators who were previously charged with being "jingoes" have, since their visit to Canton, become very conservative, and no one on the republican side of the chamber is now urging action of any kind with respect to the war in Cuba. The extradiction treaties between the United States and Orange Free State and the Argentine republic will probably be disposed of this week and the remainder of the time will be devoted to clearing up unobjected matters on the calendar. In the house of representatives no programme of business has been arranged except a Virginia contested election case. It is the expectation of the members of the committee on rules that in the course of the week the agricultural and Indian appropriation bills will be considered.

READY TO FIGHT WEYLER.

Gen. Gomez's Army Fully Equipped for a Vigorous Campaign.

Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 18.—Seven Cubans, including Senor Sauvannell, have arrived here, bringing dispatches from Cuba. In accordance with the quarantine regulations, they were detained for observation. Rumors continue to reach here that Maceo, the rebel leader, is still alive. It is said that he was desperately wounded in the engagement in which he was reported to have been killed, but that he is now improving. Little credence is placed in these rumors. Advices which have reached here are to the effect that Maximo Gomez, the insurgent commanner-in-chief, now has his forces completely equipped and is prepared to open a vigorous campaign against Capt.-Gen. Weyler.

Santa Clara Not Captured.

Madrid, Jan. 18.—An emphatic official denial is given to the report that General Gomez has captured the city of Santa Clara in the province of that name.

Appeal of Jersey Wage Earners.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 18.—J. P. McDonald and Robert E. Beuro, chairman and secretary respectively of the New Jersey Federation of Trade and Labor unions, representing 50,000 wage earners, have sent a circular letter to members of the state legislature appealing for the defeat of the proposed constitutional amendment providing for biennial sessions of the legislature. The circular further requests an eight-hour day for public employes and a semi-monthly payment of wages law.

Niagara Falls Bank Trouble.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Further developments in the First National bank matter are iminent. Several of the men who were connected with the bank have received subpoenas to appear in Albany before the grand jury of the United States court, which sits there this week, to give evidence with relation to the affairs of the bank. It is also stated that the case of ex-Cashier Durk will be considered and perhaps others. The bank books and documents are likely to be taken to Albany for this purpose.

Youngs and Dixon To Box.

Buffalo, Jan. 18.—Before the Empire Athletic club to-night Joe Youngs of this city and Tommy Dixon of Rochester will meet in a twenty round boxing contest. Big Jim Kennedy, the well known match maker, says Youngs is a "comer" and if he beats Dixon he will be given a chance before metropolitan spectators.

The Unit of Heat.

We cannot, of course, measure heat by yards, pints or pounds, but the unit of heat (the standard measure of that phenomenon) has been agreed upon by those whose business it is to philosophize on that subject to be that quantity which can raise a pound of water one degree. Now, to turn a pound of water into a pound of steam requires 967 of these units of heat; that is to say, if we boil a pound of water until it all goes away in steam we shall have used in doing so a quantity of heat which would have raised 967 pounds of water one degree higher in temperature.

PUMPKINS ON THE ROOF.

Queer Patch of Pie Fruit in a San Francisco Park.

In the Seven street park, in Oakland, there is one of the strangest pumpkin crops to be found in the state, certainly the queerest that grows in any public square, if, indeed, that vegetable can be found in any other public square.

There is really nothing strange about the crop itself that is referred to, but its location is most unusual, for it is on the roof of the toolhouse. This toolhouse is exactly in the center of the square, and the crop of bright-colored pie material looms up from all directions. But it doesn't look at all inviting, although a number of people in the neighborhood signified their intention of having one of the pumpkins for Christmas—that is, provided, of course, they are not seized by some one else in the meantime.

There is quite a story in the way these pumpkins came to grow on the roof. It was a very simple matter for them to do so when one considers the cause. The same cause has also given the old gardener quite an opinion of his own powers of invention.

It seems that the pumpkins grew as a volunteer crop, due to the fact that some of the ground around the tool house was brought there from a vacant lot near by. The gardener cared for the vine tenderly, but soon found it an elephant on his hands. It spread all over the flower-bed and soon had part of the square to itself, because nothing else could live in the neighborhood. Then it commenced to spread over the walks and also to show signs of bearing. This was a hard time for the gardener. He thought of the fine pies the pumpkins would make, and he also thought that it would be necessary for people to walk through the park. He lost sleep at night and still the vine grew. Little pumpkins formed and he began to lose flesh. The vine spread more and more and the small green globules looked more tempting each day.

When almost on the verge of despair the gardener got an idea. He soon had the crop of young pumpkins safe on the roof, where they could grow as much as they liked, while the roots remained in the soil below.

And they have taken advantage of the opportunity, for the most of them are large enough to take prizes at a county fair. When he looks at his harvest there is only one thing that troubles the old gardener. It is really making him lose sleep again, for he does not know how he is going to get the pumpkins down.—San Francisco Call.

Science and Great Cities.

Prof. Brewer, of Yale university, in a recent address called attention to the interesting fact that at the beginning of this century not a single city in Christendom had so many as 1,000,000 inhabitants. In 1800 Paris had 548,000, and in 1801 London had 864,000. Great cities could not exist then as the advance of science has enabled them to exist to-day. Science has helped the cities not only by conquering pestilence, and teaching the laws of health, but by enabling them to draw their supplies from the remotest quarters of the earth instead of being dependent for food, as was the case at the opening of the century, upon the region of country immediately surrounding them.—Youth's Companion.

SHUTTING OUT THE SEA.

How Eastern Property Owners Waste Their Money.

Along the North Jersey coast from Long Branch to Asbury Park the coast is formed of bluffs and high ground and walls that will offer direct resistance to the waves must be constructed to protect them from the waves. These bluffs are being washed away rapidly where not protected by some artificial device and the sand is carried back into the sea, where sandbars are formed with it. Many years ago, when the Jersey seaside resorts first became prominent, efforts were made to protect this shore with heavy timber bulkheads. But each recurring winter these massive timbers were washed away and a good slice of the bluffs was leveled. No matter how heavy and strong this sort of protection is made, the sea is pretty sure to batter it down in time, and the work must be repeated. For 15 years now the property owners have wasted their money in building makeshift timber walls to protect their land from the ocean along many parts of our coast. The same amount of money put in good strong walls of masonry and concrete would yield permanent results that would endure for half a century, and in time this must be the outcome of the present abortive attempt to keep back the sea. Beside wooden walls, numerous jetties run out into the ocean to break the force of the current, and in this way the damage to the bluffs is somewhat lessened. Nearly every storm of any great fury not only carries away or demolishes part of the walls, but makes great inroads into the bluffs of sand behind them. A solid stone wall, with sloping faces to the sea, would protect the bluffs so that private and public property would be secure for all time. The best illustrations of this principle of coast defense can be seen in the numerous stone breakwaters constructed by the government for harbor protection.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Out in the rain

A good drenching in a cold rain is often the beginning of consumption. Yet no one claims that the germs of this disease exist in the rainwater. Then how was this brought about? The exposure was followed by a cold; the vitality was lowered; the cough continued for some weeks; the throat and lungs became congested; and thus all the conditions were favorable for the consumption germs.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, does not directly attack these germs and kill them. But it does tone up the whole system and restores the body to health before serious harm is done. The germs of consumption thrive best when the system is weakened and the throat and lungs congested. Do not delay until it is too late, but treat your cough early. Cod-liver oil and the hypophosphites, in the form of Scott's Emulsion, are the very best remedies.

MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION

A Big Attendance at the Convention in Philadelphia Promised.

Philadelphia, Jan. 18.—Postal card returns thus far received at the office of the national association of manufacturers indicate that a very large proportion of the entire membership of the association will be in attendance at the second annual convention of the association which is to be held in Philadelphia on January 26, 27 and 28. Invitations have been sent to over 7,000 leading manufacturers outside the membership of the association for the purpose of making this convention a general gathering of manufacturers from all sections of the country and representing all branches of industry. The attendance of non-members will be unusually large, as shown by the replies already received from those who have definitely decided to be present. The convention will be essentially a business affair and the programme has been made up with this in view. One feature of particular interest in this connection will be a symposium on "Methods of promoting foreign trade."

NEW YORK FACTORIES.

Report of the State Inspector a Very Interesting Document.

Albany, Jan. 18.—State Factory Inspector O'Leary has completed his report for the year 1896. It is an interesting document. The inspector's description of the conditions existing among working people employed in sweatshops in tenements and in mines, some of which he has caused to be remedied, is most interesting and horrifying. The report shows that a total of 27,425 inspections are reported for the year, an increase of 6,240 over the previous year, and includes manufactories, bakeshops, mines and mining plants. In the establishments visited there are reported employed 537,702 people, 169,226 of whom are women, of which number 53,997 were under 21 years of age; there were 12,100 children over 14 and under 16 years of age. There were 84 children under 14 years found employed, as compared with 211 in 1895, and only 185 illiterate children, as compared with 310 for 1895.

PRAISED BY TALMAGE.

He Characterizes the Arbitration Treaty as a Mighty and Grand Movement.

Washington, Jan. 18.—Dr. T. Dewitt Talmage, who succeeded Dr. Sunderland in the active pastorship of the presidential Presbyterian church in Washington, in his sermon yesterday referred to the pending arbitration treaty with Great Britain, characterizing it as the mightiest, grandest movement for driving brutal war out of the earth. He said the men who on either side of the sea did most to effect that plan of arbitration have made themselves immortal. The eve of the present administration of the United States government has been honered with the gladdest event of eighteen centuries. All civilized nations will copy the sublime example. He implored the senate to promptly ratify the treaty. Mr. Cleveland was not present at the service.

Comment of an English Clergyman.

London, Jan. 18.—In the course of his remarks at the City temple yesterday, Dr. Joseph Parker referred to the arbitration treaty recently signed by Great Britain and the United States, saying that the second advent bears every aspect of divine evolution. The occasion, he added, is too grand to be celebarted by official dinners and holiday-making, but should be marked by religious services.

A New York Editor Asphyxiated.

New York, Jan. 14.—Rudd Smith, a well known newspaper man, was found dead in bed yesterday at the Putnam house, death having been caused by asphyxiation. Mr. Smith's associates are of the opinion that death was due to an accident. They say he was in apparently good spirits and light-hearted and, so far as known, in perfect health. Mr. Smith was 38 years old and had been in newspaper work in New York and the west for about fifteen years. He was a brother of Ballard Smith, the European correspondent. His mother and sisters are now in Europe. Mr. Smith was one of the telegraph editors of the Journal.

Regained His Faculties.

Baltimore, Jan. 18.—The man who was picked up on the street here last Wednesday and who has since maintained that he could remember nothing of his past history regained his faculties last night and said that he was John S. Allen of Suffield, Conn. He says that he left there on January 7 to make a business trip to Westfield and that from the time he stepped on the train until last night his mind was a blank. He will be kept at the Maryland General hospital until his friends come for him.

TALK OF ARMED ENFORCEMENT

The German Emperor Opposed to the Coercion Plan---Russia Insists That the Sultan Have More Time To Act.

(Copyright, 1897, by the United Associated Presses.)

Berlin, Jan. 18.—Under instructions from the foreign office Baron von Jeltsch, German ambassador to the porte, has given persistent support to M. Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador, throughout the series of ambassadorial conferences held in Constantinople which are now about to terminate, but in the discussion of the financial and administrative reforms proposed by M. Nelidoff, however, Baron Saurma has taken no prominent part. M. Cambon and Sir Phillip Currie, respectively French and British ambassador, are understood to have obtained some important amendments to the Russian proposals, which have now received the assent of the European governments. The English and Italian ambassadors advocated a distinct plan of armed enforcement of the decisions of the powers, and argued that the presentation of the reform projects to the sultan should be accompanied by an explicit declaration that the powers were prepared to enforce them by sea and land. The report is entirely credited in official and diplomatic quaters here that Sir Philip Currie placed before the ambassadors a fully matured project of naval and military operations designed to cover the occupation of Constantinople, the Dardanelles and Bosphorus, and also to overawe the Moslem population in the all too probable event of a rising and attempted massacre. To any consideration of coercion, Baron Saurma took a decided stand in opposion. The kaiser obviously continues to hold that the sultan must be trusted to carry out the reform and that his sovereign rights should not be interferred with.

Russia Opposed to Force.

M. Nelidoff professed no unwillingness to agree to the principle of coercion, but opposed the English proposals on the ground that they were premature, and that the sultan must have time in which to act. On this point of time communications are proceeding between the powers. The English government, which appears to think that the kaiser's opposition to coercion will disappear if France and Russia agree to act with England, is negotiating directly with St. Petersburg and Paris. It is known here that under no circumstances will Russia assent to any form of armed interference until the spring is well advanced, the Black sea ports unobstructed by ice, and the roads, railways and rivers in southern Russia in good condition. It is a winter of almost unprecedented mildness in southern Russia, being as warm as in early spring at Odessa, and navigation with Nicolaieff and Kherson is still open. But it is no part of the present Russian policy to permit a concerted armed intervention in Turkey. The sultan will get time and take it.

German Court Festivities.

The court marshal's programme of festivities during the carnival period opened with the coronation and orders fetes yesterday. This afternoon will occur the festival of the Black Eagle order, which will bring together as notable an assemblage of royalists, high military and other dignitaries as Germany can produce. On Wednesday there will be the grand court held by their imperial majesties in the royal castle, and on the kaiser's birthday, Jan. 27, there will be a reception at the royal castle, followed by a banquet and gala opera performance at the Royal theatre. On Wednesday, Feb. 3, the kaiser and kaiserina will give a grand ball in the castle. On Feb. 10 their majesties' private ball will take place. The popular subscription ball is fixed for Feb. 17 in the Royal Opera house. On the following Wednesday another private ball will be given at the castle, and on March 2 a grand masked ball will be given, with which the kaiser and kaiserina propose to conclude their Berlin season. There is also to be an unusual stream of aristocratic private functions. Many well known princely families who were absentees last season owing to discord with the kaiser or his entourage, have reappeared, and Berlin court tradesmen are rejoicing thereat.

Cigarettes Affected His Mind.

Buffalo, Jan. 18.—Benjamin L. Davies, who killed his wife and then committed suicide at Rugby, Tenn., Saturday, was well known in this city. He was 32 years old. Several years ago he was steward at the Niagara hotel. Mrs. Davies was a daughter of Mrs. Lydia Brown of this city. Private advices from Rugby says that Davies was suffering from excessive cigarette smoking, which, it was thought, had affected his mind.

CONVICT WORK.

One of the bills that will be introduced in the present Legislature will provide that convicts in county jails shall work on the roads. The measure originated in Asbury Park, and is being actively supported by the wheelmen of the place. Assemblyman O. H. Brown, of Spring Lake, has promised to introduce such a measure. The Rights and Privileges Committee of the New Jersey Division of the League of American Wheelmen will hold a meeting shortly to take some action on the proposed bill.

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY.

No matter what precautionary measures in equipment and operation it may make or what rigid rules it may prescribe for employes, a railroad company depends on the personal responsibility of its servants to see to it that disorder and fatality does not ensue. The slightest misjudgment of any one of its thousand employes is likely to subject the road to a horrible and ghastly catastrope such as took place at Skillman, Saturday night.

OPPOSE BIENNIAL SESSIONS.

The New Jersey Federation of Trade and Labor Unions, representing 50,000 wage-earners, has sent a circular-letter to members of the State Legislature appealing for the defeat of the proposed Constitutional Amendment providing for biennial sessions of the Legislature. The circular further requests an eight hour law for public employes and a semi-monthly payment of wages law.

THE GARBAGE QUESTION.

The meeting of the city solons tonight will be one of the most important held in sometime, for the question of granting a franchise for the erection of a garbage disposal crematory and the operation of its plant by the Plainfield Sanitary Company, will be considered and probably settled.

A HUMOROUS VIEW.

Senator Reed would have a blue envelope for the official ballot. Does he wish to utterly paralyze the Democracy? Not only the ballots, but everything connected with the last election made the political decendants of Andy Jackson blue enough for at least a generation.—New York Press.

It is understood that there will be a meeting of the councilmanic committees early this week when the matter of appointments will be considered.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whoop Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Helpful Revival Meetings.

A series of very helpful revival meetings were held in the Monroe avenue church last week under the charge of the pastor, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell. The meetings were largely attended by the members of the congregetion and they have proved very successful in that, as a result, four new members joined the church on probation yesterday.

RECONCILED TO HIS FATE

JONES FOREMAN SHOWS BUT LITTLE CONCERN ABOUT HIS WIFE.

Keller Released From Custody at Elizabeth and Disappeared Before Foreman Could Have an Interview With Him.

There are no new developments in the disappearance of Mrs. Jones Foreman and Baker Keller, which was recorded in these columns on Saturday. Yesterday Mr. Foreman went to Elizabeth in search of his wife but he could not find her. He learned where she had been staying but the people at the house could not tell him where she had gone.

Saturday evening it was reported that Keller was in town and Foreman hearing of this, went to the office of Justice Newcorn for the purpose of having a warrant issued for the arrest of Keller. The Justice told Foreman that he had slight grounds for a charge so nothing was done in the matter.

This morning when Foreman was seen he seemed to be more reconciled to his fate and showed but little concern regarding the absence of his wife.

Keller was released from the Elizabeth jail Saturday, as there was no charge on which to hold him. It is not known where he went to, but Forman thinks that he joined his wife at some pre arranged place.

A MURDEROUS ASSAULT.

A Well-known Turfman Charged With Adultery at a Trenton Hotel.

Fred Smith, a well-known turfman and assistant trainer of the two great pacers, John R. Gentry and Robert J., was murderouly assaulted at his appartments in the stable of Lewis C. Tewksby, at Somerville, at an early hour yesterday morning, by George Castler, manager of the Alfred de Cardova stock farm. Castler applied to a local justice at midnight for a warrant for the arrest of Smith, who he alleges, committed adultery with his wife at a Trenton hotel on Friday night. The justice refused to issue the warrant, as Castler had not sufficient proof of the man's guilt. Castler, accompanied by his father-in-law, then went to Smith's appartments. Castler, who is a man of phenomenal strength, broke Smith's nose with a single blow. He then grasped him by the throat and continued the assault with terrible effect, and would have killed his victim but for the timely interference of the stablemen. Smith escaped to a neighboring stable, where he concealed himself in a haymow. When discovered by his friends he was in a pitiable condition. Castler was still searching for him. Smith's friends dressed his wounds and hurried him out of town in a closed carriage. He boarded a train at Bound Brook for New York City.

Rev. Theodore S. Brown Dead.

The death of Rev. Theodore S. Brown, of Chatham, N. Y., was reported last Thursday night at the Albany hospital, where he had recently undergone a surgical operation. Mr. Brown has been pastor of the Reformed church at Chatham for sixteen years, and next spring would have completed the fiftieth year of his service in the ministry. He was a graduate of Union College in the class of 1844, and studied theology in Princeton College. His second pastorate was in Plainfield, and he held a conspicuous place in the ministry here while pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, which stood on Front street near the present site of the City National Bank. His successor at this church was Rev. John C. Bliss, under whose pastorate the Crescent Avenue church was built. Mr. Brown left Plainfield to take the pastorate of a church in Brooklyn, and his fourth charge was at Dunellen, from which place he went to Chatham, his fifth and last charge. He was married in 1847 to Elizabeth L. Clarke, who, with a son and daughter, survive him.

A Grand Opportunity to have an Exquisite Figure and a Perfectly Fitting Corset.

Madam Byrd, the expert fitter of Her Majesty's corset, commences one week's engagement at our store, commencing Monday, Jan. 25th, and ending Saturday, Jan. 30th. It will give her great pleasure to explain the the many merits of this celebrated corset, and give fittings, thus illustrating without doubt the exquisite figure and long graceful waist it will create. We also desire to call special attention to Her Majesty's corset made in extra long waist, which is without doubt the longest waisted and most exquisitely formed corset ever produced. We desire it to be distinctly understood that ladies will not be expected to purchase a corset after a fitting is made unless they so desire. Engagements for fittings can be made with Madam Byrd, by mail or telegraph.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Night Operator Charles Dunham is being visited by relatives from Clinton, Hunterdon county.

Mrs. Mary Martin, of Front street, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Jasper Agans, at Three Bridges.

Rev. Dr. Theodore Brown, a former pastor of the Presbyterian church here, died at his home in Albany, N. Y., on Thurday.

The Dunellen Checker Club met for practice in W. H. Cole's office, Friday night. John Monahan was the successful contestant.

Day Operator T. J. Romaine was in Plainfield, Saturday, and purchased new and attractive curtains for the office of the general station agent and telegraph operator.

A reward of $100 will be paid for the arrest of the person or persons who are throwing poison around for dogs. Ten dogs have already been killed and one person is already suspected and is being watched.

The members of the Dunellen Gun Club, who won prizes last year were J. G. Lindzey, Thomas Brantingham, Alvah Gray, Charles Giles, David Runyon, Ike Lane, A. F. Warden, Peter Osborn, H. K. Zust, Adam Dealaman, William Fletcher.

Dunellen's charter election takes place in March, and already there are several aspirants for the offices to be filled. The primaries have not yet been announced, but already there is more or less wire pulling going on among the politicians.

The ladies of St. John's church are busy today decorating the interior of the new town hall for their social, dance and supper, tomorrow evening. This will be the formal opening of the hall, and the ladies will doubtless have a spokesman to christen it.

A regular meeting of the Dunellen Building and Loan Association will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms, this evening, for the payment of dues and the transaction of such other business as may come up for consideration. The association is rapidly growing, both in the membership and in the number of shares subscribed and it is now proposed to open a new series in the spring.

A carload of machinery and material to be ueed in erecting the seven new "smoke-jacks" or ventilators on the Dunellen round house arrived on Saturday, and will be put in position early this week. Heretofore the stacks in use have been of sheet iron, but the escaping coal gas soon rendered them rotten and useless, and the new ones are made of cast iron.

The New Market ice dealers are now wondering whether or not they will be able to cut a sufficient supply of ice this winter. The ice has averaged 8 inches in thickness, and was of fine quality. But now it is going to decay, and with a heavy rain on it will make it practically worthless. The people over here do not adhere strictly to the old admonition to "make hay while the sun shines."

SCOTCH PLAINS

W. S. Emory has a live aligator about two feet long, which he has housed in a tank in the hallway adjoining the office and barroom.

A party of young people from Garwood drove up to the Plains Saturday and enjoyed an evening of dancing, games, etc., with Mr. and Mrs. John H. Blimm. The gathering dispersed about midnight.

The appraisers have about completed their work of appraising the goods in the late James A. Baker's two stores, but it will probably be several days yet before they can submit their report to the executor.

Scotch Plains and Plainfield bird fanciers entered into an agreement yesterday for a cock fight on Friday evening of this week. The terms are for $25 a side, but the location for the main has not yet been announced.

WARREMVILLE.

Hans Huttenoffer has given up Warrenville as a residence place and taken up his abiding place in North Plainfield.

John D. Bornman, assistant postmaster at Warrenville says he has 200 bushels of fine winter apples and they're keeping well.

John Spencer has removed from Warrenville to Mt. Horeb. He has been stopping with his father-in-law, but has now taken possession of his own four-acre farm.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Warrenville Congregational church held a sociable at the Rev. George Bowers' house Wednesday night, and the sum total realized from the sale of cake and fancy articles was $5.80.

THEATRICAL.

Few farce comedies can show a better record than "A Railroad Ticket," written by Jos. M. Gaites. It continues to move along season after season, giving better satisfaction each time. It is a musical farce comedy, and while it introduces many specialty people, they are all novelties. It has a well-defined and consistent plot that carries interest until the final curtain. The music, songs, dances and medleys with which the performance abounds is bright and catchy, the costuming beautiful and appropriate. The cast is one of the best ever put together to present this piece and inludes Marie Stuart, the famous Chanteuse, who played ten consecutive weeks in New York, twelve in London and eight in Paris last season. She has been specially engaged to play the French maid and introduce her specialty. The popular little comedian, Louis Wesley, will be seen as "Chips," a part he created in the original production of "A Railroad Ticket." There are over seventeen others in the cast. This excellent attraction will be seen here at Music Hall tonight.

On Monday, January 25, Chauncey Olcott will begin his annual engagement at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, New York, presenting a new play, entitled "Sweet Inniscarra," written for him by his manager, Augustus Pitou. The action of the play transpires at the village of Inniscarra, on the banks of the River Lee, about nine miles from the city of Cork. The time is 1812, during the war between England and the United States. The first act shows the historical Shamrock Inn at Inniscarra, with a view of the mail road between Cork and Dublin, and the distant country. The second act is a beautiful woodland scene. In the third act there are three scenes. The first shows again the Shamrock Inn. The second scene shows a road to the river. The third scene shows the River Lee. The fourth act is a Gothic apartment in the Castle of Inniscarra, the home of Squire O'Donoghue. There are twenty four speaking parts in the play; also a number of peasants, fishermen, English sailors and the press gang, which latter plays an important part in the development of the play. Mr. Olcott has composed four new songs for the play.

Don't be Hopeless and Discouraged.

You need not be discouraged and lose hope just because local doctors have failed to cure you. It is only the specialist in such complaints who can cure you. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most noted and successful physician in curing disease, can be consulted by letter free. His experience is enormous, he has cured many cases like yours through letter correspondence. He can cure you. Write to him without delay. Remember it costs nothing to get his opinion and advice in regard to your case.

—The regular meeting of Martha Washington Council, D. of A., will be held tomorrow evening, at which time several members will be initiated, the recently elected officers will he installed and other business of importance will be transacted.

Proper Mode of Trimming Hats for Elderly Ladies.

The Best Feathers to Buy—Bargains in Dress Goods That It Is Well to Secure —New Pocketbooks and Fashionable Feathers.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

Trimming a bonnet for an elderly lady is perhaps the most difficult task encountered by the home milliner. It isn't like a hat for a young person, which may often be trimmed to look pretty without regard for Dame Fashion's edicts; it must be trimmed exactly in accordance with the laws laid down for the season.

At present, bonnets for elderly ladies are rather large, and cover almost the entire top of the head. Considerable leniency is allowed regarding colors, and women with gray hair may now wear purple, green, and even red.

The bonnet may have a crown of silk and felt braided, or one of embroidered velvet. Jet crowns, also, appear on some, but that material is not particularly fashionable this year.

The crowns are plaited in softly, giving a very full effect. The brims also are very full, of velvet usually. They extend down behind the ears, and are finished with a choux of velvet or ribbon at each end. From beneath them fall narrow velvet strings which tie in a bow under the chin.

The bonnet is now ready for the trimming, which should consist of ribbon, velvet, velvet blossoms, or ostrich feathers. All the trimming on a bonnet is flat, with the exception of one feature, which may be a bunch of Prince of Wales' plumes, upstanding rabbits' ears of velvet, or ribbon, and is placed on one side of the front or directly in the center of the crown. Velvet flowers may form the entire brim, or a small cluster may be crushed close to the bonnet on one side.

When a jet crown is used, the bonnet may be further enhanced by the addition of a jet buckle.

So many feathers are being worn just now that a word regarding the best kind to buy and how to keep them in good condition would perhaps be interesting.

In the first place, pay as good a price for your feathers as you possibly can. It's better to wear ribbons or velvet than cheap feathers, which are good for nothing after they have encountered one storm. On the other hand, a good feather, if carefully selected, will last season after season, and may be handed from one generation to another.

In buying feathers don't select one that is at all woolly. Those with large loose curls wear best and keep in curl longest. Another point about which to be careful is not to select feathers which have too many stitches along the stem. The stitches show a pieced feather, and that is just what you don't want. After you have used the feather for some years you can piece two or three of them together to make one full feather, and then it is time enough to have stitches along the stem.

FASHIONABLE POCKETBOOKS

In sewing feathers on your hat keep the flower flues as clear as possible. By sewing them down you will make them ragged and fuzzy in appearance, a thing which you wish to avoid. If your feathers get wet let them hang over the stove to dry. The heat not only dries them, but curls them at the same time.

There is no need to send a feather out of the house to be curled. Anyone can do it after a little practice. Professional curlers use a short knife for the purpose, and as one can be bought for 50 cents, it is worth while for the possessor of feathers to invest. To curl feathers they should be taken off the hat and steamed until they are perfectly straight. Then, before there is time for them to dry they should be curled very lightly over the sharp edge of the knife and laid flat on a board or cloth to dry. After that a few minutes in the open air will remove the stiffness from curl and stem, and give them the grace so desirable in ostrich feathers.

If any of the feathers are shabby sew them together as mentioned above. This should be done before they are curled. Put one on top the other, stem next stem. Then on the underside make a slipknot about the stems; carry the thread along for about an inch; make another slipknot to keep the stems together, and so continue to the end.

Prince of Wales plumes are made by wiring the stems of these feathers to within two inches of the top and then fastening them together in such a way that the tips turn out.

Don't allow your feathers to remain on a hat between seasons. It does them more harm than a half dozen rainstorms.

The most fashionable materials in use for pocketbooks are elephant hide and monkey skin. From this the uninformed would naturally infer that gray is the popular color, but that is a mistake. Both skins, when tanned and ready to be made up, are of a most beautiful chocolate color. And that is the color that makers of purses, both cheap and expensive, are seeking.

Both elephant hide and monkey skin are exceedingly rough, and therefore purses of rough leather are generally carried. Leathers with a smooth, satiny finish are, however, extremely popular, and are considered fully as up-to-date as the rough skins.

Purses of semi-rough skins should be avoided. While just as expensive as rough and smooth leathers, they haven't the proper "air."

Some purses, long in shape, are carried, but in order to look well they must be of a very fine quality. In purchasing a cheap purse, buy one that is oblong, but nearly square in shape.

Avoid filagree as ornamentation; it is entirely out of date. The ornamentation now used is scroll work of the renaissance period. It is very heavy.

BOUGHT AT A BARGAIN.

and of oxidized silver, or sterling colored yellow. Of course, purses with much ornamentation are very expensive, but others with small corner-pieces, and nicely gotten up of leather with a satin finish, may be bought for about 90 cents. And handsome enough they look, even for a very "swell" girl.

There are other purses, of white leather, ornamented with light-colored enamels, and bright red purses, and some of bright green. There are many such, but they're all expensive, and in cheap materials look common. So it's best not to meddle with them, unless you have at least four dollars to invest.

Let the bargain hunter rejoice. Now is the time to buy. After the mad rush of holiday trade comes a reaction, and stores would be empty unless some special attraction were offered.

Many a dress length of handsome goods has lain on the counter through the Christmas season, and is slightly shopworn. These pieces are now being offered at the big stores of every town, at really cut-rate prices.

It is, therefore, a good time to buy, but care should be taken in selection, as there is among the bargains much material that is entirely out of date.

Among a lot of dress goods the first choice would be Henrietta or ladies' cloth. If the material is intended solely for a dress-up costume, a dark plum is the best color. For a serviceable, work-a-day gown, buy brown, dark green or navy blue.

If a plain material cannot be secured reasonably, take a mixed goods. Don't select boucle or crepon, unless you have plenty to spend on it; even then, it would be well not to buy either of the above-mentioned materials, since, if you pay a good price, it would be better to buy ladies' cloth.

The mixed goods to select is a dark cheviot or a novelty in subdued colors and a very small figure. Blue and green run together is popular, and likely to hold its own for some time; while brown and black is a serviceable, rich looking combination.

Ribbed goods, or material with hair stripes, is good, and makes a most attractive gown.

INCIVILITY ON THE TRAIN.

The Verdict of the Mountaineer in Kentucky.

It was at one of the small stations on the C. & O. railroad in the mountains of eastern Kentucky that a tall, raw-boned mountaineer with a yellow hat boarded the train, says the Louisville Courier-Journal. He took a seat behind a rotund little man who was reading a paper. The mountaineer chewed tobacco vigorously. He fidgeted about and seemed to be worried by the calm composure of the little man's silence for about five minutes and then leaned toward him.

"Howdy, stranger," he said.

The little man nodded his head.

"Where mought you be from?" asked the mountaineer.

"Louisville," answered the little man.

"Huh!" What mought your name be?"

"John Jones."

"Huh! What street mought you live on?"

"Downtown."

"Huh! Air yo' married?"

"Yes." This with resignation.

"Huh! Any children?"

"Fifteen."

"Huh! Any silver varmints in Louisville?"

"A few."

"Huh! What mought yer business be?"

"Got none."

"Huh! Want a chew terbacker?"

"No."

"Well, yer pesky uncivil," observed the mountaineer, as he leaned back in his seat.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? THE BUBONIC PLAGUE.

Little Danger of the Dreadful Disease Entering This Country.

New York, Jan. 18.—According to Health Officer Doty there is little cause to fear that the bubonic plague may reach this city. The doctor, who has just returned from a visit to Egypt, says that he is satisfied from the quarantine supervision maintained by English officials at Suez that there is little danger of the disease passing that point. The Egyptian sanitary officials, who are all Englishmen, are alive to the occasion, and have made careful arrangements for the inspection, quarantine and disinfection of vessels from the infected districts. The system was already nearly perfect, having been long in operation as a protection against cholera. Having appointed a resident agent at Suez, Dr. Doty says that he will be kept fully informed as to the situation there.

Precautionary Measures in Europe.

Rome, Jan. 18.—It is officially announced that England, France, Germany, Austria, Russia and Turkey have agreed to hold an international conference in this city for the purpose of considering precautionary measures against the spread to Europe of the bubonic plague which is now raging in India.

FRIGHTENED SUPERSTITIOUS.

Severe Mid-winter Electrical and Rain Storm at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Jan. 18.—At 5:35 last evening the people of Cleveland were startled by an electrical storm which would have been unusual even in midsummer, but coming as it did in midwinter it created consternation, especially among the superstitious, for the lightning was vivid and the thunder loud and unusually severe. This thunder storm in January was accompanied by a heavy rainfall, almost as heavy as the worst storm last summer. In the morning it was quite cold, and just before the electrical storm the atmosphere became so warm that windows were opened and overcoats discarded. The cold wave signal is up and the promise is good that it will be 30 degrees colder this evening.

THE CZARINA'S ILLNESS.

All Hopes for Another Russian Heir at Present Abandoned.

London, Jan. 18.—The Sunday Times confirms the report of the illness of the czarina. It says that her condition, which is very serious, has ended the hopes of the birth of an heir. As cabled by the United Associated Presses yesterday the czarina was threatened with a premature birth, which, however, was averted. She has since been seriously ill, and to this fact was due the abandonment of the usual receptions during the Russian New Year week. Her physicians says that it is necessary for her to take a long rest at Livadia, one of the czar's estates in southern Russia, where Czar Alexander III. died in 1894. Here she can have perfect quiet, which is a prerequisite to her recovery.

The Czar To Undergo a Surgical Operation.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 18.—Yesterday a summons was sent to Berlin for Prof. Bergmann, the distinguished German surgeon, to come to this city to perform an operation upon the czar to prevent the extension of an osseous excrescence which has appeared in the region of the cranium. This trouble is due to the blow inflicted by a fanatical Japanese upon the czar, then the czarewitch, when he was traveling in Japan in 1891. This osseous growth, which Prof. Bergmann will remove, has caused the attacks of vertigo from which the czar has suffered for some time.

DENIAL BY SHERMAN.

Alleged Interview with Him on the Cuban Question Repudiated.

Washington, Jan. 18.—Senator Sherman said this morning, with regard to certain alleged interviews with him on the Cuban question, that he had not made any statement that could be construed as an indication of the policy of the incoming administration on that matter. In so far as this appeared in the press dispatches he had been erroneously quoted.

Blizzard in Michigan.

Muskegon, Mich., Jan. 18.—A steady down pour of rain which came Sunday formed into a gale last night, and the snow and wind is blowing off Lake Michigan forty miles an hour this morning. The rain did an immense amount of damage, as it caused Muskegon lake to overflow its banks.

PRISONS IN ENGLAND

Life in Them Described by Hon. John F. Redmond.

A SYSTEM OF SOLITUDE AND SILENCE

Our Prisons Far Ahead of the British Institutions, He Declares—Reception to the Irish Parliamentary Member by the Clover Club of Lynn.

Lynn, Mass., Jan. 18.—Hon. John F. Redmond, M. P., attended mass in St. Mary's church yesterday. At the close of the service he took a train for Boston to pay his respects to Archbishop Williams. He returned to Lynn at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and was taken to the Clover club headquarters, where he was tendered a reception by about 150 of the leading citizens. The reception was informal. Maurice V. Bresnahan extended the freedom of the club to the distinguished guest, who was introduced to all present. Mr. Redmond, at the request of the chairman of the reception committee of the club, made a brief address in which, he said that what interested men most in this country was the prison system, which was far ahead of that of England. The latter was, in his opinion, the most brutal in the world, and might be described as a system of solitude and silence. When a prisoner in England received a visit from a friend or from his wife or any member of his family, he was locked in an iron cage at one end of a large hall and the visitors were locked in the other end of the hall with two wardens in the centre to hear every word that was said. A prisoner in England was allowed only one visit in four months and was allowed to write only one letter in four months. For the slightest offenses against the rules even these privileges were denied. A prisoner was not allowed books or literature of any kind until he had been a long time in prison and then only about one volume in three weeks. Some prisoners in England were locked in their cells twenty-two hours per day, and when they were marched around the prison yards for exercise if one prisoner should speak to another he was given forty-eight hours' solitary confinement in a dark cell with only bread and water for diet. The entire system was so brutal and revolting that it drove many men insane from the tortures inflicted on them. No attempt was made in English prisons to give men employment suitable to that to which they had been accustomed in the outside world, and the business men and the men of literary tastes who might get into jail were given the same kind of work as the men who had always been used to working with their hands. This work was about as hard as it well could be, and while a man who had been used to hard work might be able to stand it, it was brutal treatment for professional men and people of the better classes.

Treatment of Irish Political Prisoners.

The treatment of the Irish political prisoners in the British prisons was something too horrible to contemplate. Originally there were eighteen of these prisoners, but three of them died of the hardships they underwent and five were driven insane, two of the latter being Dr. Gallagher and George A. Whitehead, who are in this country in the care of their friends. No hope were entertained of the latter ever being any better in mind than they were at present. He knew two men in Portland prison in England hopelessly insane, but instead of the government liberating them or giving their friends an opportunity to care for them during the rest of their days, one of them was sent to an asylum for criminals. Mr. Redmond said that he once visited John Daly in Portland prison and through the cage broke to him the news of the death of a very dear friend, one whom Daly loved dearly. Daly broke down at the news and when he recovered Mr. Redmond showed him a small photograph of the friend and a lock of hair. Daly asked to have them given him. Mr. Redmond saw the governor of the prison and asked permission to give the little mementoes to Daly, but that official asked Mr. Redmond if he wanted to break up the discipline of the prison. Mr. Redmond said that when he returned to England he would bring the matter of the prison system of Great Britain before parliament and make an effort to have it improved and made more humane. He told of visits to prisons in America where the prisoners were allowed many privileges and said that he learned from the governors of American prisons that lenient treatment did not interfere with the discipline of the prison. He said that the food given to American prisoners was luxurious compared to that served to the men in durance vile in England. Mr. Redmond was given much applause at the close of his remarks. Mayor Ramsdell made an address in which he expressed his hearty approval of the work in which Mr. Redmond is engaged.

Bishop Keane in Favor at Rome.

Rome, Jan. 18.—Bishop Keane, formerly rector of the Catholic university at Washington, has been appointed consultor to the congregations of the propaganda and studies. It is observed in vatican circles that Bishop Keane enjoys the special favor of the pope.

Kansas Senatorship.

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 18.—Ex-congressman W. A. Harris is conceded to be in the lead for United States senator. A new and strong candidate was announced last night, however, in ex-governor John P. St. John. Though a prohibitionist of national standing he is in accord with the populists and may slip in as a compromise.

ANNOUNCEMENT EXTRAORDINARY!

Having this 13th day of January, 1897, sold my entire stock of DRY GOODS, CARPETS, HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS, etc., to MESSRS. WOODHULL & MARTIN, of Morristown, N. J., possession to be given March 15th next, and agreeing to reduce the stock prior to inventory, and time of taking possession of same, to as small amount as possible, therefore we will from this date on inaugurate what we will call and offer the ENTIRE STOCK of THE COMMERCIAL PALACE at COST and BELOW COST, in order to bring it down to the required amount by March 15th.

Of course it would be impossible to give a descriptive list of goods to be thus closed out in an ordinary newspaper advertisement, and can only say that the reduction of prices will be on every article in the store, from a hair pin, to a set of dishes or a Moquette or Velvet Carpet.

It will positively be a great event in business in Plainfield, and will afford the public a rare opportunity to buy fine seasonable goods even cheaper than they can in New York.

Not knowing two days before hand that this change was going positively to take place, Mr. Edsall had gone into the Market and purchased several new spring lines of goods, such as an elegant assortment of new and beautiful Spring Wash Fabrics, New Hamburgh Embroideries, New Laces, New Muslin Underwear, New Spring Calico and Cambric Wrappers, New Waists and many other seasonable goods, bright and fresh; all of which will have to be included in this great retireing sale, and be sold at the same sacrifice as the other goods.

The same remark can also be made about the stock in the House Furnishing and Crockery Departments, many new and desirable lines for the Spring trade had also been received there.

Just as soon as the salespeople have time, hundreds and hundreds of articles will be displayed on both floors with placards giving the regular price and the reduced price, so that anyone can walk through the store and see for themselves what great reductions have been actually made.

When the goods are once sold, of course they will not be replaced again, as the object in selling them at such great reductions is to reduce the amount of stock, as stated before, First come will have first choice. This sale will be worth your attention, and doubtless will produce the greatest sensation of any sale ever made in Plainfield. Don't fail to be one of the first to attend. THE BLUE LINE CRASH.

or saw the headlight, for they prepared to jump but before they could cleared the platform, the other train was upon them and they were hurled with great violence to the ground. Engineer Clapp of the Blue Line saw the other train when the collision was inevitable and he and his firemen prepared to jump for their lives but the time was to short and as they sprang outward, the iron monster struck the other train and plunged into the ditch at the side of the track. The boiler exploded with the shock and the scalding steam and boiling water was poured over Clapp and Mahlon Dickenson, the baggage master of the local, who at the switch preparing to turn it. He had been thrown into the ruins of the Central locomotive by the force of the collision. The heavy parlor cars that made up the rest of the train crushed the baggage car, demolishing it. The other cars of that train remained on the rails.

The baggage car of the local had to bear the full brunt of the collision and it was smashed to splinters. The mail car in front was driven from the track and wrecked almost beyond recognition. The mail clerk was in the car at the time and he was half buried by the debris. The mail was not destroyed, but was pulled out of the mass of wreckage by the crowd that soon gathered. The tender of the P. & R. engine was completely demolished, while the engine was derailed and damaged to some extent. The remainder of the cars of the local train were derailed by the force of the collision and were crowded up against the wecked baggage car.

To the few eye-witnesses of the catastrophe the scene was a terrible one. The crash was deafening, while the air was filled with splinters and pieces of wreckage. The steam that rushed from the exploded boiler hid the wreck for a few moments. The passengers of the two trains were hurled from their seats; women and children screamed, while men rushed blindly about trying to find out the extent of the accident. Everybody on the trains was more or less bruised, and all experienced a terrible shock, from which many did not recover for some time.

The few residents of the neighborhood hurried to the scene with blankets and quilts and a field hospital was established under the direction of Dr. VanNest. The injured men were found by the searchers and carried to it while word was immediately telegraphed to Hopewell and Bound Brook for assistance. The accident occurred at about 7:15 o'clock.

The news occasioned great excitement in Bound Bound Brook and a train of two passenger coaches and a baggage car was sent to the scene under the charge of Drs. Manning and Wild, of that place. The train was equipped with all their instruments and materials for dressing wounds Dr. Pearson was hurried to the scene from Hopewell on a special engine and arrived in time to aid the sufferers. Upon the arrival of the relief train from Bound Brook, the hospital was arranged in the baggage car and here the wounds of the injured were dressed.

Engineer Clapp of the Blue Line and Baggagemaster Dickenson, of the local, were picked up near the wreck of the engine of that train, both of them terribly scalded.

James Devlin, one of the Royal Blue firemen, was found in a brook, badly scalded, thirty feet away, having been thrown that far by the shock.

Baggagemaster Webster, of the Blue Line, was able to walk to the temporary hospital. Both conductors received slight injuries. Engineer Ashton, of the local, was found in a heap, seriously injured. The shock of the first accident and the following smash-up had been too great for his nerves and his mind wandered. His fireman, Behl, was found lying on the tracks in an unconscious condition. None of the passengers were seriously injured.

The two main tracks and the east bound siding were blocked but traffic was continued by the siding on the other side. The Blue Line train, due at Bound Brook at 9:45, was flagged and the injured men placed on board. The passsengers were also changed into this train and carried to their destination. Ashton was lifted off at Bound Brook and taken to his home in a hack. The other four were carried to this city where the ambulance met the train.

The North avenue station was crowded with spectators who wanted to learn the particulars of the accident, word of which had reached this city some time before. Clapp, Dickenson and Behl were conveyed to the Muhlenburg Hospital by the ambulance. Clapp was the only one of the trio that was conscious. Webster was able to walk from the car to a hack which conveyed him to the hospital. The crowd remained around the station for some time longer trying to learn more details of the affair and then departed.

The injured men were brouht down under the charge of Drs. VanNest and Pearson, of Hopewell, and they were met at the station by the Drs. Hedges who then took charge of the injured ones. All the staff of the hospital was called out to attend them when they reached the hospital.

A wrecking train was sent through from Philadelphia and had the wreck all cleared away by noon yesterday. The rails were partially torn up but were soon repaired.

The wreckage caught fire from the Blue Line engine soon after the accident, and the remains of the Central engine and the wrecked cars of the accommodation train were destroyed by the flames.

Superintendent Tomlinson arrived within half an hour of the crash, and immediately set to work to clear the track with a wrecking train and a large force of men, although at no time was traffic blocked entirely, as there are four tracks at that point, and one was left open. He left at noon yesterday, when the wreckage had been cleared up and the crippled engines set upon their wheels, ready to be towed to the repair shops. He said that the damage to the rolling stock would amount to about $10,000, and declared that, although Engineer Ashton had been running on the road for ten years or more, he would doubtless be discharged for his gross carelessness as soon as the official inquiry was completed.

A Daily Press reporter called at the home of Engineer William Ashton yesterday afternoon, but was unable to see him as he was still in a serious condition.

These are the injured men:

ASHTON, WILLIAM: engineer of the local Philadelphia and Reading train; scalded and injured internally; taken to his home at Bound Brook; may recover.

BEHL, GEORGE: fireman of the Philadelphia and Reading train; has concussion of the brain and is bruised and cut; twenty-three years old and married, his home being in Bound Brook; taken to Muhlenberg Hospital; may recover.

CLAPP CHARLES A.: engineer of the Royal Blue; forty years old, of No. 194 Pacific avenue, Jersey City; married and the father of two children; scalded from head to foot and so frightfully hurt that he has been kept unconscious by the use of opiates; now in Muhlenberg Hospital.

QUICK, GARRETT: fireman of the Royal Blue; severely bruised and thought to be injured internally; taken to his home in Dunellen; will probably recover.

WEBSTER, FRANK: baggagemaster of the Royal Blue; bruised, but not dangerously; taken to his home in North Plainfield; he will recover.

Mahlon Dickinson, the baggagemaster of the P. & R. local, who was at the switch and was mortally injured, died at the hospital last night at 11 o'clock. He became unconscious soon after his arrival at that institution and remained in that condition until he died. His leg, arm, collar-bone and three ribs were broken, besides internal injuries. He lived at 831 North Ninth street, Philadelphia. He leaves a widow, but no children. The remains will be taken to Philadelphia, today.

The condition of Clapp and Behl is still precarious this afternoon, but there is hope for their recovery.

TALKED OF HOME MISSIONS

HELP TO DEVELOP THE COUNTRY

A Former Commissioner of Indian Affairs Makes an Interesting Talk.

The Rev. T. J. Morgan, LL. D., corresponding secretary of the American Baptist Home Missionary Society, was present at the First Baptist church yesterday morning and gave a talk on the subject of, "The relation of home Missions to the development of our national life." The speaker said that there was nothing more interesting to the student than a study of the rise and fall of great nations. There is, he continued, a fascination about the history of Rome, and the Jewish race, but nothing is more fascinating than a study of the development of our own great nation. If you ask any thoughtful-minded man what he thinks of the future of America, he will tell you that there are a great many problems of self-government yet to be settled.

The speaker then went on to say that during the past sixty-five years the society had established five thousand churches, chiefly through the west, and during that time $10,000,000 had been raised. He also stated that one quarter of the Baptists in the Chicago Association belong to foreign nations. He said that the society was now doing greater work than ever, and he made a strong plea for contributions to continue the work. The large congregation present listened attentively to Dr. Morgan, and at the close he received a satisfactory collection to assist in the grand work which is being carried on by the society.

THAT CHRISTMAS CIGAR JOKE.

Dealer Says That Women Buy Their Husbands Good Cigars.

"It is an old standing joke, of course, about the woman who buys cigars for her husband," said a cigar dealer. "They say that she buys them at a bargain, they are vile and that he is unable to smoke them. But after all it is only a joke. There is no more foundation for it than there is for many of the other moss-covered old chestnuts that used to delight our grandfathers. While now and then a woman buys cigars that her husband does not like, usually they show very good judgment in the matter. I know several of my customers whose wives have given them cigars for presents during the holiday season, and I don't think I ever heard any of the men complain. There is no present that man enjoys better, says the Chicago Times-Herald.

"If a woman wishes to give her husband a box of cigars she will make no mistake. There is no present that will be more acceptable, but she should remember that there is a great difference in cigars and that a man gets fond of one particular kind and dislikes most others. Most women know that. So when she wants to give her husband a box of cigars she goes to the cigar store where her husband usually gets his cigars and tells the tobacconist that she is buying them for Mr. So-and-So. The cigar dealer knows the tastes of her husband and will advise her in the matter. Thus, you see, the husband gets a good box of cigars, just the kind that he likes, and another favorite theme of the humorists is shown to have no foundation in fact."

YEAR TO END EARLIER.

NOT THE CALENDAR BUT THE FISCAL ONE OF THE CITY.

At Present There is Not Time Enough Between the Beginning of the Fiscal Year and the Date at Which Taxes are Payable.

The adjourned meeting of the city council held last evening was occupied with the transaction of several important matters and some business of minor importance. All the members were present except Messrs. Baker and Randolph.

A petition was received from Lawrence Green, of the west end, asking for work. He stated that he has a large family and that he has not been employed for sometime past. The matter was referred to the streets and sewers committee.

Since the last meeting several of the election officers made out their bills to conform with the opinion given by Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh. These bills were presented and ordered paid. There are a few of the officers who are not willing to accept the opinion and they would not allow their bills to go in.

A communication was received from the Mayor in which he suggested that the council change the beginning and ending of the fiscal year from September 1st to August 31st. He also advised that the taxes should become due in October instead of December. This he said would give sixty days after the beginning of the year in which to collect some of the taxes so that the city would have to borrow money as they do now. He thought that the change would be made gradually so that no inconvenience would be felt. The matter was referred to the proper committee.

Regarding the petition of J. B. Coward asking for an additional $20 per year on account of the extra expense of $300 in placing a vault in the office of the tax collector, Mr. Serrell, chairman of the committee to whom the matter was referred, reported that the committee recommended that the additional amount be paid, and the council confirmed the recommendation. Mr. Serrell also reported on the petition of ex Tax Collector Johnson, who asked the council to give him extra compensation for the collection of sewer taxes, and the committee reported on the matter unfavorably. The petition was then tabled. Mr. Serrell stated that an investigation proved that the Plainfield Street Railway Company was assessed for six miles of track and that the company had paid the additional $25 to the city. This question was in dispute at the last meeting of the council and the matter was left for investigation which resulted as above stated.

Mr. Frost reported on the petition of the Plainfield Sanitary Company and stated that the Corporation Counsel had been consulted and it was thought best to have a little more time to consider the matter. He thought that the committee would be able to give a full and complete report at the next meeting of the council.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Stebbins to the effect that the Fire and Buildings Committee be authorized to sell the West Second street fire department property with a view of placing two fire houses, one at each end of the town, the plans, etc., to be subject to the approval of the council. The resolution was adopted.

At this time a report of the alms committee for 1896 was received. The report states that owing to the aid of the Charity Organized Aid, the churches and many private individuals, the work during the past year was greatly facilitated. They recommend that the Council take steps toward securing an almshouse for they think that the city is now in a position to establish such an institution. The figures in the report showed that there was a poor fund balance of $914.71, and that $4,242.56 was collected during the year. Of this amount $4,729 01 was expended, leaving a balance of $428.26. There was collected from the taxes for 1895, $3,796.90, which was set aside for the building of an almshouse. This amount was 50 per cent. of the taxes collected from the levy of that year, which was ordered to be $9,000, but in some unknown manner it was reduced by the Assessor to $8,640. The report also shows that from 1891 to 1896 there was collected $2,488.97.

A report of Overseer of the Poor Marx followed. It stated that when he went in office there were fifty-five beneficiaries and at present there are thirty-eight. During the past year six deaths have occurred and thirteen male persons have been taken off of the list. The expenditures in this department were $4,729.01. Both of the above reports were referred to the alms committee.

Mr. Runyon presented three ordin-

THE ENGLISH SUFFRAGISTS.

REV. POWELL TO SPEAK OF THEM.

Important Meeting of New Jersey Woman Suffragists to Be Held.

A meeting of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association will be held on Friday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. building at 2:30, to be followed by a meeting of the Union county branch at 4 o'clock. Miss Mary Philbrook, of Jersey City, New Jersey's young woman lawyer, will make an address on the subject, "Why Women Should Have a Knowledge of the Law."

A delegate will be chosen to attend the National convention to be held at DesMoines Jan. 25th.

The pending amendment to the Constitution of the State, whereby school suffrage is to be restored to women, will also be considered. This amendment was passed by the last Legislature with hardly a dissenting voice, and if it is passed by the present Legislature it will be submitted to the popular verdict in November next.

Some account of English suffrage work as represented by Mrs. Henry Fawcett, (widow of the blind postmaster-general,) and others in the Central National Suffrage Association of Great Britain, will be given by Aaron M. Powell, who has recently returned from England.

The public in general, and especially that part of it which is interested in educational matters, and who believe in the right of mothers to have a voice in the education of their children, is cordially invited to be present at this meeting.

REVIVAL STILL GOES ON.

UNION SEAVICES RESUMED IN THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Rev. H. J. Johnson Preached the Sermon of the Evening and Told of the Opportunities of Man to Enter in Eternal Life.

The union revival services were continued in the First Baptist church, last evening, and despite the blustering condition of the weather the attendance was large. The opening service of song, conducted by H. J. Martin, was interspersed with a beautiful solo, "Oh! What Will You Do With Jesus?" by Miss Bessie Blair. The Scripture lesson was read by Rev. Mr. Johnston and the pastor, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, offered prayer.

Rev. H. J. Johnston then preached a forcible sermon, taking his text from St. Luke 16:31. The preacher advanced several excellent thoughts, noticeable among which are the importance of the revival work, and showing that man is not inferior to the disciples or angels. This world, said he, is the largest known in proportions and riches; but it's, perhaps, not the only one inhabited. Mars may be far greater; but Christ lived in this world, and created a natural stage for the development of man. But man has made wonderfully slow progress; nature traces to us the handwriting of God and enables us to write in history that which we see not. No essential truths are concealed in God and God has no essential truths are stored up in Heaven. Here man works out his own destiny, instructed by Divine truths. God has interpreted through his Spirit, and man can develop his soul and use it for the good of others. He has no substitute for his method of saving souls.

Rev. Dr. Main, the new supply of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, announced the closing hymn and after prayer by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., the audience was dispersed with the benediction.

Rev. G. Kennedy Newell will be the leader at the meeting this evening.

Nine Years the Proper Age.

There was, as usual, a large attendance at the meeting of the Primary Teachers' Union which was held yesterday afternoon. The devotional exercises were conducted by Miss Lambert, and the lesson was taught by Mrs. Baldwin, of the Newark Union. The subject for discussion was "At what age should a scholar be taken from the primary class?" This part of the meeting was in charge of Miss Beeching and it was decided that a child should at least be nine years of age. The entire meeting was one of the greatest interest to all and nearly everyone present took part in the discussion.

Death of Mrs. Charles Sears Baldwin.

The friends of Charles S. Baldwin will regret to learn of the death of his wife, Agnes Irwin, at their home in New Haven, last Thursday night. Her funeral services was held Saturday afternoon and the interment was in New Haven, Mr. Baldwin's boyhood and early school day were passed in Plainfield, his father, John S. Baldwin, being a resident here for a number of years. He is professor of English literature at Yale College, at he present time.

A CHURCH WANTS A HOME

ST. STEPHEN'S MEMBERS LIKELY TO BUILD A NEW EDIFICE.

Their Present Home is Owned By a Stock Company and Their Growth Demands a More Pretentious Place.

There is considerable talk among the parishoners of St. Stephen's church at Netherwood towards the erection of a large and costly edifice for worshiping purposes. In sympathy with the rest of the city, St. Stephen's parish has continued to grow as each year passed and from a small mission it has now become one of the most progressive and influential church societies in the city. The membership includes some of the wealthiest people living in the Netherwood district, and for a long time they have felt that the congregation was getting too large for the building at Netherwood. Most important of all, however, that prompted the idea of a new place of worship, is the fact that their present quarters are not owned by them, but by a stock company organized by the citizens of Netherwood in 1880, and known as the Netherwood Union Chapel and School Association.

Though there is no likelihood of their being compelled to vacate the building at any time, the members feel that since they have become so firmly established and are growing steadily in numbers and the amount of good work accomplished each year, it is time that they had a home of their own. And in securing one they feel the need of more room than the chapel near Woodland avenue affords, and so, rather than purchase this building under such conditions, they think it advisable to build an entirely new structure of more pretentious appearance and at a more central point for their members and attendants. So far the matter has only been informally discussed and no definite action taken, though some have expressed opinions as to a site, and Jas. E. Martine, who owns a large amount of the property in the section in which it is contemplated to put up the new church, has been talked with about the matter. If the church is built it will be one of the finest in all respects in the city.

Just what Grace P. E. church will say to this contemplated move, is, of course, an unknown thing, but it is conjectured that they will oppose the building of another Episcopal edifice nearer to them than is the present home of St. Stephen's.

After the organization of the company and the building of the chapel at Netherwood in 1880, union services were conducted there till 1886, when the interest seemed to lag. Then the trustees of the association turned the chapel over to the Grace P. E. church to conduct as a mission, and this was followed in 1887 by the formation of the Church of Our Saviour, with William J. Leonard as lay reader. The society prospered as the section around Netherwood was built up, and in 1888 the need of a permanent rector was felt, and after a time Rev. S. P. Simpson was engaged as pastor, and is still officiating as such. Sometime ago the name of the church was changed from the Church of Our Saviour to St. Stephen's church.

MORE POLO ON ROLLERS.

An Elizabeth Team to Meet the Local Players Tomorrow Night.

Plainfield will be given another chance to see a game of polo on roller skates tomorrow evening, when the team from the Elizabeth Athletic Club will meet the Plainfield Hockey Club's team on the floor of the Jersey Cycle Academy. The fine exhibition last week has encouraged the local players to try their skill against a strong team, and so they have scheduled a game with one of the strongest teams in the State. The Elizabeth Athletic Club has been making a great record for itself in athletics during the past year, especially in football. Some of the crack men of the latter team will appear here on roller skates against the Plainfield boys. The latter are very confident that they can give their opponents from down the road a lively tussle, and so the game is likely to be exciting to say the least.

The two teams have been picked and will probably line up as follows:

E. A. C.		P. H. C.
Gilbert	right rush	Freeman
Livengood	centre rush	Simmonds
McKenzie	right half back	Darling
Eaton	cover point	Smith
Shaler	goal keeper	McClure

These same teams will meet on the New Market pond Saturday afternoon on skates if the skating is good.

The Exempts Are Aroused.

The Exempt Firemen are thoroughly aroused over the attempt to take away their tax exemption by an act of he Legislature and a meeting will be held tomorrow evening to take action on the matter.

A PLACE FOR CITY POOR

PROJECT TO HAVE THEM QUARTERED AT THE SEWER FARM.

A Prominent City Official Says That the Poor Can be Kept There to Great Advantage and at a Saving of $2,000 a Year

The greatest change that will be made by the city this year will be the removal of the city's poor from the present poor house on Terrill road to the Mountain View Farm, where the sewage disposal beds are located. While the subject has been mentioned before by The Press, there is a renewed interest in the matter as the time draws near then the matter will be taken before the Common Council.

A city official, who is well posted on the matter, gave a Press reporter some facts regarding the fitness of the city farm for the purpose. There is a house on the farm already that is capable of accommodating thirty people without inconveniece to any. By making a few alterations to the building, which can be done at a small expense, the capacity of the house can be enlarged to nearly forty persons.

Such of the poor as were able to work could be used to great advantage on the farm, while the products from it would, in a large measure, feed them.

The saving would therefore be considerable and the official puts it at about $2,000. This would be saved in rent of the present quarters and in the products of the farm as well as in the cost of labor saved on the farm.

How soon the change will be effected is not known, but it will probably not be until the arrival of the warm weather, as moving in the cold would be extremely unpleasant for all concerned. Then it will be necessary to see to the furnishing of the new quarters. The matter will have to come before the Council, and that is likely to be very soon. It was mentioned last evening at the Council in the report of last year's alms committee, and the necessary resolution will soon be introduced.

CONTENDED OVER A TREE

IT WAS A WHITE OAK AND CLAIMED BY TWO PERSONS.

It Was Standing on the Property of Mrs. Lane and She Permitted Samuel Moore to Cut it Down—Claimed by Mr. Hoffman.

A white oak tree and the cutting down thereof has made lots of trouble and finally ended in a lawsuit. The case came up in Justice Mattison's court in the borough and was decided in favor of the man who cut down the tree.

George A. Hoffman, a resident of this city, had some dealings with Mrs. Lane, who lives quite a distance out on Park avenue. This was in 1895, and the balance was in favor of Hoffman to the amount of $6. By paying $2 more Mrs. Lane agreed to give him a receipted bill for a number of trees that were standing on her land. Hoffman took the bill but he let the trees stand for some time.

Now last December, Samuel Moore, of the borough, came by and noted a white oak tree, standing in the corner of Mrs. Lane's property, and he wanted that tree. Mrs. Lane agreed to sell it and the purchase was made. Hoffman heard of the purchase and he told Moore that the tree was already bought and paid for and that therefore Moore must not touch it. Moore and Mrs. Lane conferred over the matter and the latter aid that the tree was not included in the lot that Hoffman bought. The agreement had been that when Hoffman cut down the trees, he should have the butts and half of the cord wood that they made, the other half was to go to Mrs. Lane.

Moore cut down the tree and carted away the remains. Hoffman paid a visit to the office of the justice and started a suit in tort for $50. The case came up for trial yesterday and Mrs. Lane was present. She declared that the tree had not been included in the lot that Hoffman had the bill for and so the justice declared that the plaintiff had no cause for action. So ended the action. Hoffman was represented by his lawyer, S. S. Swackhamer, and the defendant's counsel, Winfield S. Angleman, was also present.

Trouble All Around.

The milk wagon belonging to Edward Schenck met in collision with a trolley car on the corner of Plainfield avenue and West Fourth street, early this morning. The liquid contents of the milk cans was spread over the street in a wildly extravagant manner while the wagon retired to the side of the road for a rest. The horse ran about considerably, but was finally caught and placed in a safe place. The accident was caused by the horse becoming frightened at something and trying to upset the trolley car.

WESTFIELD SOLONS TO MOVE

THEIR ACTION CAUSES SURPRISE.

W. W. Gilby Fitted Up Rooms Especially For Them a Year Ago.

Much interest has been aroused in Westfield by a resolution, passed at the last meeting of the Township Committee, notifying W. W. Gilby, the owner of the building in which the new town rooms are situated, that the Committee would not use the rooms after April 1st, at which time the present lease expires.

The present building was completed only last fall, and the plans were somewhat altered in order to provide quarters such as the Committee would require. This was done by the owner with a view to the permanent occupancy of the rooms by the Committee. The impression has prevailed in the town that there was at least a tacit understanding between the Committee and Mr. Gilby; and hence the resolution of last Thursday was a genuine surprise.

At the last three meetings of the Committee the rooms have been so cold that overcoats had to be worn. The impression generally prevails that it was this condition of affairs which caused the committee's action.

LAW MAKERS AT WORK.

THE ASSEMBLY COMMITTEES ANNOUNCED LAST NIGHT.

Assemblyman Codington Made Chairman of the Election Committee and a Member of the Judiciary Committee.

Last evening at Trenton the Legislature practically begun the work of the session. In both houses the sessions were very brief. Thirty bills were introduced in the house and seven in the senate. There was an unusually crowd of spectators in the house.

In the House Speaker MacPherson announced the committees, but his list contained two blanks, showing that he had trouble in allotting the Chairmanship of the Corporations and Municipal Corporations Committees, which are important places and greatly in demand. At the last moment the Speaker assigned the first to Republican Leader Derousse and the second to Minch of Cumberland. Derousse is also at the head of the appropriations committee, Baron is at the head of borough, Codington of elections, Lloyd of judiciary, Roll of railroads and canals, and Gledhill of revision of laws and riparian rights.

Assemblyman Codington was also made a member of the Judiciary Committee and of the Joint Library Committee. Assemblyman Clauss is chairman of the Committee on Unfinished Business and a member of the Ways and Means Committee.

A bill fathered by the L. A. W. is one that provides that all bicycles shall be carried free of charge as baggage upon railroads, provided that but one wheel shall be checked on each ticket. A fine of $10 is the penalty. The wheelmen say they have 100,000 citizens of the state at their back and they will push the bill vigorously.

Senator Daly, in the senate, introduced the oldtime two-cent ferriage, with the addition of a clause providing that bicycles shall be carried free on those ferries.

Senator Daly introduced a bill providing that it shall be unlawful for any railroad company to prevent any passenger from carrying parcels, packages or merchandise upon the trains of such company, provided that such parcels do not take up or interfere with space intended for passengers. The penalty is $500 fine. The bill is the result of the recent trouble with commuters at Jersey City.

Senator Daly also introduced a bill fixing the rates of ferriage between 6 and 9 a. m. and 4:30 and 7 p. m., at two cents, where the distance does not exceed two miles, and passengers shall be entitled to carry bicycles free.

Senator Johnson introduced two amendments to the Constitution. One provides for an independent Court of Errors and Appeals, and the other provides for the election of Assemblymen by districts, instead of by counties at large. Both were defeated last winter.

This morning the Republicans held a joint caucus to renominate State Comptroller Hancock and Treasurer Swain.

Dawson, has been advanced to assistant superintendent of the Jersey City office, district No. 1. Agent W. J. Allen, of Grandview avenue, has been appointed superintendent of the company's office at Clinton, N. J. Mr. Lowry's successor in this city has not yet been decided on.

A MIDNIGHT ENCOUNTER

GARFIELD PIKE NOW HAS A GASHED HAND AS A RESULT.

Lunged at the Prowler and Came Up Against a Window Pane—An Interesting Sequel to the Exciting Escapade.

Garfield Pike, of East Front street, met with a very exciting experience last night that he will not forget in a hurry and which was the means of keeping him at home today with his hand in a sling.

Pike is usually a sound sleeper, but early this morning, soon after the clock had struck 1, he suddenly sat up in bed. There was a noise at his window which had aroused him. The moon was shining brightly and it was almost as light as day outside; inside it was rather dark. There in front of the window was the form of a man and he was just about to raise the sash when Pike espied him. In fact he had raised it a few inches, and it was the sound of that which had probably disturbed Pike's slumbers.

Carefully Pike drew first one foot and then the other from under the covers and stepped out on the floor. The burglar, for such he evidently was, had not seen him but was busy trying to raise the sash without disturbance. Pike did not stop to don any of his clothing, but crept around the side of the bedstead in his nightrobe. Pike had no weapon that he could reach, but he is an athletic young fellow and he prepared to use his fists.

The burglar had succeeded in lifting the sash to the top when Pike made a dash at him. With a right hand upper-cut he nearly drove the visitor out of the window, but as he went he pulled down the sash, and Pike's next blow crashed full into window and the next moment the blood was flowing from numerous cuts made by the window-glass.

Then Pike woke up and found he had been dreaming. The burglar was a mere creature of his imagination but the window wasn't. He had climbed out of bed and driven his fist through the glass. Two fingers were cut to the bone and his hand was cut in several other places.

The wounds were dressed and he returned to bed. Today he remained home from school on account of his injuries which were quite painful.

SERVED SEVERAL YEARS

H. D. JANES RESIGNS AS A TRUSTEE OF THE CRESCENT AVENUUE CHURCH

Annual Meeting of the Society Held Last Night—George A. Strong Elected a New Trustee—A Balance in the Treasury.

The annual meeting of the Crescent Avenue church was held last evening at which time the election of trustees took place, and the report of the treasurer, W. F. Arnold, was presented.

The election of trustees was held first, and resulted as follows: Charles Place, C. J. Fisk, J. K. Myers, I. W. Rushmore, J. W. Murray, George A. Strong and W. F. Arnold. The resignation of Henry D. Janes, as a trustee, was received with the deepest regret. Mr. Janes has filled the position for the past fourteen years, and during that time he has served the church faithfully and with great honor. The following resolution was ananimously adopted by the board which will explain itself:

Resolved, That the thanks of the board be extended to Henry D. Janes for his long and very efficient services as trustee, and we regret that he has been compelled to decline a re-election.

After its adoption by the board it was also adopted by the congregation.

The vacancy in the board was filled by the election of George A. Strong, who was unanimously chosen.

Treasurer, W. F. Arnold then presented his report which was as follows:

RECEIPTS.

Pew Rents	$11,807.43
Other Receipts	385.50
Chapel Receipts	6,901.92
Total Receipts	$19,094 85

EXPENDITURES.

Church Expenses	$12,486.40
Chapel Expenses	5,650.93
Total Expenditures	$18,137.43
Balance on Hand	$ 957.52

The very excellent showing made by the church in its financial department is to be highly commended, and it shows that there is wise and careful management in this department.

NO WAR ON HANNA

Gov. Bushnell Sends a Message to the National Chairman.

NO MOVE IN OHIO SENATORSHIP

Believed That There Will Be No Extra Session of the Legislature and That Mr. Hanna Will Be Appointed To Succeed Sherman.

Cleveland, Jan. 19.—Murat Halstead, who was in Cleveland yesterday, called upon Mark Hanna. Mr. Halstead attended the dinner of the Ohio society in New York Saturday night and said Gov. Bushnell charged him with a message to Mr. Hanna. "Gov. Bushnell asked me to tell Mr. Hanna," said Mr. Halstead, "that he had not declared war on him, and that he had not done anything regarding the Ohio senatorship. He does not expect to make the appointment from New York." Speaking for himself, Mr. Halstead said: "I think Gov. Bushnell will appoint Mr. Hanna to the place, and I firmly believe that that is the advice he will get from Senator-elect Foraker. It certainly would not conduce to harmony to call a special session to elect Senator Sherman's successor, and it is the height of political folly to talk of such a thing. Spain," said Mr. Halstead, "has lost Cuba. There is no doubt about that. Those alleged Spanish reform plans of which so much has been said are delusions. It is impossible for Spain to reform her colonial policy. The fight has got to be fought out. The government of Cuba is a government under martial law, entirely in the interest of Spain. I do not believe in being hasty so far as the United States government is concerned. We shall, however, doubtless have a duty to perform in Cuba. From the standpoint of a Cuban sympathizer the appointment of Senator Sherman to the secretaryship of state is very satisfactory. He is the best known man in public life in America to-day and has accomplished more than anybody else. When I was in Havana the Spaniards indicated an appreciation of his worth on the committee of foreign relations and he was continually caricatured and assailed in a most brutal manner by the Spanish satyrical organ, Don Quixote."

DELAWARE SENATORSHIP.

J. Edward Addicks Nominated by a Caucus of the Rump Legislature.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 19.—Robert J. Hanley, union republican—Addicks, a member of the state senate, last evening organized a "rump" senate by swearing in J. Frank Allee, union republican—Addicks, who is alleged to have have been counted out in Kent county, and Thomas Curry of Sussex who was defeated. This was preliminary to the rump election of J. Edward Addicks as United States senator. Where the other two senators necessary to form a quorum of the rump house and senate are to come from is not known. The caucus of the rump general assembly last night nominated Addicks for United States senator. Later in the evening the democrats of the regular assembly went into caucus to nominate a United States senator, but after twenty-one futile ballots a recess was taken at midnight. Willard Saulsbury was in the lead, being but seven votes short of enough to nominate him. The democratic caucus reconvened after midnight and nominated Gen. R. R. Kenny on the twenty-sixth ballot. This is virtually a victory for the silver men.

Hanged Himself at the Age of 77.

Gouveneur, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Adam P. Killmer, aged 77 years, a wealthy and prominent citizen, hanged himself at his residence in this village last evening. He tied a handkerchief around his neck, fastened the end to a rope and leaned forward until he choked to death. The rope being too long, he had to curl his feet up beneath him and when found his knees nearly touched the floor. Mr. Killmer is believed to have been temporarily insane.

Retirement of an Aged Justice.

Rockville, Conn., Jan. 19.—President George Talcott of the First National bank has retired from the office of associate judge of the city court and justice of the peace of the town of Vernon by the age limitation of 70 years. He has held the office of justice of the peace for thirty-four years having tried over 3,000 cases, a record scarcely equalled in the state.

FIVE OPPOSED HILL

Bolted the Democratic Senatorial Caucus at Albany.

WILL NOT VOTE IN THE JOINT SESSION

The Present Senator Is Nominated, Nevertheless, Receiving 36 of the 41 Votes Cast—H. P. O'Neil for University Regent.

Albany, Jan. 19.—The democratic members of the legislature met in caucus last night and renominated David B. Hill for the office of United States senator and nominated Henry P. O'Neil of New York for the office of regent of the university. Senator Cantor called the caucus to order in the senate chamber, and it lasted but a few minutes. Senator Guy started the opposition to Senator Hill by saying he would withdraw from the caucus if Senator Hill was renominated. Senator Guy said: "After a conference with some of my associates who are opposed to the renomination of Senator Hill, I wish to state that I cannot consistently support such a nomination, and if it is going to be made I must withdraw from the caucus. I have no desire to be a censor of the acts of a public official. Senator Hill, by his inaction and policy of delay, contributed more than any other single influence to democratic defeat last year. To vote for him under the circumstances would, in my opinion, be to rebuke those who were loyal; to reward the general who avoided the conflict, while condemning the brave soldiers who unflinchingly faced the foe." Chairman Foley said he could not say what action the caucus would take, but he hoped every member would support the nominee of the caucus. Senator McCarron of Brooklyn: "Senator Guy's proposition is rather absurd, it seems to me. He says he cannot support Senator Hill for a national office, but might for a state office—such as governor, for instance." Senator Guy: "The course the senator who just spoke is even more inconsistent than my own." Senator McCarron: "That's only your opinion." Senator McNulty of Brooklyn also joined the bolters. He said he endorsed Senator Guy's position and added: "I decline to further follow in national or state politics a man who is responsible for the defeat of a party that five years ago was intrenched in power in the state, while to-day a democrat in office is a rarity." On motion of Senator Grady of New York the roll was then called and each member named his choice for United States senator. Forty-one votes were cast, of which Senator Hill received 36, Robert C. Titus of Buffalo, who was the democratic candidate for the court of appeals judge last fall, received two and William F. Porter of Watertown, who was the silver candidate for governor last fall, received three votes. Senators Coffey and McNulty of Brooklyn and Guy of New York bolted the caucus. Of the assemblyman Cain and Zurn of Brooklyn bolted the caucus. Senator Hill was declared to be the nominee. Henry P. O'Neil of New York was then nominated for the office of regent of the university. On morion of Senator Grady, the nomination was made by acclamation and the caucus adjourned. Senator Cantor said that the five who bolted would not vote for United States senator.

Mysterious Robbery in New York.

New York, Jan. 19.—There is no clue to the thief who stole the bag containing $5,600 in bills yesterday afternoon from a wagon belonging to the Metropolitan Traction company in front of the Pacific bank on Broadway, near Houston street. Nobody saw the bag disappear. Messenger Wickham, who had charge of the money, said he had taken out the bags of money from the two iron chests in which they were placed. He handed them to his assistant, as usual, so that they could be taken into the bank and counted. When he thought he was through he was one bag short. The street was crowded at the time and the messengers said they followed the usual custom of passing the bags from the wagon to the bank.

New York Capitol Commission.

Albany, Jan. 19.—The capitol construction commission met yesterday afternoon and reorganized by electing ex-Lieut.-Gov. Saxton as chairman of the commission. Action upon routine matters occupied the remainder of the session. It is announced that the appropriation for day work on the building will run until about Feb. 15, and that the contractors can continue work under the present appropriation until about April 1.

Czar's Condition Not Serious.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 19.—Despite the fact that the czar has sent for Dr. Bergmann, the distinguished German surgeon, to come to St. Petersburgh to perform an operation upon his majesty, his condition is not at all dangerous. The operation to be performed is simply the removal of a small exostosis at the side of the scar of the wound inflicted upon the czar's head by the fanatical Japanese.

Arbitration Treaty Correspondence.

Washington, Jan. 19.—In response to a resolution, the president has transmitted to the senate, under the seal of an executive document, the correspondence leading up to the negotiation of the general treaty of arbitration between this government and Great Britain. It was ordered to be printed and referred to the committee on foreign relations.

DANCING TURTLES.

Curious Training Through Which They Are Put in the Far East.

The spectacle of an old, bearded man, with long, tangled locks, dressed in a fantastic costume, attracted the attention of passers-by one day in one of the large seaports of Japan. Some said he was an Aino, pointing to his long hair and beard, and that he was a bear worshiper from Nagasaki.

The old man stood on the deck of a houseboat quite as disreputable as he himself appeared and gave an exhibition that was in every respect remarkable. He held an old brass drum, upon which he beat with several sticks, keeping time with his foot; and in obedience to this strange summons a number of common high-backed river tortoises of various sizes crawled out of a box, and, forming themselves in line, began to march, one after the other, to the slow, discordant music. Around they went in a circle, the big ones ahead, the smaller ones following on behind, and at the word of command the larger ones took their places between two boxes and formed a living tortoise bridge, over which the small ones passed from box to box, the others then following suit, whereupon all the tortoises arranged themselves in groups, like plates about a table.

The Japanese have another tortoise, which they train to perform simple tricks in the water. It is a little creature about three or four inches long, that from a life of inactivity has become covered with a long growth of green pond weed, which streams behind like hair as it swims along.

These people are also famous for their strange fishes of the carp family; some are short and chubby, with eyes that protrude so far from the head that they look like telescopes, or the stalked eyes of some crabs, with which the little creature can see in every direction. Others have a broad lace-like tail that hangs gracefully like a mass of lace, and appears to be divided into three parts. Others have a perfect black cross marked upon the back, which against the deep red, which is the prevailing color, presents a magnificent appearance. Others are called the fish of the white cross, the latter being white against red.

These fanciful creatures are trained to perform a variety of tricks; they rise at the sound of a bell, ring a bell themselves, follow one another in a row at the signal and then in many ways show their remarkable intelligence.

The Japanese also import the famous fighting fishes from India, which they keep in an aquarium and match in contests which are, it must be said, decided without bloodshed, though the little creatures show no little ferocity.

The tortoise and crane are both sacred animals in Japan, and the former is often seen with the stork walking about villages, paying no attention to the people, and as safe as is the sacred ox of India.—St. Louis Republic.

Well Rebuked.

A quick retort is credited to a young author whose tongue is as ready as his pen.

Not long ago as he was walking with a friend a man came up behind him and gave him a resounding slap on the shoulder. The writer turned a surprised face toward the newcomer, who said:

"Look here! You must remember me! Now don't you?"

"I can't say that I remember your face," returned the young author gravely, "but your manner is certainly familiar."—Youth's Companion.

WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY.

Rev. Dr. Conaty's Installation as Rector To Take Place This Afternoon.

Washington, Jan. 19.—The installation of Rev. Dr. T. J. Conaty of Worcester, Mass., as rector of the Catholic university will take place this afternoon at the university. The professors and students attended mass at 9 a. m. which was celebrated by Dr. Carrigan, vice-rector of the university. During the service Cardinal Gibbons received the profession of faith from Dr. Conaty. The installation proper will begin at 4 p. m. and will be of rather a simple and unpretentious character. Dr. Carrigan will deliver an address, Prof. Shea will read the letters from the pope and Cardinal Gibbons announcing the selection of Dr. Conaty as the new rector and the cardinal will then formally transfer the office to Dr. Conaty, and the latter will accept the trust in an address of considerable length. A reception will follow, which will conclude the ceremonies. A large number of invitations have been issued to the installation. Rev. Dr. Conaty is about 40 years old. He was born in Ireland, but has lived in this country nearly all his life, and is an American citizen. He was educated at the college of the Holy Cross, conducted by the Jesuits, at Worcester, Mass. He made his course in theology at the seminary of the Sulpicians at Montreal. Dr. Conaty is a well-known advocate of temperance and has delivered lectures in all parts of the country on that subject.

EMMA IRWIN ACQUITTED.

The Man Now Under Death Sentence for Murdering Irwin Refused To Testify.

Baltimore, Jan. 19.—The trial of one of the most remarkable cases in the criminal annals of Maryland was begun and concluded in the criminal court yesterday. The defendant was a woman who was indicted in the Charles county court as an accessory to the murder of her husband. The most damaging testimony against the woman was expected to come from a man who was convicted of the murder and on whom the death sentence has been passed. In a confession made on the day following his conviction and sentence to death for the murder of James J. Irwin, George Matthews declared that he had been incited to the crime by Mrs. Irwin, and together they had planned and executed it. It was believed that his testimony, along with circumstantial evidence from other quarters, might bring the death sentence down on the widow of the murdered man. But when Matthews was put on the stand yesterday afternoon he refused to testify against her or even to be sworn in the case. After Matthews had refused to testify the state closed its case. The defense did not even submit any evidence, and the case was given to the jury without argument. Without leaving their seats the jury found and gave in their verdict of not guilty. Ten minutes later Emma Irwin was a free woman.

CLEW UP A GUNBOAT

Rebels Sink a Spanish Vessel in a Cuban River.

TORPEDOES PLACED IN THE STREAM

Spaniards Struggling in the Water Shot by the Insurgents Concealed Along the Shore—A Sister Vessel Forced To Put Back.

Havana, Jan. 19.—Though the insurgents have no navy, they do not hesitate, when the opportunity offers, to attack the Spanish warships. The latest instance of this kind occurred yesterday, when a Spanish gunboat was sunk by means of a torpedo, and many of her crew were killed. A detachment of rebels had made an attack upon the fort at Guamo, some distance up the Cauto river, province of Santiago de Cuba, and the Spanish troops, fearing that they would not be able to hold out, asked for assistance from Manzanillo, on the coast. The gunboats Cantinela and Relampago left Manzanillo under orders to ascend the river and protect the fort. The commander of the gunboats used all possible speed in running up the coast to the mouth of the river, but when they began to ascend the stream they proceeded very cautiously, suspecting that the rebels might have planted torpedoes in the channel. All went well until the gunboats were opposite a place called Mango, when, despite all the precautions that had been taken, the Relampago struck a torpedo. Instantly there was a terrific explosion, and masses of water were hurled to a great height. The hull of the Relampago was torn open, and she at once began to sink. There was no time to lower away a boat, and almost before the extent of the disaster could be realized the vessel went down. Those on board of her who were not injured jumped into the water and made their way the best they could in the direction of the Centinela, aboard of which the greatest excitement prevailed. As soon as it was seen that the Relampago was sinking the Centinela's boats were ordered away to assist in the rescue of the crew of the former. The rebels appeared to be in strong force along the banks of the river, and when they saw the Spaniards in the water they directed a heavy rifle fire upon them. The Centinela opened fire upon the rebels, but as they could not be seen their positions could only be discovered by the smoke from their guns, and it is not believed that any serious losses were inflicted upon them. Nearly every survivor of the Relampago's crew was wounded, and there were only a few of the men belonging to the Centinela who had not been hit by rebel bullets. The commander of the Centinela was so seriously wounded that doubts are entertained of his recovery. The condition of the survivors was such that it was impossible for the Centinela to proceed to Guamo, and she therefore returned to Manzanillo, where the news of the disaster caused intense excitement.

SPANISH OFFICERS CAPTURED.

A Train Held Up by Robbers or Insurgents Near Havana.

Havana, Jan. 19.—Official news has been received here of the halting and plundering of a railway train near this city on the night of January 16 by bands of "plateados." The train was the last one running from Regla, a suburb of Havana, on the east side of Havana bay, to Guanabacoa, five miles further east. The robbers stopped the train at 10:30 p. m. and, covering the passengers with their guns, proceeded to rob them of everything of value they had about them. There were ten Spanish officers on board the train who had been on a pleasure trip to the city and were returning to Guanabacoa. These the robbers made prisoners and took away with them. Nine of the officers were subsequently released, but one of them, a native Cuban, was killed for being found in the Spanish service. Cubans here believe that there was no robbery and that the train was stopped by insurgents and the Spanish officers captured and made prisoners.

A MAN OF REFORMS.

Assuredly, Sheriff Kirk is a man of many reforms. He has surprised the old habitues of the courts pretty nearly every week with some new order, and yesterday he announced that constables attached to the court would not be permitted to become bondsmen for prisoners brought up to answer indictments. It is said that the privilege has been abused by many constables who made money out of the prisoners, as it often happens a man is arraigned who can not secure a bondsman and who would be glad to pay a good round sum rather than go to jail. As many of the constables are property owners, they could, if they so desired, strike a bargain with the prisoner and get him out of his difficulty with little risk to themselves.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT.

During the session of last year's Legislature Assemblyman Roll, of Union county, was severely criticised, even by his own party associates, for his seeming favoritism to trolley road corporations as against the general sentiment of the people on certain matters. Now he is honored by the appointment as chairman of the Assembly Railroad Committee where he is in a position to easily do more in the line of favoritism than he was a year ago. Public sentiment didn't amount too much with Speaker MacPherson in this case.

HUMAN FIRE-BELL TAPPER.

ODD WAY TO SEND OUT AN ALARM

But it Was Effective and the Fire Laddies Responded.

Shortly after 9 o'clock this morning an alarm of fire was sent in from Box 152, corner of Linden avenue and Grove street, by James Lewis. The fire broke out in a bed room at the home of F. W. Grant, corner of Grove street and Park place, and the damage will be about $200, which is covered by insurance. The department responded exceedingly quick and by the use of two extinguishers the fire was put out.

It is the opinion of Chief Fairchild that the fire was caused by the presence of mice. The fire broke out in two places and this seems to substantiate the theory offered by Mr. Fairchild.

When the alarm came into the engine house the box number showed up all right on the register, but as the wires are disconnected with the bell, the latter did not ring. Thomas McGrnn, Jr, was in the house at the time and he climbed to the top of the tower where with a hammer he struck the box number on the bell. The cause for this is due to the fact that the bell is being shifted from its old position from one side to the centre of the tower, and when the arrangement is completed the tapper will strike the bell at a further distance from the edge. This will increase the volume of the sound. The bell has been shifted and men are busy today arranging the tapper.

Pastor to Be Installed Tonight.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping-Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. It was a startling array of thespians that descended upon Somerville last night and pre-empted the boards at the Town Hall, where 300 people witnessed the first production of "The Mountain Waif," in which Miss Bertha Clum made her professional debut. The company returned to this city last night, the actors and actresses being mostly from here. W. R. Mattox is manager of the company. A chicken hawk made lots of excitement for the boys of East Fourth street, Sunday afternoon. The bird was after some of the neighbors' chickens when he flew against one of the houses and fell to the ground stunned. Four little colored boys and one little white boy saw him fall and they hurried to the spot intending to capture the bird. But the bird did not intend to be captured. One of the little fellows started to pick up the hawk but he let go faster than he expected. The bird wasn't dead and the lads soon found out that fact. Passersby saw the fight and stopped to watch it. The boys tried herd to get hold of the hawk but the hawk fiercely fluttered his wings and used his bill to such effect that the boys were kept guessing. At last, the bird soared away and perched in a tree near by while the lads began to hurl missiles in an effort to knock him out. One brick went to close for comfort of the hawk and he flew away.

In connection with the revival of the agitation for a marriage license law, it has been discovered that New Jersey was one of the first states in the Union to enact a marriage license law. The experiment was tried for 80 or more years, and the forefathers and the grandmothers of the present generation of Jerseymen were united in marriage not only by a license, but they had to file a bond to guarantee their neighbors that all the conditions were proper and there was no danger of a public shock. The story that New Jersey is the modern Gretna Green is always revived whenever the legislature convenes, because of the perennial agitation for a marriage license law. Jersey marriages are of the assorted kind, and some of the Jersey brides and grooms and frequently of the freak order. There are many people in New Jersey who deeply feel that the State is scandalized by the 4,000 or more foreign marriages in the State every year.

THE ARIZONA KICKER

THE PUBLIC INVITED TO TAKE A POP AT THE EDITOR.

A Fair Warning to Cowboys Who Shoot Out City Hall Window Panes—Base Canard Concerning Captain Kennedy Circulated by a Miserable Contemporary.

During our absence for three days last week the weather bureau was in the hands of our horse editor, and we apologize for the mistakes he made. The gentleman knows all about horses and has got the mule down to a fine point, but he is lame on meteorology. He predicted rain, and no rain came. He predicted dry weather, and we had a flood. He saw only gentle zephyrs for Wednesday, whereas it blew a gale all day. Some 20 different citizens, all having reason to be indignant, hunted for the horse editor with guns in their hands, but he had wisely taken refuge in the suburbs. We are sorry that he didn't do better, and if it will console any one to come around and have a pop at us we can be found at almost any hour.

Fair Warning to All.

The panes of glass which were shot out of the city hall windows by Colonel Early's cowboys one day last week have been restored, and his honor the mayor, who is ourself, hereby gives fair warning to all cowboys, teamsters or any other class that the next man who pops at those windows will find somebody popping away at him. We don't object to the boys having fun and indulging in pistol practice to their heart's content, but a line must be drawn somewhere, and we draw it at public property. The front doors of the hall are provided with iron knobs. Any critter sober enough to shoot can stand and bang away at those knobs by the hour, and no one will interfere with him, but the windows are a different thing. Copies of this notice will be sent to all ranches for 20 miles around, and we hope the warning conveyed will be heeded by all.

A Base Canard.

The story floating around town to the effect that Captain Kennedy, a late arrival from the east, was a horse thief who had to cut sticks from Indiana is a base canard and should be trampled under foot by every respectable person. The other day, when the captain came to this office to subscribe for The Kicker, he referred to the scarlet and produced documents to prove his character. Instead of stealing a horse, he drove off and sold three cows which he supposed belonged to an estate in which he had an interest. He was not chased out of the state; but, being all ready to go, he happened to take a train just ahead of the sheriff. He didn't come here as a skulk from justice, but to see if the pure air wouldn't help his catarrh. He will remain for several weeks yet unless the Indiana officers come along and get his identity mixed up. And we bespeak for him the courtesy and good will of all our people. The day he arrived in town he was asked to subscribe to the miserable apology issued by the bow legged critter down the street, and his refusal to do so probably set this vile calumny afloat. We are glad that it is in our power to put this matter right with the public.

As a Private Citizen.

Our esteemed contemporary has a column article this week pitching into us because we attended the dog fight at the rink last Saturday evening. Yes, we were there, and we are happy to say that we had $10 on the winning dog. We did not attend the soiree as the editor of The Kicker, as mayor or as postmaster, but as a private citizen. As editor and proprietor of a newspaper we are expected to take a drink with the boys and sit down to a game of poker now and then, but as mayor and postmaster we are obliged to assume and preserve a certain dignity. This the boys perfectly understand and take in a good natured way. Those who saw us at the dog fight understood that we had left our dignity of position behind us for an hour and had come to see the fracas the same as any other individual in the audience.

A New Arrival.

Among the late arrivals in this town is a critter calling himself the San Sebastian Terror, and for the last week he has gone about flourishing his guns and picking his teeth with a big bowie knife and putting on a heap of style. We have been told that he is down on us as editor of The Kicker, as mayor of the town and as an individual and has more than once announced his intention to make us eat grass. We don't know where San Sebastian is located, nor just how tall this terror is when at home, but we have a word of caution to give. This is no town for him. It is too small and too quiet, and the altitude is bad for the chap who works his chin. We have a vigilance committee here, and we personally know that the executive committee has its eye upon this stranger. If he goes out of the terror business in the course of a day or two or sees fit to hunt for some other atmosphere, he will escape a sore throat. If he hangs on and continues his chin music, he will surely be invited to a necktie social within a week, and when the party breaks up he won't know the way home. Should he meanwhile have any curiosity to see if we are loaded, he is cordially invited to call around. M. QUAD.

Mrs. Eugene Runyon visited her sister, Mrs. Isaac Harris, on East Sixth street, Sunday.

Miss Alice Haden, of South Dearfield, Mass., is visiting Mrs. A. J. Whitney, on Fifth avenue.

Fred Hock, of Somerville, has been the quest of Joseph Maier, at the Park Hotel, for a day or two.

Miss Pauline Williams visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Peter Williams, of Warrenville, over Sunday.

E. Vance, of the old New Market road, is very ill at his home suffering from congestion of the lungs.

Mrs. Francis Kline, of Clinton, Hunterdon county, is visiting her brother, Whitfield Dunham, on Front street.

Pastor Rev. A. I. Martine conducted services, both morning and evening, in the Presbyterian church, Sunday.

John Fisher, of this place, entered the Plainfield Business College, last evening, for a practical course of of business training.

The regular M. E. church sociable will be held at the residence of Mrs. Emily Apgar, on Front street, Thursday night. There will be both vocal and instrumental music, followed by refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Griggs returned yesterday from a ten days stay at the Forrest Home, Easton, Pa. Mr. Griggs is a travelling salesman for a New York house, and he insists upon his wife accompaning him on his trips. They will start within a few days for a trip to Boston to be gone a fortnight.

Rev. S. F. Custard, pastor of the M. E church, who has been ailing for some time past from rheumatism and other ailments, was taken suddenly ill in his pulpit while delivering his discourse Sunday morning. His illness, was, however, of secondary consideration to the reverend gentleman, who insisted on completing his sermon, which he did.

The bazaar and dance in aid of St. John's church, which is to be held in the new town hall, this evening, bids fair to be a grand financial success. The ladies in charge have been exerting themselves to sell tickets and in this respect they have been very successful. Before noon of yesterday nearly enough tickets had been disposed of to insure the financial success of the undertaking, and today the ladies of the church and their friends have been kept busy getting the hall in readiness.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

A private euchre party composed of Plainfield and Fanwood people made merry at Blimm's hotel Saturday evening and the supper that followed was not over until midnight.

James Boyle, formerly manager of the Berckley Heights stone crusher and now employed in the American Engine Works in Bound Brook, will return to the Plains today.

George Vanderbilt, who nearly cut one of his feet off while chopping wood for John Bowman on the mountain, two weeks ago, is recovering and was able to hobble out yesterday.

Judge Clark is talking of getting up a fishing party this week and going up to Feltville. With a little energy and an axe to cut the ice the Judge thinks plenty of fish could be obtained.

While finishing up the laborious work of taking an inventory of the stock of the late James A. Baker, yesterday, Andrew Love, Sr., was taken suddenly ill. He recovered sufficiently however, to enable the work to proceed.

The main road leading from the village to Fanwood is being repaired with crushed stone. A year or so ago cracked stone was spread over the surface for a width of about ten feet and now a top dressing is being put on. Each side of the macadam, however, the road is in a most deplorable condition and it is considered dangerous for teamsters who are often obliged to turn out.

AVON PARK.

Ellis Campbell held a family reunion at his home on Sunday and a number of his relatives were present for the occasion.

Edward Campbell, Stillman Randolph and Frank Hale went raccoon hunting last Friday evening up in the Dark Lane. They at last found one and captured him in a tree. The 'coon was put in a bag and brought down to Campbell's house where the animal was transferred to a cage. While this was being done, Randolph was bitten twice through the thumb by the 'coon. The 'coon will be run next Saturday afternoon.

A Smart Footman.

A lady had issued invitations for a party of 12, and on the morning of the appointed day, when conferring with the footman, she discovered that 1 of the 12 silver shells in which scalloped oysters were to be served had been misplaced. Rigid search for the missing article having proved unavailing, the lady decided that sooner than give up that particular course she would simply decline oysters when they were handed her, and so the 11 shells would be sufficient.

It happened that when the oysters were served at dinner the hostess was engaged in a very animated conversation with one or two of her neighbors, and forgetting her determination took one of the shells of oysters and set it before herself.

If the servant's heart fell in consternation at this, he gave no external sign of it, but, speaking in tones distinct though low, said respectfully:

"Excuse me, madam, but you said I was to remind you that the doctor forbade you eating oysters."—Tit-Bits.

The Colonel's Observation.

"I'm afraid," remarked Colonel Stillwell's friend, "that I have a touch of malaria."

"That's very bad," replied the colonel sympathetically.

"It's a most disagreeable malady."

"Yes. The only thing that I can possibly think of in favuh of malaria is the fact that whisky is considered a good medicine foh it."—Washington Star.

Exposure to Disease

Does not necessarily mean the contraction of disease provided the system is in a vigorous condition, with the blood pure and all the organs in healthy action. When in such a condition contagion is readily resisted and the disease germs can find no lodgement. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine to build up the system because it makes pure, rich blood, and pure blood is the basis of good health. In cold weather is especially necessary to keep up the health tone because the body is subject to greater exposure and more liable to disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the safeguard to health.

A DECADENT RACE.

Perhaps It Would Be More Just to Call the Spanish Backward.

A Land of Big Possibilities—To Let Cuba Go and Put More Money Into Industries Would Pay the Dons.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

Madrid, Dec. 23.—If, instead of raising a thousand million pesetas to prosecute in Cuba a war which every don of them all knows to be hopeless, the Spaniards were to turn their attention to the development of their own country, they might yet make of it a great, rich and powerful nation. It might be, in the better sense, "a land of to-morrow."

A strange phenomenon of these end-of-the-century times is the readiness with which people of culture, catching at a phrase, brand themselves and each other as "degenerates" or "decadents," even grouping entire nations under the opprobrious phrase. No one is more ready to apply the word to his own people than a traveled Spaniard, and no toilers with the pen have ever given a more discouraging picture of their own people than have modern Spanish realists like Valdes. They may be too pessimistic. It may be more seasonable, as well as more cheerful, to look upon the Spaniards as a splendid race with undeveloped possiblities than as a decadent people.

It is easy enough to recognize upon the streets of any Spanish city the types depicted by the realists; the irrascible old don, buried in impenetrable pride in his worthless self; the slender, pale young man whose mission in life is to finger a guitar; the hosts of petty officials, and the men with hard, cruel faces who bear in their weary eyes all the cynicism of centuries of backsliding. One even catches glimpses of the women of the novels busy with the intolerably petty details of small gossip. But it would be as absurd to judge Spain by such types as to judge the United States by the city corner loafer. I know not what gloomy impression of America's future might be drawn by a foreign student of Tenderloin types in New York or a glance at certain of our periodicals.

The typical Spaniard is not a loafer, but a man who keeps hard at work from dawn to dark. That his work is not more productive is partly at least the fault of about the worst government conceivable. There are several Spanish provinces in which good tobacco can be raised. In a single one of these the government has recently shown its paternal care of industry by uprooting 4,000,000 grown plants. To raise tobacco in Spain is forbidden in order that the government may get money for its pressing necessities from the import duties on Havana. Without good roads, good schools or good tools the Spanish farmer produces wonderful results. Andalusia is more uniformly cultivated than any part of Great Britain. More than any other European nation, except Russia, Spain is a land of farmers. Her people in the country are like French peasants, hardy, frugal, content with little and willing to work. They carry nearly all their supplies on muleback, even in level and populous districts where wagon roads might easily be built or improved; they use wooden plows of a noble Roman pattern, which scratch the soil without turning it; but they do work. Their beef and mutton are excellent. Fruit of many kinds is raised, there are extensive plantations of olives for oil and grapes for wine, and, except in the matter of timber, the country has plenty of resources to develop.

Where development is taking place, it is largely with English capital. The finest sherry is produced on property owned by Englishmen, just as Englishmen control much of the wine production of Portugal. The mines at Huelva are owned and run by Englishmen. The railroads are partly owned by English capitalists. If the haughty dons were to put their pesetas into additional railroads and into improving those already built; into improving harbors at Cadiz and elsewhere; into factories and schools and modern farm implements—the nation might be far better off than it is with Cuba. It ought to be as possible for Spain to make up as it was for Italy, decadent enough 50 years ago; or Japan, which seemed as dead as Nineveh as recently as 1870.

To a strong people anything is possible, and the Spaniards are strong. There are advantages, after all, in being an agricultural folk. Great Britain has abandoned farming for mining and manufacturing to such an extent that the typical Englishman—not the rich man, but he who works with his hands—is rather small, pale and undersized, a dweller in cities. The rural Irishman is much bigger, as the records of enlistments in the queen's army show. The typical Spaniard is rather like the Irishman, robust-looking and well grown, a dweller in the open air. But the rich Spaniard of the town will not compare favorably in physique with the splendid big Britons who are the product of centuries of plentiful food and exercise.

In England, the rich man is big and strong and lives outdoors, while the little, poor man breathes coal dust or cotton lint under cover. In Spain the poor man is big and strong and lives out of doors, while the rich man is pale and slight. In both countries it is the rich man that one mostly reads about, and the corner loafer who is most visible, but it is the workingman who really counts.

Even in the south, where intermarriage with the Moors was most frequent and the sun is hottest, the Spaniards are not all of the dark and sallow type. Many of the most beautiful women of Andalusia have reddish-brown hair. In Castile, as American readers will remember in the case of the Spanish Infanta Eulalia, pure blond types are common, especially in the aristocratic families. The Gallegons, of the north, the hardy mountaineers who alone in all Spain were never conquered by the Moors, and who, under Pelayo, began the reconquest of the country, are a pretty pure Celtic race, comparable to the Welsh or highland Scotch in their traits. The mixture of Visigoths and Celts, Romans and Moors, of blue eyed folk and black-eyed, is not a bad one. The Moorish strain, after 777 years of the conquest and occupation, must have been considerable, just as traces of Spanish blood are seen on the African side of the strait. The pure-bred Moor, even now, is no darker than are many Englishmen. "Othello" on the stage needs no burnt cork to be true to the life.

The war in Cuba impoverishes Spain in another way than by diverting capital from industry. The draft of her country boys into the army leaves women to till the fields, to act as crossing tenders on the railways, and to do other hard or unusual work. For 1,500 pesetas—scarcely more than $225, as the Spanish notes have depreciated—the recruit may buy release from the service. The corner lounger of the city, who never would be missed, can generally raise the money, or claim some sort of exception. The country boy, who can be ill spared, cannot get money and is less shrewd at framing excuses. It is a half-grown lot of cubs, ill-trained and ill-armed, who are sent to die in Cuba.

TYPES OF SPANISH PEASANTS.

Whoever wants to see what Spanish soldiers are like physically should see a garrison regiment at drill, or gather impressions of the splendid Guardias Civiles, than whom no finer body of men can anywhere be found. And whoever wants to see the Spanish character and the Spanish country at their best should not judge them by the squalor and destitution in sight from Gibraltar rock or from the limping and blear-eyed beggars who dog the tourist, but get out among the real people. He will find them polite and kindly, not so reserved as Englishmen, as merry as the French, honest and reliable. He will find, if American, not one trace of bitterness of feeling toward him on that ground. He will find a somewhat inordinate national pride, which will serve its possessors well if it can be made an incentive for them to bestir themselves.

Out of this great national crisis good may come for Spain. It may be that the loss of Cuba will sting Spain into getting along better without her. The national debt is not as heavy in proportion as Italy's, and the natural resources of the country are probably greater. There is recognition of this fact by Spaniards. There is a project afoot for developing a new port near Cadiz where ships can lie at wharves instead of being loaded from small boats. It would cost millions, but that is a trifle compared with a war of ignominy like that now raging.

More railroads are imperatively needed, and the existing lines should be double tracked. It is rather absurd that between Madrid and Cadiz, capital and chief Atlantic port of the kingdom, express trains run in either direction only every other day. Experimental farms and agricultural colleges like those of the United States would do Spain a world of good by familiarizing her people with the use of modern machinery and with better methods of tillage. All this would cost not more than the government could easily spare.

But this brings us face to face with the fact that, more than all else, Spain needs something which she has not had for many years—a decent government. How to get that is, after all, the great problem.

CREMATION POPULAR.

Incineration Is Being Looked Upon with More Favor.

The New Method of Disposing of the Dead Is Commonly Employed in New York—Cost of the Process.

Cremation, as a means of disposing of the bodies of the dead, when first tried in New York state, on December 4, 1885, attracted a great deal of attention, and there was also considerable discussion as to the relative merits of the new method as compared to the usual custom of underground burial. Many people were superstitious regarding incineration. People were at first loath to give consent to this disposition of the bodies of their friends and relatives. Those who favored the new method urged its adoption, giving as their reason for the change that it was cleaner, cheaper, and did away with the necessity for elaborate funerals. It was also urged that the incineration of bodies of persons who had died from contagious diseases would lessen the dangers of contagion and would be the safest way in which to dispose of such bodies. On the other hand, the fear of burial alive caused some strongly to advocate incineration.

As an aid to the adoption of the new method, indorsements were secured from ministers and from others, in which they said there was nothing unscriptural in disposing of the dead by means of fire, and advocating the method as more cleanly than burial.

The first incineration in this state was at the New York Fresh Pond crematory, on Long Island, facing the Lutheran cemetery, just north of Fresh Pond station and the Long Island railroad. This was on December 4, 1885. Since that time, despite assertions by some to the contrary, incineration has grown in popularity, and it is said that there is an increase of 50 incinerations a year. The number of cremations at Fresh Pond up to the beginning of the present year is given as 1,881. Of this number 1,213 bodies were those of men, 98 of boys, 496 of women, and 73 were the bodies of girls. Thirty-five dollars is charged for the incineration of a body. This charge is only for the mere consuming of the body by means of heat, the body being placed in an airtight compartment of an immense furnace. Enough ashes are left to fill a small-sized urn. It takes several hours to dispose of a body, after which the ashes are collected and placed in an urn which has previously been purchased. Often the ashes are taken away by friends, and at other times they are deposited in alcoves in the walls of the columbarium where the body has been incinerated. By the request of friends endeavoring to carry out the peculiar wishes of the departed, the ashes are often taken and thrown to the four winds.

There is a charge for the door which is placed in front of the niche. The urns may be bought for from $9.50 up to $45, while the niche in the wall costs from $15 to $25, according to its location in the wall. To the cost of the incineration, which is $35, must be added the cost of the urn for the ashes and the niche for the reception of the urn. When the body is borne to the columbarium in carriages there is extra charge, according to the number of carriages brought into service. With this method there is no necessity for the purchase of a burial lot, although many people bury the ashes. The maximum cost for incineration, including the purchase of an urn, the leasing of a niche to receive the urn, the door of the niche, and all expenses, not including the hire of carriages, need not exceed $125, or $150 at most.—N. Y. Tribune.

LARGE EATERS.

Much Food Is Not Necessary to Good Health.

Large eaters are generally deficient in activity and endurance. I used to know one who tried hard to be a Christian, but failed because of too much dinner. That man was a curiosity. He worked in a small wood-turning shop and ate five times a day. When he consulted me about his "poor stomach" I told him flatly that he was a pig. He replied: "You are mistaken; I am faint half the time, and have to eat extra meals to keep up my strength." I went at him with fact and physiology. At length he was convinced, and promised me that he would follow my prescription, which was this: Take but two meals a day. * * * In 15 days his faintness had disappeared and he rapidly recovered. To-day he is a healthy, active man, and a warm advocate of two meals a day, and moderate ones.

Temperate people with good digestion never feel their stomachs—forget they have stomachs—while these big eaters are always hungry, faint or bloated, troubled with eructations, acidity, diarrhea or some other unhappy condition of the digestive apparatus.

Persons having a good stomach to begin with can, by practice, learn to digest an enormous quantity of food. If they give their whole force and vitality to this business of grinding grist they can, in the course of even a short life, grind through immense quantities. But the wiser, the more human way, is to find out just how much food is needed to run the machine, exactly what fuel will keep the system at the best working point, and never pass these bounds.

For years the author had eaten three hearty meals a day. At length, upon a careful consideration of the physiology of digestion, he thought he was probably using too much of his force in that function. He reduced to two meals a day. He cannot express what freedom in mental and bodily activity he experienced. Men with large heads and well-made bodies sometimes consume so much of their nerve force in digestion that they have nothing left with which to achieve those triumphs that otherwise would be easy to them.—Dio Lewis, M. D., in Journal of Hygiene.

FOOD STRENGTH.

IT COMES FROM THE RIGHT FOOD PROPERLY DIGESTED.

Food strength is natural strength. It is new strength; created strength. That is, it is not stimulation.

The real strength of your body is your constitutional strength, your reserve strength. It is the result of eating proper food and digesting it.

Eating food does no good at all; rather harm—unless it is digested. So that everything narrows itself down to one proposition: How is your digestion?

One person in three of us have indigestion in some form or another. It is not really a disease, but a condition; a condition which may become serious.

We all wish to be strong, and we might all become so if we digested our food. The loss of your strength is a serious matter. It may be the beginning of a dangerous disease. It may mean that you cannot go on with your work.

Shaker Digestive Cordial is an aid to digestion. It is a strength maker. It makes your food nourish you. It makes you strong. It relieves at once all the symptoms of acute dyspepsia, tones up the system and creates flesh, energy and strength. Taken regularly it will permanently cure indigestion and make the weak, thin, irritable, nervous dyspeptic, strong, fat, hearty and well again.

A 10 cent bottle will show you what it will do.

Sold by druggist at 10, 25, 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle.

Delicate Dress Goods.

J. W. Corcoran Wins His Suit for Violation of the Mileage Book Law.

Watertown, N. Y., Jan. 19.—In the supreme court here yesterday a verdict for $50 was rendered in favor of J. W. Corcoran of this city against the New York Central Railroad company as the penalty prescribed for violation of the mileage book law. Mr. Corcoran owned a mileage book. The company has a regulation requiring the coupons to be torn out of the book and exchanged for tickets before the passenger enters a train. Mr. Corcoran found the ticket office closed and boarded a train, offering his coupons to the conductor, who refused them and demanded the fare. Mr. Corcoran, upon refusing to pay, was put off the train. Mr. Corcoran has another suit against the railroad for $2,000 for personal damages which has been put over to the next term of court.

YALE'S TAXES.

Main Grounds of the Appeal Against Increased Valuation of Property.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 19.—The two main grounds of Yale university's appeal against the increase of valuation of its taxable property are the general law exempting all the property of universities used for educational purposes from taxation and the statement that in law as well as in fact they are exempt from taxation, as formal notice was not given in writing of the increased taxation. Little importance is attached to the second and technical specification in the appeal. The case will be heard by the board of relief in a few days. The increased valuation of Yale's taxable property placed it at over $439,000 while it had been for years only $58,000, increasing the taxes of Yale from about $1,000 to about $8,000.

AGAIN SENTENCED TO DEATH.

Wife Murderer Youngs Threatens To Commit Suicide.

Fonda, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Justice Stover has resentenced William Youngs, the Fort Hunter wife murderer, to death during the week beginning March 8. The prisoner is in a very nervous state and threatens to commit suicide. He says he has no fear of electrocution, but does not want an autopsy to be made on his body.

Illinois Senatorship.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 19.—Failing to nominate a candidate for United States senator the republican caucus, after taking two ballots, adjourned until this evening. William Mason developed the greatest strength, but never was nearer than seventeen votes of the nomination. The last ballot stood: Mason, 45; Lorimer, 40; Hitt, 16; Hopkins, 6; Carr, 6; Allerton, 1; Adams, 1, Cannon, 11. The adjournment of the caucus is conceded to be in the interest of the anti-Mason forces. The democratic caucus nominated Altgeld.

Palmer was sentenced to state prison for life and Savage for six years. Both boys appeared calm when sentenced.

TILLMAN LIQUOR LAW

The Famous Dispensary Measure Null and Void in Part.

DECISION OF U. S. SUPREME COURT

The Clause Prohibiting Citizens from Importing into the State Liquor for Their Own Use Is Against the Constitution.

Washington, Jan. 19.—The supreme court of the United States has just rendered a decision that the famous dispensary law of South Carolina, at least so far as it attempted to prevent a citizen of the state from importing into the commonwealth liquors for his own use, was in violation of the interstate commerce clause of the federal constitution, and therefore null and void. The opinion of the court was prepared by Justice Shiras, but in his absence, owing to indisposition, its conclusions were announced by Chief Justice Fuller. The cases at the bar were begun in the federal court for South Carolina by James Donald, a citizen of that state, upon the seizure of a case of California claret, six bottles of Maryland whiskey and a barrel of Rochester, N. Y., beer, by state constables, acting under the provisions of the dispensary law, directing the seizure of all liquors in the hands of any common carrier, agent or private citizen, not sold by the state agent, whether imported or otherwise. The trial court gave Donald judgment for $300 in each case, and the constables appealed. The cases were argued last fall, the validity of the entire law being brought into question. The opinion of the supreme court conceded that the legislature of the state passed the law in what it believed to be the exercise of its police power and with no intention to interfere with the operation of any federal law or to discriminate against the products of any other state, but that intention, it continued, could not finally control the determination of the effect of the law.

PROCEEDINGS IN CONGRESS.

Nicaraguan Canal Bill the Unfinished Business in the Senate To-day.

Washington, Jan. 19.—The Nicaraguan canal bill is the unfinished business in the senate to-day. There are still several speeches to be made upon it, but, although the friends of the measure profess themselves to be hopeful of its passage and say that they intend to force a vote upon it as soon as possible, its opponents appear to be very confident in their assertion that they have secured enough of votes to defeat it without trouble. In the senate Mr. Peffer presented a memorial from his state proposing that the power of the supreme court shall be so limited as to require the court, in case of an intended decision against the constitutionality of an act of congress, to furnish congress with an advance copy of its decision, as in the case of a presidential veto, so that congress may have the right, by a two-thirds vote, to affirm the constitutionality of the act. Senator Murphy's bill for a new customs house building in New York has been reported back favorably and placed on the calendar. The present customs house site is to be used and the limit of cost is to be five million dollars. The bill to provide for a representation of the United States by commissioners at any international monetary conference was introduced and is to be taken up this afternoon without reference to a committee. The army appropriation bill, appropriating over $23,000,000, was passed without question or remark.

House of Representatives.

The house spent the day in consideration of miscellaneous matters, business of the District of Columbia occupying the greater portion of the session. Aside from these measures of local interest, the following bills were passed: To prohibit and punish the sale of liquors to Indians over whom the interior department exercises guardianship; extending for two years the time of the completion of Kansas, Oklahoma, & Western railroad through the Indian territory and Oklahoma; amending the patent laws, along the lines proposed by the American Bar association, to give to the United States the benefit of the devices patented by naval officers; authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Rio Grand at El Paso, Tex., also of a bridge across the Monongahela from Braddock to Mifflin, Pa.

Fourth Class Postmasters.

Washington, Jan. 19.—The following fourth-class postmasters have been appointed: Delaware—J. J. Brown, Brownsville; H. Masten, jr., Masten. New Jersey—S. M. Ware, Maurice town. Pennsylvania—J. Schlag, Bakerstown; N. N. Graham, Dora; W. Baehman, Grill; B. E. Osborn, Rasselas.

For Pure Beer.

Albany, Jan. 19.—Senator Coggeshall of Oneida will introduce a pure beer bill. Its main object is to cause brewers to use more hops than they now do. The provisions of the bill are not unlike numerous other bills which have been heretofore discussed and have the same object in view. Senator Coggeshall is hopeful of its passage.

Altoona, Pa., Public Building.

Washington, Jan. 19.—The senate committee on public buildings and grounds has reported favorably a bill authorizing the erection of public buildings at Altoona, Pa., at a cost not exceeding $125,000.

Death of Henry J. Yates.

WHIST.

The Park Club Whist team have again distinguished themselves as about the best players in New Jersey. Last night they went to Roseville to play the team of that place in the series for the challenge trophy offered by the Park's. At the end of the regular play the score was 11 to 11. Ten extra boards were played to break the tie and the Park's won by a score of 4 to 1. The members of the Roseville team were: Messrs. Hegeman, Wycoff, Hurd and Abbott. The Park's were the "Big Four," Messrs. Rogers, McCutchen, Howell and Townsend. The Princeton Professors Club will play in the series in this city next Monday.

The fourteenth match of the season for the American Whist League challenge trophy was played in Boston, Saturday, between the American Whist Club of Boston, holders, and the Albany Whist Club, challengers. The usual forty-eight deals were played, the Albany club winning by a score of 20 tricks to 16 tricks. This match was looked forward to as probably one of the closest of the season, the Albany team having been second to the New Yorks in the struggle for the trophy at the last congress, defeating nineteen other clubs. The Albany club has held the trophy three timee, winning from the Park Club of Plainfield, the Brooklyn Whist Club and the Continentals of New York. The club lost twice, once to the Continentals and once to the Capital Bicycle Club of Washington.

BASKET BALL.

The basket ball team from the business men's class in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium of Plainfield will soon meet other teams besides their antagonists of Plainfield. Games are now being arranged with the business men of Elizabeth and the Elizabeth Athletic Club. Other contests will probably be played later in the season.

The Elizabeth Athletic Club now sports a basket ball team. They haven't played anybody yet but they expect to wipe up the floor with their opponents who ever they happen to be. Their first game will be with the Y M. C. A, team from Elizabeth and then they are going to try to come to Plainfield and see if the Plainfield boys can play. There are lots of candidates for the team amongst whom are many well-known football players of the club. They have not killed anybody yet but there is no telling what they will do after they once get started.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Christy bicycle saddle is handled this year, as usual, by Rogers, of North avenue. It is the only saddle built on purely anatomical principles, and is made of metal which is firm and will not strain. To enjoy cycling you should have your bike fitted with one.

Death of Mrs. Martine.

Anna N. Martine, the wife of Rev. A. I. Martine, pastor of the Presbyterian church, at Dunellen, died at her home in Dunellen, this morning. She was forty-one years of age, and was well-known in this city where she was often in close relationship with the people through the Local Christian Endeavor Union. The funeral services will be held in the Dunellen Presbyterian church on Friday afternoon at 2:54 o'clock. Interment at Flemington on Saturday.

ances for adoption, which were referred by the Council of 1895 to the present Council. The first one provided for the regulation of bicycles and vehicles as to speed and set the pace at ten miles an hour. This was adopted and ordered engrossed and advertised. The other ordinance was in regard to the placing of lamps on all kinds of vehicles as on bicycles. Mr. Barrows thought that the ordinance was too sweeping, and that it would be impossible to strictly enforce it. He was willing to have it include public veicles, coupe and two horse wagons. Mr. Frost was practically of the same opinion, and he said that he did not like to interfere with free trade. Mr. Serrell was of the opinion that something was needed, as the day was soon coming when people would be using rubber tires on their wagons. Mr. Westphal could see no good season why such an ordinance should be adopted. He said that in the winter time it began to get dark as early as 4 o'clock and that was just the time when the business men would be very busy, and he thought that it would not be right to enforce such an ordinance, even if it was possible. The ordinance was finally referred to the committee that presented it, and they were instructed to confer with the Corporation Counsel regarding the matter.

The last ordinance presented referred to the carting of ashes, rubbish, etc., in suitable carts, and for every violation a fine of $10 was attached. The ordinance was finally amended so as to include only ashes and the fine was made $5. It was then adopted and ordered engrossed and advertised.

Mr. Frost asked the Council to give the streets and sewer committee a special appropriation of $1,000 to provide for the work until the regular appropriation was made. The request was granted.

The consideration of a form of bond as recommended at the last meeting was laid over until the next meeting.

In accordance with a recommendation, Mr. Barrows moved that the furniture and fixtures in the office of the tax collector be purchased at a cost not to exceed $50, and it was so ordered.

There being no further business the Council then adjourned.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured in 3 Days

Morton L. Hill, of Lebanon, Ind., says: "My wife had Inflammatory Rheumatism in every muscle and joint, her suffering was terrible and her body and face were swollen almost beyond recognition; had been in bed for six weeks and had eight physicians but received no benefit until she tried the Mystic Cure for Rheumatism. It gave immediate relief and she was able to walk about in three days. I am sure it saved her life." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, cor. Park and North avenue, Plainfield.

JIM WAS THE MAN.

He Was the Very Guide For Record Breaking Hunters.

After the two hunters from the city had superintended the unloading of enough traps and baggage of all descriptions to equip an expedition into the heart of Africa they hunted up the proprietor of the little backwoods tavern to ask about a guide.

"We want to put in about two weeks in the woods," they explained, "and we want a good man for a guide. Of course, there are guides to be had here."

"Lots of 'em," answered the proprietor. "You kin git all kinds of guides here."

"Well, we want the best that can be had for money, and we don't care what it costs," said one of the hunters.

"There's two or three kinds of beasts in this business," returned the proprietor, "and it all depends on what line you want. There's Bill, f'r instance. He probably knows more about these here woods in a minute than any one else does in a week. He kin take you to more onfrequented places an hustle you round faster than any other feller in this secsion."

"Just the man for us," said the spokesman of the two. "Where is he?"

"Then there's Hank," continued the proprietor, without noticing the question. "I s'pose he knows more about the game an the best way to git it than any man who ever lived in these parts. He kin gin'rally scare up something when nobody else kin."

"Then he's the man for us," said the spokesman. "We came from the city to make a record."

"Make a record?" repeated the proprietor.

"That's it exactly. We want to make a record in the hunting line that we can boast of when we go back."

The proprietor went over and sized up their pile of baggage, including everything that was latest in the way of hunter's equipment.

"You don't want Bill, nor yet Hank," he said at last. "I'll send for Jim. He's the man for you."

"What's Jim's special qualification?" they asked.

"Why, he's the best liar in this state," replied the proprietor. "If you can't make a record with him, there ain't no use tryin for it with any one else. At first I thought you was jest up here for the huntin, an I was goin on that basis, but I kin fit you out to bust records jest as easy, if that's what you're after."—Chicago Post.

SPORT ON THE DIAMOND

PROSPECT OF A LIVELY BASEBALL SEASON FOR PLAINFIELD.

A Semi-Professional League to be Composed of Teams From New Jersey Towns—B. A. Mulford Interested In It.

The work of forming a New Jersey State base ball league has been steadily progressing but it was not until lately that any announcement of the league was made and then it was rather indefinite, especially to Plainfield enthusiasts, but now some facts have been learned concerning this city's share in the league.

Pat Powers, of Trenton, and Ted Sullivan, of Washington, D. C., have been the prime movers in the scheme and they are assured that the league will be successfully carried out.

The league will consist of six clubs: Plainfield, Trenton, Millville, Elizabeth, New Brunswick and Bridgeton. It is thought that with a short circuit and not much travelling expenses the league will be a financial success. There are several other cities that are anxious to get into the league but the plan of the promoters is to stick to the original number, six, and make no change unless one of the present teams should drop out.

Of course the formation of the local team is of the greatest interest to the Plainfield cranks. At present it is impossible to learn the names of the men that will compose the Plainfield team, but it will be under the same management as the nine from the Plainfield Athletic Club was last year. B. A. Mumford, manager of last year's team, will resume his old position this year and look out for the fortunes of Plainfield in the New Jersey State League. He has not yet announced the players that he has signed, but he expects to make public the details of the proposed league shortly, and The Press will give the information as soon as it is announced.

The nine which Mr. Mumford managed last year was known as the Plainfield Athletic Club, but this year the name will be changed as another organization in the West End has already been incorporated under that title.

TIME TO MOVE.

This Fact Was Demonstrated by the Funeral of Joe Bangs.

I was looking over my mail on the steps of the village postoffice, when the postmaster called my attention to a curious looking procession coming up the street and said it was the funeral of Joe Bangs, who had been blown to pieces in a boiler explosion the day before. A lonesome looking, lame mule, with a box strapped on his back, headed the procession, and following after in single file came a tall, bony framed woman, three barefooted children, a yellow dog and a tame bear. They were about opposite us when a man ran out of a saloon near by and held up his hand for them to come to a standstill.

"Waal, I'll be dawg goned!" ejaculated the postmaster as he caught sight of the man's face. "It's old Joe Bangs hisself!"

We ran over to find out what it all meant and got there just in time to hear Mr. Bangs say to the woman:

"Whar be yo' critters a-makin fur?"

"W-why—why," she stammered, turning pale and leaning against the mule for support, "ain't yo' blowed up, paw?"

"Blowed up nuthin!" he snapped. "Why hain't yo' to hum workin 'stead o' prancin round like this?"

"Why, yo' see, Joe," explained the postmaster as the woman tried to speak and couldn't, "when the biler o' Smith's thrashin masheen busted yisterday and we couldn't find yo', we reckoned yo'd busted too. This ar' yo'r funeral, and in that soap box on the mewl's back ar' all that's left of sum critter we s'posed wuz yo'."

"My funeral, eh?" queried Bangs as he looked the unique cortege over. "Whar's the mayor that he hain't headin the show?"

"He wuz too busy to turn out, Joe."

"Why ain't the town band in that line a-playin dead marches?"

"Most of 'em laid up with the ager, Joe, and couldn't cum."

"But look a-yere," continued the man who wasn't blown up in aggrieved tones, "why hain't the town draped in mournin and the flags at half mast?"

The postmaster scratched his head, looked around appealingly at the others to explain this question if they could and finally backed out of the crowd.

"Yo' folks make tracks fur hum and begin packin up," said Bangs, turning to his family.

And as they started up the road, leading the mule, he walked over, kicked the yellow dog a couple of times in the side, threw a club at the bear and before leaving to join the family turned on the crowd and said:

"No, Joe Banks hain't blowed up, drat yo'r hides, and he's mighty glad o' it. If this ar' the best yo' critters kin do in the funeral line, then he's goin to make tracks to sum town whar thar'll at least be a tinhorn in the purceshun a-follerin his karkass to the buryin ground."

And at sundown the town knew Joe Bangs no more.—A. B. Lewis in Truth.

WE SAID!

In announcing our great "Retiring Sale" that it would be the greatest Business Event in the history of Plainfield, but we had no idea that it was going to be such an avalanche as it proved to be.

Christmas crowds were no comparison to the immense throngs of last Saturday and Monday, the two first days of the sale.

Considering the fact that it was merely announced in two papers only one day before, and in the dull season of the year, the demonstration was a perfect marvel in merchandising. The delivery department was completely overwhelmed, and kept busy up to 10 o'clock at night.

The immense attendance upon this sale, and the many expressions of regret at Edsall's retiring from the Commercial Palace, evidences the continued popularity of this house, and the manifest confidence of the people in its integrity and honest dealings.

Everything all through the various departments sells fast.

Everybody seems delighted with the extremely low prices.

The sale is regarded by everybody as a boon to those who wish to make a little money go a good ways.

Come in as early in the morning as you can.

We have on an extra large force of salespeople, but in the afternoon the rush is so great that it is almost impossible to avoid delay.

A PASTOR INSTALLED.

REV. A. C. NICKERSON NOW IN CHARGE OF ALL SOULS.

The Services Held Last Evening in the Church—Principal Sermon Delivered by Rev. S. A. Eliot, of Brooklyn.

The installation of Rev. A. C. Nickerson, as pastor of All Souls' church, took place, last evening, in the presence of a large and interested audience. The new pastor was installed and introduced to his people with all of the favorable omens one could desire, and he was received with kindly expressions of welcome.

The service was opened with an invocation by Rev. Frank S. C. Wicks, of Passaic, which was followed with Scripture reading by A. H. Howe, of Westfield. A hymn, composed by Rev. Robert Collyer, of New York, was then sung by the congregation, after which the sermon was preached by Rev. Samuel A. Eliot, pastor of the Church of Our Saviour, Brooklyn. The reverend read the thirteenth chapter of Second Kings, and his text was "The Arrow of the Lord's Deliverance."

His discourse was based on the words of Elisha, the prophet, in telling Josaih, King of Israel, to smite the arrows upon the ground, and the prophet was much displeased because the king did not smite them five or six times, instead of thrice, and thus consume the Syrians. Mr. Eliot then spoke in part as follows:

"Every healthy life has visions of great ambitions as it shoots forth the arrow of life purpose, but like the King of Israel we think that we can get along with half trying, and the result is failure when it might have been victory. The persistence of right purpose is lacking. How often people with lofty purposes and ambitions allow these ideals to become degraded, or yield to vain skepticism.

"There is very little value in a half-hearted religion. We are not Christians because we admire Christianity, nor we cannot become musicians by applauding some grand rendition of a selection of music.

"A woman will take a Sunday-school class, but because the hour is inconvenient or the work becomes tiresome, she wants to give it up. She smites thrice and the arrow is sent in vain. A man with the ambition of a preacher takes up that work, but as he progresses he meets with little response and his energies slacken. He grows careless and omits a sentence from his sermon, then a paragraph, and finally a page, until he begins to write that which is not true. I pray that in this church the power to begin and continue may always be with you.

"Christ once said, 'Wist ye not that I must be about My Father's business.' In that sentence is to be found the great secret of consecration and success. When a man is chosen to be a co-worker of the Most High, he has received a calling to a very high position, and the call must not be slighted."

After the singing of a hymn which was written for a former installation of Mr. Nickerson, prayer was offered by the Rev. D. W. Morehouse, secretary of the Unitarian Conference, of New York city. The right hand of fellowship was given by Rev. George H. Badger, of Rutherford, Essex county, who spoke somewhat as follows:

"My friend and brother, I extend to you a greeting on behalf of New Jersey, for I am glad that you have come among us. You will find that this State is not in all respects like New England. There are three good points on which I wish to speak. Firstly, there is a delightful discovery that the best things of New England are not confined within her borders, for the old continent is full of them. Secondly, the people of intelligence will be able to understand you when you answer their questions regarding Emerson or Browning. Lastly, there will be that delightful experience when you go back to visit New England and the mecca of our faith. It is then that you will have a home-sickness for New Jersey.

"I trust that before long this church will be crowded with liberal thinkers, but Unitarianism work in this locality is not of the rapid sort. You are not here to fight, but to stand. Be consecrated and dead in earnest. I extend to you the hand of fellowship in this your work which is ours also."

The charge to the new pastor was delivered by the Rev. Stephen H. Camp, of the Third Unitarian Society, of Brooklyn. A portion of his remarks were af follows:

"There is something solemn in charging another man. However, my charge is the chapter read this evening by Mr. Eliot. That chapter expresses just exactly what I have in my mind.

GOOD MANNERS A DUTY.

UNITARIAN LIBERAL WOMEN DISCUSS THE SUBJECT OF ETIQUETTE.

The Theme Considered in All its Various Phases and Many Interesting and Terse Observations Were Developed.

The Plainfield Branch Alliance of Unitarian and Other Liberal Christian Women met in the parlors of All Souls church yesterday afternoon and discussed the subject of "Good Manners," with all of its various side issues. Mrs. Florence Howe Hall presided and led the discussion, which was very interesting to the goodly number present.

The first point introduced was "Courteous Manners a Christian Duty," and it was held that it was an absolute necessity. A person that was not courteous could hardly be called a true Christian. Unconscious insolence of conscious wealth was thought to be a good definition of some people's position who thought that they must gain position in an assertive manner.

One woman thought that English people of a high rank exhibited a greater degree of simplicity than was to be found in Americans. Along the line of good manners in the home several excellent suggestions were offered. One person thought that the golden rule was a good precept to follow, and to say the kindest things in the most polite and kind way. Another good point made was that it is very hard to practice good manners in the home, and especially was this true of boys.

The thought as to how far it was best for a parent to reason with a child was quite generally discussed. Mrs. Hall was of the opinion that nowadays there was a republic in the home instead of a monarchy. This she thought should not be so.

Under the head of good manners at church, Mrs. Hall said that grown-up people do not as a rule have to be called to account for their actions, while many children do. The question was asked if people should stop after church and talk, regardless of all church propriety, just as soon as the benediction was pronounced? The reply was that in some churches it was allowed while in others it was not, but at the same time it was considered rude if a person did not speak and was not cordial.

The next issue was good manners in the street and in public conveyances. It was remarked by one woman that of late she had been troubled a great deal by persons who persisted in taking two seats where they were only entitled to one and she thought that they must be foreigners. Another woman wanted to know if all the people who travel on the ferry boats were foreigners. The same person thought that someone should write to the railroad company and ask them to protect the rights of women.

The many excellent points regarding good manners in society was thoroughly discussed. It was held to be a rare talent to be able to say the right word in the right place, and it certainly required a great deal of tact.

Regarding the fact that some women are "not at home," when their friends call, it was stated, that it was not the right thing to do. A woman could very easily meet her friends and then be excused if she wanted to.

A person who would say that they were delighted to see anyone, when they were not, was considered to be very ill-bred.

This about ended the discussion for the afternoon and the members all felt as though they had spent a most profitable time considering matters of great importance.

STATE OFFICERS STAY IN

THE LEGISLATURE RE-ELECTS COMPTROLLER AND TREASURER.

The Bicyclists Will Have Great Influence in the House When Important Bills Favoring Wheelmen Come up.

The Legislature at noon yesterday in joint meeting, re-elected William S. Hancock, of Trenton, as State Comptroller and George B. Swain, of Newark, as State Treasurer. The compliment was the greater because there was no caucus held to renominate them formally. The only opposition came from the three Democratic Senators and four Assemblymen, who voted for James Smith, the City Treasurer of Hoboken, for State Treasurer, and for Abel Herring, of Frenchtown, Hunterdon county, for Comptroller. After the joint meeting the Legislature adjourned for the week, and Comptroller Hancock and Treasurer Swain entertained the Senators and Members at luncheon.

Mr. Righter of Morris county introduced in the House resolutions of sympathy with the Cuban insurgents, and they were referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

Mr. Scovel of Camden offered a resolution, which was adopted, requesting the New Jersey Congressmen to vote for the bill increasing the pay of letter carriers.

The Senate passed Ketcham's bill permitting Supreme Court Justices to sit alone at the trial of murder cases in first-class counties. It was amended so as to apply to all counties.

In the House Mr. Wildes of Burlington introduced a bill providing that the salary of every State officer, excepting the Governor, Supreme Court Justices, and the Chancellor, who receives a salary of over $2,500 a year, shall be reduced one-half, providing that no such salary shall be reduced below $2,500 a year.

Mr. Goldenhorn of Hudson has introduced an amendment to the Ballot Reform law. It provides for a blanket ballot, that no more than two ballots be given to each voter, for absolute personal registration, that voters must reside for thirty days before election within the precinct in which they claim a right to vote, and that the polls shall close at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and it permits no distribution of ballots outside the polling booth.

The Gledhill bill, requiring railroad companies to transport bicycles for passengers as personal baggage and without charge, is giving the companies great concern. There are said to be thirty-two members of the League of American Wheelmen in the house, and the league and its officers and members will push the bill. Petitions are to be circulated in every county urging the Senators and members to vote for the bill, and the representatives of the companies realize that sentiment will favor its passage. They are casting about in an effort to secure a modification that will not be so burdensome to the companies as the measure now before the House. The companies don't want to carry bicycles free under all circumstances, and they do not think that they should be answerable for damages in cases of accidents, particularly as the bill provides that the owner may not be compelled to remove the lantern and other attachments before checking his machine.

Yesterday afternoon ten Republican Senators called upon Gov. Griggs in the interest of Senator Stokes of Cumberland, whom they want to succeed Henry C. Kelsey as Secretary of State. The Governor was non-committal, but the Senators were led to believe that Senator Stokes would not be appointed. None of them would talk about the interview.

Against the Liquor Traffic.

The petitions being circulated by the W. C. T. U. for the purpose of getting signers who are against the granting of liquor licenses by the City Council, are meeting with good success. A large number of business men have placed their names to the papers. At the Mt. Olive Baptist church last Sunday there were a great many signers.

THE HOLY ROMAN EMPIRE

ITS POSITION AS A VITAL FORCE IN MODERN HISTORY.

James F. Riggs Delivers the Second of His University Extension Lectures, and is Filled With Instructive Points.

"The Holy Roman Empire" was the subject of the university extension lecture delivered last night by Dr. James F. Riggs in the chapel of the Crescent Auenue Presbyterian church. This lecture was the second in the course on "Vital Forces in Modern History," and was very largely attended.

A dream may possess a mighty potency for good or for evil, said Dr. Riggs in beginning his lecture. A force that no longer exists may be a strong factor, if men imagine that it is so still. The true Roman Empire died a violent death, at the end of the classical period, but its ghost haunted Europe for centuries.

In modern Europe the enormous living power of Imperialism, of the notion of an imperial government as distinguished from the regal, is due to the strange romance known as the "Holy Roman Empire." This is a subject which has been much misunderstood. It does not mean the German Empire, which was not organized until 1871, and is an entirely different affair, and one which ought to be wholly disconnected with mediaeval history.

The Roman Republic, threatened with danger from three sources, the Goths, the demagogues and the servile population, in despair of saving the state by their united efforts, chose one man, the Imperator, to be their representative, and stand at the helm of the distracted nation. The success of the experiment was wonderful, some of the results being peace, prosperity, commerce, arts, education, Christianity. Even after the corruption at the centre became atrocious the extremities of the empire felt the same beneficent influences. The Emperor was not the representative of the aristocracy, or ruling by divine right; he was the people's appointed representative, and carried a new idea of responsibility.

Troubles came, the framework of civilization broke down in part, yet men assumed as a necessary truth that there must be an Emperor somewhere. Hence for centuries the problem of political life was merely "which of the claimants is really our chosen Lord and ruler?" The Byzantine Empire, and the claims represented in Constantinople were very largely acknowledged from the fall of Rome to the accession of the Empress Irene (476-792). But the putting of imperial power into the hands of a woman occasioned discontent in the West, and there was trouble from that time. Ecclesiastical controversy arose; the claims of the Papacy were such that the Greek leaders could not submit, and there was a gap that grew wider with each century of progress.

There was room for a great civil and military leader in the west, and such a champion soon appeared, in Charlemagne. His military exploits extended the boundaries of the Empire, but his dream of making it universal, putting an end to all wars, jealousies, and other hurtful forms of rivaly, would have required an unbroken line of genius, a succession of men each of whom should be a giant of intellectual and moral vigor.

From the time of Charlemagne to our own times, the history of the "Holy Roman Empire" is a very complex and difficult subject. But some few salient facts may be noted. First, there was a large and deadly struggle with the Popes, in which the Papal Power gained steadily, and the Empire was stripped of a large part of its glory. Second, there was a long struggle with the newly-organized kingdoms of modern Europe, in which the National idea grew stronger and the Imperial idea weaker. In 1804 the last trace of the old theory was wiped out by the act of Francis II, who, being compelled by Napoleon, relinquished the venerable shadow of the Roman claim, and assumed an entirely different title. But while this act terminated the old legend, yet the prime notion of imperialism, of a power quite different from kingship, and carrying a new sense of responsibility before God and man, has taken firm root in the statecraft of Europe, as one of the vital forces of modern history.

WAS DIVORCED BY DEATH

A HIGHER POWER SETTLED THE CASE OF MRS. JENNIE WELLS.

She Came East to the Final Taking of Testimony Only to Learn That Her Husband Was Accidentally Killed.

A divorce suit in which the principal persons interested were former residents of this city was brought to a sudden ending several weeks ago, and the plaintiff in the case secured her divorce, but in a way that she did not expect.

About six months ago proceedings were begun by Mrs. Jennie V. Wells, formerly of this place, through her counsel, City Judge DeMeza, before Chancellor McGill, at Jersey City, to obtain an absolute divorce from her husband, Robert C. Wells. The grounds for the divorce were stated to be be desertion. According to the story of the plaintiff in the case, her husband had suddenly left her and never returned. He had made no effort to support her, and was heard from in various party of the country where he was supposed to be leading a fast life. Both husband and wife were wealthy in their own names.

Chancellor McGill referred the taking of the testimony in regard to the matter to Judge Atwater, of Elizabeth.

Mrs. Wells, who travels considerably, came east on being notified by her counsel that the final testimony in the matter would be taken. When she arrived at City Judge DeMeza's office, two weeks ago, she learned that all cause for divorce had been removed and that her husband had met his death only a few days before. He was going to Atlantic City and was passing from one car to another while the train was in motion, when he fell or was blown off the platform and dashed to pieces on the stones of the roadbed. He was horribly multilated in the accident. On learning of the death of her husband, Mrs. Wells returned to the west and is now stopping at Los Angeles.

Of course, this put an end to all attempts to get a divorce but the legal forms must be gone through with and, on Monday, City Judge DeMeza will make application to Chancellor McGill for a dismissal of the suit of his client.

THE POWER TO LIFT ONE UP.

REV. NEWELL'S REVIVAL THOUGHTS.

David's Experience in the Care of Adullam Commented On.

The union revival service held at the First Baptist church last evening was one of the best of the series. The sermon was delivered by Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, who took for his text a portion of the thirteenth verse of the ninth chapter of Matthew which reads "For I Came Not to call the Righteous, but Sinness to Repentance." The main thoughts of the discourse were expressed as follows:

"Scripture tells us that when David was in the Cave of Adullam he was sought by slaves, debtors and other fugitives from justice. The fact that he did not descend to their level, but raished them to his own standing, was a fine tribute to David's greatness and goodness. The result of this was that the coward became brave, the ignorant in war became a skillful soldier, and the dishonest became honest, so that the people among whose flocks and herds he lived and roamed declared that he was a rock and defense to them.

"How much more striking an example to help is that afforded by our Lord. If you notice the parables you will see that particular stress is laid on the one sheep that went astray, the one piece of money that was lost, and the one son that wandered away. This is illustrated by showing how good a shepherd it was that went after the one sheep, how good a housekeeper it was that searched until the piece of money was found, and what a loving father it was that sought his son. So Christ when he comes to you seems not so much interested in the ninety-nine good qualities as he does in the fact of saving you from your one weakness. You cannot truly recognize Christ as your Saviour unless you see Him as coming to help you wherein you are deficient."

Tomorrow evening the service will be in charge of Dr. Barnes, who will preach. This evening each church will hold its own prayer service.

A Cold Tumble.

Arthur Murphy, of Washington avenue, came to grief while skating on Hyde's mill pond, yesterday afternoon. He was following the hockey punk over the thin ice when the ice gave way beneath him and he fell into the ice cold water up to his neck.

It was P. W. McDough not P. H McDough, who was elected recording secretary of the A. O. H., as recently announced in the Press.

SEANCE OVER TWO DESKS

JUDGE MOORE AND LAWYER HETFIELD HAVE A HOT TIME.

The Lawyer Was Aggravated Because Mr. Moore Would Not Give Up the Desks—More Legal Action to Follow.

For over two hours yesterday afternoon, from 4 to 6 o'clock, the business office in the factory of the Climax Stopper Works on East Fourth street was the scene of aseance in which Judge Chas. K. Moore, formerly deputy commissioner of the street cleaning department of New York, under Col. Waring, and now the manager of the Climax Company, and Counselor Walter Hetfield, of this city, were the principal mediums, although there were many incidental spirits concerned in the manifestations that were exciting in the extreme.

The things that caused words, gestures, witnesses, policeman, and involved details yet to develop, were two harmless roller top desks. The desks were brought to the factory by Geo. H. Cobb when he took possession of the business a year ago, and when he retired some months ago they remained in the building for the want of a place to take them. Then the owner of the factory, C. T. Nightingale, commenced its operation under the direction of Judge Moore. The desks were put to use by Mr. Moore and his stenographer, when a short time afterwards Lawyer Hetfield made a demand for them in the name of the George B. Cobb Company.

Mr. Moore declined to give up the desks, claiming that no legal papers had been served upon him. Just as emphatically Mr. Hetfield claims to the contrary.

The dallying about the matter has served to aggravate Lawyer Hetfield and yesterday afternoon the climax, or rather one of them, for more are to follow, came.

Lawyer Hetfield engaged Al. Hoagland, the cartman, to go to the factory and cart away the desks. Mr. Hetfield sent his son, Walter, Jr., to act as his representative in the proceedings and make the demand of Judge Moore. About 3 o'clock the Hoagland dray, with seven men aboard, backed up in front of the Climax factory and young Hetfield notified Mr. Moore that he had come to cart the desks away and would he please facilitate matters by taking therefrom his papers and other articles.

But the Judge failed to facilitate, and instead quietly but forcibly informed the young man that he had no authority to remove the desks.

The son notified Lawyer Hetfield of Judge Moore's action and immediately the lawyer wended his way to the factory, accompanied by the son. Lawyer Hetfield's dander was up and when he greeted the Judge he was in no mood to be trifled with. Of course, the latter was not aware of the exact state of Mr. Hetfield's mind and he did trifle with the lawyer.

Mr. Moore avers that the lawyer made his appearance with altogether too much gusto to exactly suit his ideas of what were proper, and peremptorily demanded the desks. The Judge gave him very much the same reply as he had given his son a short time before—to effect that unless he displayed the papers and documents to verify his statement that he had a replevin, he could not have the desks. This statement seemed to roil the lawyer still more and then Mr. Moore says that the former used words more expressive than they were elegant. This, the Judge says, was followed by more abuse and the lawyer grabbing a handful of papers from one of the desks and throwing them promiscuously aside with the remark that the desks did not belong there and that they were being used against the authority of the owners.

Then, Mr. Moore says, Hetfield ordered his son to pull down the tops of the desks. Mr. Moore says that he put an arm on each desk in such a manner as the tops could not be closed without using physical force against him, but the tops were pulled down just as far as the Judge's arms would permit.

One word followed another from the lawyer and when a lull ensued the Judge chimed in in a most suave manner and aggravated the lawyer still more by his apparent good nature and refusal to take Mr. Hetfield seriously.

Finally, the Judge ordered Mr. Hetfield and his son from the building, but they refused to budge. Then Mr. Moore sent for a policeman and called John C. Noe and C. H. Wilcox, two employes of the factory, to act as witnesses of further proceedings. Here is a statement that these two men signed this morning as hearing Lawyer Hetfield address to Mr. Moore:

"You are a blackguard and are

WEYLER IN THE FIELD

The Spanish General Again Leads His Army in Person.

PRESENT WHEREABOUTS UNKNOWN

Incomplete Details Received of an Attack by the Insurgents on the Towns of Tapaste and Placetas.

Havana, Jan. 20.—The whereabouts of Captain General Weyler, who yesterday accompanied by his staff started for the field, is unknown. The general took a carriage from the palace to the outskirts of the city, where he mounted a horse and rode in the direction of San Jose de las Lajas, to the southeast of Havana. He was escorted by several regiments of calvary and a body guard of negro troops recently drafted into the service. The newspapers here now give incomplete details of an attack made by the rebels upon Tapaste, province of Havana. The fight occurred on January 10, and the fact that the news of the engagement has been so long suppressed is taken to indicate a Spanish defeat. The newspapers state, under government permission, that when the insurgents attacked the town the residents took refuge in a church. The Spanish defended the place for four hours until the rebels retired. No mention is made of losses on either side. Further details are at hand of the recent rebel attack upon Placetas, in the province of Santa Clara. The rebels entered the town from different directions. They crossed the line of forts and attacked several houses. Later there was fierce fighting in the streets, which lasted for three hours, when the rebels left the town. The insurgents left six of their number dead in the streets. The garrison had sixteen men wounded. One woman resident was killed and three male citizens and a child were wounded. Nineteen persons in the town have been arrested on the charge of having been implicated in the attack.

TO PROTECT NEW YORK.

Proposed Bill for the Fortification of Romer Shoals in the Harbor.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Representative Fischer of New York has evolved a plan which, in his opinion, will make New York city safe from the attack of a hostile fleet. He believes that if three revolving turrets be placed on Romer shoals in New York harbor and properly manned and armed they can effectually prevent the passage through the main ship channel of heavy draft men-of-war. Romer shoals are now a menace to navigation. They cover an area of thirty-three acres in extent and are more than six feet under water at the lowest point. They are ten miles from New York city and if two acres were properly fortified and provided with high power guns it would be impossible for either light or heavy draft men-of-war to approach sufficiently near the city to effect any damage. Mr. Fischer will this afternoon introduce a bill with this object in view.

In Honor of Admiral Beardslee.

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 20.—Interviews with officers of the British gunboat Pheasant, here from San Francisco, reveal the fact that orders have been received to have the British war vessels Pheasant, Comus and Imperieuse rendezvous here about Feb. 24 to participate in a big water carnival to be held in the bay of San Diego in honor of Rear-Admiral Beardslee, United States navy, commander of the north Pacific squadron, who will retire from the navy on that date.

Hobart's Washington Residence.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Vice-President Hobart has leased for four years the palatial residence of A. L. Barber. SINKING OF THE ALVENA.

The Handsome Steamer Breaking to Pieces and Will Be a Total Loss.

New York, Jan. 20.—As the result of a collision in the lower bay yesterday afternoon the Atlas line steamer Alvena now lies on the bottom of the Sandy Hook bar, her upper deck entirely submerged, a big gaping hole in her port side aft and in danger of pounding to pieces should the wind shift to the east. The Alvena was bound for Haytian ports. She had only two cabin passengers, a crew of about thirty-five men and a miscellaneous cargo of merchandise. She was in charge of Capt. Ioe and pilot James Devere. It was a beautiful clear day. The handsome craft had reached a point off Sandy Hook light, when the steamer British Queen, from Antwerp, was seen making for the channel. Both vessels were under a fair head of steam, and their course clearly visible to those on board each vessel. Through a mistake of signals and during great excitement they came together with a resounding crash, just as they reached the junction of the Gedney and Swash channels. A big hole was stove in the Alvena's side and the water rushed through the aperature like a torrent The sailors of the Alvena made for the life boats, tore off the coverings and prepared to launch them. The captain, at once seeing the danger of the vessel going to the bottom, ordered all steam on and headed the ship for the bar and landed her safely on the sandy bottom in twenty feet of water. The distance to the bar from where the collision occurred is about a quarter of a mile. The Alvena covered it in quick time, but not a second too soon. The fears of the crew and the two passengers were partially allayed when the ship reached the bar, and efforts were immediately made to save what personal belongings it were possible to reach. The British Queen stood by, but her assistance was not required as a half dozen or more craft in the vicinity at the time of the crash rushed to the Alvena's side, and all on board were saved. There is considerable wreckage about the vessel this morning, indicating that the action of the water is tearing the vessel to pieces.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Speaker Reed Counsels Enconomy in the Appropriations Asked.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Several weeks ago a petition signed by 306 members of the house was presented to Speaker Reed asking that forty-three public building bills now on the house calendar should be permitted to come up for consideration. Yesterday a committee of five called at the speaker's room to learn what conclusion the latter had reached respecting these measures. It was explained to the speaker that the bills in question had been reported at two different times and that it was desired at present to consider only the first batch of twenty-three, some of which, with the appropriations, are as follows: Jamestown, N. Y., $100,000; Altoona, Pa., $125,000; Elmira, N. Y., $150,000; Plymouth, Mass., $75,000; Wilkesbarra, Pa., $150,000; Norwick, Conn., $100,000; Fitchburg, Mass., $100,000; New York city, $500,000. The speaker referred to the deficit in the treasury and impressed the committee with the fact that congress should practice the most rigid economy in all its expenditures until at least the condition of the treasury would warrant a greater outlay. He is reported to have been favorably impressed by the arguments presented by the committee, and they believe that their request for a day will be granted.

The Ohio Senatorship.

New York, Jan. 20.—Gov. Bushnell of Ohio, in an interview with a reporter of the United Associated Presses, says he will take no action one way or the other towards the selection of a successor for senatorial honors in place of Senator Sherman until the resignation of the latter is in his hands He denies a published statement that because of the large expenses attached to the calling of the legislature together in special session to elect a United States senator he will resort to his appointing power. He declares that the expense is comparatively small, as the members of the legislature are paid by the year.

Newark Public Building.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Secretary Carlisle has recommended an additional appropriation of $60,000 for the purchase of land adjoining the new public building at Newark, N. J., in order to provide the usual fire limit of forty feet and for the enlargement of the building when necessary. This would increase the limit of cost of the building from $650,000 to $716,000.

Ex-Gov. Morton Leaves Washington.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Ex-Vice-President Morton, who was in Washington yesterday, occupying a seat in the senate gallery in the afternoon and afterward paying his respects to Vice-President Stevenson and Speaker Reed, returned to New York last night. Mr. Morton has leased his residence here to Congressman Sprague of Boston.

Bill To Prevent "Treating."

Albany, Jan. 20.—Senator Humphrey has introduced a bill to discourge the drink habit and to prevent treating. Treating or offering to treat to any intoxicating drink where such is sold is declared a misdemeanor, punishable by $5 fine for the first offense and imprisonment for the second offense for not less than five days nor more than twenty.

Against Capital Punishment.

Hartford, Jan. 20.—A bill has been presented in the senate by Senator Tuttle of New Haven repealing the law providing capital punishment for murder and substituting life imprisonment with solitary confinement.

THE PEACE TREATY

Reference to It in the British Parliament Cheered.

REMARKS OF PREMIER SALISBURY

The Agreement Might Not Restrain a Napoleon or a Bismarck, Nevertheless, He Hoped it Would Diminish the Risks of War.

London, Jan. 20.—There was an unusually large attendance of peers at the opening of the house of lords last evening. The lately appointed Archbishop of Canterbury and the recently created Bishop of London took the prescribed oath as members of the upper chamber. The Prince of Wales and Duke of Cambridge occupied a cross bench and the galleries were filled with the wives and daughters of peers. United States Ambassador Bayard and Mrs. Bayard occupied seats in the diplomatic gallery. After the lord chancellor had read the speech from the throne, the customary address in reply to the speech was moved by the Marquis of Bath. In the course of his remarks Prime Minister Salisbury referred to the Anglo-American arbitration treaty. He said he could not speak fully on the subject because the agreement had not yet been ratified. Still, he would say that the people must not think that they were living in the millenial dispensation. He hoped, however, that something would be done to diminish the risks of war, He would not say that the treaty would remove the greatest risks of war or restrain a Napoleon or a Bismarck, but the policy with the United States was full of infinite number of small differences, which, sometimes exaggerated, caused irritation and enmity. The formation of a tribunal of arbitration whould settle these differences, would prevent such, and stop the two nations who understand each other so well that unless they are friends they are almost certain to be enemies.. Lord Salisbury pictured the nations groaning under excessive armaments, and declared that the government believed the measure they had taken was valuable in that it would lead to the gradual disappearance of vast armaments before the growth of the tendency to substitute judicial decisons for the coarse arbitrament of war. This would be something to look back upon. In conclusion, Lord Salisbury said: "I hope that the effort, small as it is, will be so successful that others more successful and extensive will be made." The prime minister was heartily cheered when he finished his speech. The address in reply to the queen's speech was then adopted and the house adjourned.

House of Commons.

The benches of the house of commons were crowded with members and the galleries were packed with privileged spectators. After the queen's speech had been read by the speaker, Viscount Folkestone moved the address in reply to the speech from the throne. Sir William Harcourt said that the most important, as well as the most satisfactory, statement contained in the queen's speech was the reference made to the relations between Great Britain and the United States. He heartily congratulated the government upon the conclusion of the differences regarding Venezuela and gave them unstinted praise for the general arbitration treaty which was recently signed by the British ambassador at Washington and the American secretary of state. Sir William, continuing his remarks, said that there could not be a better celebration of the sixtieth year of her majesty's reign than that her government should be among the first of the nations to set the example of setting differences by arbitration. His remarks were received with cheers. The Right Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury and government leader in the house, also made a speech, in which he spoke of the Anglo-American arbitration treaty in terms similar to those employed by Prime Minister Salisbury in the house of lords, and his references to the subject were greeted with cheers.

Treaties with the United States.

The queen in her address refers to the treaty with the United States as follows: "My government have discussed with the United States as a friend of Venezuela the terms under which the pending questions of a disputed frontier between that republic and British Guiana may be equitably submitted to arbitration. An arrangement has been arrived at with that government which will, I trust, effect an adjustment of the controversies without exposing to risk the interests of any colonists who have established rights in the disputed territory. It is with much gratification that I have concluded a treaty for general arbitration with the president of the United States, by which I trust that all differences that may arise between us will be peacefully adjusted. I hope that this arrangement may have further value in commending to other powers the consideration of the principle by which the danger of war may be notably abated."

Constipation

Causes fully half the sickness in the world. It retains the digested food too long in the bowels and produces biliousness, torpid liver, indigestion, bad taste, coated tongue, sick headache, insomnia, etc. Hood's Pills cure constipation and all its results, easily and thoroughly. 25c. All druggists. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. The only Pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills

do you eat iron

Some persons are always taking iron. If weak and easily exhausted; pale and without appetite; if the nervous system is weak, and sleep difficult, what do you take? Iron? But iron cannot supply food to the tissues; nor does it have any power to change the activity of unhealthy organs and bring them back to health. Cod-liver oil is what you need. The oil feeds the poorly-nourished tissues, and makes rich blood. Iodine, bromine, and other ingredients, which form part of the oil, have special power to alter unhealthy action.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is the most palatable way to take cod-liver oil. The hypophosphites supply healthy nerve action, which controls all the processes of life.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

By the man who says "nit" when he really means "not,"
And who thinks "there are others" is smart.

Relentless the coveted method must be
Of quelling this wit, ready made,
Who sees an example of fine repartee

ANCIENT ADVERTISEMENTS.

They Were Written on House Walls in Spaces Called Albums.

When some enterprising Greek or Roman merchant of old first whitened a portion of the wall of his house and on this album, as it was called, rudely scratched the symbols of his trade he little dreamed it to be the dim foreshadowing of miles upon miles of pictorial advertisements, first produced in the interest of commerce, but destined to come so close to art as to attract more than passing notice from the esthetic connoisseur and collector, says Lippincott's.

Yet from the very earliest times some sort of public advertising was felt to be a necessity. Thus we read of notices in the first days of the children of Israel being posted in the high places of the cities—proclamations, generally, of kings and prophets, inscribed on parchment; and papyri more than 3,000 years old have been exhumed from the ruins of ancient Thebes on which are written descriptions of runaway slaves and the rewards offered for their return.

Another heathen mode of attracting attention was to hang on the statues of the infernal deities, within the temenos of the temples, sheets of lead bearing curses and prayers of vengeance against those persons who had stolen goods or otherwise injured the advertiser, the evil to be deprecated only in case of the restitution of the property. A collection of such imprecations that was discovered in the temple of Demeter at Onidus in 1858 may be seen in the second vase-room of the British museum.

JOKES BY SPORTSMEN.

Tricks That Hunters Play on One Another in the Woods.

Sportsmen like to play tricks on one another. Some of the jokes are older than the hills, but always ready for service, says the New York Sun. A dead deer braced up against the side of a tree has more than once been a mark for pounds of lead. Eight men once shot their repeating rifles at such a deer, some 60 shots being fired at it before it fell. The joyful hunters, on going to it, found that the beast had been dressed and that 45 bullets had gone through it. Hunters sometimes doctor the shells of their mates, putting in double charges of powder and taking out the shot. Firing pins are extracted and putty ones substituted. Buckshot is substituted for 8s, and the amazement of a hunter when he finds how the 8s bunched, as he supposes, and tore a woodcock half in two is the sport that comes from it. Rifle shells are filled half with powder, half with red pepper. The powder drives the bullet after a deer and burns the pepper. Unlimited sneezing follows.

False trails made by a man with bear-foot moccasins in the snow have led many a tenderfoot over weary miles only to end in a man's trail at some log where the bear's feet could be taken off. It sometimes happens that a pack of fox dogs are led on a drag trail when the dog followers thing it is a live fox's.

Peculiar Aversions.

Most people have aversions of some kind or other, and some have strange ones. The sight of a set of false teeth makes John L. Sullivan sick at the stomach. Napoleon did not like to see a white dog. Agassiz could not bear to touch polished steel. The sight of the rising moon, when it was full, always made Mme. De Stael ill. Barefooted children made Louis XIV. nervous. Dean Swift has said that Bolingbroke would "act like one bereft should he cast his eye on a poor, harmless toade." Disraeli had an attack of vertigo when he saw anyone chewing gum. Dickens never liked a stiff shirt bosom, and Buffon would fly into a rage if anyone put an egg on the dining table at which he sat.

Don't Like Poorhouses.

There is such a deep-rooted dislike among paupers in Ireland to enter the workhouse that in the county of Antrim, for instance, there are only 1,000 persons in six workhouses that have room for 5,000.

Animals Are Left-Handed.

Somebody has found out that animals are left-handed, if the expression may be used about creatures that have no hands. Several different zoologists have noticed this condition. Parrots take objects preferably with the left claw, the lion strikes with the left paw and so competent an authority as Dr. Livingstone, the African explorer, asserted that in his opinion all animals are left-handed.

FEDERAL PATRONAGE

A Representative of Senator-elect Platt Visits Major McKinley.

NEW YORK APPOINTMENTS DISCUSSED

Hopes That No One Will Be Given a Place Who Will Interfere in the Work of the Organization.

Canton, O., Jan. 20.—The New York republican organization, in the person of Edward Lauterbach, called on Major McKinley yesterday afternoon and explained the wishes and purposes of the New York republicans who are followers of Mr. Platt. Mr. Lauterbach said the organization desired harmony and hoped the federal appointments would not be objectionable. "We don't expect to ask for any one's appointment," said Mr. Lauterbach, "but we trust no one will be appointed who will interfere in the work of the organization or be a source of annoyance to it." "What about the cabinet?" was asked. "New York will, in my opinion," said Mr. Lauterbach, "have a representative in Major McKinley's cabinet. Of course I do not know who will receive the honor. We discussed several men, all of whom would be very acceptable. Among them were Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, Benjamin F. Tracy, J. Sloat Fassett and Congressman Payne. Mr. Platt is not and will not be a candidate for the cabinet. He has been suggested as a possible secretary of the treasury, but I know he is satisfied with his present position and wants to retain it." Mr. Lauterbach's interview with Major McKinley was a formal one and he did most of the talking, he says. W. J. Arkell, Hamilton the cartoonist and Abner McKinkley were among the callers on the president-elect during the day.

PROCEEDINGS IN CONGRESS.

Turpie Severely Attacks the Nicaraguan Canal Bill—Pension Bills in the House.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Among the important matters in the senate to-day are the Nicaraguan canal bill, which is the unfinished business, and upon which Senator Turpie is to continue his speech; the remainder of the legislative appropriation bill, and Senator Pettigrew's resolution relating to the boundary line between Venezuela and British Guiana. So far as delivered, Mr. Turpie's speech upon the Nicaraguan canal bill is an attack upon the measure and in denunciation of the Maritime Canal company of Nicaragua, which he characterized as a "beggar and pariah in any rational financial system," and totally discredited in this and every other country. The legislative appropriation bill is completed, with the exception of the provision in relation to the library of congress. Senator Morgan's resolution as to the Pacific railroad companies' default is sheived for the present. Mr. Hill spoke for an hour and a half on a joint resolution relating to electric subways in the district of Columbia. While it may appear to be a matter of purely local interest, Mr. Hill said, his contention was that it was a fight between the United States Electric Light company, which he referred to as the "old monopoly," and the Potomac Electric Light company, owned chiefly in New York, whose money and property, legally invested in the District of Columbia, the joint resolution would confiscate. For this reason it was of national importance, as it would set a precedent for the confiscation of other property owned in various states, but located in the District. The matter went over without action.

House of Representatives.

The house spent the whole day in committee of the whole considering private pension bills. Favorable action was taken on fifty-two of them, one being the senate bill to increase to $100 a month the pension of Maj.-Gen. Julius H. Stahel.

For an International Coin.

Washington, Jan. 20.—O. W. Stone of Pennsylvania, from the committee on coinage, weights and measures, has reported to the house his resolution authorizing preliminary proceedings looking to the adoption of an international coin. He says that the one thing to be sought is one international unit—a common denominator of value so fully recognized and accepted by all commercial nations that all values in international transactions, all statistical statements and market quotations shall be expressed in its terms.

For Navy Yard Improvement.

Washington, Jan. 20.—The secretary of the navy will send an estimate to congress this afternoon asking for $64,000 to repair the League Island navy yard dock. Also for $20,047 for a causeway across the back channel at the same yard, the latter estimate having been submitted annually for the past ten years.

Bubonic Plague at Hamburg.

London, Jan. 20.—A dispatch to the Central News from Hamburg says that the steamer Pierrie, from Bombay, has arrived there with her mate dead and seven of her crew sick. It is suspected that the sickness aboard of her is the plague, and the vessel has been placed in quarantine.

Canal Contract Awarded.

Albany, Jan. 20.—Superintendent George W. Aldridge of the state department of public works has awarded the contract for improving 17.16 miles of the Erie canal between locks 61 and 62, western division, to Grannis & O'Connor of Syracuse for $217,119.

FOR BETTER ROADS.

In the annual report of Henry I. Budd, Commissioner of Public Roads, presented to the Legislature he suggested that the annual appropriation should be increased from $100,000 to $300,000. This sum, he says, would give each county every year a healthy mileage, the taxation to meet which would not be burdensome, probably not more on the average than one-eighth per cent on the ratables, and would result in an annual expenditure of over $1,000,000 for improved roads, a rate that would soon place New Jersey in a posstion to attract millions of capital for investment, and thousands of progressive citizens for permanent residents. It has been urged, the commissioner says, that this rapidly increasing desire for improved roads should be met by bonding, as has been done by the six terminal counties, which are the homes of much of the wealth of New York city, and the seats of the largest cities of the State. His answer to this is, that agricultural communities, although contributing more largely than any other class to the vitality, strength and wealth of the nation and to the sustenance of cities, are to poo to meet the taxes necessary to construct under the County Bonding act, which requires the townships through which each road passes to pay one third of the cost, besides a proportional share of the county tax. Of last year's appropriation, Middlesex county received $14,887.92. There were four and three-quarter miles of new roads built in Middlesex and six miles in Somerset county.

DEMOCRATS ARE ALERT

There seems to be a manifest spirit among Union county Democrats to get together once again after the late unpleasantness among themselves and wage war in common against their political foes. Already in Rahway, Democrats have come to an understanding and organized in unity, and now comes the intelligence from Elizabeth that the Democrats are perfecting a plan of organization identical to that of Tammany Hall so that they may regain some of their old time vigor and success.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whoop Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

A PASTOR INSTALLED.

"Don't apologize for being a minister. If you do you cannot be a minister. The function of the ministry comprises the dignity of the physician, the judgment of the lawyer and business man. Comfort of your people, but don't sympathize with them on every occasion.

"When I think of some of the things that ministers bring into the pulpit I wonder that they are not paralyzed. Preach the Word direct and don't forget to use plenty of English."

The charge to the people was given by the Rev. W. I. Nichols, secretary of the Charities' Aid Society, of Brooklyn. A digest of his remarks follow:

"I speak as a member of the congregation and not as a preacher. Our motives are different from those of other churches, and every term has a far different meaning. The old motive was fear, but now it is love. Unless you are trying to advance the principles of this church it is not worth the while wasting your time. You owe it to the man you have called to stand and labor with you. Abhor all selfishness and stand for liberal religion. We shall not be a populous church, but we shall be a strong one. Stand by the man you have chosen. He will not be able to please you all, but he is a man you can afford to trust."

Following the above remark a hymn was sung by the congregation after which the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. A. C. Nickerson, the new pastor.

During the service F. H. Hebard presided at the organ and Charles Lewis acted as precentor. The church was very prettily decorated with choice cut flowers and greens, and the effect was striking.

After the service nearly all remained to meet the new pastor personally and to get better acquainted with him.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mrs. A. N. Randolph has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. J. B. Sprowl, at Jersey City.

Albert W. Heyser, formerly of Plainfield, and now of Brooklyn, is visiting the family of A. W. Warden.

A. A. Parker goes to Boston early next week to officiate as judge at the annual poultry exhibition there.

The skating continues good on the New Market pond, but it will not be so good after Thursday, when ice cutting will begin.

A. A. Parker sent by express yesterday to Mexico three of his choice game fowls. His birds have become so renowned for their fighting proclivities that they are wanted in Maceo's territory.

A runaway accident, which, fortunately, was not attended with any serious results, occurred on Prospect avenue yesterday afternoon. A Plainfield slater named Cose left his horse standing tied to a 14-foot plank, while he was doing some work about the new Fisher house. The animal took fright and dashed across a twenty-acre cornfield with the plank dangling at its heels. Coming to a fence on the opposite side of the lot the runaway stopped short and was captured.

The sociable, supper and dance given by the Young Ladies' Society of St. John's church in the new Town Hall, last evening, was the formal opening of the hall. Many people, old and young, were present, and gazed with admiration on the interior of the new structure. There was a hitch in the electric lighting apparatus somewhere along the line, and the building was in total darkness until some of the members took a hack and drove to the Greenbrook plant and secured an electrician. During this interval kerosene lamps were used, and aside from this little delay nothing happened to mar the pleasure of those present. The advance sale of tickets had alone more than paid for the entire enterprise, and the receipts at the door were correspondingly large. The object of the supper and dance was to obtain means for purchasing matting for the aisles of the church. The committee of arrangements, to whose untiring efforts is largely due the success of the undertaking, consisted of the Misses Anna and Lena Maier, Miss Mamie Heyl and Miss Lizzie Heyl.

SCOTCH PLAINS

Fred Clark and William Richardson drove to North Branch yesterday on business.

Miss Florence Wade was able to go out for the first time yesterday after her three weeks illness.

Miss Wahl, of Plainfield was taken suddenly ill while dressmaking for Mrs. William Lee yesterday and was obliged to go home.

An advanee agent for a musical and literary entertainment was in town yesterday arranging for the affair which is to be held in the school hall on next Tuesday evening.

Andrew Love, Jr., is stopping at Blimm's Hotel for a few days, while he is making the collections for the James A. Baker estate. He may be engaged in the work for several days yet.

Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company met and elected the following officers on Monday evening: Foreman, W. H. Turton; assistant foreman, Louis Drexter; secretary, George L. Dunn; treasurer, William Lake.

J. Ackerman Coles, of Scotch Plains, who recently has presented to Newark valuable statuary, has just given to the Free Public Library of that city, a life size bust in finest canara marble of "Young Augustus," the exact counterpart of a bust of that title found at Ostia in 1808 and now exhibited in Rome, Italy.

DECEIVER EVER.

BY GWENDOLEN OVERTON.

Carey Churchill Carter Channing, first lieutenant, Nth cavalry, died so long ago that most of his story is forgotten, though it was a very great wonder at the time. Everybody connected with it is dead also—his mother and the other two women—and so many first lieutenants have filled his place since then that no one's heart is likely to be wounded by repeating it.

He was a superb great fellow—as all the men in his regiment were said to be in those days—of the big, blonde, and brave type, knowing neither fear nor failure, and his fascination was something that has become a tradition in the service. So many girls—aye, and married women, too—had loved him that the shores upon which he had touched were strewn with wrecks.

The hearts of all those women had been broken, actually broken, not just dented a little, as is usually the case in such affairs; their lives were openly ruined, yet Channing kept himself free of blame. Not one could say "he should have done thus or so," he never committed himself, he never acted in a compromising fashion in the presence of a third person. But the women who ran insanely onto the desert of disillusion, followed the elusive pillars of the smoke of his words and the fire of his looks, never again passed beyond into the land of content across the wilderness. They despised themselves in that pitiful fashion that women have, but they loved him always—for such is the way of their kind.

It had been his good fortune to have dealings only with women who either thought of him alone, forgetting themselves, or with those too gentle to denounce him. Then, too, he had managed well; there was never any definite proof. But in the early summer of '85, the pitcher that had been carried ninety-nine times to the well narrowly escaped being broken.

The bride of Capt. Morton, having seen fit, with due encouragement, to fall in love with him, threatened to become unmanageable. She was a most wonderfully attractive, feminine little thing, but she was neither of the self-immolating nor of the concealing sort. Having lost her heart, she lost her head, and Channing was in much danger of having his methods exposed.

His captain advised him: "Channing, you'd better take a leave and get out for a bit."

"Why?"

"Well, it's a delicate subject, but Morton's an old friend of mine, and I don't want to see his wife disgrace him."

"But what have I done? I am as innocent as a baby; and besides I think you are mistaken."

"We all exonerate you. It's not your fault; but I am not mistaken. It's evident to the whole post. Take my advice and go see your mother like a dutiful son."

Channing was flattered, but he was also frightened; nevertheless, he was undecided.

There was a hop there that same night. Mrs. Morton was there, and it was her actions that determined Channing to take Capt. Lytton's counsel. She was already in the hoproom talking to the latter when Channing appeared, and the moment she saw him, standing tall and graceful and indifferent in the doorway, she grew so white that the whole room noticed it, and she trembled visibly. She realized her paleness and knew that Capt. Lytton's quick movement to put himself between her and the watching eyes had been unavailing.

Her own soft eyes filled as she raised them piteously. "You see what a spectacle I am making of myself. I can't help it. I've tried hard. There's nothing for it but to go away or break down."

"Poor little girl! Come away, then."

"If you will just take me home, and tell Dan I—" she stopped, losing the thread of her words, for Channing was approaching.

Capt. Lytton offered her his arm. "Come, quickly," he said.

"Just wait a minute, please—just till I tell Mr. Channing I can't stay for our dance."

She had flushed up and her eyes were brilliant. She put out her hand to Channing, drew it back, and again stretched it forth, confusedly.

He took it and pressed it—yes, she was sure he pressed it, almost. "The third you promised me, wasn't it?"

"Yes, I think so," she answered.

Capt. Lytton turned on his heel and walked away.

At the end of the third dance, while they strolled together up and down the line, Channing experimented to see how far she would go. To his consternation he found that she would stop at nothing short of blazoning her infatuation from the housetops. A scandal was not what Channing wanted. He was very gentle with her, but she wept and said all manner of foolish things, until Capt. Lytton came upon them and took her home.

Very soon after this the lieutenant went on to visit his mother. She was a Virginian, of the conventional poor but proud order; and she lived on what had once been the kitchen-garden of the family estate. Quite as often as not she was on the point of hunger, when there was no demand for the needle work of her quivering old fingers. Her son did not contribute to her support. "All of my beggarly pay, and more, too, goes to keep up appearances. My regiment is great on esprit de corps. I'd like awfully well to help you, mother, but I must hold up my end of the row. I am a Channing." And she loved him all the better.

While he was with her in the summer of '85, through sheer lack of excitement he became enamored of a certain Anna Trafford. He asked her to marry him—quite the last thing he would have expected himself to do—and she, being completely fascinated, consented without even a decent amount of hesitation. It was arranged that in the late fall she should join Channing at the town nearest his post, and there be married.

In September, the unhappy Mrs. Morton having gone hopelessly away to another garrison, the lieutenant rejoined his regiment. He mentioned the fact of his engagement to no one, but proceeded promptly to lure on another woman, a girl of gorgeous beauty, a hot-blooded brunette, with the eyes of a Jael, the brow of a Madonna, and a sensitive, well-made mouth. She was the only daughter of Col. Ross, motherless, and betrothed to one Lieut. Hawthorne, who had loved her since they had been babies making mud-pies together on the sun-blasted parade-ground of Camp Thomas. She broke her engagement, and she broke young Hawthorne's heart; but her own turn was to come.

In November, giving way ungraciously enough to Anna Trafford's pleadings, Channing granted her permission to join him at the railroad town. She was very poor. Generally she was considerate and self-sacrificing. Now she clamored, and would not be quieted until a mortgage was raised on the wretched little house that was all in the world her mother and crippled sister owned. She bought her ticket with the money, and ten days after the receipt of Channing's letter she was at the meeting-place—alone.

She spent a day and two nights in the mean little depot hotel, very nearly out of her mind with loneliness, fright, and at last an acknowledged distrust. Then Channing's mother arrived, and an officer met them with an ambulance. Channing was dying of a fever, the mother told her. The doctor had telegraphed for her, without her son's knowledge, the day after the girl had left the village. Then Anna reproached herself for her suspicions with unreasoning bitterness.

The drive to the post took two days. It was a horrible experience for the officer. The road stretched on, on, on, across desert and bad lands, where even the greasewood and mesquite was burned by the terrible sun. The old woman sank from the dust and the heat into an almost senseless state. The girl, being young and strong and alive, fought with the strangling dust, gasped, twisted her small hands, and bit her lips in a perfectly silent struggle. Sometimes, as the lieutenant sat opposite them, he wished that they could cry or make a sound.

The beautiful daughter of Col. Ross was standing by Channing's bed alone, when the doctor led the mother and her young companion in. The lieutenant had been dead 20 minutes. The dark-eyed woman did not turn, she had forgotten everything in all the world, save only Channing's face. When the southern girl dropped down at the bedside and screamed for her husband, she started.

"Is the poor thing crazy?" she asked, dully, of Mrs. Channing.

"No. But she was not married to him. Only she was to have been married at Santa Maria, two or three days ago; I forget when. He sent for her."

"That can't be true, because I am his wife."

Mrs. Channing caught at the bedpost with her shriveled old hand. "Nonsense!" she said.

"Indeed, it is true. Aren't you his mother?" She put her arm tenderly about the bent shoulders. "I thought you were. You look like him. He and I were married [illegible] night at midnight, when they t[illegible] was going to die."

"Anna! C[illegible]. Anna! You've no right th[illegible]. This girl's his wife. He c[illegible] son. He [illegible] her. He m[illegible] last night."

It was cruel [illegible]. Channing had gone mad.

For five [illegible] Col. Ross cared for the [illegible] mother of his daughter's h[illegible] even when his daughter was d[illegible]

But until Channing was buried in the graveyard on the hill, where the coyotes dug up the mounds at night, and the prairie dogs barked shrilly, and the snakes glided along the dry, baked earth into their holes—until he was buried there the two women stayed by her. Their trust in the dead man never faltered. The girl believed he had been ensnared on his death-bed; the wife, that he had never loved the childish, pretty Virginian. Yet neither—out of pity—spoke her convictions.

Watching over his mother they sat in the room where he had died, and listened to the thud of the soldiers' feet as they marched by outside, following the young officer's flag-covered coffin. Then there was a long, long silence. They were wide apart—the wife with her beautiful head in her hands; the girl, looking straight at the wall; the old woman muttering and scratching at her gown with her crooked fingers.

At last came the sound of a far-off volley of musketry. The girl jumped up. "What's that?"

"The firing over his grave."

In a moment it came again. The girl stood swaying. The wife sat with her head still bowed. It was no new sound to her.

A pause—then the last volley. The girl fell, and the woman, lifting her head, stared stupidly at the pretty, dead face, at the fixed, childish eyes, that still looked hurt; while the mother muttered in the corner and taps shrilled from the bugle over the grave of the man they had loved.—San Francisco Argonaut.

A Bed for Tall Persons.

Many tall persons complain that the bedding will work itself free at the foot of a bed, no matter how carefully it may have been tucked in. Such people should try laying a small fold in the upper sheet at the bottom of the bed when putting on the covers. This will prevent the feet from having a drawn or close feeling, and obviate the desire to lift the clothing with the feet and pull them up from the bottom.—Detroit Free Press.

HIS FLYING CAT.

BY W. L. ALDEN.

"Sparrows," said the colonel, "may be very upright, respectable, middle-class birds so long as they stay in England, but when they emigrate to America, they are no better than the average of our working classes. Some meddling idiot brought a lot of sparrows to the states some ten or fifteen years ago, expecting they would kill all the worms on the fruit trees. They hadn't been in the country six months when they took the ground that they were as good as the best of our swell birds, and that they considered that killing worms was a degrading kind of labor fit only for blackbirds and crows. So they took to living on wheat, and strawberries, and cherries, and they multiplied so fast that they are the worst curse that the farmer and the fruit grower ever had

"Prof. Van Wagener and I were discussing the sparrow question one day, and I was complaining of the inefficiency of the American cat. Our cats are about as wide-awake and as monarchial cats as you can produce, but they can't catch a single sparrow. I've known ambitious cats who set out to catch sparrows, and who wasted away to mere skeletons, and died of weakness through watching for sparrows from dawn to darkness, and never once getting within ten feet of one. As a general rule I don't have much sympathy for cats, but the insulting language that sparrows use when they see a cat laying for them, and the aggravating way in which they will fly just over the cat's head, or maybe hit the cat over the tail with their wings, is more than any cat can be expected to bear.

"'The trouble is,' said Van Wagener, 'that the cat isn't a flying animal and the sparrow is. The sparrow's native element is the air, and you can't expect a cat to catch a sparrow so long as the cat can't fly.'

"'That's true,' said I, 'but it don't help us out of our difficulty. Cat's weren't made with wings, and neither you nor I can invent a new model of cat that will be able to fly, and to catch sparrows on the wing.'

"'Don't be too sure of that,' said the professor. 'Science has improved everything that it has put its hand to, and I see no reason why science shouldn't improve cats. A flying cat would supply a great public want, for she would kill off the sparrows as easily as she kills off the mice. I've half a mind to try the experiment of inventing a flying cat.'

"'All right,' said I. 'When you get your flying cat finished just notify me, and I'll come and see her fly. Then, if you are going in for improving animals, perhaps you will invent a cat that can sing like a nightingale. The present style of singing among cats is disgraceful. They haven't any more idea of music than a Chinaman.'

"Well, the professor buckled down to business, and from his daily interviews with his private cat, and the consequent scratches that diversified his good old scientific countenance, I judged that he was doing his best to make a cat that would fly. Before the six weeks were up he sent me a note inviting me to come round to his house at two o'clock the next afternoon to see the first successful flying cat that had ever been invented. I needn't say that I went. I had assisted at the birth of dozens of Van Wagener's inventions, and I had generally found that the presence of a man with experience in the treatment of accidents was a handy thing so far as the professor was concerned.

"'You know, colonel,' said he, 'my method as an inventor. I ask myself what is needed in some particular purpose, and then I proceed to supply that need. Most people think that an inventor has ideas come to him all of a sudden, in a supernatural sort of way; but that is all nonsense. Inventing is a business, like any other, and any intelligent man can learn it. Now, when I saw that the reason why cats don't catch sparrows is that they can't fly after the bird, I saw what was wanted was a flying cat, and I proceeded to invent one. Here I have a small balloon. This I fix to that cat of mine, and when it is inflated it will just support the weight of the cat in the air. Then you see this pair of paddle-wheels. They are to be fixed one on each side of the cat, and are to be driven by a small electrical engine. The balloon floats the cat and the paddle-wheels propel her. In order to steer the cat I fix a flat piece of tin to the extremity of her tail. When she sees a sparrow her instinct will make her swish her tail from one side to the other, and her attention being fastened on catching the bird, she will unconsciously work her tail in such a way as to steer her directly towards it.

"It wasn't an easy job to rig up Van Wagener's cat. She kicked and swore her level best, and got in several good scratches on the professor's hands. However, he stuck to his task, and after awhile the cat was ready, and we adjourned to the backyard. There was a whole gang of sparrows in the middle of the yard, forming a sort of ring-round two that were fighting, and from the way in which every sparrow was talking at the top of his voice it was clear that some heavy betting on the fight was in progress. When they saw Van Wagener and his cat, they naturally flew up to the eaves of the house, where the fighting was resumed. Van Wagener took his flying cat to the extremity of the yard, and after showing her the sparrows at the top of the house, and exhorting her to gather them in, he launched her into the air.

"The cat rose slowly, kicking and yelling, until she was just about level with the eaves. The sparrows were so occupied with the fight that they paid no attention to her, and when she saw that there were at least 20 of them gathered close together, her desire to get at them made her temporarily forget her balloon and her paddle-wheels. She lashed her tail, as cats will do when bent on murder, and, just as the professor predicted, the effect was to steer her in the direction of the sparrows. Her paddle-wheels were working smoothly and regularly, and though they were not large enough to give her any speed, they steadily carried her across the yard towards the sparrows. Van Wagener was in ecstasies. He challenged me to point out any defect in his flying cat, and when I candidly admitted that it did seem to be a complete success, he was the happiest man in New Berlinopolisville. The cat came through the air so slowly and noiselessly that she was within two yards of the sparrows before they saw her. When they did catch sight of this new and startling animal, they were the worst frightened lot of birds that were ever seen outside of one of those so-called happy families, where half a dozen birds, clean paralyzed with fear, are shut in a cage with a cat that has been filled up with chloral, and the public is asked to regard the exhibition as a specimen of what will be the usual sort of thing when the millennium gets its work fairly in. Those sparrows left in a tremendous hurry. They had a sudden business call in some distant part of Illinois, and I don't believe a single one of them stopped flying until they had put at least 30 miles between themselves and Van Wagener's flying cat.

"'Now, you see,' said the professor, 'how completely successful my invention is. My flying cat will either catch the sparrows and kill them, or she will frighten them out of the country. In either case the great sparrow problem is solved. It makes no difference to me, as a patriotic American citizen, whether all the British sparrows in the country are killed, or whether they are driven over into Canada. Come to think of it, I should prefer the latter result, for the driving of monarchical European birds out of our beloved country will be an object lesson in the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine, which will be of immense benefit to the nation.'

"The professor, being a scientific crank, was naturally a political crank also, and he was more than two-thirds mad on the subject of the Monroe doctrine. When the professor once got fairly started on the subject of the Monroe doctrine he forgot everything else, and he had clean forgotten his flying cat when Mrs. Van Wagener leaned out of a second-story window, and advised him, in case he was going to make a political speech, to hire a hall. She was a mighty sarcastic woman, and her contempt for her husband's political views was even greater than her contempt for his scientific achievements. She was on the point of continuing her remarks about the professor's political oration, when she suddenly gave the awfullest screech that I ever heard from female lips, though I was once in a room full of strong-minded women when a mouse ran across the floor. Mrs. Van Wagener thought that her last hour had come, judging from her screams, but, as I had a full view of what was taking place, I knew it was only the cat who had come. Having missed the sparrows the cat turned partly round to see what had become of them, and just then Mrs. Van Wagener, having unconsciously put her head within the animal's reach, the cat judged that her opportunity for making a landing had arrived, and accordingly she lit on the top of Mrs. Van Wagener's head.

"Most any woman, not knowing that her husband had invented a flying cat, would have supposed when some monster with sharp claws, and a talent for using bad language, came flying through the air and lit on her head that nothing less than the sea serpent, or the flying dragons mentioned in Scripture, had attacked her. What with the cat's desire to kick herself free from her flying apparatus, and her anxiety to get square with the human race, she did more with that poor woman's hair in five minutes than any other cat could have done in a good half hour. The professor tried to explain that it was only the cat, and begged his wife not to injure the flying apparatus. It didn't seem to occur to him that he ought to run to his wife's assistance till I had taken him by the shoulders and started him upstairs. I don't want you to think for a moment that he wasn't anxious to help his wife, but he was so in the habit of looking at things from a scientific point of view, that he forgot that while he was explaining things Mrs. Van Wagener might be clawed to such an extent that she would never be recognized by her nearest friend. When he had once grasped the idea that she needed his help he fairly flew upstairs, and succeeded in transferring the cat's attentions to himself. Then I had to come to the rescue, for the professor, not having hair enough to interest the cat, she had devoted her efforts to beautifying his countenance, and if I hadn't succeeded in pulling her off, and tossing her out of the window, she would have torn his eyes out, or at all events ruined his nose. Her balloon had burst during her interview with Mrs. Van Wagener, and consequently when I threw her out of the window she struck the ground pretty, heavily and smashed up the paddle wheels. We never saw her again.

"Mrs. Van Wagener made peace with her husband on condition of his making a solemn promise never to have anything more to do with flying cats. I consider that she was wrong in so doing, for Van Wagener's invention was bound to be a success. If he had been allowed to carry it out, flying cats would have become as common as bats, and every sparrow in the states would have emigrated. If it wasn't that I don't believe in using other people's inventions I would go in for the manufacture of flying cats myself; and as it is I believe that Edison will some day hear of Van Wagener's experiment, and will immediately invent a flying cat and spend the rest of his life in trying to make the invention work."—Idler.

Delicate Dress Goods.
Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redying. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? HARRISON IN WASHINGTON.

The ex-President Declines to Discuss Public Matters or the McKinley Administration.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Ex-President Benjamin Harrison, accompanied by ex-Attorney General Miller, arrived here at 6 o'clock last evening. They have apartments at the Arlington, and although Mr. Harrison did not register, his presence soon became known and many personal friends and politicians called during the evening. The ex-president greeted a reporter for the United Associated Presses very cordially, putting aside an uncompleted brief in a law case, which he will argue before the supreme court to-day. "What do you think of the arbitration treaty?" he was asked. "I make confidants of friends on such subjects," he replied, "but am not yet ready to take the newspapers into my confidence on this question." Mr. Harrison said he had no opinion to express on the Cuban situation. The published rumor that he was likely to be tendered the position of ambassador to Great Britain was called to his attention and Mr. Harrison said he had heard of it. One report, he said, stated that a messenger had gone to Indianapolis to make the offer, but all he could say, if such was the case, "the messenger had missed him." He declined to discuss either the probability of the tender of its acceptance if tendered. Mr. Harrison will probably start for home this evening, and if he has time during the day, will pay his repects to President Cleveland.

In Annual Session To-day in the Assembly Chamber at Albany.

Albany, Jan. 20.—A large audience was present in the assembly chamber last night to witness the opening session of the annual meeting of the New York State Bar association which will be concluded this afternoon when the election of officers will take place. President Edward G. Whittaker of New York city called the meeting to order and after prayer he introduced Postmaster General Wilson, This is the twentieth anniverary of the association and Mr. Wilson delivered the anniversary oration, taking for his subject "Some Points in the Making of Our Constitutional System." He reviewed at length the methods of administrating the government and the weak points in the actual working of our constitutional system. Among other things he said: "The great and growing evil of the use of money in popular elections, to which no patriotic man can shut his eyes, with its inevitable degradation of elector and elected, is a question of momentous import. It is not a necessary part of the working of our constitutional system; and the example of other countries shows that it is within the power of remedial legislation."

NEW SCHOOL SYSTEM.

Radical Change Proposed in a Bill To Be Introduced at Albany.

Albany, Jan. 20.—The department of public instruction proposes a very radical change in the school system of the state, and a bill is now in the course of preparation which will soon be introduced in the legislature. It will provide what is known as the township school system throughout the entire state. That is, to place all of the school districts in each township under the direction of a township board of education, the members of which are to be elected by the voters of the township, there being three or five of the board, as may finally be determined upon. The bill will further provide that the weak districts shall be wiped out, and that there shall be a sort of centralization of school advatages and that all pupils throughout the country districts shall be afforded free conveyance to and from school.

WRECK VICTIMS IMPOVING.

CLAPP AND BEHL DOING NICELY.

Dickerson, Who Died, Was to Have Enjoyed a Day Off Saturday.

Engineer Clapp, of the Royal Blue line, and Fireman Behl, of the P. & R. local train, who were in the terrible railroad accident at Skillman last Saturday evening, are improving nicely at the hospital, and their recovery is now almost assured. Both men are conscious and their sufferings have been greatly reduced. Behl has not the slightest remembrance of the accident and is unable to tell anything about it. Clapp's memory of the calamity is more clear and every detail is indelibly impressed on his mind.

A singular coincident in connection with the sad affair is related by Mrs. Dickerson, wife of the late baggagemaster, who was on the local train. She says that her husband was to have had last Saturday off, but he changed his mind and decided to take a later day. This he did much against his wife's wishes who was particularly anxious that he should remain home that day. She said when she received three telegrams, closely following each other after the accident, she felt sure that her husband was injured much worse than the telegrams told her, and when she arrived in Plainfield she fully expected to learn that he was dead.

Engineer Clapp's wife is an invalid and is unable to come to Plainfield, but the daughter has been here to see her father. Mrs. Behl arrived soon after the accident and has remained at the hospital ever since.

playing the baby act and I will let you keep the desks if you will go in a room with me alone for half an hour."

Mr. Moore wanted to know what for, but he didn't accept the invitation.

After a while Roundsman Frederickson arrived and Mr. Moore ordered the officer to eject the lawyer. The latter refused to go and told the officer that he had a right there, and the latter—between two fires, a Judge on one side and a lawyer on the other—said he would consult Chief Grant first. The officer started out to do this and before he returned Mr. Hetfield left. It was then 6:30 o'clock. He had arrived there about 4 o'clock.

Judge Moore was still holding the fort.

This morning Mr. Moore said that he should commence proceedings against Lawyer Hetfield for assault and battery in pulling the tops of the desks down on his arms.

Mr. Hetfield could not be seen this morning as he was in Elizabeth, his son said, on this very matter. Young Hetfield said that his father had secured the replevin papers and they had been served a long time ago. He says his father will either secure the desk or have Mr. Moore arrested.

The rest remains to be told.

When seen by the reporter this morning, Judge Moore said: "A very entertaining matinee."

Marvelous Merchandising.

Seely Edsall says that he has been selling a general line of merchandise ever since he was eighteen years old; and in Newark and Plainfield from the time of just before the breaking out of our Civil War. With the exceptions of the war times when money was so very plentiful he says he has never experienced such marvelous merchandising as he has seen since last Saturday, the opening of the great retiring sale. He had no idea that it would arouse such a widespread interest in the dullest season of the whole year, and feels it is the highest compliment that could be bestowed upon him by the people in winding up his business here in Plainfield.

FOR STEALING A CORN CROP.

Matthew Ricker, a Well-To-Do Farmer, Accused of Taking it Bag by Bag.

The Somerset County Court was crowded yesterday by farmers from the mountain district of Chimney Rock, who had assembled to witness the trial of a farmer, Matthew Ricker, for stealing corn from the field of his neighbor, Peter Sebring.

Ricker is well to do and has heretofore been an influential man in the community. In driving to his home at night he passed Sebring's corn field, and it is alleged that he stopped by the wayside so often to pluck the corn from the field that Sebring's crop fairly melted away, and the latter put a watch on the field.

John Thompson, a farm hand, testified that he was watching the field by night, and on two occasions saw Ricker pull his team up and enter the field with a bag which he filled with ears of corn. The theft, he said, occurred last fall. Ricker, he said, robbed the field on the instalment plan, taking only one small bag of corn at a time.

Ricker denied Thompson's statement. After deliberating several hours, the jury stood nine for conviction and three for acquittal, and were unable to agree. Ricker may be tried again.

STEVENS INSTITUTE STUDENTS

They Gave a Delightful Entertainment at the Park Club Last Evening.

The pretty little club-house of the Park Club was crowded to its utmost capacity last evening with a delighted audience, who had come to attend the entertainment given by the Stevens Institute Glee and Banjo Club. It was the first appearance of the Stevens boys in this city and they made a very good impression. The selections by the banjo club were excellent and called forth loud and long applause. The players kept excellent time and gave their selections with a vim and vigor that was delightful.

The glee club came in for their share of applause, and their part of the programme was very enjoyable. There were several selections by the whole club. A quartette by Messrs. Kellogg, MacDonald, Munby and Peck was given. There was also a solo by Mr. Peck. The accompanist was Mr. Dates.

As soon as the entertainment was over most of the college boys left, but a number of them remained to the informal dance that followed, in which the young people of the club took part, and made the club-house a lively place until the hour of midnight had arrived.

WE SAID!

In announcing our great "Retiring Sale" that it would be the greatest Business Event in the history of Plainfield, but we had no idea that it was going to be such an avalanche as it proved to be.

Christmas crowds were no comparison to the immense throngs of last Saturday and Monday, the two first days of the sale.

Considering the fact that it was merely announced in two papers only one day before, and in the dull season of the year, the demonstration was a perfect marvel in merchandising. The delivery department was completely overwhelmed, and kept busy up to 10 o'clock at night.

The immense attendance upon this sale, and the many expressions of regret at Edsall's retiring from the Commercial Palace, evidences the continued popularity of this house, and the manifest confidence of the people in its integrity and honest dealings.

Everything all through the various departments sells fast.

Everybody seems delighted with the extremely low prices.

The sale is regarded by everybody as a boon to those who wish to make a little money go a good ways.

Come in as early in the morning as you can.

We have on an extra large force of salespeople, but in the afternoon the rush is so great that it is almost impossible to avoid delay.

WENT WIDE OF ITS MARK

BULLET FIRED AT A CAT CRASHED THROUGH A WINDOW PANE.

Mrs. Charles Vail Narrowly Escapes Being Struck by the Missile That Came From a Revolver in C. Deucher's Hands.

When you shoot at cats be sure you hit the object of your aim, and don't do like one young man did yesterday, come near killing a person.

Charles Deuscher, a boarder at the home of Caleb Dickenson, of West Front street, was in the rear yard when his eyes spied a cat running for dear life. Of late the neighbors in this vicinity have been troubled a great deal with cats and whenever a good opportunity offers itself they are speedily put out of the way, and with this purpose in his mind Mr. Deuscher called upon his revolver to perform the desired work. He was as quick as a flash, but still he was not quick enough, and the bullet went wide of the mark.

When the little piece of lead was found it was deeply embedded in a door in the home of Charles Vail, of Orchard place.

Mrs. Vail was in the room at the time and she was thoroughly frightened by hearing a heavy plate glass fall apart, just as the ball whizzed by her. For a few minutes she was unable to account for the affair, but when she looked out of the window and saw the young man standing there with the revolver in his hand, the problem was solved. Mr. Vail was not at home at the time, but he returned soon afterward when his wife related her exciting experience.

The young man has been interviewed regarding the matter and he has promised to settle for all damages. Mr. Vail's house is directly back of the one occupied by Mr. Dickenson and the bullet did not have far to travel. It has been decided that in the future some other method for killing cats will be adop ed and thus avoid all danger.

HIGH SCHOOL JOTTINGS.

Things That Interest the Young Students.

Miss Mary Buckle gave a recitation at morning exercises, yesterday.

The semi annual examinations begin tomorrow. On that date the rhetoric examination will be held. The rest will be held next week.

A meeting of the committee in charge of the coming entertainment of the Athletic association was held this noon and various details for the entertainment arranged.

The High School Glee Club made its first appearance at morning exercises yesterday. The young men sang "The Vesper Hymn," and it was rendered exceedingly well considering the short time they have had to practice. It was composed of the following: First tenors, Lindley M. Hillman and Walter Serrell; second tenors, Charles Noble and George Proctor Smith; first basses, Henry W. Brower, William DeLong, William Fisher and Frank Smalley; second basses, Sydney R. Titsworth, Arthur Lederer and Henry Pierce.

Pigeon Shooting.

There was some great pigeon shooting at the Crescent Oval on Monday afternoon when several of the members of the club went out to the track to try their skill at clay pigeon shooting. One of the members has been out these two days and shot away a bag full of shells, but he has failed to hit anything but the hillside as yet. On Monday afternoon there was a great match between George H. Willey and Charles Maltby on one side and Charles C. Lister and W. J. Stephenson on the other. The first named team won the match after a most exciting contest. Then a number of the wheelmen tried their luck at a sweepstake, and W. J. Stephenson came out the winner.

Lecture by Tharin.

Citizens are afforded an opportunity to hear R. S. Tharin, Esq., of South Carolina on the subject of "The Crimes of Islam" at the Y. M. C. A. hall on Saturday evening, the 23d inst. at 8 o'clock, and many will doubtless avail themselves of it. The subject is the most important of the age and will be ably handled. Mr. Tharin brings testimonials as to character and ability. The Orient is a most interesting country and the press, steam and electricity have made all nations such near neighbors that "an injury to one is the concern of all."

Camp Installation.

The members of Noah Dove Encampment, No. 28, I. O. O. F., will meet in the Babcock building this evening for the installation of officers. D. D. G. P. Charles Berry and staff, of Elizabeth, will conduct the installation services, and there will be visiting encampments from Newark and New Brunswick.

THE ICE CROP SPOILED.

YESTERDAY'S SNOW TURNED INTO RAIN AND DID GREAT DAMAGE.

The Ice Dealers Were Almost Ready, But the Harvest Will Have to be Postponed—Volume of All Streams Increased

Jersey was visited by a storm yesterday that combined snow and rain, and threatened to repeat the flood of last year, which did so much damage along the course of the Raritan river. The water did not rise as high as it did last year, but great damage was done to the ice crop in Washington Valley and other places.

The cold wave that has been visiting this section reached its culmination yesterday morning when the mercury fell as low as eight degrees above zero. With the sun, the temperature rapidly rose, and when the sun was obscured by the thin white clouds which began too gather toward the middle of the morning, the temperature became much milder. There was a chill, however, that presaged the coming snow storm which began to fall at about 3 o'clock, and came in small, fine flakes. Everybody expected a big storm, and when it slackened at about 7 o'clock, there was a general surprise. It began again soon, however, and the temperature continued to rise until the mercury went above the freezing point. Then the snow turned to sleet and then to rain which fell heavily for the rest of the evening.

According to the observations of Weather Observer Neagle, the snow fell to the depth of 1½ inches, when the rain began. The rain amounted to .23 of an inch. The rain changed the snow into slippery slush which made the walking anything but pleasant. The unlucky pedestrians who had to venture out in the night found themselves slopping through big puddles of water and dirty slush while the rain fell with unceasing regularity. The snow delayed the trolley cars as it packed on the rails and made the connection uncertain but the water cleared away the snow when it came and the cars continued to run to their usual time of stopping.

The snow rapidly melted away under the steady patter of the rain and when the residents of Plainfield looked out of doors this morning, it had entirely disappeared, except in a few solitary spots where it had been piled up.

The most serious effects of the storm were to be found at Washingtonville, or at least in the large pond near there belonging to the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, called Wilson's pond. The ice was to be cut next week as it had reached the thickness of eight inches and the ice itself was smooth and free from dirt and snow. When the rain fell so heavily, the little streams up in the valley that feed the pond began to swell and soon became little torrents, which dug away their banks and carried away the mud and sand with them. The water rose in the pond and, breaking off portions of the ice, piled them up in huge irregular piles, mixed with dirt and debris they had bsought down with them. The entire ice crop was spoiled.

Several other ice ponds in the vicinity had the ice on them ruined by the flood of waters that came pouring down all the small streams in the vicinity. The melted ice helped to swell them and as the ground was frozen, the water ran off instead of sinking into the ground.

Some of the residents of Bound Brook kept a watchful eye on the river there, but although it rose considerably and flooded the low meadows near it, the water did not reach any of the inhabited portion of the town. There was lots of water in Somerville but it did no damage and none of the streams there were flooded.

Green brook was somewhat swoolen but not enough to attract attention. Cedar Brook made no attempt to do anything and was but little higher than yesterday. This morning the barometer stood at 40 degrees above zero.

If there is not another period of continued cold weather in this part of Jersey, this winter, the loss to the ice dealers in this section will amount to $50,000. The Plainfield Company will also meet its share of the loss.

The ice on Tier's pond was not injured by the storm of yesterday although the water rose considerably. There was eight inches of ice on the pond yesterday and Mr Tier had expected to begin cutting today had the cold weather only continued.

At Work in Earnest.

The Elizabeth and Westfield Traction Company has opened an office in Elizabeth, and the canvass for property holders' consent to lay tracks on Westfield avenue has been begun in earnest. Nearly half as many signers as are needed have been secured.

MUST PAY A COMMISSION

REAL ESTATE AGENT WINS A SUIT AGAINST A PROPERTY OWNER.

William Davison Claims to Have Engineered a Deal Whereby David Hand Sold a Lot—Latter Didn't Want to Settle.

The question of the commission is an all important one to the real estate agent, and any attempt to deprive him of it will be fought with all its strength. That is what William Davison, the Netherwood real estate agent, claims that David Hand, of this city, tried to do, and to prevent him a suit was commenced yesterday afternoon in Justice Nodyne's court, and after hearing the testimony, the Judge rendered his decision in favor of the real estate agent.

David Hand owned some property and some time ago he went to Mr. Davison and asked him to look out out for a purchaser for the property After waiting a short time, Mr. Davison found in Herbert L. Moodey, of Watchung avenue, a would-be purchaser. Mr. Hand and Mr. Moodey had a personal conference on the subject, which finally resulted in the two parties coming to an agreement, and the sale was consummated. Davison wasn't counted in the deal, and was given no commission.

He seriously objected to that, and demanded his commission from Mr. Hand. The latter refused to pay him on the grounds that he claimed that he had arranged the sale himself. Mr. Davison then consulted his lawyer, S. S. Swackhamer, and a suit was started as mentioned above by Mr. Davison, in which he asked for damages for his time and trouble spent in assisting in the arrangement of the deal. The case was tried yesterday afternoon and a verdict was brought in for the plaintiff.

EXEMPTS ON THE DEFENSIVE

RESOLUTION ABOUT TAX EXEMPTION

Legislators Asked to Oppose the Attempt to Abolish the Favor.

A very important meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association was held last evening for the purpose of discussing the subject of tax exemption, which some people are desirous of taking away from them. There were about fifty members present, and the discussion became very animated, which resulted in the unanimous adoption of the following:

At a meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association, of Plainfield, N. J., representing a membership of 130, held January 20th, 1897, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It is represented that a bill taking away the tax exemption from firemen is about to be offered before the Legislature. Therefore be it

Resolved, That this association do most earnestly oppose any such legislation, and that we request our representatives and senators to use all their influence in opposition to every bill of this nature that may be presented.

In connection with the above the association endorsed the action of the Firemen's Relief Association in adopting a similar resolution a few days ago, as was published in The Press.

The 450 firemen in this vicinity are also very much opposed to any action which will take away the exemption.

J. F. Buckle, J. J. Stahl, E. E. Pope and G. R. Schlereth were elected to membership at the meeting.

CAMERA CLUB AFFAIRS.

Gifted Members Will Entertain the Other Fellows.

The Plainfield Camera Club is planning to open the season for the club with a series of entertainments. The members have been hoping to do this for some time, but it has now been decided to hold the first entertainment about the first of February in the club hall in the Babcock building. The Midmer Glee Club, of this city, will give several selections and then Oscar Sumner Teelo, who is a member of the club, will exhibit his skill as a prestidigatateur. Although it is not generally known, he is very expert at it and can show many wonderful tricks. Miss Anna Teale will also assist in the programme as a reader.

Miss Reinhart's Luncheon.

A delightful luncheon was given, yesterday afternoon, by Miss Reinhart, of Belvidere avenue, in honor of Miss Chapman, of Pittsburg. The decorations were white and green, and consisted of roses and carnations arranged at each end of the table, while in the center was an exquisite basket of maided-hair fern. Covers were laid for fourteen guests and the menu was dainty and finely served.

Only a Year Old, But a Host Just the Same.

Little Willie Carl, aged one year, celebrated the first anniversary of his birthday, Monday afternoon from 3 to 7 o'clock, at the home of his parents, 331 Manson place. About fourteen young people were present and the little tots enjoyed a good time. The host received many nice gifts from his friends as tokens of esteem.

HYMEN TIES A LOVE KNOT

A PLAINFIELDER TAKES A BOUND BROOK BELLE FOR HIS WIFE.

Alonzo Fowler Brokaw the Groom and Miss Emma May Giddes the Bride—Ceremony Performed at Bride's Home.

A charming wedding took place last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Bound Brook, when Miss Emma May Giddes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Giddes, and Alonzo Fowler Brokaw, of Grove street, this city, were united in marriage by Rev. Mr. Dalley, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, of Bound Brook.

The ceremony was performed at 6:30 in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends. While the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march were being played by Miss May Conroy, of North Plainfield, the party entered the parlor, which was arranged with a profusion of evergreens and white lillies so as to form a bower.

The ushers, Elmer Giddes, of Dunellen, and Chauncey F. Stout, of Plainfield, cousins of the bride, preceded the party, and they were followed by Miss Jennie Stevens, of Hagerstown, Md., as bridemaid, and Albert L. Giddes, brother of the bride, as best man, who were attended by Miss Addie L. Giddes, sister of the bride, and Clarence Brokaw, brother of the groom. The party then formed about the bower of flowers, where the ceremony was performed.

The bride was gowned in purple broadcloth trimmed with white satin and chiffon, and carried a bouquet of white roses. A costly collection of presents were received by Mr. and Mrs. Brokaw from their friends. The groom is a valued employe of the Plainfield Electric Light Company.

Ministers Extended Their Regrets.

Mr. Patton desires The Daily Press to state that in response to the invitations extended to the ministers of this city to attend the installation cermonies at All Souls church last Tuesday evening, letters of regret were received from nearly all of the ministers, and everyone that responded expressed a deep regret for not being able to attend, and they extended a cordial welcome to Rev. A. C. Nickerson, the new pastor of All Souls church, showing that there is the best of feeling existing between all of the churches. The union services now being held in this city kept a great many of the pastors away from the installation services.

MORE POLO ON ROLLERS

ELIZABETHIANS WERE NEW AT IT AND WERE EASILY DEFEATED.

The Visitors Team Work Was Very Good, But at Critical Points They Couldn't Keep Their Equilbrium—The Score.

Elizabeth can no longer boast that she is superior to Plainfield in all lines of athletic sports. She may be in football, but when it comes to playing polo on roller skates, she is not in it. The experts of the two cities, the team from the Elizabeth Athletic Club and the team from the Plainfield Hookey Club, met last evening in the Jersey Cycle Academy, and the Plainfield boys succeeded in defeating their rivals from down the road by a score of three to nothing.

It was the first game the home team played with an outside club, and they were used to the tricks of the players from their city, while the Elizabeth boys were something new. It is but fair to say that while the latter team has been practicing a great deal on ice, the playing of the game in a rink on roller skates was rather new to them. That was easy to be seen in the countless tumbles that the visitors took, and their habit of dropping on their knees at the most exciting moment. They understood team work, however, and played together very well. There is some difference in team work on a pond and in a rink, and the Plainfield fellows were "on" to that fact. And it was their quick zig-zag work that finally won the game for them, although their superior driving of the ball was an important factor in the result. The teams lined up as follows:

E. A. C.		P. H. C.
Yezin	centre	Freeman
Eaton	right forward	Darling
Livengood	right back	Green
King	goal keeper	McClure
McKenzie	cover point	Morgan

Scores, Plainfield Hockey Club, 3 goals; Elizabeth Athletic Club, 0 goals. Goals made by Smith, 3. Umpires, Meredith Dryden and Bereton Platt, of Plainfield. Time keepers, E. R. Curry, of Elizabeth, and Laurens H. VanBuren, of Plainfield. Halves, Twenty minutes.

The Elizabeth boys were a trifle shaky at the start and the fight centred around the Elizabeth goal. Gradually the visitors began to get into the game and they worked the ball down to the other end once in a while. Plainfield had an excellent goal-keeper who understood his duties while the Elizabeth man forgot himself sometimes. When the first half was about half over, Smith scored the first goal by an easy drive from his position. The dribbling with the ball by Simmonds and Green was well done and was better than that of their opponent. Green was handicaped by an injured neck but Simmonds shone forth in all his glory and played a great game, making many brilliant plays. Freeman, Simmonds, Darling and Smith worked the zig-zag very successfully and two of the goals were made in that way.

The Elizabeth team warmed up to their work in the second half and made the home team hustle but they couldn't keep up the fast pace they started with and as the end approached, the superiority of the Plainfield team was evident. Smith had a clear shot and made it easily and then, just before the call of time, he sent the ball between the goals.

Everybody had a few cuts or bruises and the visitors came out somewhat the worse, thanks to sundry collisions with the floor and sides of the rink. Eaton had a long gash cut in his tongue, but no one was seriously injured.

MANAGER WILLEY TO LEAVE.

Unable to Make a Profit Out of Music Hall at Present Terms.

Unless there is some change in his intentions between now and February 6th, George H. Willey will retire as manager of Music Hall on that date. Mr. Willey has been manager of the theatre since the opening of the present season and though he has worked hard and has presented a very fair lot of attractions, and had arranged for the appearance of some of the best companies on the road before the end of the season, he finds he is under too heavy expense to make both ends meet and at the same time make a fair profit from the enterprise. He has been negotiating with C. H. Stillman, owner of the hall, to make some concessions, but the latter is not disposed to do so and Mr. Willey declares his intention to retire as soon as the contract is filled for the last show that he has booked.

Stories of Sneak Thieves.

Stories have been current that sneak thieves have been at work in the neighborhood of East Ninth street for the last two weeks and had worked their schemes successfully on several of the residents in that neighborhood. A Press reporter made numerous inquiries among the residents there but failed to gain any confirmation of the stories.

WANT TO WEAR A SHIELD

SOME OF THE CANDIDATES WHO ARE ANXIOUS TO BE POLICEMEN.

Nearly all Are Young Men, Well Built and Powerful, and Fitted For Duty in Many Respects—Their Chances are Unknown.

Not for many years has the probable composition of the police force, under a a new administration, attracted such general interest as this year. In fact, the people of Plainfield are showing more interest in all municipal affairs than ever before. The great changes that have raised the efficiency of the police during the last year have caused many to believe that something new will be done this year that will surprise all hands.

There are a number of candidates, several of whom are not known outside of the police board, and the chances of each are also unknown, but many theories have been advanced and all sorts of guesses made.

The youngest of the candidates is Albert P. Simmonds, of Watchung avenue, formerly of the reportorial staff of The News. Simmonds is well educated, having attended the public schools for a number of years and also Yale University, which he left on account of a long and serious illness. He has long since recovered from that, however, and is physically a very powerful man. He is one of the best all-around athletes in the city, and has made quite a reputation for himself. Simmonds is well-known in this city, having lived in Plainfield for many years. He is also something of an artist.

Another candidate is Frank L. Swackhamer, brother of the well-known lawyer, S. S. Swackhamer. He is a tall, powerful man and has a good reputation behind him.

Richard Day, better known as "Dick" Day, is considered a prominent candidate for one of the positions. He has been well-known in this city as one of the proprietors of the Metropolitan Livery Stable on North avenue. Before that he ran a private livery stable. Now he is interested in the stable on West Sixth street, near Park avenue.

Nicholas Kelly was a policeman in Plainfield but he left the force a number of years ago. He is a mason by trade and has been employed in several different lines since that time. He now lives on West Third street.

One of the best motormen employed by the Plainfield Street Railway is Morris Higgins, who is mentioned as a candidate for a position on the force. Higgins is a large heavily built man, above the average height and is known as a sober and industrious citizen. He is living on Grant avenue at present.

E. D. Murphy, formerly coachman for Pliny Fisk, of West Seventh street, is another of the candidates. He is an athletic man and with a good reputation.

T. L. C. McCarty, of Arlington avenue, has also been mentioned for a place on the force.

Jeremiah Cash is already a special officer but he wishes to be transferred to the regular force. For some time he has been on duty every night with the night squad, patroling a beat in the vicinity of East Fifth street, Franklin place and Watchung avenue.

Met a Servant of His Satanic Majesty.

Colonel George French and wife, of the Salvation Army, went from this city about a year ago. Yesterday, while hunting for a house in Harlem, they went with whom they term was one of the servants of the Devil in the shape of a female real estate agent, Mrs. K. Agnes Murphy-Milligan by name. She refused to rent him a house on any terms insinuating, he claims, that he procured his money dishonestly. A skirmish followed, first with tongues and then with hands and the soldiers of the Salvation Army were finally put out of the office by the combined exertions of the woman and her husband.

Danced at Mt. Bethel.

The dance of the Jr. O. U. A. M. at the Mt. Bethel hall last evening was pronounced a most enjoyable affair. A delegation went over from here in a stage, and there were also delegations present from Bound Brook, Somerville and New Brunswick. Dancing was continued until early this morning.

Received Their New Uniforms.

The members of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps received their new uniforms on Monday evening, and they were satisfactory to all They are very dressy in appearance, while they are not the kind to be spoiled by a tramp through the dust.

HANNA AT CANTON

The National Chairman Has a Long Conference with Maj. McKinley.

DISCUSSED MANY MEN AND MEASURES

He Will Visit Columbus To-morrow and Expects To Meet Gov. Bushnell---Secretary of Treasury Not Yet Chosen.

Canton, O., Jan. 21.—Though M. A. Hanna, chairman of the republican national committee came here yesterday afternoon mainly to discuss Ohio politics, it has been learned that he had a good deal to say about other matters and conferred with Major McKinley upon many men and measures of general interest. Mr. Hanna is going to Columbus to-morrow to be present at the reunion and banquet of the members of the Ohio legislature and he will respond to a toast. He expects on his visit there to have a conference with Gov. Bushnell. The selection of W. E. Mason of Illinois for the senate of the United States by the republican members of the legislature removes from the mind of the president-elect all fear of having an unfriendly senator from that state should he invite Senator Cullom into the cabinet. Senator Cullom is under active consideration at present. The correspondent of the United Associated Presses was informed upon high authority this morning that the president-elect has not chosen his secretary of the treasury and that the position is still open. E. H. Conger of Iowa, a former member of congress and minister to Brazil under the Harrison administration, called on Mr. McKinley last evening. He said: "Iowa hopes to have a member of the cabinet, and the chances of James Wilson for appointment to the position of secretary of agriculture seem very good. Mr. Wilson is most admirably equipped for this position. He is a practical farmer and owns and manages several fine and profitable farms. He is one of the foremost instructors in the science of agriculture in the country and has charge of the experimental station at the Iowa college of Agriculture. He was an excellent congressman and has held other official positions." C. A. Moore of Brooklyn, N. Y., who is active in state politics; Thos. W. Bradley of Waldon, N. Y., an "original McKinley man," and Martin Luscomb of Bridgeport, Conn., were also among Major McKinley's callers. Mr. Bradley is said to be a candidate for the important position of commissioner of pensions.

EIGHT RIOTERS KILLED.

And Many Wounded in an Encounter with Gendarmes in Hungary.

Vienna, Jan. 21.—Rolling mills employes at Anina, Hungary, having become discontented with the new pension scheme, became riotous yesterday afternoon, and made a fierce attack upon a force of gendarmes who had been sent to the scene of the disturbance to restore order. The officers attempted to disperse the rioters, but the latter stood their ground and a desperate fight ensued. The lieutenant in charge of the gendarmes becoming convinced that his force was not sufficient to quell the riot by other means finally gave the order to fire upon the mob. As a result of the gendarmes' fire eight of the rioters were killed and many seriously wounded. A number of the officers also were severely wounded during the melee.

Druggist Shields Sentenced.

Belvidere, N. J., Jan. 21.—William F. Shields, the Hackettstown druggist who was recently convicted of the charge of performing an illegal operation, was yesterday sentenced to eighteen months in state prison. It was a great blow to Shields as he came to court prepared to pay the fine of $1,000 which could be imposed.

PRISONERS IN CUBA

Pardons To Be Granted Only To Minor Political Offenders.

RELEASES TO BE MADE PROVISIONAL

Orders Received by Weyler from Madrid Disprove Rumors That a Decree of General Amnesty Was To Be Issued on the King's Saint's Day.

Havana, Jan. 21.—The eleventh anniversary of the birth of King Alfonso XIII. will be celebrated here on the 23d inst. Orders have been received by Capt.-Gen. Weyler from the government at Madrid to review the cases of the political prisoners now in custody in the Havana and Pinar del Rio provinces and to grant a provisional release to all those who are held upon charges of minor importance and are not connected in a responsible way with the revolution in Cuba.

OLNEY TOO BUSY.

Reported That He Declined an Offer by Spain To Settle the Cuban Trouble.

London, Jan. 21.—The Daily News to-day publishes a dispatch from Paris saying it is reported there that Senor Canovas del Castillo, the Spanish premier, has stated to his friends that if Gen. Weyler does not succeed in crushing the revolution in Cuba by the time the rainy season sets in he (Canovas) will resign. The writer of the dispatch asserts that negotiations were proceeding between the governments at Madrid and Washington with a view of setting the trouble in Cuba, and that Prime Minister Canovas was preparing to announce that the war in the island was ended, when the premier was surprised and dismayed by the receipt last week of an intimation from Washington that Secretary of State Olney had not time to settle the Cuban question and would relegate it to the administration of President-elect McKinley.

DEATH OF HENRY DELGADO.

Due Primarily to Exposure and Hardships Endured in Cuba.

New York, Jan. 21.—The death of Henry Delgado, which was announced in a Havana dispatch to the state department, Washington, yesterday, was primarily due to the exposure to which he subjected himself immediately after he landed in Cuba. He tramped nearly 300 miles through the hilly sections of Pinar del Rio and became so exhausted that he was taken down with fever. He sought a refuge in one of the huts which the insurgents use as field hospitals. There he was captured by the Spaniards under command of Gen. Melquizso. The Spanish general gave orders that the correspondent should be shot on the spot, as two of his companions had been. But he discovered the identity of the sick man and, fearing further complications with the United States government (as he was the same soldier who assaulted the venerable Jose Delgado, which has resulted in a claim against the Spanish government), the prisoner's life was spared. He was immediately sent to Havana with word that he might possibly be Pedrico Delgado of Florida, for whom a reward of $5,000 had been offered. The young man was sent to San Ambrosia hospital. Here he developed an abcess of the liver and underwent a surgical operation. He succumbed a few days later owing to his weakened condition as the result of the fever. Mr. Delgado was born in this city and lived nearly all his life here and in Brooklyn. He was a graduate of Mount Pleasant Military academy. He married a Miss Granger of Hudson, N. Y., some years ago. His widow is now in New York. They have one child. C. B. Greene, a brother-in-law of Delgado, will see that the body is embalmed and sent to New York. The authorities at Havana will permit the shipment.

Delgado's Body.

Havana, Jan. 21.—The body of Harry Delgado, the correspondent of a New York newspaper, who died in the San Ambrosia hospital here yesterday, has been ordered to be held at the disposal of United States Consul General Lee, who immedately cabled the announcement of his death to Washington and requested the authorities to notify the family of the dead man and ascertain if they wished his body to be sent to the United States.

Found Death in a Letter to Her Lover.

Shamokin, Pa., Jan. 21.—Miss Helen Musgrave of Cameron township, found death in a letter to her lover. While moistening the back of the envelope the girl's tongue was slightly lacerated, which resulted in blood poisoning, from which she died. The girl had had a quarrel with her lover and he had left for Pittsburg. As soon as he was gone she repented and sat down and wrote a letter asking forgiveness and pleading with him to return. In sealing this letter her tongue received the laceration which ended in her death. In response to her letter her lover came back on Saturday, but only to find his sweetheart dying.

Gloomy Outlook.

"Oh, I don't care!" airily remarked the dramatic lady whose angel had flown. "There's just as good fish in the sea, you know!"

"I didn't go to school a whole lot," said the other actress, "but it seems to me that the sucker is a fresh water fish exclusively."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Proof Positive.

Lawyer—Yes, your honor. Before she committed the deed the prisoner stuck her chewing gum on the underside of the table.

Young Wife—I always thought you were the bravest man in the world while we were courting. You wouldn't go to Canada in case of another war, would you, dear?

"Not if the war was with Canada."—Detroit Free Press.

His Little Paradox.

"Strange as it may seem," said Cholly, looking mournfully at his reflection in the mirror, "this pair of high water trousers is the low water mark of my finances."—Chicago Tribune.

Wheeler—Yes. They allowed me to keep my wheel.—Truth.

They Were Filled.

Rev. Protean Nubbin—So you say Kyote Bill's stockings were found hanging on a telegraph pole this morning?

Slobface Ike—Jesso, parson! Jesso.

Rev. P. N.—I suppose they were filled?

S. I.—Well, you betcher life they were! Jam full of Bill's feet.—Up to Date.

Had Lost His Reckoning.

She—I am quite sure you had too much champagne when you called on me yesterday afternoon.

He—Yes. I thought I'd just look round today to see if I was engaged to you.—Pick Me Up.

Pure

Blood is essential to perfect health. This is a scientific fact. Every organ, nerve and muscle must be fed and nourished. It is the function of the blood to furnish this nourishment, and the quality of nourishment these organs receive depends on the quality of the blood. If the blood is

Rich

Pure and full of vitality it will properly feed and support the whole mechanism of the body. If it is poor and thin disease and suffering will be inevitable. The great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in curing stubborn cases of scrofula, eczema, rheumatism, neuralgia and many other similar troubles, is based upon its power to enrich and purify the Blood

This is also the reason for the great popularity of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a building up medicine. By making pure, rich blood, it gives vigor and vitality even in trying seasons, when, owing to impoverished blood, thousands are complaining of weakness and weariness, lack of energy and ambition, and that tired feeling.

A MIDNIGHT EPISODE.

The Entire Matter Was Dropped Just Where It Was.

Beemer was walking home late at night through the suburbs, observes the Detroit Free Press.

So was Deemer.

Deemer was not more than 50 feet behind Beemer, and both of them were trembling in their shoes for fear of footpads.

Beemer wanted to run, but felt sick at heart under a conviction that the man so doggedly following him would not be a robber unless he were a sprinter.

Deemer ached to turn and make a dash for safety, but was sure that the man ahead would be upon him within a block.

Beemer stumbled and yelled "police."

Deemer struck out into a vacant lot and yelled "police."

They reached their respective homes pale, breathless and resolved never to stay out late again.

Next day Beemer and Deemer met with the usual crowd at lunch. Beemer gave a thrilling account of how he put a footpad to flight the night before.

Deemer was even more vivid in his description of a like feat.

After the two had taken a square look at each other they sneaked out together and before they parted there was a solemn pledge exchanged that the entire matter should be dropped just where it was.

IN HIS ARMS.

This Man Caught a Deer and Secured It After a Hard Struggle.

Harry Middlehouse of Grand Rapids, Mich., who a short time since was visiting at Remus, Mich., had the novel experience of catching a live deer in his arms, says the American Field. The deer was a 250-pound buck, which, though once a captive, had been roaming the woods and fields for the last four years, and was about as wild as if it had never set eyes on a human being. The buck was seen, and Middlehouse hid behind a log while Farwell, his companion, circled round and drove the deer toward him. The buck came direct to the edge of the log where Middlehouse was hiding and stopped, when Middlehouse sprang up and caught the deer around the neck. Then a grand tussle ensued, Middlehouse winning the first fall, but the buck was on its feet again in a moment. Farwell was too far away to give him any assistance, and by the time Farwell reached him Middlehouse was about worn out in his struggles to hold the deer, his clothing had nearly all been torn off and he had two big bruises on his side made by the buck's feet. Farwell finally came to his assistance, and the two placed a halter around the deer's neck and tied it to a tree. After resting for a time the men bound the deer's feet together and carted it back to its old home, from where, the next day, it was shipped to Grand Rapids, where it is to have a home in the city park.

A THREE-DAYS' DANCE.

The Longest Ball on Record, with Constant Relays of Musicians and Dancers.

What promises to be the longest ball on record will soon be held in Brighton, England, in the cause of charity. It is said it will last, continuously, for three days and three nights. Just how this will be managed has not yet been learned. It is possible, however, that it can be kept going by a careful arrangement of relays of musicians and dancers who will reel off the waltzes, mazurkas and schottisches one after the other. Probably a short interval will be allowed in the daytime for rest, and then the program resumed with increased ardor.

The entertainment, says the New York Journal, is to be given in the town hall, and the institution is to be benefited by it as a dispensary for the relief of the sick poor. There is a long list of titled people among the patronesses, and it is presumed that many members of the nobility named will grace the occasion by their presence. The duchess of Teck is the greatest "altesse" on the list, which also includes the countess of Munster, Baroness de Worms, Lady Ellis, Lady Pocock, and several score of the untitled gentry of the place. The lord lieutenant of the county, the marquis of Abergavenny, is the nominal head of the affair, but whether the authorship of the idea is his is not stated.

Creamed Oysters on Toast.

Drain 16 oysters in a sieve; melt half tablespoonful butter in the blazer, add half tablespoonful flour, cook two minutes; add half cupful milk and half cupful oyster liquor, season with half teaspoonful salt, one-eighth teaspoonful white pepper, stir and cook till smooth; add the oysters, cook a few minutes, pour over four slices of buttered toast and serve.—Chicago Tribune.

NATIONAL LAWMAKERS.

Proceedings of General Interest in Congress To-day.

Washington, Jan. 21.—In the senate this afternoon Mr. Turpie will continue his onslaught on the Nicaraguan canal bill, which is still the unfinished business. This the third day of which Mr. Turpie has consumed a part in his attack upon this bill. He likened the securities offered by the company for $100,000,000 of concessions by the government to bogus mortgages and Peter Funk securities, and quoted the company's estimate of cost and the government engineers' estimate to prove what he termed the "enormity of suppression practiced by the company." Mr. Chandler's bill for the representation of the United States at a monetary conference was postponed until next Tuesday. The senate has passed the bill for the erection of a new custom house in New York on the site of the present building at a cost not exceeding $5,000,000; appropriating $250,000 for one year's rental of temporary quarters, and appointing at a salary of $5,000 each five building commissioners. The bill now goes to the house. The resolution offered by Mr. Morgan as to Pacific railroad defaults was laid aside without action, and the one offered by Mr. Pettigrew as to the divisional line between Venezuela and British Guiana was referred to the committee on foreign relations. The joint resolution as to electric conduits in the city of Washington was again discussed, but it went over without action.

House of Representatives.

At 4:30 this afternoon the house will take a vote on the contested election case of Yost vs. Tucker from the Tenth Virginia district. The majority report of elections committee No. 3 favors Mr. Tucker, the sitting member, and there is no doubt that he will be permitted to retain his seat. A partial agreement of the conferees on the army appropriation bill was reported and agreed to, the house insisting upon further agreement to the senate amendments still in dispute. Bills were passed authorizing the construction of bridges across the Cumberland and Tennessee rivers in Kentucky; granting an American register to the bark E. C. Mowatt, owned in Philadelphia; authorizing the secretary of war to grant certificates showing the services of telegraphers in the war for the union; reducing the fees of land officers in the Pacific and Rocky Mountain states.

"LUCKY" BALDWIN WINS.

Miss Ashley Loses Her Suit for Betrayal. Both Scored by the Court.

San Francisco, Jan. 21.—Judge Stack of the superior court has rendered his decision in the case of Lillian Ashley, who sued E. J. Baldwin, the well known turfman, for $75,000 damages for betrayal, giving judgment for the defendant. This ends one of the most sensational cases ever tried in the state. Miss Ashley was born in Tunbridge, Vt., in 1868, and first met "Lucky" Baldwin during a visit to Boston in 1889. A friendship followed, Baldwin frequently meeting the girl while at the east and finally he brought her to California. After a time he grew tired of her, and she being left with an infant and no means of support, began a suit for damages. During the trial of the case Emma Ashley, a sister of the plaintiff, half crazed by privation and brooding over her sister's troubles, drew a revolver in court and fired point blank at Baldwin, narrowly missing him. She was acquitted by a jury of the charge of assault to murder. Judge Slack in his decision scores both the plaintiff and defendant. He says Baldwin is without a shred of honor, debased and immoral and although he is bound by all the laws of morality to provide for Miss Ashley's child, he is not legally bound to do so owing to the conduct of Miss Ashley prior to her marriage with Baldwin, as proven at the trial.

Venezuelan Arbitration Treaty.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The Anglo-Venezuelan arbitration treaty has been practically concluded, as Sir Julian Pauncefote is only awaiting a cablegram from Lord Salisbury, when he and Senor Andrade will sign the duplicate drafts and forward them to their respective governments. The formal conclusion of the treaty may take place at either the British embassy or the Venezuelan legation at any moment.

Railroad Rate Bill.

Hartford, Jan. 21.—Representative Neary of Naugatuck has introduced a bill which, if it becomes a law, will revolutionize the railroad business in this state. It provides that freight shall be carried for six cents per 100 pounds, milk one-half cent per quart, bicycles five cents each, passengers one cent per mile, open freight cars $3 for any distance within the state.

Congressman McMillin Weds.

IRISHMEN REJOICING

News of Ivory's Release Caused Great Surprise in America.

BELIEVED HE WAS TO BE RAILROADED

Tynan Refuses To Discuss McIntyre's Statement That It Was the Belief in London That He Was in League with the British Police.

London, Jan. 21.—After the collapse of the Ivory trial yesterday afternoon, and the discharge of the prisoner from custody, a representative of the United Associated Presses had an interview with John McIntyre, former assistant district attorney of New York county, who came from America to assist in Ivory's defense. Mr. McIntyre said that when he arrived in London he found that the British counsel retained for the defense were disposed to put in a plea of guilty, but he had advised against such a course, for the reason that there was no evidence to justify Ivory's conviction. Mr. McIntyre highly commended the fairness of Sir R. B. Finlay, the solicitor general, in adopting the same view as that held by Ivory's advisers. Mr. McIntyre allowed the reporter to understand that the case was still a mystery. "The evidence given by Mr. Coll, the proprietor of the hotel at Antwerp, at which Kearney and Haines stopped," Mr. McIntyre said, "showed that a stranger had driven to the hotel and delivered a message of warning to Kearney and Haines on Sept. 11, two days before they were arrested in Rotterdam. I believe that the stranger was an agent of the police, and that the collapse of the government's case was due to him. The general opinion seems to be," continued Mr. McIntyre, "that Tynan and Kearney were in league with the police, and that nothing serious was intended by the police, who let the men go about as they chose. It is my belief, and that of many others, that the police did not intend to arrest any of the men, but an over-zealous detective at Boulogne gave them away, by exposing the identy of Tynan." The general drift of comment upon the collapse of the case in London is that the whole thing was a police "fake." In discharging Ivory, Justice Hawkins said to him: "Keep no more doubtful company. It might bring you into grave trouble. Look to your future."

THE NEWS AT NEW YORK.

Ivory To Be Given a Grand Reception on His Return Home.

New York, Jan. 21.—The news of the discharge of Ivory came as a surprise to Irishmen here, for even the prisoner had looked upon the matter as a cut-and-dried affair. William Lyman, president of the Irish National alliance, who especially engaged John F. McIntyre in the defense of Ivory, when seen this morning said: "The withdrawal of the prosecution is the biggest blow that Scotland Yard has ever received. The English public has now had its eyes opened, and it can figure up for itself how many of the other unfortunate so-called dynamiters who were convicted on perjured testimony and who were driven mad, like Dr. Gallagher and Whitehead, were innocent. This is the first time that any defense has ever been attempted by an Irish-American arrested in England. The policy has been to leave them to their fate in the belief that it would be impossible to obtain justice from an English jury. I am glad of the result, as it will do a lot of good. I may say now that the prosecution did everything in its power to have Ivory plead guilty, saying that he would receive a nominal sentence or have sentence suspended. What will they do now with their informer, Jones? It is the only one thing I am sorry for since this fiasco that Ivory did not get an opportunity to show the scoundrel up in his true colors. But think how Jones must have gulled Scotland Yard. Why, Ivory had witnesses ready to prove that Jones, ever since he started from this country at the bidding of Scotland Yard, tried to induce men in Dublin to work up dynamite plots.

Tynan Refuses To Talk.

P. J. P. Tynan, the alleged Irish dynamiter, was at his home in Audubon Park, but refused to be seen or make any statement as to Ivory's acquittal or the statement of former Assistant District Attorney McIntyre that Tynan and Kearney were in league with the police. Mr. Tynan was not aware of the acquittal until informed of it in a note sent to him by a representative of the United Associated Presses. He sent back this word: "I am more than overjoyed at the news and profoundly grateful." Mr. Tynan also sent word that he is preparing a written statement on the whole affair which he will give to the newspapers over his own signature. He does not know when the statement will be finished, but expects to have it finished in the course of one or two days. "The Municipal," Ivory's saloon in this city, was the scene of great rejoicing last evening. A cable dispatch was received there from Ivory which read: "To the 'Municipal.' Released. Set 'em up. Ed." In a few minutes over a hundred of Ivory's friends had gathered. A committee was appointed to purchase flags and several hundred American and Irish flags were hung upon the face of the building. The windows of the upper floors of the house were trimmed with flags and an American banner was suspended across the street.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.

Fair Tonight and Friday; Slightly Colder.

At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 49 Degrees.

THE KEY TO ONE PROPOSITION.

There has been introduced into the Legislature a bill that imposes a tax of an additional one-half per cent. on railroad and canal property, in addition to the one and a half per cent. now paid, the increase to go to the taxing district in which the property is located. This is the bill, it is said, that has prompted the corporation influences to suggest the proposition that $500 tax exemption be taken away from the exempt firemen, in order that the assessed valuation all through the State be increased and thus render unnecessary the additional levy on the corporations. But the firemen are up in arms over the proposition to take away this exemption, and the bill noted above will doubtless receive vigorous opposition from them.

INSURANCE RATES.

Elizabeth officials are considering the question of a paid fire department the same as suggested for Plainfield by Mayor Fisk. The high rate of insurance is said to be one of the incentives that prompts the proposition in Elizabeth, the belief gaining ground that a more efficient and reliable department will result in lower premiums. Plainfield's experience in relation to fire insurance rates seems to be that the better the fire department the higher the premiums go.

WILL RETIRE TO PRIVATE LIFE.

Those high in power have tendered the appointment of Chief of Police to Street Commissioner Robert Meeker, since it is known that Mr. Meeker will not accept a reappointment to his present position at the reduced salary. But Mr. Meeker will not permit his name to be used in connection with the police department. It is his intention to again engage in his profession—that of a civil engineer.

IT WOULD BE MEDDLESOME.

If the Legislature attempts to increase the salaries of Jersey City and Newark police officials, it will be a most meddlesome and excessive use of authority. The salaries of such officers are paid by the locality they serve and if there is any liberality in that direction it should come from the people upon whom the burden of payment will fall.

ERROR IN THE AMENDMENTS.

Editor A. V. D. Honeyman's Law Journal for January calls attention to the facts the proposed amendments to the State Constitution do not provide for the election of State Senators.

In Possession of the Mansion.

The annual meeting of the Revolutionary Memorial Society, of New Jersey, was held at the Wallace House, near Somerville, on Saturday, and the society took formal possession of the historic old mansion. The present occupants, the family of George Washington Cooper, will surrender the house on March 25th, when a caretaker will be installed, and the famous residence will be open to the public. An earnest effort is being made to provide suitable furniture, as well as relics of the Revolutionary period, for the adornment of the Wallace House. One of the curiosities donated was a photograph reproduction of what is said to be the only military proclamation of General Washington. This is a "call to arms" issued to the inhabitants of the "Jerseys" after the battle of Trenton. The donor was Wm. R. Weeks, of Newark.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping-Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Secretary Manning to Lead.

Harry Manning, secretery of the Y. M. C. A., will lead the young people's meeting at the First Baptist church, this evening. Miss Alice Spangenburg will be the leader tomorrow evening. The meetings begin at 7:30 o'clock and are held in the basement of the church.

J. H. MULLINS IN MICHIGAN.

The Firm Has Made Large Purchases in the Furniture District.

J. H. Mullins, son of John Mullins and T. J. Curtin, buyers for the firm, have been visiting the furniture factories in Michigan. The "Michigan Artisian," of Grand Rapids, has the following account of their visit to that city.

J. H. Mullins and T. J. Curtin, representing Mullins & Sons, of Newark, Jersey City, Paterson and Brooklyn, are two buyers in the market, and both are charmed with their experience, not only in a business way, but socially, as well. Both say that the funiture boys out here are the best entertainers they have ever seen. "It is our first visit here," said Mr. Curtin, "but I assure you it will not be the last. You will find us out here twice a year hereafter. We are not surprised at what we have seen, at the magnitude of the market. I do not believe that half the large buyers in the East know anything about the size of the display. It is simply bewildering beside of the others. About our business? Well, we are large buyers, the four stores taking a good deal of goods. We handle only medium and high grade goods. The fact is we did not expect to buy anything on this trip at all. It was more of a reconnoiter than anything else, but we have been so much pleased that we shall probably leave $50,000 in the town."

Mr. Mullins was asked about the business of the past season and said "We did almost double what we ever did in any one year before, and we propose to make the effort to beat it this coming year. We certainly expect business to be good, and we are going to prepare for it."

Mr. Mullins expects to leave in a day or two for a trip to California, for pleasure only, and Mr. Curtin may go with him.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Peter Trimmer spent Saturday and Sunday among friends in Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Randolph were guests, yesterday, of O. M. Hetfield.

Thomas Cady, who has been the guest of Josephine Maier, for a few days past, left for Trenton, yesterday.

Miss May Gise has returned home after her visit with friends in Trenton and New York for the past three months.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson, who recently exchanged their farm for Brooklyn property, are visiting among friends here.

Skating was never better at New Market pond than it was yesterday and a large crowd enjoyed it for all it was bitter cold.

Sheriff Litterst, of New Brunswick, was in town yesterday, looking up evidence and serving papers in an important will case.

Despite the fall of snow, yesterday afternoon, a hundred or more young persons, gathered on the New Market pond and apparently enjoyed the skating.

The new heating apparatus in the Presbyterian church was completed, yesterday, and fire was started in it for the first time. The heater seems to give universal satisfaction.

The Dunellen Gun Club will hold a live bird shoot Wednesday, January 27th, shooting to begin at 1 p. m. sharp. All lovers of pigeon shooting are invited to attend this shoot.

The crack checker players of this place, which includes a number of railroad men, will meet for friendly practice in their club room, W. H. Cole's office, tomorrow evening.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church will give a sociable at the residence of Mrs. Emily Apgar, on Front street, this evening. There will be both vocal and instrumental music, followed by the serving of refreshments.

The supper and dance given by the ladies of St. John's church, Friday evening, netted the church about $60. The extreme cold weather kept many people away, but there was nevertheless enough present to purchase all the cakes, fruit and other eatables offered for sale.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Rev. A. I. Martine, who died on Tuesday, will take place from the Presbyterian church, on Friday afternoon at 2.45 o'clock. The pastors of the Dunellen and New Market churches will assist at the service, and the remains will be taken to Flemington for interment in the family plot.

Some of Dunellen's prematurely rapid young men got in o an altercation near the new town hall, while the St. John's church fair was in progress, Tuesday evening, and several discolored eyes was the result. The fellows who created the disturbance would have got only their just deserts if they had been admitted into the hall and locked up into cosy cells there.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Fred Clark is now seen on the streets with a handsome new hack.

In spite of the cold weather and the recent snow, work has continued at the mountain stone crushers and a large quantity of crushed stone is being stored away so as to be in readiness for the spring market.

Died Very Suddenly.

The death of Mrs. John Allen, mother of Mrs. John Shepherd, of New street, occurred yesterday at her home at Annandale, N. J. While at the store on an errand she was taken with an apoplectic fit. This was about 8 o'clock yesterday morning and four hours later she died. She was a most estimable woman and well thought of by all.

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

THEATRICAL.

We have heard so much of Mr. Chevalier as a "Coster" singer—that is to say, as an impersonator of types of the class peculiar to London and its environs who, as peddlers or costermongers, hawk provisions about the streets—that we have come to think of his attainments as limited to this character of impersonation, but Chevalier has shown himself a true artist in the impersonations of the London costermonger. A better illustration and proof of the possibility of realism that shall be vivid and exact, and yet practice a wise reserve and selection, could scarcely be imagined. The man he depicts, stirs, glows, reeks with life, and with his own familiar life, and yet always stops short of the offensive. That Mr. Chevalier has had diversified experience as an actor before he embraced the specialty, which has won him international fame, can well be believed. His versatility is remarkable, and he adds to the graces of an artistic nature the finish of the trained actor who never loses a point. Chevalier and his great company will be at Music Hall next Tuesday evening.

SCANDALS IN POSTOFFICES.

Federal Grand Jury Likely to Bring to Light Interesting Facts.

It is currently rumored that the United States Grand Jury, which met yesterday in Trenton, will have some sensational disclosures made before it about alleged scandals in connection with the appointment of postmasters during the present Administration.

It is rumored that former Postmaster Edward O'Farrell, of Bayonne, who is in the Hudson County jail because of a shortage in his accounts, has been promised immunity if he will reveal certain matters regarding the sale of New Jersey postoffices.

It will be the duty of this United States Grand Jury to investigate the charge against O'Farrell and how his shortage came about. When this is done, it is asserted, surprising revelations will be brought to light.

THE HAT QUESTION.

Shall a Woman Lawyer Remove Her Hat in Court?

Shall a woman lawyer take off her hat in court or leave it on? This new phrase of the hat question is a vexed one. In Canada, where women have recently been admitted to the Bar, it is prescribed that they shall remove their hats and wear black gowns.

On the other hand, when Miss Mary Philbrook, the young New Jersey lawyer tried her first case, and asked the judge whether or not she should take off her hat, he told her "to do as she liked." Miss Philbrook, who is a very bright young woman will address the suffrage meeting at Y. M. C. A. hall tomorrow, Friday afternoon, at 2:30. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Slipped and Hurt Herself.

While passing the City Market on North avenue, yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Gray, of 639 LaGrande avenue, slipped on the snow on the iron door that leads to the cellar which lies flush with the sidewalk. She was conveyed to her home in a cab by Dr. J. T. Fritts. The shock was a severe one and she complained of pains in her head. She was not injured, otherwise, however.

EVOLUTION OF SMOKING.

King Nicotine Began His Reign in a Modest Way.

But Now Vassals and Serfs in Every Part of the Civilized and Barbaric World Acknowledge His Despotic Sway.

[Special New York Letter.]

It has been said that the tobacco habit is a curse to humanity. On the other hand, thousands are blessing the plant whose fumes afford them pleasure and consolation. Tobacco is held to be the friend of the rich and poor alike, and the laboring man after a hard day's work finds just as much pleasure in his clay pipe as the millionaire in his Havana. Some of the greatest men are warm advocates of the smoking habit, and many of them have produced their greatest works under the beneficent influence of the narcotic leaves. Tennyson and his pipe were inseparable friends. It was his steady companion from morning until evening, and the thicker the clouds of smoke would belch from it the faster the inspiring thoughts came to the poet. And so it is with many other mental toilers.

SIXTEENTH CENTURY CIGAR.

The first historical mention of tobacco was made by Columbus. When the great discoverer landed at the islands of the West Indies he and his crew saw with great astonishment how the natives smoked dried herbs. In his report he says: "They are dried herbs, rolled in a broad, dried leaf; they look like the small muskets which Spanish children use on Pentecost. On one end they are lighted, and on the other end the people sucked and drank the smoke by inhalation. They get drunk from it, but it evidently prevents them from getting tired. They call these small muskets tabacos." Little did the invaders think at the time that 400 years later tobacco would rule the world, and that the production of the herb would amount to over 2,000,000,000 pounds yearly, at the value of hundreds of millions of dollars.

For a long time after its discovery tobacco remained a stranger to the European nations. The Spanish settlers and adventurers in the new world accustomed themselves soon to the use of the herb, but the "barbarian custom" did not make any notable progress. In the middle of the sixteenth century smoking sailors could be seen occasionally in European ports, but their example was not followed by the people in general. The cigars of that time were about the shape and size of a candle. It was not the cigar, however, which was destined to conquer the old world, but the pipe. Only with the advent of the latter began the victorious march of the narcotic herb around the globe.

In the course of time the Europeans in America became acquainted with various ways of smoking. The Aztecs in Mexico used peculiar pipes, about the manufacture of which the Franciscan monk, Bernardino de Sahagun reports the following: "Those Indians who sell pipes for the inhalation of tobacco smoke cut reeds and clean these of the leaves. Then they are coated with finely pulverized wet charcoal and painted with flowers and animals. They also have such pipes where the painting only shows after long use. Some are finely gilded. The pipes are filled with the dry leaves of the tobacco and other aromatic herbs, rose leaves, etc., and then they are lighted."

When Ponce de Leon visited Florida for the first time he found the natives devoted to the tobacco habit, but their way of indulging in it was different from the Aztecs. The Floridans used hollow vessels of burned clay into which they inserted reed pipes. The vessels were filled with the dry tobacco leaves, and the smoke drawn through the reed. This smoking utensil was the prototype of the tobacco pipe of to-day, but did not attain any popularity at first. Six decades later Sir Walter Raleigh landed with his expedition in Virginia, where the colonists came in close contact with the native Indians. The latter used the same kind of tobacco pipes as the Floridans, and soon the colonists had accustomed themselves to the use of the herb. The mathematician, Thomas Hariot, a former teacher of Sir Walter, wrote the first letters to Europe praising the qualities of tobacco. The Virginia colony was no success, and Sir Francis Drake brought the men back to England, landing them in 1586 in Plymouth harbor. Here they created great astonishment, for tobacco smoking was seen for the first time in England. The Indian clay pipes found admirers and the habit of the returning colonists was contagious. Soon one could see everywhere in England men with tobacco pipes, and in 1598 smoking in London theaters was common. The herb was imported from America, but the burned clay pipes were manufactured by English potters, and as early as 1619 the guild of London pipemakers was incorporated. In 1590 English students introduced the habit in Holland. The fact that tobacco smoking temporarily overcomes hunger and thirst made it soon popular in the English and Dutch armies, and during the Thirty Years' war the soldiers of Wallenstein and Tilly acquired the habit from them.

During the Seventeenth century tobacco was smoked from pipes formed after the Virginia pattern, but with the increasing popularity of the smoking habit efforts were made to improve and perfect the smoker's utensils, and many were the changes in style and material during the evolution of the rude Indian pipe to the perfect and artistic specimens of our day.

In the civilized countries cigar and cigarette smoking has during the last few decades largely crowded out the tobacco pipe, but the by far larger majority of smoking humanity all over the globe still adheres to the pipe, which in many cases has become a national characteristic.

The Turk loves the chibook, with its red clay bowl, its long stem of weichsel and its mouthpiece of amber, and frequently adorns it with gold and precious stones. In the farther orient, in Arabia, Persia and India, the water pipe or nargileh is in high favor.

The Japanese smoke from metal pipes, which are frequently of the most exquisite workmanship, being inlaid with gold and silver. In the country of the mikado even young girls smoke dainty little pipes the size of a thimble which have short brownish bamboo stems with metal mouthpieces.

The Kirghese bore a side hole into a mutton bone, fill the narrow cavity with tobacco and smoke through this primitive apparatus. Very simple is a Siberian pipe, which consists of the hollowed root of a tree. Next to this another pipe of the same country made of roughly-carved wood and adorned with tin mountings looks like a work of art. The latter pipe has also something which no other pipe possesses—an adjustable wooden protector for the bone mouthpiece.

It has been asserted that not all of the tobacco pipes of the Asiatic and 1, Spoon Pipe of New Zealand; 2, Kiko Pipe of the Makraka; 3, Siberian Pipe; 4, Double Pipe of the Niam-Niam.

African peoples have grown out of the North American pattern, but that the smoking habit was cultivated by some tribes before the discovery of America. There are no assured facts to this effect, but many circumstances point to the conclusion that the black race smoked long before the Caucasians. It was not tobacco, however, but the common, intoxicating leaves of the hemp and "dacha," another specific African kind of hemp. Leaves of other plants may also have served the purpose. How primitive their way of smoking must have been can be seen to-day among the Bechuans in Africa. A Bechuan constructs his pipe by forming a small sandhill with a crater-like opening, which he fills with hemp, dacha, tobacco, or other combustible material. Then he puts a glowing ember on top, and after inserting a tube through the sand to the pipe, he enjoys the smoke lying on his stomach.

Few things can be said about the native Australian smokers. They are not passionate smokers, and excepting the wooden spoonpipe, with the stem of bird's bone of the New Zealanders, the pipe of the Papuans of Roon island, and the "baubau" of the New Guinea tribes, one does not find interesting varieties. The "baubau" is a piece of bamboo more than a yard long, open on one end and having a side hole, like a flute, in it. A cigarette is put into the latter, the bamboo is filled with smoke by sucking at the open end, and the smoke inhaled through the side hole after removing the cigarette. This is the most tedious way of smoking in the world.

The shah of Persia owns the costliest and most magnificent pipe on earth. It is incrusted with rare and precious stones and said to be valued at $400,000. Capt. Crabbe, in Brussels, owns the most complete collection of pipes, consisting of over 5,000 specimens, and including pipes of all periods, countries and materials.

Sending Money in Letters.

An old post office inspector says: "Money never should be inclosed in letters for transmission through the mails. In the first place, it is unnecessary to do so, because money orders are so cheap; and, in the second place, money in a letter offers a constant temptation to those who handle mail. It is practicably impossible to place money in a letter so that the postal clerk into whose hands the letter falls will not instantly detect it. Paper money has a peculiar odor unlike anything else on earth, and the clerk who is dishonest uses his sense of smell in spotting valuable [illegible] rather than the sense of to[illegible]

PROMISING YOUNG MAN.

He Wins Distinction by His Reliability and Integrity.

How Leroy J. McNeely, a Mere Youngster, Secured Executive Action by the Secretary of the Navy, Single-Handed and Alone.

[Special Washington Letter.]

This is a story of commendable endeavor and noteworthy achievement.

Very often in the newspapers and sometimes on signs in front of store doors we see the words: "Boy wanted." But did it ever occur to you how few boys there are to be had, who are worth having, to merchants and other business men?

Four years ago I wanted a boy; an honest, industrious and educated boy. You may advertise day after day for weeks and possibly for months, and not get a good, well-bred, honorable, gentlemanly, capable boy. But when you also want a boy who can write shorthand and transcribe on a typewriter the difficulty becomes the more pronounced.

HE WAS WILLING TO LEARN.

A long-time personal friend one Sunday afternoon came to my house and introduced a slender, modest, unpretentious youth, who had seen so little of the world that he blushed like a schoolgirl when he was addressed and made answer to inquiries. He did not claim to be an expert stenographer or rapid typewriter. He simply wanted an opportunity to develop what talent he might possess, and he was willing to learn. Gentlemen who had known him from the cradle spoke of him in the highest terms. He seemed to be just the boy wanted, and he went to work.

Gradually, timidly, gingerly he began to learn the corridors, committee rooms and offices in the big capitol building; the places where news items are obtained by the diligent correspondents of metropolitan newspapers. Within a month he knew all of the routine work, and performed it like a veteran. He was, first of all, a reliable young man. Not one out of a thousand is always and under all circumstances reliable. But when this young man had learned the work he did it well, and, when evening came, his employer was satisfied that no news item had escaped the vigilance of the youthful worker. He was well assured that the young man had done his duty every day, just as well and as faithfully as his employer could have done it for himself.

Then the young man had another lesson to learn, and it was not so easy. Diffident men may learn places, things and dates without embarrassment, but when it comes to making acquaintances with many men it is different. This young man was obliged to become acquainted with a number of senators and representatives in congress. He not only was obliged to become acquainted with them, but to see them every day, and ask them all sorts of questions.

He was taught to approach public men as the fully accredited representative of his employer. Public men were told that the young man could be trusted with private affairs, and they were requested to talk freely with him. His modesty of demeanor proved to be captivating, and he soon won his way into the regard and esteem of many men. He worked for a man who represented daily newspapers in Philadelphia, New York, Detroit, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Omaha and other cities. Therefore he was obliged to become acquainted with the senators and representatives from Pennsylvania, New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and other western states.

You may well imagine that it was no easy task. Your young friends will understand very well that it must have been embarrassing to meet with popular political leaders from various sections of the country. It would embarrass any young man. But it was a part of the duty of the profession which this lad sought to learn, and he went about it systematically and diligently, and within a few months he was as much at home on the floor of the house of representatives during the hour before the daily assembly as any of the veteran newspaper men there. With note book in hand he plied the statesmen with questions, wrote down their answers and produced a good budget of news every evening. He was complimented for his work and his salary was raised a little at a time, without any request being made by him. This showed practical appreciation of his work, and stimulated him to further endeavor. He familiarized himself with the executive departments, and gathered valuable news there when congress was not in session.

The day before Lieut. Gen. Schofield retired from command of the army, this young reporter, then but little past his nineteenth birthday, called upon the old commander in his office at the war department, and secured from him an interesting interview concerning his feelings and regrets at severng his connection with the army after a lifetime of service. Older and more experienced newspaper men tried to interview the lieutenant general, but he would not talk to any of them.

When Gen. Miles was placed in command of the army this growing young man prepared all the facts for a seven-column article in a prominent newspaper in the east, giving historical facts concerning all the commanders of the American army from George Washington to Nelson A. Miles. It was excellent work.

But the boy was now getting to be a man, and he was ambitious to work for himself. He sought and secured employment from a daily paper in Wheeling, W. Va., and proceeded to render efficient service, albeit his salary was meager. He still retained his connection with the newspaper man under whose training he had grown, but he reached out for himself in a commendable manner.

He became intensely interested in the affairs of West Virginia. Having ascertained at the navy department that within a year a number of new cruisers would be named after principal cities of the country, this young man filed an application for the city of Wheeling, soliciting the secretary of the navy to name one of the new cruisers of the navy after the principal city of West Virginia. His application was placed on file, but nothing would have come of it but for the energy and determination of character which the young man displayed. He wrote articles about the application, incited action on the part of the citizens of Wheeling, and then urged Senators Faulkner and Elkins to go to the secretary of the navy and request that one of the cruisers be named Wheeling. They did so, but had little hope of accomplishing anything by their requests.

But the young reporter was hopeful, earnest and audacious. He kept track of the proceedings in the navy department, and when the cruisers were about to be named he called upon Postmaster-General Wilson, who had been a West Virginia congressman for 12 years, and urged him to see the secretary of the navy in behalf of his application that one of the cruisers be named Wheeling. In compliance with this request the postmaster-general saw the secretary of the navy and suggested the propriety of naming a cruiser after the city of Wheeling. And it was done.

When you remember that few men of experience in public life have the courage to approach a member of the cabinet with suggestions, particularly concerning a proposed important executive action, you will realize that this young man exhibited considerable moral courage and displayed an unusual amount of self-reliance. He was seeking nothing for himself, asking no individual favor, but was pressing the claims of a prominent city to recognition in an important matter. He wisely and sagaciously discerned the necessity of political influence to accomplish his object, and hence called upon statesmen who had been honored by the suffrage of the people of West Virginia. Moreover, he urged them to go to the front. His last aggressive movement deserves particular praise.

He knew that Postmaster General Wilson and Secretary of the Navy Herbert had served together in the national house of representatives for at least half a score of years, and that their personal and political relations were of the most cordial nature. He knew that if the postmaster general could be induced to make an earnest plea to the secretary of the navy, his request would most likely be granted. Therefore he sought the postmaster general at the most opportune time and solicited his interest in the case. By so doing he clinched his arguments and appeals and achieved success in his undertaking. You may well believe that he was a proud young man when he was able to telegraph his paper at Wheeling that one of the new cruisers had been named Wheeling.

On Wednesday evening, November 10, the city council of Wheeling passed resolutions of thanks to the secretary of the navy, to the senators, to the postmaster general, and also to Leroy J. McNeely, the young newspaper man who originated the idea and fostered it until success was won. It is believed that this is the only instance in which any one newspaper man has been influential or potential in securing executive action favorable to any city in the matter of the naming of a cruiser for the new navy. Heretofore the honor has been conferred in compliance with the action of municipal and state authorities, petitioning through their congressional representatives. In this instance, the originator, promoter and guardian of the idea was one man, and he but barely attaining his majority.

NERVOUS SICK HEADACHE,

Weakness and Prostration Cured by Dr. Greene's Nervura

Mrs. Elmer Craig, No. Peoria, Ill., says:—"I was stricken with nervous disease, which affected my heart, head and stomach. I got no relief from the terrible sick headaches, pains in the heart and stomach until I used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

MRS. ELMER CRAIG.

I would get so nervous and weak I could not walk across the room without terrible palpitation of the heart. I had not taken one bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, before my head and eyes were cleared of their dull aching, and I am growing stronger every day. I cannot do half justice in the praise of this medicine."

If constipated, use Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills with the Nervura.

Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

POLITICS FROWNED UPON.

National Guard Association Wants Military Fitness To Rule Appointments.

Albany, Jan. 21.—The afternoon session of the National Guard association was full of spice. The delegates put themselves on record as condemning political selections of men to wear uniforms in high positions. The members of the governor's staff came in for a share of criticism, and a pretty severe slap was administered to the deposed inspector-general, McLewee. Major Smith of the Seventh regiment, New York, offered the following resolution, which was apparently aimed at Gen. McLewee's methods pursued during the late canvass for the position of adjutant-general: "Resolved, That it is the sense of this association that the practice of circulating or signing by officers of the National Guard of petitions requesting or recommending the selection or appointment of staff officers or their assistants is unmilitary, unwise and prejudicial to the best interests of the service." The resolution was adopted without debate. Gen. Robert Shaw Oliver of the Third brigade made what was regarded as an attack on the present system of distributing high offices in the guard to civilians. The business of the session was about to close, when Gen. Oliver arose and made a few pointed remarks. He said he would like to see an expression given of the desire of the association that politicians and political generals and colonels be wiped out. He believed that all the high officers in the guard belonged to the National Guard, and that the governor would meet them half way in the matter. A committee was appointed to draw up and transmit to the governor resolutions embodying Gen. Oliver's views. The committee adopted resolutions asking that no appointments be made in the guard except for strictly military reasons; that staff officers be examined as to their fitness to hold their high positions; that all appointments above the rank of major be restricted to officers who have served five years in the guard; and that permission be granted to prepare the necessary amendments to the military code to carry the above amendments into permanent effect.

DEATH OF PROF. DURYEE.

A Prominent Member of the Faculty of Rutgers College.

New Brunswick, N. J., Jan. 21.—William Rankin Duryee, D. D., professor of Ethics, Evidences of Christianity and the English Bible at Rutgers college, who died yesterday at the age of 59 years, was born in Newark, and was a brother of the late George B. Duryee, commissioner of banking and insurance. He studied law with Frederick T. Frelinghuysen, secretary of state under President Arthur, and later entered the ministry. He was chaplain of the 1st Kentucky infantry during the war. In 1877 he was appointed a trustee of Rutgers college, and in 1891 appointed to the professorship which he held at the time of his death. The professorship was endowed by the late Theodore Frelinghuysen. He leaves a widow, a son, the Rev. George W. Duryee, and three daughters. The funeral will take place Sunday, and the interment will be in New York.

SCHRADER AT BRIDGEPORT.

The "Divine Healer" Does a Thriving Business.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 21.—Schrader, the "divine healer," has been doing a thriving business since he reached this city. More than 1,000 people, suffering from ailments of every description, have so far called upon him. He prayed over them, blessed their handkerchiefs and told them they would get well. They all said they felt better even while he spoke, and feel certain of a permanent cure. Nothing has yet been seen here to guarantee this. The healer charges nothing for his work, but a contribution box is handy where those who feel disposed to help him may do so. The street in front of his room is thronged all day, many of the sufferers being brought to him in carriages.

Convicted of Attempted Arson.

Hollidaysburg, Pa., Jan. 21.—R. Bruce Hutchinson, a young merchant of Juniata, this county, was convicted in court yesterday afternoon of solicitation to burn the store building of his business competitors. The evidence established the fact that Hutchinson had offered four men the sum of $100 as an inducement to perpetrate the crime. The fire department thwarted the work of the incendiaries.

Statistics of American Vessels.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The commissioner of navigation reports that American vessels built and documented during the first six months of the fiscal year number 384, of 113,572 tons, compared with 328 of 88,390 for the first six months of the previous fiscal year, indicating the largest annual output within the last fourteen years, except that of 1890 and 1891.

Dr. Bell Must Go to Prison.

Newcastle, Pa., Jan. 21.—Judge Miller has refused a motion for a new trial in the case of Dr. H. W. Bell, convicted of criminal practice, and sentenced him to pay costs, a $500 fine and undergo imprisonment in the Western penitentiary for four years and two months.

PEFFER DEFEATED

Wm. A. Harris Nominated for Senator by Kansas Populists.

TOOK ELEVEN BALLOTS TO DECIDE

Kenny Leaves for Washington To Present His Credentials as Senator from Delaware—Pritchard and the North Carolina Populists.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 21.—Ex-congressman William A. Harris was chosen United States senator to succeed William A. Peffer by the populist caucus last night on the eleventh ballot. Peffer was practically out of the race long before the final ballot.

DELAWARE SENATORSHIP.

Kenney Leaves for Washington To Present His Credentials—Rump Manifesto.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 21.—Richard R. Kenney, whose certificate of election as United States senator was signed by the speaker and clerks of the legislature and by Gov. Tunnell yesterday afternoon, left this morning for Washington to present his claims for the seat now claimed by Mr. Dupont. The Addicks, or "rump," general assembly held two sessions yesterday, at the first of which Mr. Addicks was declared elected United States senator. Late in the afternoon the body adjourned sine die, after having listened to the reading of a long manifesto, which was adopted, reviewing the political situation in the state. An appeal is made to congress to see that the constitutional guarantee of a republican form of government for each state is made a fact. In conclusion the manifesto declares "that the last general election in this state was fraudulently determined by the state boards of canvass, and that men claiming seats in both houses of congress bear credentials made invalid by fraud, and, in behalf of the people of the state, we petition for a recount under the direction and supervision of a commission appointed by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of the votes cast at the last general election in Delaware."

STATEMENT BY PRITCHARD.

Says His Re-election Shows That Middle of the Road Populists Are in the Saddle.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 21.—The following statement was issued by Senator Pritchard after his re-election yesterday to the senate: "This victory means that the middle of the road populists are in the saddle. It means that Col. Skinner is not only the leader of the populist party in North Carolina, but by his able management of his interest, he has demonstrated the fact that he will rank in the future as the leader of the populist cause. He has observed every pledge that his party made to the republican party two years ago, and in so doing he has not required a single pledge from me or any other republican, and without any sacrifice of the silver cause, because he knows I occupy the same position now I did two years ago."

Statue to Maj. L'Enfant.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Congressman Morse has introduced in the house of representatives a bill to build a bronze statue to Maj. Peter Charles L'Enfant, the French engineer who laid out the city of Washington. The statue is to cost not exceeding $50,000 and is to be erected on a government reservation under the direction of a commission of five.

Death of Senator Harris' Wife.

Washington, Jan. 21.—News has been received here that Mrs. Harris, wife of the veteran senator from Tennessee, died near Paris, Tenn., Tuesday night, and will be interred at Memphis. Senator Harris, himself an invalid, left Washington a few days ago, to be at the bedside of his dying wife.

CYCLING COMMENT.

A meeting of the Cleveland Cyclers was held on Monday night and routine business transacted. Final arrangements were also made for the club's ball which will be held this evening.

The reason for the resignation of A. H. Chamberlain from the board of officers of the Union County Roadsters was caused by his poor health and his name was left from the list this year at his own request.

The membership report of the League of American Wheelmen shows a marked increase for the last week; 223 new members were received making a total of 73,245 members in the League. In the New Jersey Division, 10 new members were received making a total of 4,735 members in the State.

Mrs. Lindsey Wooley and daughter, of Westfield, visited relatives on Liberty street, yesterday.

PASSING COMMENT.

Some people have little or no conception of the pleasant (?) task of chasing around for news. A lady from Bound Brook, who is visiting friends on Liberty street, was introduced to a Press representative, yesterday, and when told his mission seemed somewhat astonished and said: "Gracious! do you have to run around town and look for news? I never thought of such a thing."

The price asked for the Rushmore property at the corner of Watchung avenue and Fourth street, is said to be $30,000. A number of commuters were discussing the subject at the North avenue station, this morning, and they all agreed that the Central Railroad Company very much needed the property, in order to lay out a nice park on the south side of the track, but seemed to be the universal opinion that the price asked was a trifle too high.

* * * *

Three little girls from the lower classes in the Bryant Public School, were walking along East Fifth street the other day talking of their school. One of them, evidently from a higher class than her companions, was imparting some wonderful information to the others. The strange teachings of the georgraphy were the most astonishing of all. It was the revolution of the earth that was the chief topic of discussion.

"Yes," she explained to the two little tots that listened wonderingly beside her, "when we go to sleep, the world turns over in the night and we're all upside down."

Such information was too much for one of the other little tots and she asked, "Why didn't we fall out of bed then?"

BOWLERS BROKE EVEN.

Plainfield Catholic Club Win and Lose a Game Away From Home.

The Plainfield Catholic Club bowling team went to Elizabeth last evening and met the Y. M. C. L. A. team in two match games, one of which they lost and the other they won. The bowling on both sides was rather light; although the Plainfield boys held their own in good shape. Reville was high man for the visitors and he put up an even game, as did also the rest of the team with the exception of Keeffe, who in the first game put up a score of 98 against one of 160 in the second game. The home team bowled fairly good games, but they did not discount the boys from this city. Below are the scores in full:

OFFENDED AT A MINISTER'S REMARK

Rev. Mr. Newell Comments on a Custom of Rathbone Sisters.

A remark made by Rev. G. Kennedy Newell in his sermon at Hope chapel Sunday has caused a small sized row among some of the members.

Rev. Mr. Newell is reported as having said that he did not want to be called on again to preach a sermon at a funeral where another Spirit besides that of the Deity was believed in.

It is a custom of their order that when a member dies to release a dove, the custom implying the carrying of the spirit of the departed one to the home above.

Rev. Mr. Newell does not believe in this and said so pointedly.

This is alleged to have been directed at the members of the Rathbone Sisters, an auxiliary of the Red Men.

Many of Hope Chapel members are members of the Rathbone Sisters and there was much adverse comment about Mr. Newell's remark.

What will be the outcome remains to be seen.

WE SAID!

In announcing our great "Retiring Sale" that it would be the greatest Business Event in the history of Plainfield, but we had no idea that it was going to be such an avalanche as it proved to be.

Christmas crowds were no comparison to the immense throngs of last Saturday and Monday, the two first days of the sale.

Considering the fact that it was merely announced in two papers only one day before, and in the dull season of the year, the demonstration was a perfect marvel in merchandising. The delivery department was completely overwhelmed, and kept busy up to 10 o'clock at night.

The immense attendance upon this sale, and the many expressions of regret at Edsall's retiring from the Commercial Palace, evidences the continued popularity of this house, and the manifest confidence of the people in its integrity and honest dealings.

Everything all through the various departments sells fast.

Everybody seems delighted with the extremely low prices.

The sale is regarded by everybody as a boon to those who wish to make a little money go a good ways.

Come in as early in the morning as you can.

We have on an extra large force of salespeople, but in the afternoon the rush is so great that it is almost impossible to avoid delay.

BLACK FACES AND JOKES

CRESCENT WHEELMEN WILL HAVE A GREAT MINSTREL SHOW.

The Rehearsals Now Going On—An Old Time Funny First Part—To End With a Genuine Cake Walk For a Prize.

The Crescent Wheelmen's minstrels are still a thing of the future, but the prospects for a successful show are very bright and everything points to an evening of pleasure and delight. The show last year was excellent, but it promises to be better on this occasion. The funny things will be funny, the spectacular effects will be up to date and the music and songs will be new and catchy, which makes up for a multitude of other things.

The general plan of the show has been arranged and some of the details have been looked after. The committee are now busy directing the efforts of the wheelmen who are thoroughly interested in their work of trying to make the event the success of the season. Rehearsals are held almost every evening and progress is being made by the different participants in the proposed entertainment. The first rehearsal in Music Hall was held last evening.

The general plan of the minstrel show will be practically the same as that of last year. First will come the regulation first part. The audience will be greeted as the curtain rises by the chorus, dazzling in their fancy costumes, and indistinguishable, due to a plentiful use of burnt cork. A word from the interlocutor, George H. Willey, will start the grand overture by the orchestra and the chorus, while a double quartette of dusky minstrels will execute a little drill, followed by a dance. Then the grand finale and the overture is over and the end men have a chance to shoot off their jokes in the most approved style. Six solos will be interspersed in the witty remarks of bones and tambo. They will all be something new and attractive, while the soloists include most of Plainfield's best masculine voices.

Part second will be devoted to the specialties which have not been definitely decided upon as yet but they will include a new bare back act by Robert Whitaker, as described in the Press some time ago. There will be local talent in this part of the programme and probably some specialties from out of town.

The grand ending of the show will be the cake walk which is promised to be the feature of the evening. It will be given by ten couples from the club, dressed most gaudily as the swellest "cul'ed" ladies and gentlemen. Men like S. P. T. Wilbur will float about on the arm of someone else about the build of Frank Jones, who will impersonate the dusky escort. Under the guidance of the interlocutor of the other scene the long procession will move about the stage and then line up against the wall while the individual couples will be given a chance to show their own specialties in the line of walking and make an attempt for the cake, for there's going to be a real cake in the show and the contest for it will be real. That will end the night's programme and if the people of Plainfield are not satisfied by that time then there will be something radically wrong with them.

MARRIAGE CAUSED SURPRISE.

Young People Had Been Fast Friends But Wedding Not Expected so Soon.

The marriage of Miss Lizzie Wertman, of Bound Brook, and Fred Dunn, of Dunellen, took place at the home of Rev. T. E. Davis, of Bound Brook, on Monday evening. Both are well-known in this city where they have visited a number of times. The marriage was a surprise to their friends, although it was known that they were engaged but the marriage was not expected to come quite as soon as it did. The young couple are now busy receiving the congratulations of their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunn will reside at the new house recently erected in Mr. Dunn's farm, just west of Dunellen.

A Great Sale.

Edsall reports that the interest in the great retiring sale at the Commercial Palace is on the increase, and that yesterday was one of the best days yet. Several new spring lines that were ordered before the sale was consummated were received yesterday and put on sale at the same sacrifice price as all the other goods. Some of them are mentioned in their "specimen" of great bargains in the advertisement in another column.

—The next entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. star course will occur on Thursday evening of next week. The programme will be furnished by Miss Agnes E. Bowen, soprano and whisting soloist, Miss Addie Parker Jackson, reader, and Albert E. Smith, ventriloquist, shadowgraphist and prestidigitateur.

IONA COUNCIL UP IN ARMS.

REV. NEWELL'S REMARKS TAKEN UP.

Threatened Disruption of the Chapel Unless a Retraction Follows.

The remarks that Rev. G. Kennedy Newell passed at the Hope Chapel services last Sunday morning and directed at Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, as reported yesterday in The Daily Press, was the talk of the town last night.

The Red Men are very strong in this city, and the members and their affiliations are up in arms over the catechism of their lodge customs.

A Daily Press reporter called on several members of the order today and learned that they were determined to go on with the matter to a finish. Iona Council has appointed a committee of five who will look into the subject and report at the next meeting of that body.

A large part of Hope chapel's membership are identified with the Red Men either directly or by auxiliaries and they are highly incensed at Rev. Mr. Newell's references.

There are those who declare that the insult was so great to themselves and the organizations that if there is not some qualification or retraction made by the minister that they will retire from the church.

A reporter called at the home of Mr. Newell last night and the latter denied having said anything in particular regarding any one lodge. Aside from that he would have nothing to say.

OUT TO SEE THE SIGHTS.

His Cash Capital Only Amounted to 50 Cents and That He Spent for a Railroad Ticket—Found This Morning.

With a brave heart and a determined mind, Bernie Wheeler, aged fifteen years, left his home at Stirling, yesterday morning about 9 o'clock, with the evident purpose of seeing the world. He had read many stories telling how glorious certain parts of this universe are and he had a great desire to know all about it himself. With this information in his head he started from home with 50 cents in his pocket. He went to the D. L. & W. railroad station at Stirling and purchased a ticket, for which he paid all his money. He rode as far as his ticket would take him, and after that all trace of him was lost. He had not been away from home very long when his father missed him, and a search was instituted at once. The boy was traced to the station where he got off.

All day long the father and another man searched for the missing boy, but no trace of his whereabouts could be found. They returned home last night discouraged.

This morning the father decided to come to Plainfield and make a search. When he arrived in this city he called at Robert's livery stable and hired a carriage. He then started out to hunt for the boy. The father is of the opinion that the boy's mind is not just right.

This afternoon Chief Grant received word that the boy had returned home. He was found somewhere near Newark, while on his way to his home.

A MILITARY DISPLAY.

High School Cadets Ready to Show How Accomplished They Are.

There has been lots of hard work done by the members of the Plainfield High School Cadet Company, and the cadets are now planning to give their relatives and friends a chance to see what they have accomplished during the winter. An exhibition drill will be held on the evening of Thursday February 4th, at the Jersey Cycle Academy, where the cadets meet for drill every week Each member of the company will be given the privilege of inviting a certain number of his friends to attend the drill, and it is the invention of the officers to make the drill a strictly invitation affair. A sentinel will be detailed at the door to receive the guests.

The company's treasury is too low to go to the expense of heating the Academy, but Captain Smith assures everybody that the evening will be a warm one.

Justice Nash's Court.

Justice Nash rendered judgment, yesterday, in the case of Thorn against Myers, on contract, and Thorn against Brower, on contract. The judgment in the first case was for $4.32 and costs and in the second case for $8.71 and costs. He also issued summons in the case of Codington against Jennings et als, on contract, returnable on February 3d.

—What is needed badly in connection with the Plainfield Street Railway is a waiting room at the North avenue end of the line.

TO THE THRONE OF GRACE

SINNERS ARE BEING TOUCHED BY THE APPEALS OF REVIVALISTS.

Several Went Forward Seeking the Petition of Prayer That They Might Enter the Fold of Christians There.

The union evangelical meetings which have been in progress in this city for the past two weeks are largely attended each night and the pastors and other church workers are now realizing the fruit of their labors. At the First Baptist church last evening several persons went forward upon invitation, for prayer, and fervent appeals were offered in their behalf. The clergy of the city was largely represented and most of them took part in the service.

The young people's meeting in the lecture room was also largely attended. It was in charge of Secretary Harry Manning, and much spiritual interest was manifested, as the testimonies of those present showed. The choir, in charge of Horace J. Martin, sang several beautiful selections, after which Rev. W. R. Richars also announced that Rev. Mr. O'Donnell, pastor of Monroe Avenue M. E church, would preach in this church tonight

Rev. Dr. Barnes, pastor of the M. E. church, then took charge of the service and read the Scripture from the twenty-third chapter of Matthew, beginning at the first verse. The subject of his discourse was "The Royal Supper, and in part he said:

"A parable is largely what we make of it. God has made great preparations for the human race and without price. We lose sight of one fact—the invitation from God to come and partake of His goodness is individual. You are but one of a congregation in the eyes of man, but in the eyes of God you are His child. The word of God is nothing more or less than a personal invitation to enter His Kingdom of peace and power and intellectuality.

"We pride ourselves on the Declaration of Independence," continued Dr. Barnes, "which gives us individual rights. No man should be held responsible for his past deeds if he has not had the personal invitation to enter into communion with God, and released from the fear of bondage to enter the realms of glory and eternal life. Man is the offspring of the Deity and needs feasting on truths; God is the thinker of eternity, and the royal supper will far eclipse anything known in modern days. God has drawn a royal bounty from the fruits of eternity. He washes us in the water of regeneration and robes us in a wedding gown. The churchneeds to have a sense of righteousness and to partake from the vessel which furnishes so much meek and loving kindness." Dr. Barnes closed with a prayer, and some fifteen or twenty minutes was then devoted to prayer and testimonies of some present.

A FAMILY RECEPTION

A Pleasant Affair at the House of Thomas Neeley.

A pleasant family reception was given at the residence of Mr. Thomas M. Neely, of Watchung avenue, last night. The guests spent a delightful evening. The entertainment consisted of singing, music and dancing. A supper was served for the guests at midnight. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kenney, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Berkaw, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. David T. Kenney, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Baily, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Carney, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. BIBLE LAND RESEARCHES

REV. A. W. HALSEY DELIVERS AN ENTERTAINING LECTURE.

Lecture Accompanied by Stereopticon Views and This Made the Points of the Talk Still More Clear to Those Present

There was a large and deeply interested audience at the First Presbyterian church last evening to hear Rev. A. W. Halsey, of New York, give his wonderful illustrated lecture on the subject of "Recent Researches in Bible Lands." This learned speaker gave a talk that was brimful of the most interesting facts and his audience did not seem to tire in the least. The pictures shown on the canvas represented many tablets bearing curious heliographics, which have been unearthed during the past few years. The lecturer started at the source of history and spoke of the many curious mounds in Caldee, which are made of hard substances, the making of which required skill and great care. Out of these mounds many beautiful inscriptions had been taken, and it was of these that Mr. Halsey spoke chiefly. He said that there was one redeeming feature about the Sultan of Turkey, and that was that he protected explorers and helped them in their work of securing important facts concerning history.

Mr. Halsey was of the opinion that when Moses and the children of Israel were wandering about the land they were very close to a city which had flourished in culture and the arts. He exhibited a document telling in detail how in Egypt and Palestine the tax was farmed out. This was 250 years B. C. He also told of a love letter, which was written 1900 years B. C., and the sentiment seemed to be as it is at the present day.

The very fine work done in those days was held to be as fine as any that is done by modern goldsmiths. The speaker was quite sure that we people of today were very much indebted to the Grecians for much of our culture. He dwelt at some length on the subject of the Hittites and of their work, 1700 years B. C., and stated that when the Hittite civilization came to an end the Grecian civilization began, and he thought there was no doubt but what Diana of the Epheclans was of the former race.

Concerning the mounds, he spoke of one in the Holy Land, it being the only one that had been excavated. These mounds he said were in some cases 1500 feet in diameter and 400 feet high.

One of the great discoveries of recent years was something which to all appearances seems to be a hot air blast, which was supposed to be a 19th century discovery.

The many important facts brought out by Mr. Halsey in his lecture will serve as an impetus to the many Bible students present who are making a close study of the history about which he talked.

GIVEN A BIT OF A SOCIAL TIME.

St. Stephen's Sunday-School Scholars Entertained at the Sanitarium.

The members of the Sunday-school of St. Stephen's church were given a delightful entertainment last night at the Hunter Sanitarium, thanks to the kindness of the proprietor of that place. The members of the school and their parents, about 150 in all, met at the church early last evening and then marched to the Sanitarium in a body. There they were seated in the parlors, while Rev. S. P. Simpson, rector of the church, gave a very enjoyable stereopticon entertainment. The views included a number from different parts of the world, and Rev. Mr. Simpson gave a short description of each to his interested listeners.

Refreshments were then furnished by Dr. Hunter and everybody had more than they could eat. Then fancy little bags, filled with candy, the work of some of the boarders at the sanitarium, were given away among the guests. one to each of them Games occupied the time of the children, while the others were invited to inspect the building or sit about the large parlors and chat. There were two solos by Bert Tallamy, who was accompanied by his sister.

Mr. Smith was a private and an officer in the late war and has had much personal experience before the Pension Bureau.

In Honor of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert.

A charming and informal dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. George A. Chapman, of West Eighth street, last evening, in honor of ex-Mayor and Mrs. Alexander Gilbert.

"THE TRAIN," HE YELLED.

PORTER MARTIN RESCUES A WOMAN.

She Was Rushing Headlong in Front of an Oncoming Blue Liner.

There was a narrow escape from a fatality at the North Avenue station which was only prevented by the quickness of Edward Martin, the genial porter at the station, this morning. The eastbound local train, due in Plainfield at 8:48, has just pulled into the station when the westbound Blue Line flier, due at 8:44, came up to the station four minutes late. As soon as the train for New York reached the station, a woman who has been visiting at the home of Frank W. Miles, of Somerset street, started for the train. She did not notice the other approaching train and was about to step directly in its path, when Mr. Martin came to the rescue. He had taken the situation in at a glance and caught the woman by the arm and dragged her away. Completely astonished by such treatment, the woman, who had not yet seen the approaching train, struggled to escape from Mr. Martin's grasp.

"The train," he shouted, and then she saw her narrow escape from perhaps fatal injury, and returned to the platform.

AFTER MAYOR BEN AGAIN

AN EFFORT BEING MADE TO GET HIM TO ACCEPT A RENOMINATION.

Ex-Councilman Emmons Declines to Allow His Name to be Used for the Mayoralty—Gossip About Other Officers.

The pulse of the borough government is beating so regular that one would never think that a very important election is near at hand. The minds of those usually interested in this part of the affairs of the borough have been taken up with other things, consequently there has not been much time for anything else. The election is going to take place, however, on Tuesday, March 9th, if everything moves along in the natural way.

The first position to fill is that of Mayor, for the term of B. A. Hegeman, Jr., will expire at that time. Now, Mr. Hegeman says that he will not take office again under any consideration, but he has made a most excellent official and his friends will not give up hope. They say that he must "go again" and they will not take no for an answer. Perhaps the unusual quietness of the party leaders is due to the fact that they are sure they can get His Honor to accept another term. Thus far, no one has appeared, who is anxious for the office, and P. A. Emmons, the genial and well-liked boroughite, has declined the honor most emphatically. The coming year for the borough will be a most important one, for more than likely the question of annexation will come up, and those who do not favor it are very anxious that the chief executive should be a man that is with them on that score. In this respect, the present Mayor is all right, as well as in many other respects, and a change is not desired by them.

The next change in the list is in the council, which will be vacated by Messrs. Peck and Valiant. Now, as far as can be learned these two councilmen have signified no intention of going back again, at the same time they have expressed no desire to retire from the office. In regard to a change in this body the sentiment seems to be that it is possible that new men would not carry out the party's ideas. The above two men are considered to be very conscientious and exceedingly conservative in their movements and if a change is made it is feared that something very different may be secured.

There is one commissioner of appeal to be elected and a Justice of the Pease to take the place of Mr. Karet, who has moved out of the borough. As yet there has been no great rush for these offices and there is not likely to be, as the money consideration is so small.

Mrs. Haviland's Last Tea.

The last of a series of four teas was given by Mrs. A. W. Haviland, of Rockview avenue, yesterday afternoon. A large number of friends and society people were present. Mrs. Haviland and her two daughters were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Augustus Newman, of New York, Mrs. B. J Shreve, Mrs. H. B. Wells and Mrs. J. G. Foster. The table was presided over by Mrs. Walter McGee and Miss Alice Hyde, of New York, who were assisted by Miss Adams, of New York, Miss Baldwin, of Broaklyn, and the Misses Whiton, Clark and Bushnell, of Plainfield.

—Crane & Clark, hatters and furnishers, 120 West Front street, are giving a free exhibition of Indian life in their show window that is attracting the attention of passersby.

MARY'S VISIT WAS BRIEF.

SHE ATTENDED A GROWLER PARTY AND GOES BACK TO JAIL.

The Soiree Held at the Home of Mamie Dogostine Ended in a Free Fight—Policemen Arrested All Parties.

A trio of old offenders came up before the city judge this morning after enjoying a night in the narrow limits of the city jail. 'Twas the same old story, a too free indulgence in "Jersey lightning," followed by a row and the subsequent arrival of a policeman on the scene.

Among the visitors at the Union county jail in Elizabeth for the last six months was one of Elizabeth's belles, Mary Sullivan, who made her visit there on account of a little difficulty which the Elizabeth police entered on their blotter as an assault. She only left there a few days ago and then she headed for the beautiful city of Plainfield, having had all she wanted of Elizabeth. Then she had a so-called friend in this city who had promised to get a place for her to live. The friend was James Corrigan, not an unfrequent visitor to the lockups of the city an borough. James has a wife and several children but he seldom sees them any more for he doesn't go home very often.

Last evening, Mary and James went up to the home of their old friend, Mamie Dogostine, alias Mamie Johnson, on West Third street, near Plainfield avenue. She lives there with her husband, who is a hard working tailor. Mamie came from New York where she knew the police pretty well and she has made the acquaintance of the local force quite rapidly. She returned from a ten days call in Elizabeth about a month ago, when she took part in another little racket up at her home. She has not been very well of late and the consumption has her firmly in its grasp.

Patrolman Flynn has the beat in that vicinity and he was walking along late last evening when he heard screams of "police" and "murder," while the same voice called for Officer McCue. He hurried to the Dogostine mansion to find the wife hanging out of the window telling of all sorts of horrible things that were going on within. Patrolman Totten, several blocks away, heard the screams and appeared upon the scene. The officers found the women and Corrigan intoxicated and promptly arrested them. The tailor was sobor and appeared to be orderly so he was left behind.

The trio made lots of excitement in the city court when they were arraigned this morning. Mamie Dogostine fell upon her knees, and, clasping her hands in front of her, begged the "dear judge" to let her go this once as she would never be brought there any more. She screamed a little and then quieted down. Mary and James had their story all ready but it did not quite suit the judge as some of the details were rather conflicting and the judge sent them all back to their cells to appear again at 11.30 when new evidence was presented.

When the prisoners were arraigned for the second time this morning they told the same story, but from several facts the Judge was of the opinion that they had been comparing notes and that Corrigan's testimony had been a lie from the beginning to the end.

Mary Sullivan was sentenced to pay a fine of $20 or go to jail for a term of 40 days. As she has not the cash, she will go down the road. Corrigan was given 60 days straight.

When Mamie Dogostine, or Mary as the police call her, was brought before the Judge she wept and begged for mercy Then, amid her tears she told the story as she remembered it, and it differed considerably from the version of the affair told by the others.

"What would you do, Mary," asked the Judge, "if I should let you go this time?" Down fell the trembling woman on her knees, and she exclaimed, "Oh, your worship, if you only would. I'd pray to God in Heaven that you might live a million years, and get to be the richest man in Plainfield."

Chief Grant suggested that the Judge might not want to live so long, but the woman continued:

"I'd pray that you would be a millionaire." Then she was interrupted with a terrible coughing spell that told too plainly that she was in the last stages of that well-known disease, consumption. She finally said that she would go to the Charity Hospital in New York, and so the Judge suspended sentence.

MORE CABINET TALK

Lyman J. Gage May Be Tendered the Treasury Portfolio.

CULLOM'S NAME NO LONGER HEARD

Alger's Friends Still Urging His Appointment as Secretary of War---A Committee of Boston Men Will Visit the President-elect To-day.

Canton, O., Jan. 22.—Lyman J. Gage of Chicago, who was first mentioned in these dispatches as a cabinet possibility, is being seriously considered with reference to his availability for appointment to the position of secretary of the treasury. Mr. Gage is a widely known banker, but from a party point of view is opposed by some of the active republicans of Illinois on the ground that he is a mugwump. Judge Grosscup of Chicago had some conversation on the subject of Mr. Gage and the treasury portfolio yesterday. It may be deemed certain that Senator Cullom will not be secretary of the treasury. He is not a candidate for this or any other cabinet position, but he has been seriously considered from time to time for one of the portfolios and may be offered the portfolio of the interior. Senator J. C. Burrows of Michigan had another interview with the president-elect last evening in the interest of Gen. R. A. Alger and left for Washington later, apparently satisfied with the result of his talk. Senator Burrows repeated the assertion that there were no longer any differences between Senator Sherman and Gen. Alger. Four representative ex-confederate soldiers from the valley of Virginia—John R. Roller, Col. John A. Gibson, A. P. Funkhauser and G. W. Hedrick—called yesterday to invite Major McKinley to attend a great peace meeting in the Shenandoah valley early next autumn. It is proposed to have several thousand union and confederate veterans meet on southern soil upon that occasion. Major McKinley will probably deliver an address. Senatorial candidate N. O. Murphy of Arizona discussed the politics of that territory with Major McKinley during the afternoon. He said M. H. McCord, Burt Dunlap and Drs. Evans and Goodrich are the prominent candidates for appointment as governor of that territory. The committee of Boston gentlemen expected in Canton to-day are coming to urge the president-elect to appoint T. Jefferson Coolidge of Massachusetts to the cabinet. It may be almost positively stated in this connection that the only Massachusetts man who is likely to be invited into Major McKinley's cabinet is ex-Gov. Long, and his selection seems practically determined upon. Mr. Coolidge was minister to France during part of the Harrison administration. Frederick Halls of New York and President Ratchford of the National Association of United Mine Workers were among Major McKinley's callers last night. C. L. Magee of Pittsburg is among the political visitors expected here to-day.

Schrader at Waterbury.

Waterbury, Conn., Jan. 22.—Schrader, the "divine healer," is in town. His advent has created quite a sensation, and already the diseased of the city are flocking to him for aid. He likens his power to that of Jesus Christ and affects the Saviour's appearance. He says he left Bridgeport because he felt sorry for the people in having to meet him in the undesirable quarters he had there.

Pugilistic Events at Rochester.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Jack Baty of Buffalo and Jack McDonough of this city have been matched for a twenty-round bout before the Rienzi Athletic club of this city next Monday night. Delgado's Body Buried in Cuba.

Havana, Jan. 22.—The remains of Henry Delgado, the American prisoner who died at the San Ambrosio hospital, where he had been confined ever since his arrival in this city after his capture in an insurgent hospital, were interred late yesterday afternoon in the Colon cemetery. The interment was in a special plot.

New Coinage Proposition.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The house committee on coinage, weights and measures heard Joseph Wharton of Philadelphia in support of a proposition to make our minor coins—one cent and five-cent pieces—out of pure nickel. Such a process, he said, would improve the appearance of those coins.

Raines Law Decision.

Kingston, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Judge Clearwater has decided that a Raines law liquor certificate is a chattel which can be sold for the payment of debts and has appointed a receiver to take possession of the license of a Saugerties saloonkeeper, on a judgment of a wholesale liquor dealer.

ABSOLUTE FREEDOM

Cubans Will Accept Nothing Less from Spain.

ALL TALK OF COMPROMISE ABSURD

No Danger of Gen. Gomez Treating with the Enemy---Senor Palma Describes the Present Situation of the Conflict.

New York, Jan. 22.—Gen. T. Estrada Palma of the Cuban junta in this city has given the following statement to a representative of the United Associated Presses: "So much has lately been said of the probability of the termination of the Cuban revolution by the acceptance on the part of the Cubans of autonomy or reforms that I feel it incumbent on me, as the accredited representative in this country of the Cubans, to make a brief statement on the subject. Reforms were passed by the Spanish cortes, but the outbreak of this revolution was not thereby stayed one hour. There was and is but one idea for which the Cubans are fighting. We have had enough of so-called reforms, enough of promises of more reforms, enough of promised autonomy. Every intelligent man would rightly condemn the leaders and participants in this movement if anything short of independence be the basis of a treaty of peace with Spain. It is claimed that Gen. Gomez is willing to treat with Spain on the basis of autonomy, and that a letter to that effect has been received by me. There is no such letter. Knowing Gen. Gomez as comrade in the last revolution, knowing his opinions as expressed to me before and during this war, knowing his stainless patriotism, I can vouch for him. He is made of too stern a material to surrender on any such terms, particularly when in his latest letters to me he writes contentedly of his resources and glowingly of his conviction that this campaign will be most successful.

Not Worshippers of Individualities.

"But even though any one of the foremost leaders should be inclined to terminate the war by the acceptance of autonomy (which is barely within the bounds of possibility), while he himself might surrender, he would do so alone. We Cubans are not worshippers of individualities; we are steadfast followers of our ideal. The death of our glorious Maceo struck sorrow to the heart of every Cuban, but we did not falter, his forces did not surrender, the revolution received no perceptible check. The leader who proposed peace under the Spanish flag would find himself without followers. No treaty of peace can be made by the Cubans unless ratified by a specially convoked assembly. It is beyond the bounds of possibility to expect that the Cubans, after two years of sanguinary strife, when they find themselves in a position such as has never been their good fortune to occupy, in point of numbers, equipment and resources, will now weakly accept terms of compromise. Every Cuban every and American knows that the apparent generous and conciliatory spirit of Spain springs not from her strength, but from her weakness. How can we then, under the circumstances, be expected to waver? If the Cubans in the field are too strong to even consider such proposals, the Cubans in the cities are too well advised of Spain's plans and Spain's precarious situation to counsel this step.

Nothing Less Than Independence.

"What form of autonomy would help Cuba when saddled not only with her previous debt, but with the added burden of the cost of the present war? The future of the country would be ruin and starvation. News of our successes in the field may be suffocated by censor, pacification of the island provinces may be falsely proclaimed, as in the case of Pinar del Rio, decrees allowing grinding of sugar may be issued where all cane has been destroyed, promises of reforms and autonomy given and amnesties promulgated, foreign countries may by these means and by mendacious Spanish diplomacy be cajoled into the belief that Spain is mighty, is generous and that we are weak, are ungrateful, but we Cubans will continue to fight for independence and nothing but independence, first, last and all the time. Our leaders may fall, but others will take their places. The opportunity will find the man. Gomez himself has written that even should he fall, the revolution is strong enough to continue to its triumph. The only excuse we will be its triumph; the only fitting monument for our fallen comrades, the indedendence of their country."

The Battleship Turret Question.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Secretary Herbert's visit to the Washington navy yard yesterday to inspect full-sized models of turrets for the new battleships, was in connection with the old question of two-story turrets, which has again arisen, although they had been abandoned for the latest ships. The chief of ordnance desires to have them substituted for the inclined elliptical system, recently adopted, and the change is resisted by Constructor Hichburn, who has been supported by Secretary Herbert. Secretary Herbert has decided the question in favor of Chief Constructor Hichborn.

British Guiana Gold Output.

Colon, Colombia, Jan. 22.—The official returns of the output of the gold mines of British Guiana for the year 1896 show that it was in excess of $2,250,000.

WANTED EPIGRAMS.

His Cook Couldn't Make Them, So He Was Discharged.

The story is told, says the Youth's Companion, that a certain speculator, exceedingly unlearned, took a fancy to the entertainment of literary people when he had made his fortune and set up a house; and, of course, he wished to have and do all the fine things that other rich men had and did. After dinner one day one of his "literary" guests chanced to remark:

"I dined at X., the poet's, the other night, and he gave us a capital epigram at dessert."

The speculator was humiliated. He had no epigrams! After his guests were gone he called his cook.

"Didn't I give you carty blanchy for his dinner?" he demanded.

"Yes, sir; you did, sir," said the cook.

"And didn't I tell you to have everything that anybody had?"

"Yes, sir; you did sir."

"Yes! Well, now it seems that at X.'s they have epigrams for dessert, and good ones, too, and folks miss 'em when they come here. Now I want to know if you don't know how to cook epigrams?"

The unfortunate cook was compelled to acknowledge that he could not cook epigrams and was discharged on the spot.

MISTLETOE IN HER HAT.

Latest Scheme of the Up-to-Date Girl to Tease Her Friends.

The up-to-date Chicago girl is not losing any chances and her ingenuity is being employed to make the most of the mistletoe superstition, says the Chicago Times-Herald. Everybody knows that according to an old custom, which comes down from the time of the Druids, a man is at perfect liberty to kiss a girl who happens to be under a sprig of mistletoe—that is, if the girl is willing. It is the fashion to hang a sprig of mistletoe to the chandelier of a room near Christmas time, and sometimes it is hung over a door, so that every girl may be compelled to receive a salute as she enters or leaves the room.

But these opportunities are not enough to satisfy some of the girls. The custom has arisen lately among them of wearing a sprig of mistletoe on their hats. It has been noticed this year for the first time, and the custom has been spreading.

Probably the girls mean nothing at all by it, but the temptation which is offered to their masculine friends is almost irresistible.

One Woman's Ready Wit.

A young woman who lives near a railway crossing, looking out of a window the other day, saw a laborer jump from one track to the other to escape an approaching freight train. He was apparently dazed by terror and stood still, not seeing that an express train was rushing down upon him. The girl saw that before she could make him understand his danger it would be too late. She therefore threw up her arms, shrieking wildly: "Help! help! help!" Trusting to the impulse which sends a man on the instant to the relief of a woman in distress. "I'm coming!" shouted the laborer, springing toward her in time to escape the engine as it rushed past. He stared back at it, and then at the woman crying and laughing in the window, and, taking off his hat with shaking hands, said: "I owe you something, miss," and walked away.

A Prompt Answer.

The Washington Post tells this story of Col. Wallace S. Jones, United States consul general at Rome, Italy, now on a visit to this country: "Col. Jones is a Floridian, and has been in the consular service in Italy for the last ten years. He is a gentleman of wit, tact and culture, and his ability to make a happy response at the right time brought him into the good graces of Queen Margherita on his first appearance at court. The queen asked him from which state he hailed, and, on being told, said that he had often heard Florida described as a very beautiful country. "Yes, your majesty," was the prompt reply, "we call it at home the Italy of America."

ZINC WALL PAPER.

Cheap and Durable Mural Decoration Made in Imitation of Marble.

"Zinc wall paper is the latest oddity and several residences of the highest with the zinc class now building will be equipped with the zinc are prepared by a new process, so as to exactly resemble marble. The most beautiful varieties of marble are imitated in such manner that the imposture is only to be detected after a close examination.

The zinc is attached to the wall by a cement invented for the purpose. The surface of the zinc is enamelled so as to render it permanent and washable. Tiles or any other form of mural covering can be imitated as readily as marble and the material is made in a great variety of patterns.

It is claimed for this new departure in decorative material that while it is as permanent as tiles or marble, it is much cheaper, and can be put on as easily as ordinary wall paper. It can be applied, too, to any surface, whether flat, broken or sound, and any beading, etc., can be embossed on the metal to complete a design or panel.

IS IT A SUSTAINER?

How much manual labor do you think you do in a day? A post-man averages about 353 foot-tons. An ordinary laborer 350 tons. A very hard day's work would be 400 tons. A clerk or bookkeeper may fall as low as from 15 to 20 tons. In Weston's recent walk to Albany, 150 miles, in 60 hours, we calculate his work was no less than 1005 foot-tons, and his food consisted entirely of

H-O

Oatmeal. As an ideal sustainer, H-O meets every demand.

HIS WONDERFUL POWER.

Captain Tiadley Charmed Snakes With His Fascinating Eyes.

Some years ago there lived on the Manhattan marsh, a low, grassy territory, at the extreme western end of Lake Erie, one Capt. John Tiadley. The especial feature about him was his fascinating eyes. Under his powerful gaze he could control any animal that came within his vision. His greatest amusement was charming and capturing snakes.

His family rather objected to his occupying a spare room for his pets, so he built a schooner yacht and named it Tiadley. He kept the yacht anchored in Gard Island channel. Capt. Tiadley would pick up snakes along the banks as a child would hickory nuts, and with the same unconcern.

These he kept on the Tiadley. Should any be out in the marsh he could bring them to him by simply playing a tune upon the harmonica.

In the fall the famous yacht Fanchon chanced to drop into the harbor. It was manned by three Ohio yacht club men, and, as guests, an active member of the Toledo Yacht Club and several ladies. A moderate gale was blowing outside. They were forced to seek shelter, and as it increased they found it necessary to remain over night. Their ladies were given the whole freedom of the Fanchon, while the men, discovering the Tiadley, and believing its owner had gone to the city, leaving the yacht apparently uninhabited, concluded to sleep in her dry cabin. It was midnight when the yachtsmen boarded the Tiadley. Three occupied bunks, while the other, a rather stout man, selected the floor. Being tired and weary the world's sorrows were soon forgotten.

About 2 o'clock the corpulent yachtsman awoke his companions and asked: "Did you fellows hear that hissing noise about this durned boat? By George! it seems to me as if I've been sleeping on bullrushes all night." Silence still reigned. Finally the Toledo yachtsman threw a handful of what he called "lily stems" down upon the dozing skipper. An hour later another sailor related another dream he had just had. He declared he was in a den of snakes. And so real was the dream that he felt them crawl over his face and body, coil and repose upon his breast, and tried to get into his ears. They again fell into sound slumbers. The snakes kept coming closer and closer to their warm bodies, and the yachtsmen knew nothing of their cold-blooded companions. The portly gentleman was the first to awake when the sun was high above the Turtle light. He saw a sight he will never forget. There were snakes over him, under him, about him, and hissing from under his pillow when disturbed. One look was sufficient—he was on the deck in a moment, and was immediately followed by the frightened yachtsmen. He had discovered the den of snakes and the party lost no time in getting ashore.—St. Louis Republican.

ARTHUR PALMER'S VICTIMS.

Funeral of the Man's Mother and Brother. An Exciting Episode at the Church.

Mamaroneck, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon in the Methodist church over the remains of Mrs. Harriet Palmer and Leonard Palmer, who were murdered a few days ago by Arthur Palmer, a son of the former. Among the chief mourners were Wm. A. Palmer, Loftus T. Palmer and Jesse Palmer, brothers of the murderer. While the burial service was being read, George Palmer, Arthur's cousin, who, it is claimed, had threatened to complete the work of killing the family begun by Arthur, attempted to enter the church and was placed under arrest. It was feared by the authorities that if he was permitted to enter the church he would put his threat into execution. The condition of Miss Gertrude Palmer, another of her brother's victims, was much improved this morning, and it is now thought that she will recover. So far, the authorities have not been able to get the slightest clue to the whereabouts of the murderer. A dispatch was received here from Toronto this morning which stated that Arthur Palmer's wife, who is visiting her parents in that city, is completely prostrated at her husband's horrible crime.

JAPAN AND THE UNITED STATES

M. Guerville Says an Alliance Has Been Agreed To by the Two Governments.

London, Jan. 22.—A dispatch to the Central News from Madrid says that M. Guerville, who accompanied the Japanese staff officers during the late Chinese-Japanese war, delivered a lecture last night before the Madrid Geographical society. In the course of his lecture he dwelt upon Japan's growing power and the change which occurred in her position among the nations of the world, laying particular stress upon her political relations with other powers. He asserted that she and the United States had agreed to conclude an alliance, a fact, he declared, which justified the uneasiness felt regarding her attitude in the Philippine islands, where she had initiated hostility to Spain, her aspiration being to possess the islands. M. Guerville gave no authority for his assertion regarding an allience between the United States and Japan, and, outside of those who are incensed against the United States for her attitude on the Cuban question, no reliance is placed in his statement.

THE SAVAGE BENINS

Details of the Recent Massacre of a British Expedition.

DECEIVED BY FRIENDLY PROFESSIONS

The Advance Party Carrying Presents to the King First Attacked---England Preparing To Punish the Bloodthirsty Ruler.

London, Jan. 22.—Further details have reached here of the recent massacre of members of a peaceable British expedition by natives of the Benin country and the facts as now known have excited the deepest indignation, even among the "little Englanders," who declare that prompt punishment should be meted out to the murderers. The expedition, consisting of nine officers and 250 men, left Bonny about January 1. About two weeks later the yacht Ivy, belonging to the consul-general, returned to Bonny from Sapele, where the expedition had left it preparatory to making the land journey to Benin, with the news of the massacre of the entire expedition. Later it was learned that seven of the Kroomen escaped, and still later that Capt. Boisragon and Consular Officer Locke had also escaped.

Treachery and Massacre.

The expedition was divided into two sections to facilitate traveling. As they progressed into the country they were greeted in a friendly manner by the residents of several villages, which led to the hope that no opposition would be met with anywhere along the route. When the commander of the expedition had reached a point twenty miles from Benin river couriers from the king arrived bearing peaceful messages, which added to the feeling of security which pervaded the party. Here it was determined to send a number of carriers ahead as bearers of presents to the king. They followed the route laid out by the pioneers, and met with no hostility from any of the natives who were seen. These carriers were four hours ahead of the main body of the expedition, when without a warning of any kind they were attacked by a large body of warriors, who had already despatched the pioneer Kroomen. Every one of the carriers and those with them were massacred. The second party, entirely unaware of the fate of their predecessors, were marching along, when suddenly they came upon the piled up bodies of their massacred companions. There were no signs of an enemy about, the Benin warriors having hidden themselves in the thick jungle to await the coming of the second party. As the latter were stopped by the sight of the bodies and began to examine them a murderous volley was poured into them by the ambushed natives. Acting Consul-General Phillips, Dr. Elliott and Mr. Powles were instantly killed. Major Copeland Crawford was wounded and died shortly after. The natives again fired into the party and then fell upon them and either shot, stabbed or clubbed them to death. Mr. Campbell, one of the consular officials, was captured, and it is supposed he was taken to Benin to be executed.

The King Defiant.

It has been learned that Capt. Boisragon and Mr. Locke each had a revolver, and before they made their escape into the bush they shot several of the attacking party. When they got away from the scene of the massacre they made their way towards the river, subsisting as best they could on cassava. The only means they had of quenching their thirst was to suck the dew off the plants at night. They finally reached the river, ultimately procured a canoe from some friendly natives and made their way down to New Benin, where they met a British launch. Had they not procured a canoe it is doubtful if they could ever have reached the coast. The king sent to the British the rings worn by Mr. Phillips. This is regarded as an act of defiance, which the king will soon have cause to regret.

England May Annex the Country.

As soon as the news of the massacre reached England orders were given for the British officers stationed on the coast, who were home on furlough, to return to their posts, and instructions were given for the formation of an expedition to punish the king of Benin. This punitive expedition, it is now learned, will consist of forces of the Niger coast protectorate and contingents of sailors from the vessels of the West African squadron. It has been stated that such an expedition would have to proceed to Benin city in a short time, even had the massacre not occurred, as the whole of the Niger coast protectorate was suffering from the cruelties and exactions of the king of Benin. Slavery is rampant in that country, and human sacrifices and cannibalistic heathen rites are matters of daily occurence. Therefore, if the country is to be made of any value whatsoever, it will be necessary to suppress the king with a strong hand. The country is said to be very rich, and it would not be surprising to find that one result of the punitive expedition would be the annexation of the whole territory to the British possessions in West Africa.

TROLLEY ON COUNTY ROADS.

The Elizabeth Journal has always vigorously opposed any effort to turn over to the trolley road magnates any of the county roads that it cost $350,000 to build, without recompense, and since the talk of a road between this city and Elizabeth by the way of the macadamized thoroughfare is backed by money, and there is a probability of its being built if the concessions are granted, the Journal has again taken up its old line of argument and, it must be admitted, advances some very practical opinions as to the matter. The Journal does not seem to stand in the light of an opponent to the road only so far as the protection of tax payers is concerned. In a long editorial the other day the Journal stated that the Westfield avenue improvement cost $100,000 and the proposition of the trolley backers is that they shall be given the privilege of ripping up the road and laying their tracks there to the exclusion of at least some traffic without a penny of return to the county. Beyond the apparent avariciousness of the capitalists is the very important fact that not a cent of the principal of the bonds issued to build the road has been paid. The Journal suggests that it is the proper thing for the company to pay this $100,000 and then the people will be satisfied to turn the road over to them, for with this sum they can improve another road to be had exclusively for common traffic. The Journal is quite right in its opinions. The trolley franchise will be a valuable property and the men who are seeking it should be willing to pay something for it, or, at least, not ask to ruin that which the people will have to pay for.

ARREST FOLLOWED FIGHT.

THE CASE THROWN OUT OF COURT.

Justice Newcorn Was Unable to Learn Head or Tail to the Affair.

The assault and battery case of George Lewis against Adolph Barry, came up in Justice Newcorn's court yesterday afternoon. The plaintiff was represented by Lawyer Swackhamer, and the defendant was represented by Lawyer Murphy. It appears that about a week ago the two men met at the Swift & Co. beef house on East Third street, and in some way became engage in a dispute, which eventually ended in a fight. As a result Lewis got the worst of the deal and he commenced action against the man who had knocked him out. When the case was tried yesterday it seemed almost impossible to learn what caused the fight, and after the case had been heard on both sides, Justice Newcorn decided that the case should go to the city court, if anywhere, and he was not sure that there was enough in the case to have it tried there. The case was in consequence thrown out.

DINED MIDST YELLOW.

Councilman and Mrs. E. T. Barrows Gave a Dinner Party Last Night.

Councilman E. T. Barrows and wife, of West Eighth street, gave a dinner party last evening at their home in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McGee who will sail for Europe on Saturday. The affair was a thoroughly delightful one. The decorations were entirely yellow and were very pretty. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Walter McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Henry McGee, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Barrows.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whoop Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

—A meeting of the Plainfield Building and Loan Assocation was held last evening in the office of Assemblyman W. R. Codington. Only routine business was transacted.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Woman's Relief Corps will hold a meeting this evening when business of great importance will be considered.

—Miss A. E. Lincoln, the Park avenue florist, furnished and arranged the beautiful floral decorations at the Reinhart luncheon Wednesday.

—David Hand has written The Press to say that William Davison, the real estate agent, was never in any sense his representative in the sale of a piece of property. He says that in the action brought in court Mr. Davison was the only witness sworn, and that his (Mr. Hand's) counsel asked for a non-suit on the frank admissions of Mr. Davison. Mr. Hand says that the public will know more later on as to the merits of the case.

PASSING COMMENT.

It is rumored that H. N. Spencer, of the borough, will be the next surrogate of Somerset county, and one can find any quantity of people who will stand by the rumor.

The old habit of attending the "five-thirty" mail is fast breaking up since the article in The Press called the attention of the people to it. Postmaster Hetfield is glad of it, for, while he believes in coming for the mail if there is any reason for it, yet the crowd that assembled there at one time was a hinderance to the people who really came after their mail, instead of having some other object in view. Of course, there are some that still continue to come out of mere habit, but they no longer find their friends gathered about and so they line up, ask for their mail and leave for home.

It was said the first of the year that calendars were going to be scarce this year, but the man that started such a story must have been a very poor guesser, for there seems to be an unusual number in the field. Firms that never issued any before have gone into that kind of advertising this year and the ideas shown are, many of them, new and very artistic. The Press office has seen a steady stream of these useful articles pouring in ever since the new year began. There are railroad companies, insurance companies, and companies of all kinds and conditions, while many newspapers have followed the example of The Press and sent their subscribers a pretty calendar at the beginning of the year.

A good story is told of an ambitious borough youngster, who, a short time ago asked his father for twenty-five cents. The parent did not think that it was best for his son to have the money, and told him so. This did not phase the boy and he made up his mind that he would have the desired cash. Accordingly, he called at The Daily Press office and asked to sell papers. He stated, however, that he did not have any money and asked to be trusted. Being well known, he was given the papers and in a short time he returned, having sold them all. After he had paid for the papers he counted up the balance and found that he had the much sought-after twenty-five cents.

A CHRISTIAN WOMAN DEAD.

Mrs. James H. Line Succumbs to the Ravages of Bright's Disease.

The death of Mrs. James H. Line, of Duer street, occurred this morning at 12.25, after a long and serious illness from Bright's disease. During the past few months she had not been out of the house and towards the last she was only conscious at times. At the time of her death she was in an unconscious condition. During her long illness she was extremely patient. She was a faithful member of the First M. E. church, and whenever she was able she always attended the services regularly. In her home life she was a loving mother and her carefulness in looking after the household duties when able was a marked feature of her life.

Mrs. Line was the daughter of the late W. F. Harris, of this city, and she was born in Plainfield fifty years ago. Last summer she went to Newburg-on-the-Hudson, to visit her sister. The trip did not seem to do her much good, for afterward she became worse.

She leaves a husband and five children, two girls and three boys. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 from the house.

—Special Marshal Perry is doing duty in the borough during the absence of Marshal Line, who is off duty owing to the death of his wife.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Miss Janie Churchill has recovered from her recent illness and is able to be out again.

The Dunellen Checker Club will meet for practice in W. H. Cole's office this evening.

Rev. Theodocious Goff, of Newark, has been visiting his father, George Goff, on North avenue.

The Misses Mira and Lillian Williams, of Westfield, are visiting their cousin, Miss Janie Churchill.

Miss Maude Wilcox, of Front street, is confined to the house, suffering from an attack of the mumps.

W. H. Carman and Joel Giddis went to North Branch, yesterday, and took part in a live bird shooting contest.

A delegation of railroad men from here went to Greenville, last evening, to attend the annual ball of the Automatic signalmen.

Mrs. James Martin, of Ansonia, Conn., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gallagher, here. She will remain for an indefinite period.

The Plainfield authorities received here by freight, yesterday, a new dump cart and a set of harness, which are to be used about the sewerage beds.

The special cars, Atlas and Central, brought back the Central Railroad officials, who have been looking over the coal fields in Pennsylvania for a day or two, yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Randolph, of this place, and Joseph Lake and his sister, Miss Sallie Lake, of Somerville, will leave on Saturday for a week's visit with friends in Washington, D. C.

The new electric light transformer at the Town Hall got of working order during the storm, Wednesday evening, and until midnight flashes of electricity were sent about promiscuously.

A brutal dog fight to place on North avenue yesterday afternoon, and a half dozen men and several overgrown boys looked on with eveident delight. One of the dogs went home minus an ear.

The dime sociable given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E church at the residence of Mrs. Emily Apgar, on Front street, last evening, was a pronounced success. The attendance was large, likewise the receipts.

The rain and snow together flowing into Green brook during Wednesday night caused the water to rise several feet and yesterday morning all travel over the Jefferson avenue bridge was suspended, and for a time it was feared that the bridge would be swept away.

The net receipts from the late St. John's church fair, given by the ladies' of the parish, amounted to $59.65. This amount will be used in purchasing matting for the aisles in the church, and the young ladies are to be congratulated upon their success in the undertaking.

SCOTCH PLAINS

W. H. Turton was in New York, yesterday evening, attending a banquet and other matters in connection with the Jr. O. U. A. M.

Geo. Ogden, of Prospect avenue, has carved out of wood an alligator which looks very life-like as it stands on Mr. Turton's show case in the store.

Mrs. W. S. Emory went to Jersey City, yesterday, to attend the funeral of a relative, Mrs. Catherine Eliz beth Thompson, who died on Monday. Interment was in Calvary cemetery, Jersey City, yesterday.

Fred Clark arrived home from New York State Wednesday with a car load in the shape of live stock. It contained 18 pigs, 14 chickens for breeding purposes, 5 cows, 3 horses and 5 calves. Most of the stock was bought on speculation.

Many of the sidewalks on East Front street are almost impassible, and this is particularly noticeable among the moneyed men, who have neither sidewalks or respect for the pedestrians. Street crossings east of Richmond street are unknown.

A New York man paid a brief visit to the Plains, yesterday, but he would not disclose his name "just now." He said, however, that he had been apprised of the fact of the Plainfield trolley running to and through the Plains in the spring, and he was anxious to get at the bottom facts in the matter with a possible view of having the syndicate which he represented, buy up much of the unimproved land about the place.

Since the removal by death of the late James A. Baker, as postmaster, the entire post office is to be removed from its present location on Saturday of this week to a vacant store owned by the Baptist church, and which was some time ago occupied as a butcher shop by a man named Cook. There is less than fifty yards difference between the present and the future location of the office, so little or no inconvenience will result to the public from the removal.

Little Eddie Heath, the six-year-old son of Mrs. James Heath, grew several inches yesterday. It was his birthday and he was aware of the fact several days ago. So yesterday his little friends were invited in to make merry and at the same time make away with the cakes, candies and what not provided for the occasion. Eddie had lots of presents and a great big time, but he was sorry when it was all over, and his little friends had departed for home.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THEATRICAL.

Albert Chevalier, the singer of coster songs, makes his debut in this city next Tuesday at Music Hall, his engagement being one night. Chevalier comes from a successful engagement in New York, where is unique style was popular. He is surrounded with a company of London artists who give a high class vaudeville entertainment between times while Mr. Chevalier changes his remarkable clothes and takes breath for his next effort. The performance of Chevalier is by far the nearest approach to the American stage has yet heard, but to those who have stood in Convent Garden in the early morning hours, or have wandered through the narrow lanes and slums of Whitechapel and other sections of the East End, there is by no means the true ring. It may be from frequent repetitions or the tendency to exaggerate, but the dialect is not always closely adhered to. It is, however, a veritable treat, and the quaint songs and sentiments have a peculiar charm.

Something to Consider.

You are weak, sick, out of health. You have tried local doctors. Did you ever stop to think that it is the great specialist in your disease who can cure you, the physician who treats and cures thousands of cases like yours? Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, is the most successful of all specialists and has the largest practice in the world. You can consult him free. Write to him without delay and he will explain by letter your case fully. This will cost you nothing and doubtless lead to your cure.

The Tribune Almanac.

To attempt to present to the reader an idea of the contents of The Tribune Almanac for 1897 is as difficult as to enumerate all the topics of general interest the American people talked about in 1896 and are going to talk about in 1897. What is it that you may wish to know in a political or statistical way? In some shape or other you will find it in this admirable and accurate compendium of facts, politics and figures. There are certain standard tables of latest statistics and election returns which everyone expects in an almanac. The Tribune Almanac has them all, and, in addition, a variety of concise statements, summing up the past year's history in important matters, such as the story of the Venezuelan dispute, the Cuban Revolution, President Cleveland's bond issues, the censure of Mr. Bayard, and so on For accuracy, completeness and thorough comprehension of what the American people need in the way of data for ready reference, The Tribune Almanac has always been standard and has no superior. Price, 25 cents a copy.

HEARTS AND DIAMONDS.

BY HILDA NEWMAN.

CHAPTER I.

The big diamond sparkled on Elsa's finger. She looked down upon it admiringly, then with one of her swift, shy glances into John's face. "May I wear it for a little while?" she asked.

Though they were in the park, John risked public opinion, and taking the little hand in his, held it tightly for a minute. "You shall have it for good some day, and 20 better ones," he said, confidently. "Meanwhile wear it as long as you like, that is, till my old dad comes to town, which will not be for some time yet."

"It was very good of him to give it to you."

"Yes, because he prized it, and always wore it himself. But I wanted no reward for passing an ordinary exam. that heaps of other fellows get through as a matter of course; besides, I don't care for jewelry. I'd just as soon have had a mug engraved with 'A present for a good boy.' I shall only wear it to please him, and you shall wear it to please me."

Elsa hardly heard what he said—she was deep in thought and spoke dreamily. "I think it is the cruelest thing in fate—to have expensive tastes and no means to gratify them."

"That's something that can be conquered," said John, cheerfully; "there's always a second best, you know."

"Ah, if I could only realize it—but I can't," Elsa answered, despondently. "And here is a case in point: Mrs. Ponder gave me an awful brooch on my birthday—bogus jewels mounted in brass. 'I never give a mean present,' she said, 'and anyone would take this to be worth at least £40.' I thanked her, but I have never had the courage to wear it. Had I only been able to see it with her eyes I should have been delighted with it."

"She meant well," said John, softly.

"O, John, she ought not to have had me so well educated—we have not a taste in common. She would have been happier with her niece, the grocer's daughter."

"You must take more exercise, Elsa: that typewriting is too much for you."

"No, it is not that; besides I have the daily walk, and I'm better away from home. Then I must have some money of my own—I can't come to Mrs. Ponder for it, feeling as I do—and I pay her as much as I can, and try to make things last, but O! I am so tired of it all!"

John's healthy mind could not gauge these fits of despondence. He saw no reason for them. Why could not Elsa work on sanguinely towards the future as he did? She must have little faith in him.

He gently pointed this out to her, but she only shook her head, and leaned back, closing her eyes. They sat in silence for awhile until the mood passed; then Elsa rose, slowly drawing her shabby little glove over the beautiful ring."

"You, dear John," she said, impulsively, "I don't need this to remind me of you, because it is only the thought of you and your perfect trust and patience that makes my life endurable. But I do think it lovely, and it will be a pleasure to wear it, though I expect I shall often think of the things it could buy."

John rose and drew her arm through his, in his bourgeois fashion. "It is rather impossible, when you come to think of it," he said, laughing, "to wear a big diamond when you're hard up. I couldn't stand the temptation, you know. I'm glad you've got it."

Mrs. Ponder prided herself on being very outspoken, but hers was the candor of vulgarity that spares no one's feelings, least of all those of dependents. She also demanded, and could digest, an unstinted amount of praise, and, as long as this was bestowed, was a fairly amiable person to live with. If Elsa could have borne with this most irritating of foibles she would have had a comfortable home; for, though Mrs. Ponder mourned over her want of tenderness and sympathy, she cherished a secret pride in Elsa's beauty and nice manners, which she attributed to her own influence in the girl's training. But Elsa had not the tact of hypocrisy that helps so many waifs to claim luxurious lives; she had the impatience of intellect, and the stress of uncongenial companionship told on her and caused constant bickerings.

When John called late one afternoon to reclaim his ring, he found Mrs. Ponder much aggrieved. An altercation had taken place in the morning in reference to some chintz draperies she had chosen that did not meet with Elsa's approval.

"She's not home yet," snapped Mrs. Ponder, in answer to his diffident inquiry, "and the longer she stays away the better. She grumbles at this—she grumbles at that—she says she'll lock her door, because I want her to have a pretty, clean room—and I'm not to interfere with her things. Her things! Why, she hadn't a rag to her back when I took her in! Look what I've done for her! The paltry sum she insists on giving me doesn't pay for her breakfast. But I don't mind that; she hasn't a bit of sense, and she won't listen—that's what annoys me."

John endeavored unsuccessfully to stem the wrathful recital of woes. In his desire to soothe her he said exactly the wrong things. "All girls are the same, I suppose; they like to be independent. I shouldn't worry about it, if I were you; perhaps she's right, you see. And of course she knows all she owes you."

"She doesn't—that's just what she doesn't," exclaimed Mrs. Ponder, angrily. Suddenly she lowered her voice in a mysterious whisper. "No one knows the truth—no one would have done what I did."

John shrank vaguely from these unsought confidences; there was something dishonest about listening when Elsa was not present to deny or defend them.

"Well, it's no good thinking of what is past, particularly anything disagreeable, is it, Mrs. Ponder?" he said, gently. "I dare say Elsa will repay you some day."

"Ah! but I must speak of this, if Elsa hasn't already," said Mrs. Ponder, shaking her head and assuming her most tragic and important air. "I think you ought to know, if you're going to marry her."

"What is it?" asked John, rather anxiously.

"Elsa's father was a thief—he died in prison, and Mr. Ponder let me take the child and bring her up as my own. If it hadn't been for me she'd have gone to the workhouse, for she hadn't a relation in the world."

But he met Mrs. Ponder's curious glance calmly. "I expect Elsa forgot to mention it," he said quietly, "and it does not make the slightest difference. People can't be responsible for their parents."

To his inexpressible relief Elsa entered as Mrs. Ponder was about to pour into his unwilling ears the story of the great jewel robbery that had led to her father's arrest and imprisonment. She had apparently walked off her ill humor. Her cheeks were flushed, her lips smiling, as she laid her hands in John's outstretched ones.

"And what made you come to-day?" she asked, taking a small bunch of violets from her waist belt and fastening them in his coat.

"My dad's in town. I have to meet him at six, so I called for the ring."

He seized Elsa's busy little hand. "Why, what have you done with it?"

Elsa hesitated, glanced round, and looked rather alarmed. "I—I must have left it upstairs," she said, doubtfully. John was growing impatient, when she returned with the ring in her hand.

"I have found it," she said, "but you will be very cross with me. The stone is not quite secure. I must have loosened it when I cleaned it. Don't wear it till the diamond is fastened in tightly; but you needn't trouble to take it to a jeweler. You can pinch it with some of those horrid little forceps."

"Why, Elsa, you look as white as a sheet! I'm not a bit vexed about it," said John, as he took the ring from her shaking hand. Elsa put her arms around his neck and laid her face on his shoulder. He could feel the rapid beating of her heart.

"I felt so frightened," she murmured. "I thought it was lost."

"And even if it were," said John, smiling, "it is not worth the roses in your cheeks."

CHAPTER II.

One afternoon in early summer, three years later, John stood at the window of his trim, professional-looking house, and looked out on the green garden of the square in which the trees nodded and rustled in the breeze and reminded him of Elsa.

As he stood there, moodily reviewing the past, he saw Mrs. Ponder labor slowly up the street, her dotted veil pushed up on her forehead, her face red and shiny with exertion or excitement. Being admitted, she entered his room and sat down without ceremony.

"I know I look a guy, but I couldn't wait a minute," she panted. "I had to come to tell you. O! dear, the diamond has been found. Poor Elsa—poor, poor, dear, innocent lamb!"

John turned pale and grasped the back of his chair. "Go on," he said, hoarsely.

"I'm so bewildered, I don't know where to begin. A friend of mine came to see me about the little upholstress I had recommended to her. She said she had missed things and traced them to the woman's lodgings, and then the place was searched, and among other stolen things a diamond was found. She broke down and confessed that she had taken it, but was too frightened to offer it for sale, and was waiting for her husband—a well-known thief—to come out of prison and get rid of it for her. It appears that when she came to measure for the chintz-covers for Elsa's bedroom (dear, dear, how the poor girl went on about them!) she saw the ring on the dressing-table, and, turning it about while I was out of the room for a minute, the diamond fell out on the floor. She had just time to drop the setting into a half-opened drawer when I came in, but having, as she said, no opportunity to replace the diamond, she was tempted to keep it."

"What about the false diamond?" asked John.

"Ah! I have only just discovered that," said Mrs. Ponder, opening the shabby bag in which she carried her purse and handkerchief. "The wretched thief swore she knew nothing about it, and that is quite likely, since I have found this in the same drawer where Elsa found the ring. I left her things just as they were when she went away, thinking she might come back some day." She held up the brooch she had given Elsa for a birthday present—one of the bogus stones was missing. "It was tangled in an old veil—I'm sure I don't know why Elsa wouldn't wear it—no wonder she thought the stone she picked up was the diamond, they're just as good as real," added Mrs. Ponder, eying the brooch with admiration.

"A mere coincidence! What fools we have been!" said John, savagely striding up and down in his agitation. "I wish to heaven you had not told me about her father that day!"

"Why?" ejaculated Mrs. Ponder, indignantly. "You said it made no difference, and when I told Elsa she said she had meant to tell you herself."

John stopped short, seizing the astonished woman by the wrists.

"You let Miss Elsa know that you had told me that afternoon?"

"Let me go. How dare you? Yes, of course I did. We had a few words after you had gone, and that cropped up among other things."

There is no day so lonely as a birthday, if it be not spent with those one cares for best—or, failing the loved presence, with the memory of some tender message to haunt one through the day. John missed both bitterly, and determined to seek in music peace of mind, since forgetfulness was impossible.

He paid extravagantly for his seat in St. James' hall, and took possession of it just as some one began the "Moonlight Sonata." Dreamily he enjoyed the wonderful mesmeric melody; listening, with closed eyes, he heard its tender human voice tell of Elsa, of their betrothal and the storminess of their parting. As it ended, he awoke, sighing, from his reverie, to a consciousness of Elsa's presence. He could not account for it—it seemed part of the dream—yet there she sat, next to him, studying the programme, her sweet, oval face shaded by a large black hat that cunningly revealed the waves and coils of her chestnut hair. She was dressed faultlessly and looked at ease with the world and herself. John had pictured their meeting so differently—he had had visions of need and distress bringing her back to him, of love conquering pride, and he missed the pathetic, downward curve of her red lips.

Unconscious of his scrutiny, she read on to the end of the page, when she looked up and their eyes met. She started a little, then held out her hand with a gracious movement.

"How do you do? You are the last person in the world I expected to find here! I hoped to be in time for the sonata, but I see I have just missed it."

He did not hear a word of the song that followed—he was wondering what to say to this strange, cold, but ever-fascinating Elsa. She turned to him in the interval and said:

"My conscience has often pricked me about not writing to Mrs. Ponder. Have you seen her lately?"

"Yes, I saw her last week," he answered, hurriedly, "and she told me something you have a right to know."

Elsa held up her little gloved hand with a deprecating gesture.

"Oh, please—please—nothing about that unfortunate diamond! I suppose it has turned up somewhere. I meant to save up and send you another, but afterwards I thought it would be better to forget it all."

"And me? Well, perhaps you are right," said John, slowly.

"I am not always right," said Elsa, frankly, smiling on his melancholy face; "for instance, I should have told you from the first about my father, but I put it off because I like pleasant topics, and that always made me cry."

"For God's sake, Elsa, be merciful. You don't think I love you less because of that? And, Elsa, dear, I have searched for you for three years to try and undo what I said in a moment of madness. Can't you forgive me?"

Elsa's manner baffled him, but when she spoke her voice was low and tremulous.

"I forgave you long ago, and don't let us speak of it any more; everything is past and buried."

"Everything but our promises and plans for the future, you mean?"

"Please don't speak of them, they were childish. The perfect love and trust we spoke of so glibly were myths. But I shall always be grateful to you."

"I don't understand. You talk in riddles. Why should you be grateful to me?"

"You told me once that there is always a second best. I have learned to find it."

"What do you mean? Where have you been all this time? Don't keep me in such suspense—I can't bear it!"

"I suppose I owe you an explanation. When I ran away I made some desperate resolutions. They came to nothing, for when I went to my work in the morning, determined to give notice and bury myself where no one should find me, Mr. Scarpley was so kind that, in answer to his inquiries, I was tempted to tell him the whole story." Elsa stopped and stared at the empty platform for a moment.

"If I had only known!" murmured John, frowning. "I went there, but he would give me no clew."

"He is the best and dearest of men," returned Elsa, warmly. "I made him promise. And though he had only my word, he believed in me, and—and—loved me. Desolate, heart-broken and friendless as I was, he offered me the truest heart that ever beat, and unworthy as I was, I accepted it, and have learnt to value it."

"You married that man!" gasped John, hardly knowing what he said.

Elsa gently bent her head. "That honor was mine," she said, proudly. "He is not young—you may call him plain. I think he is the best and handsomest man in the world, and he thinks I am the most perfect woman that ever lived. So now you know why I am grateful."

The long-haired favorite again took his place at the piano. Elsa smiled and applauded with the rest. It was clear she had no pity for John's heartache, and he hoped she had not noticed his distress.

When he rose at the end of the solo she looked up brightly.

"Must you go? My husband will be here in a moment. I should like you to know him. But you must come and see us."

Mechanically he took the card she tendered.

"Thanks; but—"

"But if you don't I shall know I have spoilt your afternoon," persisted Elsa, sweetly.

He did not trust himself to reply, but bade her a brief and courteous good-by.

On the dreary return to his northern suburb he pondered on what she had said till his head ached as well as his heart; yet he could neither blame nor reproach her for broken vows since she was so happy, and he tried to be glad for her sake. But a burning jealousy consumed him as he read the unfamiliar name on her card and he knew he should never seek her out again.—Chicago Tribune.

FOOD STRENGTH.

IT COMES FROM THE RIGHT FOOD PROPERLY DIGESTED.

Food strength is natural strength. It is new strength; created strength. That is, it is not stimulation.

The real strength of your body is your constitutional strength, your reserve strength. It is the result of eating proper food and digesting it.

Eating food does no good at all; rather harm—unless it is digested. So that everything narrows itself down to one proposition: How is your digestion?

One person in three of us have indigestion in some form or another. It is not really a disease, but a condition; a condition which may become serious.

We all wish to be strong, and we might all become so if we digested our food. The loss of your strength is a serious matter. It may be the beginning of a dangerous disease. It may mean that you cannot go on with your work.

Shaker Digestive Cordial is an aid to digestion. It is a strength maker. It makes your food nourish you. It makes you strong. It relieves at once all the symptoms of acute dyspepsia, tones up the system and creates flesh, energy and strength. Taken regularly it will permanently cure indigestion and make the weak, thin, irritable, nervous dyspeptic, strong, fat, hearty and well again.

A 10 cent bottle will show you what it will do.

Sold by druggist at 10, 25, 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

TO COERCE THE TURK

England Makes a Proposition to the European Powers.

ITALY AND AUSTRIA ACCEPT THE PLAN

Force Repugnant to the Czar, But He Finally Agrees To Yield If the Other Powers Were Unanimous—Germany and France's Position.

London, Jan. 22.—The government has issued a blue book containing official correspondence in regard to the projected reforms in Turkey. The correspondence shows that on Sept. 23 last Lord Salisbury proposed that the powers take measures to enforce their proposals, and that in the event of unwillingness on the part of any power to assume its share in the coercive measures applied that power should not oppose the action of any other. Austria gave her assent to this proposition without qualification, and later Germany assented, with the proviso that any coercive action taken by the powers against Turkey must be unanimous, and, further, that the integrity of the Ottoman empire must be maintained. Italy gave her absolute assent to the proposal, but Russia objected to any scheme which involved the application of coercion to make it operative. Interposing this objection M. Shishkin, then the head of the foreign office, stated that coercive action was repugnant to the czar. In reply to this Lord Salisbury expostulated with the Russian minister, saying that it would be useless for the powers to make further concerted representations to the porte in regard to reforms unless they were prepared to enforce their proposals. On Nov. 24 M. Shishkin wrote to Lord Salisbury, saying that the czar had agreed to consider the question of coercion if the sultan should prove recalcitrant and the other powers were unanimously in favor of resorting to coercion. About the end of December France gave a similar assent to measure of coercion to that of of Russia. Austria and Italy reaffirmed their adhesion to the plan of action. Lord Salisbury's correspondence on the subject closes with a letter dated Jan. 2.

Yale-Harvard Treaty of Peace.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 22.—The management of Yale university navy deny that any part of the statement sent out by a press association, in effect that plans for a resumption of athletic relations by Yale and Harvard have been abruptly closed. Capt. Bailey of Yale said that Capt. Goodrich of the Harvard crew has been here, and they freely discussed the situation, and that Yale has no thought of breaking off plans for arranging a race for this year. He says that, while nothing conclusive has been decided upon, everything at Yale is promising for an early signing of a treaty of peace with Harvard and for completing arrangements for a boat race this spring.

Death of Henry Asher.

New York, Jan. 22.—Henry Asher, proprietor of the Lackawaxen house, Lackawaxen, Pa., died there yesterday of heart disease. His wife died a short time ago on an Erie train while returning from her daughter's in New York city, and Mr. Asher, who was with her, never recovered from the shock. He was 66 years of age and was born in Westphalia. He served in the Crimean war, and at its close came to America.

Papal Reception to Roman Nobles.

Rome, Jan. 21.—The pope gave a reception yesterday to the Roman aristocracy, headed by Prince Ruspoli. His holiness addressed his guests and recalled the old ties of the nobility to the vatican, inciting them to do everything in their power to preserve and support the church.

New Bloomfield, Pa., Jan. 22.—The trial of Samuel Weiland, charged with placing obstructions on the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad with the object of wrecking trains, ended yesterday in his conviction. Sentence was deferred.

Three Fatally Burned.

Columbus, O., Jan. 22.—By the explosion of the great furnace at Wellston yesterday afternoon John Matin, John Kiaby and James Waddle were terribly burned and cannot recover. Weakness of the breast of the furnace was the cause.

Surgeon-General Tryon Promoted.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Surgeon-General Tryon has been promoted to the highest rank in the naval medical corps, filling the vacancy caused by the retirment of Medical Director Wells.

Fourth-class Postmasters.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The following fourth-class postmasters have just been appointed in Pennsylvania: Mrs. M. E. Fennock, Chesterville; Levi Wainhold, Muddy Creek.

For Payment of Pensions.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Secretary Francis has called upon the treasury department for $13,150,000 for quarterly payments of pensions at agencies.

TO-DAY IN CONGRESS.

No Business of Importance Arranged in Either Branch.

Washington, Jan. 22.—There is very little of importance before the senate to-day, and no regular course of business has been decided upon. Mr. Turpie has finished his speech against the Nicaraguan canal bill, but an effort to have a day and hour fixed for taking a vote was defeated by the absence of a quorum. It is likely that the bill relating to electrical conduits in the District of Columbia will again come up, and another wrangle, as has been the case for the past three days, is expected. Mr. Hill was unsuccessful in his attempt to have some definite action taken on his bill fixing at four years the term of all postmasters. Henry A. Dupont's certificate as senator from the state of Delaware was referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

House of Representatives.

After 126 members of the house of representatives, including 53 republicans, had voted, in accordance with the recommendation of the majority of the committee on elections No. 3, that Mr. Tucker was entitled to retain his seat as member of the Fifty-fourth congress from the Tenth Virginia district, which was contested by Mr. Yost, two hours were spent in making the vote effective and finally settling the matter. The case had been discussed from noon until 4:30 o'clock. The vote in favor of Yost was 120, Mr. Thomas having changed his vote in order to move a reconsideration, and this closeness induced the friends of the minority, led by Mr. Hepburn and by Mr. Thomas, to make a parliamentary fight lasting two hours, to force an adjournment, in the hope that a different result might be reached this afternoon. But their efforts were futile, and the resolution declaring Tucker entitled to the seat was adopted late last evening by a vote of 119 to 47, 14 members being present and not voting. The result was clinched by the adoption of the usual motion, to reconsider the vote and to lay that motion on the table.

THE EIGHT HOUR LAW.

Navy Department Has No Information of Alleged Violations by Contractors.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Replying to a senate resolution as to the alleged violation of the eight hour law by Isaac Walker & Sons, contractors, in making repairs on the naval hospital at Brooklyn, N. Y., the secretary of the navy says the department has no information on the subject. The law had been observed in the department so far as all employees under its direction and control was concerned, but the department had never assumed any authority over the action of contractors or sub-contractors in the matter of their employees. If the act had made the department responsible for violations of the eight hour law, it would have been necessary to station inspectors at points where buildings were being erected, mines where stone and marble were quarried, mills where lumber was sawed, ship yards building government ships, etc., necessitating an army of inspectors and appropriations for their pay.

A Question of Woman's Rights.

Washington, Jan. 22.—A question of woman's rights has been raised in the war department and is likely to cause much discussion. The civil service commission recently advertised to fill a $1,500 vacancy in the adjutant-general's office. Miss Maud Stalnaker was the only person who passed the examination, and she was duly certified for the position, but the appointment has been rejected on the ground that the department does not want a woman in the place. Miss Stalnaker resides in this city, and is a lady of unexceptional character and accomplishments. The examination required, among other things, knowledge of five modern languages.

A. J. Farwell Insane.

Boston, Jan. 22.—A. J. Farwell, who was employed as assistant transfer clerk in the discount department of the Boston Safe Depost & Trust company, has been committed to McLean asylum. It is stated at the office of the company that Mr. Farwell's condition is in no way attributable to the actions of ex-Treasurer Miles.

The Manitoba School Case.

London, Jan. 22.—Solicitor-General Fitzpatrick and Lawyer Russell of Manitoba, who were charged with the mission of presenting the Manitoba school case to the vatican, have started for Rome. They are the bearers of a full statement of the Manitoba school situation, which they have just completed and will present to the pope.

France and the Peace Treaty.

Paris, Jan. 22.—M. Mirman, a radical republican member of the chamber of deputies, intimated yesterday that he would shortly question M. Hanotaux, Minister of foreign affairs, as to what negotiations had been or were being carried on with the United States, looking to the conclusion of a treaty of arbitration.

Launching of the Daniel Manning.

Boston, Jan. 22.—Owing to the inclement weather the launching of the United States revenue cutter Daniel Manning, which was to have taken place at the shipyard of the Atlantic works in East Boston yesterday, has been postponed until the conditions are more favorable.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Keer and Martin Cycle Company will move this spring from their present stand in Newark, at 876 Broad street, to new and more commodious quarters at 876 Broad street. The old store will be kept open until April 1st, while the new store will be opened at once and the two establishments kept running until the first of April.

Edward White, the enterprising West Front street merchant, is the first one to purchase a '97 model Columbia wheel. It was not, however, the one that was taken from the salesroom of the Eldridge Bicycle Company, some time ago, but a new one purchased from that company yesterday.

SUED HIS OLD EMPLOYER

PERRINE WANTED HIS WAGES FOR THE WHOLE MONTH.

Had Been Discharged by Schenck After Two Weeks Service for Incapacity—Claims He Was Hired for the Month.

The efforts of household help to recover their wages by law, when discharged before their month was up, have already been recorded in The Press, and now it is a farm-hand who makes the same complaint and has brought the matter into the court of Justice Mosher. The case is known on the court records as Mary Z. Perrine against E. S. Schenck, on contract.

E. S. Schenck is a milkman with a farm near New Market. It will be remembered that a few days ago his milk wagon met a trolley car and its contents was sattered over the ground in the vicinity. Several months ago, Schenck, needing an assistant about the farm to look after the cattle and attend other important matters, hired a lad by the name of Perrine. After keeping him for a month, Schenck says that he found the lad lazy and shiftless, persistently neglecting his duties and altogether not at all the young man that Schenck was after as an assistant. The mother of the lad came to Schenck and begged that the boy be given another trial. After two weeks more of trial, Schenck declares that he found the lad worse than ever and so discharged him.

Schenck paid him for the two weeks that he remained but the boy said that he had been hired for the month. This Schenck refused to give him. There were several other attempts to collect the full month's wages but the milkman refused to give in and at last the mother of the lad, Mrs. Mary Z. Perrine, as guardian of the boy, started suit in Justice Mosher's court court to recover the amount, about $6.

The case came up for trial this morning before the justice and a jury of six men. The jury was composed of Henry C. Corsa, William Dagnell, William H. Totten, Charles Moore, Henry H. Jessup, and James E. Huntington. The plaintiff was represented in court by her lawyer, A. P. Miller, while S. S. Swackhamer was the attorney for the defendant. The case was tried this morning and the jury went out at 12 o'clock.

Rheumatism Cured in 24 Hours.

T. J. Blackmore, of Haller & Blackmore, Pittsburg, Pa., says: "A short time since I procured a bottle of 'Mystic Cure.' It got me out of the house in twenty four hours. I took to my bed with Rheumatism nine months ago and the 'Mystic Cure' is the only medicine that did me any good. I had five of the best physicians in the city, but I received very little relief from them. I know the 'Mystic Cure' to be what it is represented and take pleasure in recommending it to other poor sufferers." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

—A pleasant time was afforded those who attended the sociable at Warren chapel last night.

—Lawyer Hetfield has at last obtained possession of the two desks over which he had so much trouble.

—Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will meet this evening, at which time several propositions for membership will be received.

PROF. FISKE ON THE COSMIC ROOTS OF LOVE AND SELF-SACRIFICE.

A Cultured Audience Listens to Lectures of Deep Thought Elucidated in Sentences Easily Comprehended by All.

An unusually cultured and elegant audience gathered in the Y. M. C. A. Hall last night to listen to the second of Prof. John Fiske's lectures on "Evolution" given under the auspices of the Club of Current Events, of Washington Park. This lecture had as its subject, "The Cosmic Roots of Love and Self-sacrifice," and was the Phi Beta Kappa Oration delivered at Harvard University, in June, 1895.

Prof. Fiske's theory is that "the cosmic process exists purely for the sake of moral ends;" that the goal of evolution is not so much physical perfection or the completed happiness of humanity, as their spiritual perfection.

When we look out over a summer field starred with daisies, he said, or listen to the song of the birds, we feel that this is a world of harmony and beauty. We are conscious of a sense of gratitude to the Creator, and we understand how men turn instinctively to acts of worship. But when we look beneath the surface, all is changed. It is a world of ugliness and strife, which science shows us. Of those insects which inhabit that field of daisies, perhaps only one in a hundred comes to maturity. The whole earth is a scene of wholesale, ruthless massacre. Yet, but for the destruction of all but the best of these types, the types would naturally degenerate; through natural selection higher types are attained.

But, we say, is not this method of nature, which achieves greatness only by inflicting misery, a most unhappy one? Life ought to be dear to the Giver of life, yet how cheaply it is held. The polytheism of the ancients could always explain such facts by reference to their malevolent deities. Truly, as long as we turn our attention entirely to the survival of the fittest in the struggle for existence, it is hard for anyone of mind and heart to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion. In natural selection we can find no hope, no consolation. But in the cosmic process of evolution there are other forces at work. Natural selection is powerless to account for the existence of man. The gap between man and the most highly developed forms of ape is a small one, where physical points are alone considered, less than that between dog and cat. But when you consider the difference in the mind of man and ape, the gap is enormous. At that point selection of sychical variations has taken the place of physical variations.

The four striking points of difference between man and ape are man's progressiveness, his grouping into families, articulate speech, and the prolongation of the period of infancy. There has been no break in the continuity of the process of evolution, ethically considered. Other things being now ready, with man comes the power to have his actions controlled by something outside of himself; to shift the standard of conduct from the "I wish" to the "I ought." The moral law grew up in the world not because it was petitioned for, but because the world needed it. Evolution has always been working toward the perfect community; its goal, the spiritual perfection of humanity. Cosmic power exists solely for moral ends.

Before such divine things as love and self-sacrifice could be developed, the relation of mother and child needed to be perfected. Maternity was not realized till a recent stage in the earth's history, and its small beginnings opened the way for the human mother's love and tenderness and sacrificing spirit.

Though many of the ways of God are beyond our comprehension, yet those which we can comprehend show us that life is not a mockery; and underneath all the mystery we can hear the undertone of a great, deep, ethical purpose.

WOMEN WANT TO VOTE

STATE AND COUNTY SUFFRAGISTS MEET IN THIS CITY.

Rev. Aaron H. Powell Says That in Many Respects the English Are Further Advanced in Woman's Suffrage Than We.

The New Jersey State Suffrage Association held a well-attended meeting at the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon, which was presided over by Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, the president. The first business transacted was the election of two delegates to attend the National Convention to be held next week at Des Moines, Ia. Those chosen were Mrs. Phoebe Wright, of Manasquan, and Mrs. Kate Browning, of Orange. The president then introduced the first speaker of the afternoon, Miss Mary Philbrook, the only woman lawyer in New Jersey. Miss Philbrook is an interesting talker and her persuasive manner was a marked feature of the address, a portion of which follows:

"My subject, "Why Women Should Study Law?" is a most important one in many respects, for where a person has no knowledge of law it is very difficult for them to know how to make contracts and to transact other matters which everyone should know about. Law is the foundation of human society. Marriage contracts afford an interesting study, and the making of wills is something about which women should have full knowledge. Aside from the legal point of view, the educational side is an essential one and treats of the best things in arts, trades, etc., and it makes a person liberal.

"From a society point of view a knowledge of law is an absolute necessity and it elevates one to a higher plane in life.

"In matters pertaining to the transfer of property, and becoming executors of estates, a woman should by all means have full legal knowledge so that she may be able to transact business in an intelligent manner."

During Miss Philbrook's talk she gave several amusing incidents which substantiated the facts about which she spoke, and at the close she was heartily applauded.

Following the above, Aaron M. Powell was introduced and gave an enjoyable talk on the subject, "Woman Suffrage in England." A portion of his remarks follow:

"England is blessed in having a gracious Queen who has won the esteem and confidence of the civilized world. As the official head, she has limited executive functions which makes her responsibilities much less than those of our President, but in certain things she has a veto power. In other respects her position is one of great moment, and has practically settled the question as to the fitness of woman's assumption of public official duty.

"This is certainly an object lesson to every woman, and if it is proper for a woman to occupy a position for sixty years, such as the Queen of England, there is no reason why any well-qualified and intelligent woman should not stand on an equality with men.

"Some English women are greatly favored as compared with Americans regarding political status. Outside of London some women are allowed to vote for town councilmen and suburban officers, but a very few are allowed to vote for members of the school board. In Scotland the women vote to some degree, and in Ireland a woman was elected to the position of poor-law guardian. These are great advantages over the women of New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania.

"At present there are 850 women who hold the position of poor-law guardian in Great Britain and 200 women are parish councilors. In England, Scotland and Wales there are 1,500 women holding office, and yet these women are not satisfied. They want equal Parliamentary suffrage and for this they are laboring.

"At present there is a strong current feeling among the Tory-Unionists toward woman suffrage, and it is quite likely that during the present session of Parliament something will be done in this direction.

"The English are very thorough in their methods. This is shown in many ways, and along the lines of mental activity this is especially true. Over there, men and women have a way of questioning the candidates, and the latter when they run for office expect to be questioned. I would like to see that done in this country. It seems to me that the women of England take more interest in affairs than they do in this country. In Plainfield the women have their clubs and I would not speak critically about them before such an audience as this. The time is near at hand when men and women will adjust

NEED OF MISSION WORKERS GREAT.

Robert Gailey Points Out Where Christianity Does Not Flourish.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church held its monthly missionary meeting last evening. The meeting was led by R. D. Schoonmaker, who introduced Robert Gailey, of Princeton, and turned the meeting over to him.

Mr. Gailey spoke words of encouragement and cheer in favor of the work of Foreign missions as well as the following words of inducement for others to give themselves to the work of saving the unconverted in foreign lands:

"The church is now at the time of its 'Kadesh Borneo.' Yes, all the world is now open to receive the gospel of Christ. Everything is ready for us to 'go out into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.' Shall we go and obey this command? or shall we, like the children of Israel, disregord God's commands and lose our 'promised land,' our great opportunity of promoting Christ's kingdom.

India, China, Africa and the countries of South America have been opened by the cost of life and it is our duty to carry on the work so courageously begun. Many persons may say! 'Why don't the Christian nations go into these dark nations and convert the inhabitants by introducing their machinery, printing presses and other impliments of civilization?

"My dear friends these things will never do the work. It can only be done by the works of the church of God.

"Ther are in China alone 250 million souls who know not Christ. Two hundred and fifty million. We cannot realize what that number means. There are 913 walled cities in China into which no missionary has ever gone. One person of every three in China dies without Christ.

"Oh, the need of our labors is indeed very great and the call is very clear and plain 'Go ye unto all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.'"

MR. WEBSTER'S STORY.

HIS EXCITING EXPERIENCE IN THE WRECK AT SKILLMAN.

The Blue Liner Was Making up Lost Time When the Crash Came—Baggage Hurled on Webster, But Escaped Serious Injury.

A reporter of The Daily Press had a very interesting talk with Frank Webster, of the borough, a day or two ago regarding the railroad accident which occurred at Skillman last Saturday night. Mr. Webster was the least injured of anyone and he is perhaps better able to talk about the affair. He said that the flyer was about seven minutes late before they reached Trenton Junction, but they were rapidly making up the lost time. Between the latter place and Bound Brook is considered a sort of a race course, and trains usually make up any lost time between these two points. Mr. Webster, who was in the baggage car, said that the train was rolling off the miles at the rate of sixty an hour and they were not over two minutes late when the terrible crash came.

What followed he says he will never forget. His car was full of trunks and when the two trains came together the heavy baggage fell on him with a crash, which accounts for the fact that his leg was injured. For a minute he did not expect to get out alive, but as soon as possible he made his escape.

In speaking about Engineer Clapp, Webster said that he had been on the road about twenty-eight years and he thought that this was the first accident that he had been in. He was considered one of the best engineers on the road and was very careful. At present his train is being run by Engineer Allen.

Webster said that they had a full train of passengers and he fully expected that they would all be injured or killed, and the fact that not one was injured he considers miraculous.

This is the third accident that Mr. Webster has been in and he says that he does not care to be in any more.

Coming Home.

A letter from Fred S. Dunn, who has been at Echo Mountain and Pasadena, California, for nearly three years, states that he expects to start for Plainfield the first week in February. His relatives and many friends here will be glad to see him again. He comes by way of Chicago and Northwestern Railroad, to Chicago, thence by B. & O. Royal Blue Line.

—The light flurry of snow yesterday served to make the walking very slippery on the depot platform, and one New York commuter who was in a hurry to catch a train fell flat on his back while running.

THE SLEEPY CONSCIENCE

REV. MR. O'DONNELL'S ADMONITION AT THE LAST REVIVAL.

Too Many Christians Are Sitting Still, He Says, While Sin is Encroaching and Delaying the Good Work of God.

The union revival meetings which have been in progres in this city for the past fortnight, were concluded with the service in the First Baptist church last evening. The result of the labors of the city pastors and church workers cannot be estimated, but it is safe to say that much good has already been shown as a result of the meetings, and much more good will doubtless follow. Before spring the various churches will no doubt increase in membership to a noticeable extent. The prayers of the pastors and workers have been for a general Christian uprising and the redemption of many souls.

Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church, read the Scripture lesson from Ezekial 33, the first eleven verses. Rev. Dr. Yerkes led in prayer. The preacher took no regular Biblical text, but spoke on "The Sleepy Conscience."

"It's a healthy sign," said he, "when people begin to talk and realize what Plainfield needs; it is the outpouring of God's spirit, and as soon as we are ready to receive His spirit of power, the spirit will come. When the conscience sleeps sin is near. Think of the Holy One of Israel falling into the hands of the enemy; think of the scene on Calvary as the world's greatest tragedy, then ask 'How could they do it?' The disciples proclaimed Jesus Christ being crucified in our very midst; we must lift up our voices in opposition.

"Men and women who are willing to do nothing to check the tide of sinfulness must be asleep in their conscience. We need the baptism of conscience and an awakening of the Holy Spirit; sin is all about us and on every side; are we safe with one eye open to it? Is not Satan closing his eye on the church, in order that we may become mild and docile?

"Were it not for the sleepy course of the true Christian," said Rev. Mr. O'Donnell, "this church would be filled; many delight more in church fairs than in the prayer meetings; on the club houses we want both eyes open, or Satan will get in. What we need is to be active against the encroachment of sin. Jesus Christ is going to triumph and the devil is doomed. But we're putting off the victory because of sleeping consciences, when we should be awake."

The preacher told the story of an Indian boy at the Carlisle school who was depressed in spirits one day, and when asked the cause said he had been a Christian for four years and had only won eleven souls for Christ. "The man who refuses his office duty by staying away from church," said Rev. Mr. O'Donnell in conclusion "is guilty of a great sin."

Rev. Dr. Barnes spoke of the great good which had and would accrue from the meetings now about to close, and spoke in admiration of his fellow-workers for the great interest they had taken in the services.

The congregation joined in singing "Praise God From Whom all Blessings Flow" and Rev. W. R. Richards pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, pronounced the benediction.

Mr. Tharin's Lecture Tonight.

R. S. Tharin is one of the most gifted off-hand lecturers in the United States. If he should lecture here every night for a week you would hear him every time after hearing him once. Mr. Tharin will lecture at Y. M. M. C. A. Hall, tonight, at 8 o'clock.

Lectures on Law.

Commencing March 1st, a series of seven lectures will be given on the subject of "Law." Miss Mary Philbrook, the only woman lawyer in New Jersey, will deliver the first five and David Prescott Hall, a member of the New York Bar, will deliver the remaining two. The lectures will be held at different residences in Plainfield, and the price of admission will be placed within the reach of all.

In a Receiver's Hands.

The Trenton Times, the only afternoon paper published in that city went into the hands of Francis B. Lee, as receiver today. He was empowered to continue the publication. The liabilities are estimated at $20,000, the assets nearly equalling this amount. The application was made by E. C. Hill, chief stockholder.

Lost $40 in a Raid.

A Park avenue and East Front street merchant were among those who were caught in the raid at Hill's pool room on Waverly road, Thursday. The Park avenue man lost $40 in the shuffle and excitement but the East Front street man came out a little better and got his checks cashed.

ACTIVE AT HIGH SCHOOL

STUDENTS BUSY WITH MAMY THINGS BESIDES BOOKS.

Military, Athletics, Dinners, Debates, Etc., Afford a Change to the Routine of Study and Keep Up the Interest.

The time long dreaded by the students at the Plainfield High School has arrived and the semi-annual examinations have begun. They will be continued all the coming week. The last week has been spent in reviewing the different subjects preparatory to the examinations. The second term begins the first of next month and there will be several changes in the list of studies.

The long delayed class spread of the class of '97 is soon to be held and the class is planning for a very enjoyable affair. It will be held in the chapel of the Franklin school on the evening of February 11th. While it has been decided to have the regular feasts as has been the custom in previous years, the speakers have not yet been selected. The president of the class, Sydney R. Titsworth, will act as toast master. The class has decided in favor of having the spread served by a caterer.

While the cadet company has been quiet in their actions, it has accomplished much and the friends of the company will be given a chance shortly to see a public drill of the cadets and an inspection by Captain George Edwards.

The Athletic Association is spending all its energy in the effort to make the proposed concert of the association a success. A meeting of the committee was held yesterday noon at the High School building and some more of the details were arranged.

The interest in the Cuban question has spread to the members of Kappa Delta Phi and they are planning to consider the question in a mock session of the United States Senate. A meeting of the society was held yesterday afternoon in the High School building. The programme consisted of a hash debate on the subject, "Are the advantages of country life greater than those of city life?" William Fisher acted as principal of the affirmative side with William VanAlstyne, William DeLong and Arthur W. Lederer as his seconds. The principal on the other side was Henry W. Brower with E. Stanley Peck, George Proctor Smith and Sydney R. Titsworth as his seconds. The debate was decided by the secretary, Charles Noble, and he awarded the debate to the affirmative side. One member was elected and one application for membership was received.

As a programme for the meeting on Friday afternoon, February 5th, it was decided to hold a mock session of the United States Senate and to debate a a bill acknowledging the independence of Cuba. A committee was appointed to draw up the bill which will be presented next week for the first reading.

A roll of honor has been established this school year and the names placed on it are of those who have not been absent or late in that part of the school year. The roll of honor for the months of November and December has been announced and includes the following names:

Adeline Manning, Edith Clark, Lydia Loizeaux, Alice Conant, Florence Eggerding, Helen Hall, Angie Kuhl, Martha Anthony, Edna Burr, Mary Locke, Muriel Locke, Iola Moore, Lucy Pound, Florence Serrell, Georgette Wolf, Sydney R. Titsworth, William VanAlstyne, Henry W. Brower, William A. DeLong, Jr., Henry Pearce, William Coriell, Carroll L. Runyon, George Proctor Smith, James Cubberley, Merton Davis, Fred Mason and Townsend Mason.

PARTITION SUIT NOT SETTLED YET.

Testimony of Several Witnesses Taken and Then Adjourned.

For nearly two years the partition suit over the estate of the late Rebecca Miles, on Somerset street, has been pending in the New Jersey Court of Chancery, and yesterday the case came up for a hearing before Vice-Chancellor Stevens. The testimony of several witnesses was taken and then the matter was adjourned until Wednesday of next week.

The complainant in the case is William H. Miles, of North Plainfield, one of the sons and he is represented in the matter by W. Holt Apgar, of Trenton, and John B. Green, of New York. The defendants are Frank W. Miles, the Somerset street florist, one of the sons, and his sister, Anna R Miles, of the borough. Mr. Miles was represented by her counsel, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, while ex-Mayor John H. Van Winkle, was present as the lawyer for Anna Miles. The estate in question is valued at about $20,000.

WAS NOT A HOBO AT HEART.

CADI SENT HIM ON HIS JOURNEY.

He Was Looking for Work and Told a Plausible Story.

Another victim of the hard times was taken off of the fast freight train from Philadelphia at the North avenue station, last night, shortly after midnight, by Detective Blackford, for trespassing on the railroad. He was not of the style of the ordinary "knight of the road," but seemed to be a hard-working man.

When arraigned before the Judge, this morning, he said that he was going from Philadelphia to Newark to get work with his brother. He had never been arrested before and had always behaved himself. He had a wife and three children at home and he was trying to earn enough to prevent them from starving. In his pocket was found the picture of the wife and children, carefully wrapped up. He was a good-looking man with an intelligent face, and his story sounded very plausible. He gave his name as Peter Thornton, and said that he was a mechanic.

The Judge decided to suspend sentence on him and Thornton was released. He declared that he was going on to Newark as soon as possible, for his brother had a job for him there.

The Cold Wave Here.

The cold wave that is now in full sway in this section has covered all the ponds in the neighborhood with a sheet of ice and the young people were correspondingly happy, for skating is now excellent, and there were many who braved the chilling wind this morning and went out for a spin on the ice. New Market pond is in good condition, as is also Hydes, and both were visited by many from this city. Holly's pond was smooth and hard add had its attendants.

Improvements at Lederer's.

Pearson & Gayle, Plainfield's builders, have secured the contract to make the extensive improvements at Lederer's dry goods store. The work will be started in a few days. The contract was awarded today.

NO INTENT OF WRONG.

MEYER LEICHTENTRITT EXONERATED FROM A SERIOUS CHARGE.

Commissioner Whitehead Declared That When He Opened Sherman's Letter, It Was Natural and No Wrong Intended.

Meyer Leichtentritt, manager for the firm of L Sternburg & Co., of this city, has been fully exonerated from the charge of tampering with the United States mail, preferred by his former employer, Louis Sherman, of the Sherman Outfitting Company.

The story of his arrest was told in the Press at the time and yesterday he was arraigned before Commissioner Whitehead at Newark for a hearing. Mr. Leichtentritt was represented by his counsel, Ex-Judge Henry, of Newark. Mr. Sherman was present at the hearing. He gave as his reason for preferring the charge that his former manager should have known the envelope was addressed to the Sherman Outfitting Co. on acoount of the color, which was blue, and therefore he must have opened the letter knowing that it was not meant for him. The addressed envelopes sent to the company are blue and Mr. Leichtentritt knew it from experience.

Mr. Leichtentritt explained that the company by which he was now employed used envelopes of that color and other colors and he had a blue envelope of the same tint as the one he opened by mistake and it was addressed to L. Sternburg & Co. Several times during the hearing Mr. Sherman tried to withdraw the charge but the Commissioner declared that once started the examination must be completed.

After hearing the testimony of both sides, the Commissioner dismissed the case, declaring Mr. Leichtentritt not guilty of the alleged crime. The mistake was one, he said, which even he was liable to make and that the circumstances in the case of Mr. Leichtentritt were specially exonerating as he had formerly been manager of the Sherman Outfitting Company.

Mr. Sherman admitted in the hearing that, although Mr. Leichtentritt had handled funds to the amount of several hundred thousands of dollars for the Sherman Outfitting Company, he had never found his accounts a cent out of the way.

A Pleasant Surprise.

Joseph Bower, of 169 East Front street, was given a pleasant surprise last evening, it being the anniversary of his birthday. The affair was arranged by Gus Force, Phillip VanArsdale and George McVoy. There were about fifteen young people present and they all had a good time playing games, etc., and at ten o'clock refreshments were served.

WENT UP IN FLAMES.

IN TRYING TO PUT OUT THE FIRE, JOHN LUERSSEN WAS BURNED.

A Lantern Overturned in the Hay Loft and the Whole Structure Was a Mass of Fire in a Few Moments.—Live Stock Rescued.

The most serious fire that has occurred in the borough for a long time past broke out last evening at 5.45 o'clock in the barn owned by Christopher Wise, 90 Grandview. John Luerssen, a man employed by Mr. Wise, had occasion to go up stairs in the barn with a lighted lantern, and while there the lantern was overturned and set fire to the hay, which in an instant was one mass of flames. Luerssen tried his best to put the fire out but he failed, and it was barely that he escaped with his life. As it was, his hands and hair were severely scorched. There were eight horses in the barn and several wagons, and it was with the greatest difficulty that these were rescued.

Very soon after the fire broke out an alarm was sent in from Box 132 by E. E. Pope, Jr., and it was not long before the department arrived and had water on the fire. The flames were confined entirely to the barn, which was totally destroyed, as was also a quatity of hay which was packed away in the loft. Among the things destroyed were two sets of double harness, one set of single harness, a mowing machine, several sewing machines and a number of screen doors which were stored away for the winter. The illumination, which could be seen for a great distance, was thought by many to be a much larger conflagration. It required about three hours hard work to put the fire out and the borough firemen did noble work in handling the fire and thus saved some valuable property near by.

It is estimated that the loss on the barn and contents will be about $600. The insurance on the same is $200.

LITTLE PEOPLE ENTERTAINED.

Primary Scholars Enjoy an Affair all by Themselves.

The members of the primary department of Miss Scribner and Miss Newton's school on LaGrande avenue were given a very enjoyable party by their teacher, Miss Lyon, at the school yesterday afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock. The first hour was spent by the children in dancing and playing games under the direction of their teacher and the other teachers in the school. Miss Lyon was also assisted by Mrs. Lowe, Mrs. Mead, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Booth, Mrs. Fredrick, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Robert, and Mrs. Northrup. There were about thirty children present at the party.

At five o'clock they gathered in the lower rooms where refreshments were served and each of the children was given a favor which contained a fancy cap. The caps were put on and the children sat down about the little tables where they were served with the refreshments. The chocolate was served in dainty little souvenir cups which were given to the children as mementoes of the occasion.

The older pupils at the school had been invited to attend the stereopticon entertainment that brought the party to a close. It was given in the rooms of the first floor and consisted of a number of views from all over the world. The lantern was managed by Clement Morgan while Rev. S. P. Simpson gave a very interesting talk on the different views as they were shown.

Ruth Fredericks gave a reading between the two parts of the entertainment.

IN THE SUNNY SOUTH.

Plainfielders Who Are Spending the Winter in Dixey Land.

At present there is quite a Plainfield settlement in North Carolina, and if all reports are true, it is fair to presume that they, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Trust and Arthur M. Griffin, of this city, are having a most enjoyable time in the Sunny South. The latest news is that the above gentlemen have reccently purchased large tracts of land and they intend going into the business of raising cattle. Edward Griffin is also in the party and it is expected that A. I. Smalley will join them in a short time. This morning a quantity of goods were shipped to the above place and it really looks as though the Plainfielders intend to settle. A. M. Griffin was expected home this week, but he has sent word that he will not be here for several days.

Danced at a Surprise.

Walter Higgins, of West Front street, was surprized by a large number of his friends last night. Dancing was the principal feature of the affair and the guests left for home at an early hour this morning. There were about fifty people present.

HANNA FOR SENATOR

Majority of the Ohio Legislature Favorable to His Candidacy.

GOV. BUSHNELL THE STUMBLING BLOCK

The National Chairman Visits Columbus and Meets the Governor and Members of the Legislature at a Banquet.

Columbus, O., Jan. 23.—The intense interest in the selection of the successor to Senator Sherman brought nearly the whole membership of the Seventy-second general assembly to the reunion yesterday and banquet last night, where Gov. Bushnell and chairman Mark Hanna, among others, responded to a toast. "I have merely come down for an outing," said Chairman Hanna. "I have not been in the best of health for some time and took advantage of the kind invitation to join in the reunion of the members of the general assembly, with nearly all of whom I am personally acquainted. There is nothing political in my visit." It is not believed here, however, that Chairman Hanna came here solely for his health. Gov. Bushnell called upon Chairman Hanna at his quarters in the Chittenden and the two chatted for a short time. Their meeting was not a conference, however, in any sense of the word. A more significant fact was the conference in the governor's private office. W. R. Day of Canton, a close friend of President-elect McKinley, and Lieut.-Gov. Asa W. Jones were present. Mr. Day denied himself to newspaper men and left the city soon after the conference. Mr. Jones would not discuss the senatorial question. Ex-Gov. Foster had engaged quarters, but telegraphed that he would not be in the city. It is evident that a majority of the members of the legislature are for Hanna for the senate. The report comes from Chairman Kurtz, who is very close to Gov. Bushnell and Senator Foraker, that Bushnell will not appoint Hanna to the senate. From the same source also comes the statement that the governor will not call a special session of the legislature. From other sources it is reported that Bushnell will propose to Hanna, that inasmuch as the workingmen were appealed to in the late campaign to support the republican ticket and responded nobly, and, as there are plenty of rich men in the senate and no representative of the laboring classes, one of the latter should be appointed to the vacancy. To meet this, the Hanna advocates are using a statement made by John McBryde, ex-president of the United Mine Workers, to the effect that Hanna was the fairest man in his dealings with his employes that he ever knew. The toast assigned Mr. Hanna at the banquet was "Ohio, the Mother of Presidents; How They Are Made."

NEW CABINET POSSIBILITY.

P. C. Knox of Pittsburg Urged for the Position of Attorney-General.

Canton, O., Jan. 23.—Judge Nathan Goff of West Virginia, who is one of Major McKinley's most valued personal friends, left for his home last evening. "My visit has been a charming and satisfactory one," said Mr. Goff. "Are you in the cabinet?" was asked. "I cannot say that I am," answered Judge Goff. The understanding here is that Judge Goff will be tendered a portfolio and that he will accept. Judge Goff will doubtless be either attorney general or postmaster general. A new cabinet possibility has been suggested by C. L. Magee, who stated that the friends of P. C. Knox of Pittsburg would suggest to Major McKinley the expediency of making him attorney general. Mr. Knox is a successful lawyer of large means, who is eminent in his profession. Mr. Magee said he did not come to Canton to discuss the cabinet and remarked that while he was personally friendly to Charles Emory Smith, he would have to support Mr. Knox, the local cabinet possibility. There has been much speculation here to-day regarding the New York member of Major McKinley's cabinet and the suggestion has been made that the president-elect may decline to appoint anyone from that state if the factional pressure is too fierce. Miss Helen McKinley, sister of the president-elect, fell on a slippery sidewalk yesterday afternoon and broke her arm.

U. P. FORECLOSURE

Government Begins Proceedings To Protect Its Interests.

SALE OF THE ROAD WILL BE PUBLIC

An Agreement Already Reached Which Assures the Government's Claim---$4,000,000 in Cash Deposited as Security of the Terms.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The following statement was given to the United Associated Presses by Attorney General Harmon this morning: "Upon the defeat of the funding bill in the house the president directed the attorney general to commence foreclosure proceedings against the Union Pacific Railway company, first making the best arrangements obtainable for the protection of the government's interests. Following the lines indicated in his last report, the attorney general began negotiations with the reorganization committee. On Thursday an agreement was made which will result in immediate steps to foreclose. The chief subject of the negotiations was the protection of the government against the risk of sacrifice of its claim by a sale at a price which would leave nothing substantial after paying prior liens. This protection is now assured by a guarantee that the government shall receive on its lien on the aided portions of the Union Pacific and Kansas Pacific lines, including the sinking fund, not less than $45,754,000. The sale will be public, so that the government will receive the benefit of any higher bids up to the full amount of its claim, principal and interest. The sum of four and a half million dollars cash was on Thursday deposited with the United States Trust company of New York by Gen. Louis Fitzgerald, chairman of the committee, as security, according to the terms of the agreement. The committee agree to bid par for the sinking fund if it is desired to sell it at any time before the foreclosure sale. Bills in equity have been prepared, signed by the attorney-general and Hon. George Hoadley, special counsel, and forwarded to St. Louis, where they will on Friday be presented to Judge Sanborn, who has jurisdiction in all the districts and whose consent to their filing is necessary, because the receivers in charge of the property are made parties defendant. They are original bills and not cross bills in the pending suits. Whether they will proceed as independent bills or be ordered to stand as cross bills in the pending suits will be determined by the judge, but in either event the result will be practically the same, viz., the sale of the property under the government lien as well as under the first mortgage. The bills will be filed in the districts of Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado and Utah. Seperate bills for the foreclosure of the lien on the Kansas Pacific are in course of preparation. These will be filed in Missouri and Kansas. The proposed arrangement was submitted to the government directors before it was closed. They all recommended its adoption."

The two men will appear and there will be tugs of war, heavy-weight lifting, club swinging, etc., in addition.

Arthur Mayhew, the negro murderer of Stephen Powell, has been sentenced to die in the week of March 7, by Justice Garretson at Long Island City.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Mr. Fairchild, rep., N. Violation of this law is made punishable by a fine of $100, one half of which goes to the person filing the suit.

GARDEN OF EDEN.

A Colored Man Believes He Has Found the Home of Original Man.

There is a lawyer out in Del Norte, Col., who believes that he has found the site of the Garden of Eden. He has spent a good part of his life in studying antiquities, and has compared the remains of prehistoric man found in many quarters of the globe. He has at last located original man in the state of Colorado and the near neighborhood of his home. There, in the course of his explorations, he recently came across a cave that he thought was a promising place for excavation.

Nor was he mistaken. Below the surface he found remains of men far antedating the mound builders and the cliff dwellers. In fact, before he was nearly through with his excavation he was satisfied that he had made one of the most important discoveries of modern times, and now that he has had time to study the remains that he found, he is perfectly convinced that the section he has been exploring was the original Garden of Eden.

Mr. Elliott says that he was led many years ago to suspect that the San Luis valley had a primeval history of thrilling importance, and has spent most of his leisure since in making investigations. This valley is 150 miles long and 30 or 40 miles wide, and is one of the loveliest and most fertile tracts in Colorado. According to Mr. Elliott, a lovely lake once filled the great dimple in the mountains, upon whose borders original man once lived and died.

"The caves in which the race lived," said Mr. Elliott, "were located above the water line, and may now be seen by any person who has the curiosity to make the investigation. The caves are about 300 feet or more above the bottom of the valley. They are entered through very narrow openings, which, in many cases, have been closed entirely by the sliding of the cliffs, or by the debris rolling down the side of the mountain.

"I have entered 40 or 50 of the ancient caves. In some of them a kind of rude masonry is to be seen. This masonry consists of rocks laid one upon the other, without the use of mortar or mud.

"I am convinced that mankind originated in the chain of mountains passing through Colorado."

But while many relics of man are found in these caves, Mr. Elliott has been able to find no bones. He believes that the men of those days practiced cremation, and the remains of one furnace, which, he thinks, was used for the destruction of human bodies, can be seen in one of these caves. He himself unearthed it.—N. Y. Herald.

Brighton Biscuits.

Take 1¼ pounds of good moist sugar, roll it fine, mix it with 2½ pounds of flour, and sift it through a flour sieve; rub in two ounces of butter, make a hole in the middle, and stir in a few caraway seeds; pour in half pint of honey water and a half pint of milk; mix it into a dough, but do not work it too much; roll it out in thin sheets, cut into biscuits, and place them on buttered tins, about two inches apart; wash the tops with milk, and bake in a steady oven.—St. Louis Republic.

FOR WHITE MEN ONLY.

That Was the Shop's Rule and a Colored Man Enforced It.

A hotel at Chautauqua has a large barber shop which employs only colored barbers and serves only white patrons. One day at the height of the assembly season a "loudly" dressed negro entered the shop when it was crowded and demanded to be shaved. He was politely told by one of the barbers that it was contrary to the rules of the place to shave colored men and was informed where he could be accommodated at another shop. The caller evidently was looking for trouble. He sported a silk hat, a flaming red tie and a diamond as large as a marble, wore patent leather shoes and carried a cane. He began talking loudly about "equal rights" and "the down trodden race" and immediately attracted a crowd.

The foreman of the shop, a quiet, refined young colored man, who had just left Oberlin college, pressed forward to see what was the trouble.

"Yoh'll shave me," roared the bully, "and you'll do it right here and now or I'll begin suit against this hotel for $10,000 damages."

"Certainly," replied the foreman quietly. "Please take my chair here."

The cause of all the disturbance clambered into a chair and in a moment was deftly lathered, still growling about his "rights" and "hoping this would teach a lesson."

"I do not object to serving colored men," said the foreman as he picked up a razor. "I am trying to earn a living here, and some of my customers object to mixed patronage. Men of my own race, as a rule, appreciate the embarrassing position in which I am placed and are willing to go elsewhere in order not to hurt my trade. Occasionally, however, some colored man comes along, like yourself, who is determined to cause trouble for me, to injure my business and to drive away trade. I always like to wait upon such a customer myself, because some of the other boys, I am afraid, do not look kindly upon this sort of bulldozing, and therefore might not do first class work. When I shave such a customer myself, I know that he is sure to get a nice, easy shave."

Thereupon, in full view of the lathered customer, he nonchalantly drew the sharp edge of his razor across the edge of the marble shelf before him several times and hacked the stone absentmindedly. In a minute the razor was about as sharp as a dull hoe. And when the barber turned toward his obstreperous customer to begin work, the latter rolled out of the chair and ran from the shop.—Chicago Times-Herald.

HOW DETECTIVES WORK.

Romance Plays No Part in Their Everyday Life.

To Be Successful, They Must Be Patient, Vigilant and Ready to Sacrifice Many of the Comforts and Necessities of Life.

[Special Boston Letter.]

"Cheruh, the fly cop!"

Who has not heard the cry from a back alley? to see a moment later eight or a dozen pair of little heels and the end of a baseball bat disappearing behind the barn. The small boy is gone and a moment later, the face of the "fly cop" is lost in the crowd. He is a mysterious, magical personage.

To the untutored mind the life of a detective appears as a romance—one grand, continuous dime novel romance. An uncanny sort of individual, dark and sinister looking, lean, long and hungry of mien—subterranean passages, terrible plots, hairbreadth escapes, a mass of gunpowder, sulphur and bullets—that is the popular conception.

As a matter of fact the average detective is quite an everyday sort of a good fellow. He is fat and red, has a big nose and watery eyes and likes nothing better than to have a friend invite him to take "eins" and "noch eins" over the bar. To be sure, every detective occasionally encounters a real adventure. But on the whole, his life is that of a patient plodder and the thrilling experiences are rare enough to remain a matter of comment for months and years after.

I am reminded of an incident which occurred some weeks ago.

It was immediately after dinner on Sunday when in walking toward town I passed a certain detective with whom I was acquainted. He was sitting on a bench at the street corner, and was amusing himself by teasing a vagrant dog. His apparent unconcern notwithstanding, one could see that he was keeping a close watch upon the street.

"Going to 'vag' some one?" I asked.

"Naw. Got a warrant for Tim at last," he grumbled. "About time he'd got his stripes. He's got a date here in the o. k. m. that works 'cross' the street, and I'll catch him this trip, see if I won't."

The sun had set before I returned, but my friend was still lounging on the same bench, now hard at work whittling a stick.

"Ain't come yet," the sleuth remarked, with a complacent grin. "Got to keep my head down all the time, for the cuss knows my face better than his own mother's."

The next morning I read a thrilling account of the capture of a notorious burglar by my detective. There was no dime novel work about the job. The success of it was the result of exemplary patience. At the same time some professional skill had also been required. It was no easy task to determine just where Tim would be that afternoon, and the information had to be obtained through many chats with kitchen girls, small boys and gossipy old maids.

I met the victorious detective a few days later. His face was still wreathed in smiles at the inward contemplation of his laurels.

"Yes, we keep loafing all the time," he remarked. "We keep loafing, for that is the only way to get posted in this business."

In the tough districts of the big cities from four to eight men are detailed to cover a territory of a few blocks. They mingle with the lowest classes, getting as closely in touch with them as possible. Sometimes the relations of detectives and toughs become almost intimate. They call each other by their first names, and while away the hours by telling stories of unusual adventure. As soon as the criminal is wanted by the police a little rivalry springs up. It is the business of the police to find and of the criminal to escape; that they both recognize as the usual state of affairs, and so they proceed to outwit each other, as men might sit down to a chess contest. When the criminal has served his sentence and no new charge has yet been brought against him, amicable relations with the "fly cop" are restored. A reciprocal and sympathetic fear of the functionary of the law which is ingrained into every criminal from babyhood up, but besides the rough often entertains a queer kind of affection for his prosecutors. He is happy to explain to the one respectable human being that will tolerate his company how it happened that he sank so low; and the detective not infrequently has some rough but sincere feeling for the victim whose present and past he can best appreciate. The statement may sound strained, but the truth of it will be apparent to anyone in touch with police circles.

"They get so chummy," resumed my friend, the detective, "that we learn all about their families, their affections, and especially their hatreds. The tough gets to telling of his latest escapades and incidentally he lets fall many remarks which unwittingly he turns into pointers of vital importance to us."

"How's 'Sleepy Ed,' old man?" asked the detectives.

"And Bill?"

"And when's Dick comin' back from New York?"

Now, Sleepy Ed and Bill and Dick may at present be at large, and the tough may know it. So he talks freely and unhesitatingly, for there is nothing like being on the right side of the "cop." Sooner or later Bill and Dick will be wanted by the police, and then the sleuths will know just how and where to trace them up.

As a rule the detective has no stated hours of work. If he has a case in court he reports there in the morning and after that he is supposed to be on guard—some 23 hours a day. At the stations with which I am familiar it was customary for detectives to report to the desk sergeant about ten a. m. Here they receive instructions if special business was on hand; such as the serving of warrants, the tracing of stolen property, etc. This done, the men pair off and go out on their beats, where they are expected to keep a sharp watch for every indication of a suspicious incident. There is absolutely no restraint upon them; they are free to come and go as they please; but they must be prepared to give the latest gossip in the criminal line.

The peaceable citizen may never be aware of the presence of these patroling detectives, but they are after all the men that do the real police work. The uniformed officer is conspicuously busy at the street corners, where he regulates traffic and maintains general order. But when it comes to equaling the tricks of a professional criminal, he is altogether too bulky an individual. For his big blue coat and shining brass buttons serve as a danger signal for a block's distance so that any gentleman of tender conscience has ample opportunity to switch to a side street. The citizen's clothes officer on the other hand is a very unostentatious sort of a fellow. His garb is often quite as shabby as that of his intended victim and he saunters along in so innocent a fashion that the liveliest tough is apt to run straight into his arms. Then, too, when an overcoat is stolen, it is an officer in citizen's clothes that recovers it; when a burglary has been committed, the sleuth looks after the case, and in a murder mystery the solution is again dependent upon the brains of the plain detective.

Sandwiched in between his patroling, his serving of warrants, hunting up addresses, and waiting for folks, the fly cop does occasionally get an opportunity to display the wonderful genius of "Dick, the Boy Detective," or "Old Sleuth, the New York Terror." Late in the evening, perhaps when the officers are about to retire from a day's wanderings, half the force is sent out on a special case. A mysterious murder has been committed, a bank robber is supposed to have arrived in the city or a gigantic theft is expected. The alacrity with which the detective works upon such occasions is really wonderful; but it seems less surprising when one considers the store of information he has gathered during the days of loafing. Some of his allegedly magic tricks are exceedingly sagacious and original, but as a rule he has recourse to a few stereotyped devices modified by circumstances. In tracing stolen property it is common to visit pawnshops and fences in disguise. The writer recalls the figure of a jovial Irishman, who upon several occasions metamorphosized himself into the most Hebraic of shoe string venders. Another common device of detectives is to turn tramp. So disguised they prowl about the haunts of criminals and are made confidants in the deepest plots. But as the danger of detection is imminent, the sleuth soon withdraws from the chosen circle and resumes the garb of an ordinary detective.

In so far, then, the dime novels give a true picture of the life of a detective: namely, in that the incidents they relate have at least in modified form occurred. But one must keep in mind that the sensational element constitutes but a small, a very small, part of the daily duties of the "citizen's clothes" man. He is the hardest and most patient of workers and for that he deserves the public's thanks. E. T. GUNDLACH.

A RAILROAD COMMISSION.

Senator Johnson, of Bergen county, has completed the bill suggested by Governor Griggs in his message, creating a Railroad Commission. The commission will be empowered to adjust all differences between any railroad corporation and any municipality through which the corporation property may pass. Should any municipality deem it necessary for the benefit and safety of its population to require a railroad company to place gates at a certain crossing, the municipal body, instead of passing an ordinance and personally dealing with the railroad company, would lay the matter before the Railroad Commission. The new commissioners would be required to examine into the question, and if, in their judgment, the gates were required, the commission would have the power to compel the company to erect them.

A COSTLY PUBLIC GIFT

The Newark News printed the following editorial yesterday anent the proposition of the trolley magnates to tear up the county road without recompense to the tax payers:

Westfield avenue is the best road from Elizabeth to Plainfield—as it has good reason to be—about $100,000 having been spent in the paving of it. A company which desires to build an electric railroad connecting the two cities seeks permission to lay its trucks on the avenue. That will mean the tearing up of the pavement, the practical destruction of the road so far as the purpose of making it a good driveway, the purpose for which the large expenditure was made, is concerned. Under all the circumstances, and with full recognition of the undoubted service a trolley road will give to the territory in question, it does appear as if the bestowal of the franchise would be a very costly public gift to the company. No back roads nor mud roads are wanted by the trolley. It demands the best roads going, and so far it has had lots of success in securing them.

Eyesight, How Preserved.

Most people are aware that defective eyesight is increasing at an alarming rate, but comparatively few realize that their headaches, dizziness and similar complaints may be due to eyestrain, and not to stomach or liver troubles as they may suppose. That many complaints of this nature can be immediately and permanently relieved by wearing properly fitted and adjusted glasses is an absolute fact beyond dispute.

It is extremely unwise, however, to entrust your best friends—your eyes—to one who is not thoroughly skilled in optical art when you require spectacles.

Many of our townspeople have their glasses made by the Messrs. Hahn, Opticians, of 26 East 23d St., New York, and recommend these gentlemen for the great care and skill they exercise in their specialty of making and fitting comfort-giving spectacles and eyeglasses.

That the Messrs. Hahn are deserving of confidence may be realized, when it is stated that many of the prominent oculists of New York and New Jersey recommend their patients to them when spectacles or glasses are prescribed

Those who wear eyeglasses would do well to call at the establishment of Messrs. Hahn and examine their D. D. D. (don't drop down) eyeglasses; in this glass the advantage of spectacles and noseglasses are combined, assuring comfort and security to the wearer.

This firm also has a list of skillful oculists and gladly furnish the addresses of those who are painstaking and reliable to applicants who may desire the service of an oculist or eye surgeon.

We may add that the location—26 East 23d St., is a very convenient one, it being but a few doors from Broadway and almost facing Madison Square Park, in fact in the very heart of the Optical Centre of America. Take Sixth Avenue elevated, Broadway or Lexington Avenue cable cars.

themselves to the work of co-operation.

"Our Senators and Representatives at Washington have been fooling for some time over an international treaty, and if we, as citizens, do not assert ourselves we will be subjected to a humiliation which will be far from pleasant. If we had American women who would work together with men there would be prompt action."

Mrs. Hall stated that the amendment to the constitution allowing women school suffrage would come before the Legislature this year, and she thought it was highly important that some arrangements be made on the part of the association to go to Trenton and look after the amendment. Heretofore, whenever the members had occasion to call on the Legislators they had always been treated courteously and there was every indication that the same treatment would be accorded this year. For the reason that there would be some expense attached to the work of sending delegates to Trenton, Mrs. Hall asked the members to suggest some plan whereby the necessary money might be raised. It was suggested by Mrs. Pond that the members sell copies of the association souvenir book and thus realize the money.

The Union county association afterward decided that they would send one delegate to Trenton if the Essex county association would do the same, and in view of the fact that a letter of encouragement was received from Mrs. DeWitt, president of the Essex county association, in which she stated that they would do all that they could to assist, it was inferred that the latter association would be willing to bear the expense of sending one delegate.

Regarding school suffrage, Mrs. Whitehead, of Westfield, said that she knew there would not have been a school in Westfield yet if the women had not gone to work and secured it. It was mainly through their efforts that the men were led to build the school.

Mrs. Hall said that she had been informed that there was a school in the vicinity of Plainfield that stood on damp ground, and as a result the children were more or less sick all the time. This trouble had been complained of, but with no good results as yet.

Mrs. Pond offered a motion that a message of love and sympathy be drafted and sent to the California Association out of respect to the late Mrs. Sarah Cooper, who was prominently identified with the work before her death. The State meeting closed after extending a vote of thanks to Miss Philbrook and Mr. Powell.

Immediately afterward the meeting of the Union County Association was called to order by the president, Mrs. Powell. The minutes of the last meetings were read by the secretary, Mrs. Pond.

Two amendments offered to the constitution at the last meeting, to the effect that one auditor was sufficient, and that to change the constitution one week's notice was long enough, were both adopted by a unanimous vote.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Eaton, showed the receipts to be $63.11, and the expenditures $12.75, leaving a balance of $50.36.

At this time Mrs. Eaton, who is the corresponding secretary and treasurer, offered her resignation. She said that she thought a change in the two offices would be a good thing, and she asked to be relieved. It was impossible to get any one to take her place and she agreed to keep the positions until someone else could be secured.

The members decided to hold a parlor meeting at an early date and extend an invitation to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, chairman of the organization committee of the National Suffrage Association, to address them.

The meeting will probably be held very soon. This concluded the business of the meeting and an adjournment was made.

It Will Surprise You.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

W. G. Vance, of Centre street, was able to sit up yesterday, after a several week's illness from a complication of diseases.

Albert Viaell who has been visiting among relatives and friends here, has gone to Providence, R. I., to accept a position there.

A regular meeting of the Dunellen fire department was held last evening, but only business of a routine nature was transacted.

Miss Annie Romaine, of Rahway, is the guest of her brother, Operator T. J. Romaine, here. She will remain for an indefinite period.

Court Dunellen, No. 1123, I. O. F., will meet in regular session on Monday evening, when two new members will be given the initiatory course of sprouts.

Routine business mainly was transacted at the meeting of the Dunellen Building and Loan Association, held in Alvah Gray's office, Thursday evening.

It is reported that grocer Charles Ward, of New Market, has sold out his store, fixtures, good will and all, to a man named Davis. "Charley" will be employed in a Plainfield grocery hereafter.

Every preparation was made for beginning ice cutting on the New Market lake yesterday, but it was found that the ice, while it was of a good thickness and fairly clear, had been so badly weakened by the recent overflow of water, that it would not bear up a horse for the marking out. So operations were discontinued for the time being.

The railroad company's ice house here, which holds about 400 tons, is being repaired and will be filled with Lake Hopatcong ice within a few days. Ice from this point is distributed to the various stations along the line between Dunellen and Elizabeth during the hot weather, and it is also used in the water coolers in the trains that make up here.

Great preparations are making for an entertainment by the members of the Washington avenue Euchre Club, at the home of one of the members yet to be announced, on Friday evening of next week. This club is made up of a select few of Dunellen's most popular residents of both sex, and and their series of euchre games during the winter have proved very enjoyable entertaining.

It is understood that the Board of Directors of the Dunellen Building and Loan Association have under serious consideration the issuing of a new series of stocks early in the spring. The association is comparatively young, but it has already issued several series and has been the means of providing homes on easy terms for many persons who could have in no other way procured a home of their own. The first series issued by the association runs ten years, the second series 6 years and the third series 4 years. This association has proved a God-send to the laboring classes, and has been the direct cause of building up and increasing the valuation of Dunellen property.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of William H. Penn, chief clerk in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: 'It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Colera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief. Price 25 and 50 cents; sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

A New Assistant Superintendent.

Clifford Miller has been appointed assistant superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company in this city, in place of Harry Lowry, who has been transferred to Jersey City. W. J. Allen, also of this company, has been transferred to Clinton, Hunterdon county, where he will serve in the capacity of assistant superintendent. The latter will take charge Monday morning.

NOT LIKELY TO OBJECT.

Disposition of Grace Church in the Past Has Been a Most Liberal One.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In your issue of the 19th inst. was printed a very interesting account of the growth of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, and of the desire of its congregation for a permanent home. Your writer thinks that Grace church may "oppose the building of another Episcopal edifice nearer to them than is the present home of St. Stephen's." I feel assured that this will not be the case. When, three years ago, the pioneers of the present Church of the Redeemer applied to the bishop and the standing committee for permission to form a new parish, with no stipulalation as to where they might eventually build their church, this Bishop wrote, as is customary, to the rector of each parish that possibly might be affected enquiring whether or not there existed any objection to the granting of this request. To my certain knowledge the rector of Grace church replied that it would make no difference to him. I have since heard Bishop Scarborough say that to this generous answer the church of the Redeemer largely owed its existence. Now, if Grace church could feel so liberally toward the forming of a new parish, which must from necessity draw on existing churches for its membership and support, why should it object to an established church, with a congregation of its own, locating a half mile or more from itself, especially as that church is the result of a mission started by Grace church.

Churchman.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women. and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary corner Park and North avenues.

THEATRICAL.

So frequently have foreign artists come to us with reputations to which they did not live up, that Mr. Chevalier's fulfillment of all promises made in his behalf is not only a pleasant disappointment, but a decided surprise. In fact it may be said that this comedian, and none dare term him a mere music hall singer, is the only one of all the English stars that have appeared to the American public in recent years who has justified the fulsome praise meted out by admirers on the other side. The impersonation of Mr. Chevalier may be photographic in realism, or it may be no nearer the type than are the imitators of Mr. Chevalier, who have been seen here, to the original. If Mr. Chevalier were only a vocal photograph of the coster, his talent would not be appreciated so thoroughly by American audiences. Truly an admirable artist, a man worthy of the name. His versatility is such, his skill in make up is so marked, the sympathy of his humility is so irresistible, his authority is so pronounced that you accept gladly his impersonations and are not weary in accepting. He is a comedian to be seen more than once. For it is not possible to grasp fully in one evening the art of Chevalier. Charles Frohman deserves much credit for the liberality that has characterized his endeavor to give Chevalier a proper setting for his American debut at the head of a high-class organization.

Choate and William W. Fuller represented the tobacco men. The men under under indictment will now have to stand trial.

ASIATIC COMPETITION.

All the Pacific Coast States Are Suffering from It.

How the Chinese Have Succeeded in Monopolizing a Large Share of the Retail Trade of San Francisco—Japs as Farm Hands.

[Special San Francisco Letter.]

The matter of Chinese cheap labor is growing more complex. In addition, the Japanese are also competing with labor. There are about 25,000 Chinese in San Francisco, and about 2,000 Japanese. An accurate census of the Asiatics cannot be had, as they are opposed to having their names "taken down." They will accept no explanation, and when the directory man comes around they hide in their lofts and cellars. One reason is, they do not wish to furnish an invitation to the poll tax collector. Chinese immigrants, under the "favored" treaty clause, as it is termed, are denied the privilege of voting, yet poll tax is systematically collected from each man yearly. Their only chance of escape is to lend their poll receipts to one another and answer to the generic name of Ah Fat or Wun Lung. As the facial features of the Chinese are somewhat similar the poll collector labors under a disadvantage. Efforts have been made to hold the several companies responsible for the poll tax of each member, but with little success. There is no reason why even a Chinaman should be compelled to pay for a luxury he does not enjoy. This state has ever since its organization been collecting two dollars a year poll tax from Chinese, who, under the special treaty, are not citizens, and cannot become voters.

But the shrewd "heathen," as they are termed, are cutting deep into the profits of many of the traders and manufacturers. They have almost a monopoly of the vegetable and fish trade, and there are dozens of "markets" in Chinatown.

So cheaply do they sell that many Caucasian families patronize them. Proprietors of the cheaper restaurants are good customers. Chinese competition in the huckster business has enabled restaurants to cut rates.

There are Chinese gardens all along the margin of San Francisco bay, and on the flat moist lands of the rivers. The "truck" is brought to the city in wagons or small craft. In the bay and rivers they fish for everything that comes to their nets, and at ebb tide wade out and scoop in soft-shell crabs, and dig around the rocks for abalones. The meat of the abalone is edible after being boiled several hours, and when dried has about the toughness of venison dried into chunks. They have their villages where they remain and store their "catch" until ready for shipment to the San Francisco Chinese markets. The abalone shells are very pretty, even when not polished, and sell at from 25 cents to two dollars a pair in the rough state. There is a large number of Chinese engaged in this industry.

The Chinese marketmen put everything in sight, from a bunch of leeks to a sack of potatoes. They have fresh supplies daily, and the markets keep open until past midnight, to accommodate the "home" patrons for Chinese are late eaters. Their marketing is made for each meal separately.

About nine o'clock in the morning the Chinese quarter is crowded with Caucasian housewives, white-aproned restaurateurs and Chinese matrons, all marketing—a babel of voices and a picturesque mixture of nationalities, made grotesque by the quaint surroundings.

The Caucasian housewife is attended by an Irish servant girl, with the usual basket. The Irish girl is a natural enemy to the "heathen," who is usurping her place. The Chinese woman is attended by two or three "high-binders," so as to prevent her from being kidnaped by the members of a rival company. A Chinese woman is worth from $1,000 to $2,000. The fish and vegetables are placed in a silk handkerchief, instead of in baskets. The Chinese market woman seldom uses a basket.

Later in the day the shopping begins, and for several hours the narrow, dirty streets are almost monopolized by the Caucasian element—mainly women, who are seeking bargains in shoes, wearing apparel and other household articles now being manufactured by the Chinese.

Ladies' fine shoes are sold at from 25 to 50 per cent. cheaper than in the American quarter. A durable quality of men's shoes, stitched on the sewing machine, is also sold at prices ruinous to white labor. Caucasians are large patrons of these factories. A Chinese shoemaker averages 15 hours a day. He is quick, deft and industrious, and does good work.

Another innovation is the manufacture of men's clothing, mainly of the cheaper grade. The Chinese are thus getting the trade of the poorer classes, the very ones who so bitterly denounce them, and whom they are depriving of work.

The Chinese have almost monopolized the manufacture of cigars of the cheaper grade.

Being very nimble of finger one Chinaman can do more work in the same time than two average Caucasians, and he works for about half the wages one of them is paid. So it will be seen that there is a larger profit for the retail dealer who purchases from the Chinese factories, and many of them do this, though they very roundly denounce Chinese cheap labor while selling the Chinese made cigar to a customer.

Though Chinese emigration to this country is prohibited, enough of them find their way here to supply the demand for the new industries and for railroad building, construction of irrigation ditches and gathering fruit crops. They work cheaper than the Caucasian, and the question of wages is the first thing considered by capitalists. They do not get drunk nor organize strikes, but can always be depended upon so long as they are promptly paid. But when they are not paid they will quietly walk away. They have no faith in the promises of a Caucasian. If anyone works cheaper than they a riot does not follow. This has been demonstrated in cases where Chinese fruit pickers have been replaced in large orchards by Japanese at cut rates. Japanese are more active, alert and nimble, have greater powers of endurance and are more serviceable in the orchard and vineyard than the Chinese. Hence every available Japanese is engaged as soon as he arrives. They are gradually undermining the Chinese in the orchards and vineyards, and the Japanese merchants are strongly competing with the Chinese merchants in the display of better goods and at cheaper rates.

The outcome of the "Chinese invasion" is a serious problem to the laboring world.

No matter how prosperous California may be, times will always be dull. This is apparently a contradiction, but the explanation is in Asiatic competition, and a large and constant emigration from the east. The Chinese and Japanese compete with white labor, and the eastern immigrants overcrowd every profession, trade and occupation. They are attracted here by our mild and balmy climate, where roses bloom "out of doors every day in the year." Some wish to "take life easy" in a genial climate, but many come to regain their health, and, by working for half salary, a part of the "expense account" is thus saved. Consequently low salaries prevail in every business.

Including the tourist crop our leading staples are wheat, wine, fruit and wool. The wine product is 25 per cent. less than that of last season, owing to the heavy frosts in the spring. The yield will be about 12,000,000 gallons. The Pacific coast states consume yearly an average of about 5,000,000 gallons, so it will be seen that we patronize our own industries.

However, it is not to be presumed that our people will drink any the less because of the shortness of the supply. But the east will suffer, both for the lack of it, and an advanced price on what we send them. There may be a little "doctoring" before importation, and even after the wine reaches the east, in order to make the supply hold out, but not many will detect the deception.

A larger acreage has been planted to fruits, and many new orchards and vineyards have yielded their first fruits. The competition or over-production of fruits naturally reduces the profits.

J. W. SCANLAND.

THE FOXY DUCHESS.

She Proves Too Shrewd For Chimmie Fadden and Mr. Paul.

"'Oh, well,' I says, 'I don't see your name on any buttons.'

"When I says dat t' de duchess she says I was 'a little beast,' what is her forn way of giving me de frosty face. Let me tell you. Ever since dat time when I danced wid Maggie de housemaid's sister out on top of de stage de duchess has been leary of me, and I has a hard time to lose her long enough t' go over t' Mr. Paul's t' give him his boxing exercise every day. But she's terrible awful sweet on me, just de same, dough someting woise has happened since. Da's a funny ting about women. Dey kicks till dey nearly gets de swell knee if you does a little ting like giving annoder goil a kiss, but dey never is so nice to you as when dey kicks. It don't make no difference how long a man is up against de game of women, he is always a farmer at it—a dead farmer.

"De duchess says dat she knows I'm stuck on Maggie's sister, what I knowed before de duchess come from forn parts, and she says Maggie was in de job t' give me a chance t' see her sister, and she's made tings go de odder way from Maggie so fast she looks like a chicken chasing a grasshopper. But all de time tings is coming my way so fast from de duchess I has t' wear catcher's gloves to hold 'em.

"Can you explain dat? No, nobody can't. It's just because women is queer—forn women, particular. Why, say, de duchess calls me 'a little beast' and makes a bluff at giving me de frozen face, but all de same I never was in it so hard as now. Dere ain't notting she won't do for me—except yield up any of all dat boodle she's pinched from me. But I'm a winner on every odder lay, sure.

"Always till now I had t' get Maggie t' darn me socks and sew on me buttons. I was taking some of em t' her de odder day when de duchess says, 'Let me do dat for you, Chames; Maggie doesn't do em neatful.' Well, she done em. Say, if I took off me shoes me socks would put your eye out. De duchess darned em wid dose giddy silk yarns Miss Fannie makes fancy tings wid, and me Trilbys look like dey was green, yellow and blue posters.

"But dat isn't what I was going t' tell you about. Mr. Paul heard about me dancing out on top of de stage wid Maggie's sister. Yes, I told him. Mr. Paul and me gets pretty chummy when I boxes wid him, and we has a small bot afterward t' take de dust out of our troats. Honest, dere ain't notting makes you so chummy wid a man as t' spar wid him—if you spar hard, and Mr. Paul won't have it no odder way. 'Chames,' says he t' me de odder day when he gives me a glass t' trow in me face, 'how is it,' says he, 'dat you danced wid de goil you was telling me about?'

"'I can't cop your light on how we done it except I has de goil t' dance wid,' says I.

"Den he looked solum, like he does when he has a game on, and says: 'Isn't dat in de realms of poss'bility? You fix de job,' says he, 'and I'll pay de freight.'

"Dat was enough for me; so I cops Maggie de game, and she writes t' her steady, what's me friend de barkeep, t' fix de layout. Well, say, he fixed it! I got a night off, telling de duchess dat I was going t' take Mr. Paul to a boxing match, and she didn't say a woid. We chases into town, Mr. Paul and me did, and after de teeater Maggie's sister and some odder goils what dances wid her shows up at Mr. Paul's town house. He don't do tings on de small. Dat's right. He had a orchestra down and bottles t' drown a whale and grub up t' de limit.

"I introduces him as his own valet, what is a little game swell mugs is up to once in awhile when dey is traveling in company dey don't beslongs to. Well, we wasn't having a ting but fun. Maggie's sister and me showed em de high shoulder speel till Mr. Paul and his friends near died laughing. Tings was going along like a hurry call ambulance, when all of a suddent, p'cheel in waltzes de duchess. I taut den I was up against it de woist ever. She'd folleyed us into town, and, knowing Mr. Paul's servants, she made de sneak in de house all right. I just braced meself for a eart'quake, but what do you tink? Honest, de duchess was smiling t' beat de band, and dat did scare me, sure. She says t' Mr. Paul dat if he wanted t' see good dancing dere was no use going t' de trouble of coming t' town and getting dose 'canaille,' what is a forn word.

"'All you has t' do,' she says, 'when you want t' see Chimmie dance, is t' stay at home in de country and ask him and me over to your house.'

"I was paralyzed, cause I couldn't get on t' her curves a little bit, but Mr. Paul was as cool as a small bottle, and says dat he didn't suppose de duchess would do him de honor; but if she would, de music and de floor was at her service, he says. What do you tink dat goil done? She told de band what t' play, told de 'canaille' t' chase dereselves t' de wall, and den she danced. Say, it was de best dat ever come over de hill! Even dose odder girls yelled murder wid joy. I tink de duchess must have been trained for it. If I'd been rum dumb, I couldn't been more paralyzed. De next day Mr. Paul sent for me and de duchess, and he says t' her, as polite as ever he spoke in his life: 'Hortense,' says he, 'I done you wrong in asking Chames t' go on a lark and not asking you. De next time you shall come wid us. Here is a little tip. I intended it for Chames; you take it, Hortense, and forget me mistake.'

"De duchess took de tenner all right, and I didn't mind dat. What I am minding is dat she has never roughed me a woid about dat racket. I'm tinking she must have someting up her sleeves—and her sleeves are pretty big at dat."—E. W. Townsend in New York Journal.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redying. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

SIEGE OF GUAMO.

Rebels Besieged the Fort for Fourteen Days and Nearly Captured It.

Havana, Jan. 23.—Upon the return to Manzanillo of the gunboat Centinela after the sinking in the Cauto river of her consort the Relampago by the explosion of a torpedo planted by the rebels, orders were given for a force of Spanish troops to proceed to Guamo to relieve the beseiged garrison there, which had been the object of the naval expedition, but which had been frustrated by the loss of the Relampago and the death or wounding of every man on both that vessel and the Centinela either through the explosion itself or the subsequent rifle fire from the rebels who were ambushed on both sides of the river. The relieving expedition was under the command of Col. Tovar, who, with his brigade, marched along the left bank of the Cauto river, meeting detatched parties of rebels at various places along the route. At Cayamo the insurgents were gathered in quite strong force, but after a short engagement they left the town. The Spanish force then proceeded for Guamo, where they found that the insurgents who had been attempting the capture of the fort had disappeared.

Besieged for Fourteen Days.

It was learned that the rebels had attacked the fort on Jan. 6th. They were in two columns, one operating from the right bank of the river being under the command of Calixto Garcia and the other operating from the left bank being led by Rabi. Many attempts were made to carry the fort by assault, but without success. The insurgents had artillery and the projectiles from their cannon unroofed the fort and did serious damage to the heavy walls of the structure. Finding themselves unable to capture the Spanish position, the rebels determined to attempt to compel its surrender by cutting off the supply of water. In pursuance of this object trenches were dug in front of the place from which the garrison obtained its water, and a detachment of rebels were placed therein to prevent the troops approaching. The garrison, however, had sufficient water to last with rigid economy until the rebels, evidently hearing of the approach of the reinforcements, raised the siege and retired, just when it was apparent the garrison could hold out but a short time longer. Some time before the enemy disappeared they blew up with dynamite a barge that was employed as a pontoon for the passage of troops across the river. The siege lasted for fourteen days. The garrison lost three killed and eight wounded, while twelve men were made sick by the close confinement within the walls of the fort, the scant rations and short supply of water.

CLAIMS AGAINST SPAIN.

President Transmits to the Senate a List Aggregating Nearly $10,000,000.

Washington, Jan. 23.—In response to a resolution, the president has sent to the senate a list of the claims filed in the department of state by American citizens against Spain arising out of the insurrection in the island of Cuba, together with such correspondence concerning the capture of the schooner Competitor and the persons claiming American citizenship taken on that vessel as he does not deem incompatible with the public interest to communicate. The list of claims includes eighty-three, aggregating nearly $10,000,000, where the amount is stated.

Sent Son and Money for Cubans.

New York, Jan. 23.—Francisco Rosado, a young Cuban from Iquique, Peru, arrived in this city last evening and immediately reported at the Cuban junta. Young Rosado stated that he had come to this country at the solicitation of his father, who had also sent with him $1,000 for the Cuban cause and a letter asking that the young man be immediately sent to the front in Cuba. He said that when his father heard of the death of General Maceo he made up his mind at once to do what he could for the Cubans and sent his son and the money.

Fleeing Rebels Drowned.

Havana, Jan. 23.—The Spanish brigade under command of Gen. Molin, which has been operating in the vicinity of Zarabanda and Guamo, in the province of Matanzas, has had an engagement with several combined parties of rebels, who were defeated and routed. In their flight many of the rebels threw themselves into the Hanabana river, and fifteen were drowned and twenty-four perished by sinking in the mud. The troops lost two killed and seven wounded. Gen. Weyler is now at Pales, in the province of Matanzas.

Shot for the Crime of Rebellion.

Havana, Jan. 23.—Alfredo Rodriguez Garcia and two other prisoners were shot yesterday at Santa Clara for the crime of rebellion. The mayor of Havana has resigned. The Diario de la Marina suggests the appointment of a military officer to fill the vacancy.

CONDITION OF TRADE

Business Still Improving, But Prices Are Down.

INDUSTRIES MORE ACTIVE NOW

While Production Increases, Consumption Is Still Slow — All Indications Point To Slow But Steady Improvement.

New York, Jan. 23.—Dun's weekly review of the state of trade for the week just ending will to-day say: There is more business, though not at better prices. It is interesting that almost all prices which changed at all are lower than a week ago, and yet business is unquestionably larger. There is a larger production, but as yet not as much increase in consumption, and there is larger buying of materials, but at present only because better prices are expected in the future. The market for securities is slightly stronger, and yet there is very little doing. The number of hands employed, all industries considered, is slighly larger than a week ago, without adverse change in the rate of wages. All apprehension of foreign disturbance of money markets has passed away, but there is still great caution in making loans. It is a mistake to reckon these as symptoms of depression. On the contrary, in spite of the lower range of prices in important industries, the conditions indicate larger production and a consumption increasing, not as yet largely, but steadily.

Wheat, Corn, Cotton and Wool.

Wheat, corn and cotton are the keys of the financial situation, and during the past week wheat has declined and cotton is unchanged. The western receipts of wheat are still small. The price has declined for corn also, although everybody knows that the heavy exports mean relatively more than the exports of wheat. Cotton is unchanged, but the continuing large movement from plantations and the depression of manufacturing here and abroad do not encourage high prices. There has been a general reduction in prices of cotton goods, which at present stimulates larger buying. The woolen industry is as slow as ever, and no real improvement appears in the demand for goods, although owing to the lateness of the season there is a little more doing, both in spring and in winter goods, without quotable change in prices. The heavy buying of wool mentioned last week has continued, with smaller concerns participating, and is understood to be in anticipation of expected tariff duties.

Metals and Boots and Shoes.

In the minor metals a stronger tone is general. Copper is slightly stronger, lead has improved a little and tin is steady with a stronger market at London. In boots and shoes the actual shipments from Boston are but little less than in January, 1895, and larger than in any other year on record, although there is still the common report that new orders are extremely light, shops devoted to the making of certain grades of goods are preparing to close, and prices of some grades are a little lower. The iron industry is engaged in settling relative prices, and the slow operation retards business in many branches, since the future of prices is uncertain. Bessemer pig is a trifle lower at Pittsburg as is Grey forge, though no further decline has occurred in eastern markets or at Chicago. But the competition of new concerns tempted to manufacture nails by the high prices recently maintained, causes slightly lower sales of wire nails and cut nails. The bar association has been in session to consider the reduction of steel bars and the billot association has again been called together, although there is no prospect of its reorganization. The increase in manufacturing is perhaps more definitely shown than in any other way by the production of coke, which steadily increases.

The Money Market.

There is no anxiety in the money market, although supplies of commercial paper are comparatively scanty. But the operations in the sterling exchange market make it clear that foreign operations in stocks for the moment lean toward buying rather than selling. The interior money movement has been comparatively light, though receipts have exceeded shipments, so that the accumulation of unemployed money here increases. The treasury receipts for the month thus far fall below expenditures, but a considerable deficiency usually appears at the time of annual payments of interest.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whoop-Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

About twenty young people were present and played euchre until 10.30 o'clock, when refreshments were served. Mrs. Wyckoff won first lady's prize, Mrs. Robert Laughlin won second prize. Harry Connett won first gentleman's prize and Mr. Wyckoff won second prize.

Held Wild Rabbits Unlawfully.

Fish and Game Warden Brown, of Roselle, made a trip to Westfield, yesterday, and obtained a search-warrant for the premises of Henry Myers, in Mountainside, for wild rabbits unlawfully held in possession. His search resulted in finding one rabbit in the barn on Myer's premises. The case came up for trial under the game laws before Judge Collins, this morning.

A Minning Contract.

The following corporation was organized at Trenton yesterday: The Pasco Grande Minning company of New Market, Middlesex county, with a capital stock of $12,000. The paid-up stock is $6,000 and the incorporators are John E. Whiting, Boston, Mass.; D. F. Blackford, New Market, and Benjamin F. Conway. It will acquire timber and mining lands.

Ho, For the Inauguration!

Of course you'll one and all attend the great inauguration,
When our "Napoleon" will attain unto the chief estate.
You will behold assembled there the mightiest of our nation,
Such pageantry as will your heart with patriot pride inflate.
You're sure to see a sight that all descriptive art surpasses—
Provided you do wear a pair of Collier's matchless glasses.

PASSING COMMENT.

There ought to be a standing reward for a Plainfield man who can shoot a noisy cat without hitting a woman in the next block, says the New York Press.

* * * *

In all the scores of calendars that have poured into The Press office since the first of the year, the prettiest and most elaborate came yesterday, and what made it still better was the fact that it was issued by a Plainfield firm, E. L. VanCampen & Co., embossers and printers.

"Breaking the news gently" often occasions amusement, although of a startling nature. At a recent session of a Sunday-school in Plainfield not far from Watchung avenue a scholar approached the superintendent who was chatting with several of his assistants, and asked for a certain teacher. One of the ladies in the company said, "I am the one you desire to see." "Well," said the matter-of-fact scholar, "Mr. So and So," mentioning a name of a pupil, "cannot come today; he is dead." This is too good to pass by.

Charlie Gong, known as "the Mayor of Chinatown," New York, was a visitor of Judge Charles K. Moore a few days ago. The Judge showed him the sights of Plainfield and introduced him to many representative citizens. Mr. Gong is one of the most intelligent Chinamen in the country and speaks English very fluently. He is the treasurer of the Chinese theatre and one of the leaders of his race in the metropolis. He abjures the dress of his native country, even to the queue, and insists on being as much of a Yankee as a man born in Maine.

The U. S. Grant Republican Club of the borough, has just received a handsome oil painting of President-elect McKinley, as a present from Elias Hotchkiss, of Rockview avenue. The portrait was painted by D. Buongiorno, of New York, in June of last year, for the Commercial Travelers' Club, of New York, and was used during the last campaign. Mr. Hotchkiss, after considerable effort, was able to get the picture, and thinking that it would look well in the rooms of the borough club, he presented it to H. N. Spencer for that organization, and it will be given a prominent place in the room of the club.

The Press carrier boys are not the ones to carry a slight around on their shoulders and when they gave a Christmas present to Corra Ryno, circulation manager, they had no intention to disparge the good will of Chauncey Stout, the assistant manager, by ignoring him in the gift-giving idea of expressing esteem to their superiors. But Mr. Stout's duties on the outside of the office prevented him from being around the distribution department at the proper moment for a personal presentation, and the carrier boys finally decided to make the gift by letter. This was done Thursday afternoon when Mr. Stout received a beautiful pearl handle pen knife, accompanied by a few explanatory sentences written by Tommy Muir, the "High School Bard." The recipient made it his business to be in the midst of the boys last night and at the proper moment thanked them for the gift. The carrier boys are: Irving Mills, Bertie Hanson, Grover Schuck, Benjamin Schuck, Thomas Muir, Elmer Squier, Lewis Vrocm, Charles Pawson, Willie Coddington, Peter Galbraith, Eddie Bellis, John Butscher and John Van-Middlesworth.

TRIBUTE TO THE DEAD.

THE FUNERAL OF MRS. A. I. MARTINE LARGELY ATTENDED.

Sermon by Rev. William E. Davis Who Eulogized Her Life and Efforts in Glowing Terms—Interment at Flemington.

Probably never before in the history of Dunellen has such a concourse of people gathered together as that which met in the Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon, when the funeral of the late Mrs. A. I. Martine, the wife of the pastor of the church, took place. The edifice was filled to its utmost capacity with relatives and friends of the family. Many who had known her in life had gathered to pay their last respects to her memory.

At the house a brief prayer was offered, after which the remains were then borne into the church on the shoulders of four of the elders, A. J. Whitney, M. Rarick, T. C. Bodine and J. Low, and deposited in front of the altar. Rev. Dr. Hart, pastor of the Dutch Reformed church, at Neshanic, and a life-long friend of the decedent, conducted the service, and Rev. Mr. Custard, pastor of the M. E. church, at Dunellen, offered prayer. A quartette composed of Mrs. Abbott, soprano; Miss Jessie Harris, contralto T. E. Low, tenor, and Edward Teal, bass, rendered beautiful and appropriate music. Rev. Mr. Peterson, pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church, at New Market, read the Scripture lesson, and Rev. William E. Davis, pastor of the Dutch Reformed church at Lebanon, preached the sermon. The preacher paid a fine tribute to the departed dead, whom he characterized as a true Christian woman, a kind and loving wife and mother, and one endowed with the riches of Christianity. No one could doubt the sincerity of her Christian life which in trouble it was her support, and in joy it was her great pleasure to make others happy. None were ever better fitted by nature and grace to fill the honors of wife and mother. Untiring in her efforts she was truly helpful to her husband in administering the Gospel; wise in counsel, cheering in disposition, she lifted burdens from the shoulders of the pastor. In social life her every expression was to give joy and pleasure to these about her.

Rev. Mr. Hart, of Neshanic, followed with a few remarks, and Rev. Mr. Fletcher, pastor of the Baptist church at New Market, made the concluding prayer. The choir then sang "Looking this Way," and Rev. A. F. Todd, of Dunellen, pronounced the benediction.

An opportunity was then given the relatives and friends to look for the last time upon the features of the departed.

The remains were taken to Flemington this morning for interment in the family plot.

CAME IN THEIR FINEST.

Drum and Fife Corps Surprise Their Drum Major, Frank Manchester.

Frank Manchester, drum major of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps was seated in his home on Lafayette place last evening, when he suddenly heard the sound of drums and fifes. He went to the door to see who it was only to find himself face to face with the entire corps which had marched over to give him a surprise party. And a complete surprise it was. A number of young ladies had been invited by Mrs. Manchester, who was in the secret, and they soon arrived.

The members of the corps had met at the rooms on West Second street in their new uniforms, worn for the first time, and then taking the trolley car to Lafayette place marched up to the home of their drum major to give him this little surprise. Everybody admired the new uniforms, which are of grey cloth, trimmed with black braid, and with military collar, and the corps presented a very handsome appearance in them.

There were about fifty present and soon they were gliding about to the inspiring music of Eyer's orchestra from Newark. The dancing lasted most of the evening with an intermission while the refreshments were served. Mrs. Manchester had everything prepared and her husband was fairly dazed by the succession of surprises. The members of the corps were out for a good time, however, and the evening passed away very enjoyably to all.

In a Serious Condition.

William McCarthy, of Westfield, received word yesterday that his daughter Nellie was ill at the Harlem Hospital. When he arrived at the hospital he found his daughter in a precarious condition, suffering from the results of a criminal operation. The girl has been employed in Plainfield for several months past, and had not been seen much by her family. She was taken to the hospital on Monday, and her symptoms aroused the suspicion of the hospital physicians, but her condition was so desperate that she could make no statement.

CAN'T PAY PARSON WELLS

LATE CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATE'S SALARY IS OVERDUE $300.

Some of His Flock at Liberty Corners Were Offended When He Went Into Politics—Now They Want a New Pastor.

There is one remark oftener heard in the little hamlet of Liberty Corner, these days than any other, and that is that "preaching and politics won't mix." Liberty Corner consists of some sixty buildings, many of them unoccupied, with two stores, two blacksmith shops and a little tobacco shop representing its business interests.

It is in Somerset county, about five miles from the railroad, and first attracted the attention of the outside world last fall, when the Rev. John A. Wells, the pastor of the Presbyterian church there, accepted the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Third district and stumped the district against his successful rival, Benjamin F. Howell, of New Brunswick. There is only one church in the village, but ever since election the attendance has been steadily on the decline, and last Sunday there were hardly a score of parishioners in their pews, and, what is more, the income is falling off all the time, until the congregation now owes the pastor $300 back salary, and the elders have called upon him and confessed their inability to see their way to paying it.

There are those who say that all this trouble is due to the fact that many of the flock didn't like the idea of having their minister in politics, but Mr. Wells says this has nothing at all to do with it, and points out as a vindication of his conduct that he polled the full democratic vote of the Liberty Corner district and several Republican votes besides. He attributes it all to the poverty of the community, owing to the demonetization of silver and the recent death or removal of many of the more prosperous members. He says there is no one in the church who is worth $10,000.

When he received the nomination he applied for a four weeks' vacation and it was granted without objection, and he was careful never to speak in Liberty Corner nor attend any meetings there during the campaign, as he thought that would be improper. A great sensation was caused in the township by a report that after a meeting at New Brunswick he had spent the evening as the guest of R. H. Becker, a saloon keeper of that place, but when he came home he explained that while Mr. Becker sold liquor he did it by the wholesale and was a highly respected business man. He was the president of the local Bryan club, and Mr. Wells said he didn't know the nature of his business until he was within his doors, where former Governor Abbott and General Franz Sigel, he declared, had also been entertained.

Mr. Wells' salary is $600 and the debt has been accumulating for about three years. He told the elders that he was willing to forgive it, if necessary, and would stay on at any salary at which he could live, and the matter will come up at the parish meeting on February 13th, when it is expected that there will be a general expression of opinion of the pastor's recent course before it is settled. The elders of the church are: John Ferdinand Boyle, John A. Hayes, William A. Compton and H. H. Apgar. All are farmers except Mr. Compton. He is a commercial traveller.

Mr. Boyle lives near the church, and he said, yesterday, there had been considerable dissatisfaction engendered by the minister's activity in politics, and, for his own part, he wanted another pastor. He said that when Mr. Wells started on his tour he tried to get another to take his place, and when he told the clergyman the circumstances he refused to fill the pulpit while the dominie was abroad in such work, and the result was that they had no minister at all until after the votes were counted.

Police Examined.

The present members of the police department have again been through an examination. It took place last Friday eveaing and the pedigree of every man was obtained. This was done to secure additional evidence in making up the slate for the coming year.

THE ICE DEALERS SMILE.

THE COLD WAVE IS THEIR SALVATION.

Work of Harvesting Commenced on Many Ponds Already.

While the face of the icemen has been very long during the last week, it expanded into a beaming smile last night as the mercury dropped lower and lower. The timely arrival of the cold wave will save the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company from a big loss. Some of their ice on Wilson's pond was spoiled for domestic purposes, on account of the dirt and sand, but the employes of the company began work at the pond this morning at one o'clock, and are now busy cutting the ice which was not spoiled by the high water. The ice is over eight inches thick and free from snow. The other ice is useful for supplying butcher-shops. Although the promise is of an extended period of cold, the company is hurrying in the operations so as to get the ice all cut in time.

Other dealers in the vicinity are are much pleased with the situation and expect a good crop of ice. The work of cutting has commenced at some of the other ponds and, at the remaining ones, it will commence in a few days. The weather is just what is needed to make plenty of ice and was rather unexpected by the icemen.

COLDEST DAY THIS YEAR

THERMOMETER NEAR TO ZERO AND A BLOWING, BITING WIND.

There is No Promise of Abatement for Some Time Yet—A Small Fall of Snow Came, But Not Enough to Impede Traffic.

While the mercury has fallen lower this winter than it did last night and this morning, it seemed to be the coldest weather of the season. The cold wave made its appearance on Saturday and gradually increased in force up to last night with the promise of no abatement of the cold for the next two or three days. The weather bureau predicted the coming of the cold wave and warnings were issued. The Jersey Central Railroad issued the following bulletin yesterday afternoon:

To all stations—Cold wave. Temperature will fall fifteen to thirty degrees, tonight or Monday, with two or three days of continued cold weather J. H. Olhausen.

While the mercury began to Saturday, it was not until after the small snow storm, that came yesterday morning, that the full effect of the cold wave began to be felt. With the cold came a sharp, biting wind that drifted the little snow that had fallen and sent its icy blasts through the warmest clothing and wraps. The thermometer registered 3 degrees above zero, this morning, in this city, while in Somerville it was reported as low as 4 degrees below zero. The high wind made the cold seem much more severe, and all who had to venture out early this morning appeared with their ears well-wrapped up for the nipping propensities of this kind of weather is too well-known. The shivering commuters gathered in the waiting rooms at the station and tried to get warm around the heaters there, only to make a rush for the door as soon as the train pulled into the station. In New York the wind was worse than it was here and the icy gusts whirled around corners and beat into the faces of pedestrians, chilling them to the marrow.

FUNERAL OF MRS. LINE.

Final Obsequies Over the Remains of the Marshal's Wife.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Line were held from the house, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and there was a very large attendance of relatives and friends. Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., officiated, and made remarks appropriate to the occasion from the text "Cast Thy Burden Upon the Lord." He offered words of comfort and consolation to the bereaved ones and told them to put their trust in the Lord who does all things for the best. At the close of the remarks Mr. Schenck offered a beautiful prayer, in which he invoked the Divine blessing on all present as well as the afflicted ones.

The floral tributes were many and very beautiful, and consisted chiefly of cut flowers. There was also a wreath bearing the word "Peace."

Interment was in the Plainfield avenue cemetery.

Surprised at Bound Brook.

A surprise birthday party was given by Mrs. E. F. Spaulding in honor of her daughter, Miss Florence L. Spaulding, Saturday evening, at her home in Bound Brook. There were a number present from this city, Somerville and Bound Brook. A party of nine went from Plainfield in a wagonette to attend the party.

TWO LEAGUES TALKED OF PLAINFIELD LIKELY TO HAVE RATTLING GOOD BALL TEAMS.

Ted Sullivan, at the Head of the State League, Visited This City Saturday to Interest the Cranks in His Scheme.

From present appearances, Plainfield will see more of baseball this coming season than it has for several years. There are two leagues being arranged, in both of which it is hoped that Plainfield will enter a team. One is the New Jersey State League, organized under the National agreement, an association of professional clubs which will give the people in the cities in the league several exhibitions of baseball a week. The other is a league composed of semi-professional teams, to play only on Saturdays and holidays.

The movement to organize a New Jersey State League has been already noticed in these columns, as has also the fact that a team was to go into the league from this city if possible. The principal promoters of the proposed league are Ted D. Sullivan and Pat Powers. Mr. Sullivan came to Plainfield Saturday afternoon and paid a visit to the Daily Press office where he had a conference with the sporting editor of The Press relative to the league and the chances of Plainfield being represented in it.

Mr. Sullivan explained some of the plans of the proposed organization and the steps already taken to place it on a firm foundation. The league is expected to consist of six clubs, probably Trenton, Plainfield, Elizabeth, Millville, New Brunswick and Bridgeton. The teams are to be composed of professional players and they are to play almost every day. Each club will play two games at some other city at a time and, in case the city is some distance from the home city, the schedule will be so arranged that the visiting team will stop at the city in the league which is nearest to it before returning home. The schedule will be so arranged as to give each team at least two games a week in their own town, or perhaps more. By making the distance to be travelled between the games as short as possible, the expenses will be materially reduced.

Each home club will give a guarantee to the visiting club, or in case one third of the gate receipts exceeds that amount, then the third will be turned over to the visiting team. On holidays the clubs will divide the gate receipts. The umpires are to be appointed by the league and paid by the two clubs playing. The officers of the league are to be a president, a secretary and treasurer. The first two will have most of the work of the league to do, looking after the scores, the umpires, protested games and the like and will receive salaries.

It is expected that the clubs in the various cities will be supported by stock companies and it was in relation to this that Mr. Sullivan came to Plainfield Saturday. While B. A. Mumford, Jr., has been talking of going into the league, he has taken no action in the matter as he knew very little of the plans of the proposed league, outside of the fact that it was a State league. Accompanied by the sporting editor, Mr. Sullivan went to see Mr. Mumford and consulted him regarding the matter. As a meeting of the league is to be held in Trenton this week, Mr. Sullivan would like to have Plainfield represented. After talking the matter over with Mr. Mumford, the latter decided that it would be impossible for the team which he is organizing to go into the league as most of the players can only play on Saturday afternoons and holidays.

Mr. Sullivan said the promoters of the league were very anxious for Plainfield to have a team in the league as the reputation of the people of this city as baseball cranks is well and widely known. He was sure that a team rightly managed would be a financial success, as well as a success from the baseball point of view, and he hoped that the citizens would take hold of the matter and form a stock company and push the scheme through with their old-time vigor. Mr. Sullivan has several well-known baseball enthusiasts in mind, one of whom he will select to try and push the formation of a club in this city, for he believes that the Plainfield people have not lost all their love for the game and will turn out and give generous support to a good team, should it be formed.

The other league in which Mr. Mumford's team will probably enter, is being formed of semi-professional teams form this part of New Jersey to play only on Saturdays and holidays. The teams that are likely to go into this latter movement are Plainfield, Orange, Bergen Point, Elizabeth, Mutchen and Dunellen. The details of this league have not been completely arranged, but will be published in the course of a month.

THE TREASURER RESIGNS

ALEX TITSWORTH RETIRES AFTER SEVERAL YEARS SERVICE.

His Feeble Health Induces Him to Relinquish the Duties of Public Office—His Place to be Filled by the Council.

Alex. Titsworth, one of the oldest elective city officials of Plainfield, in point of continuous service, resigned from the office of City Treasurer in the following letter to Mayor Fisk this afternoon:

Plainfield, N. J., Jan. 25th, 1897.
To the Honorable C. J. Fisk, Mayor of the City of Plainfield:
Dear Sir—On account of my feeble health I find myself unable to perform the duties of the office of treasurer of the city of Plainfield, and I therefore feel compelled to tender to you my resignation as treasurer, to take effect immediately.
Yours respectfully,
A. Titsworth.

Mr. Titsworth succeeded the late Jeremiah VanWinkle as City Treasurer, and has been filling the office in a satisfactory manner for twelve years, being elected frequently without opposition and always by large majorities. Last December he was elected by the largest majority on the Republican ticket, having only one opponent in the Socialist-Labor party candidate.

City Treasurer Alexander Titsworth.

Mr. Titsworth is in the cigar and confectionery business on North avenue, and has been in ill health for some time.

In consequence of the above it will be necessary that a special meeting of the Common Council be held very soon to take action on the resignation of Mr. Titsworth, and it is possible that the meeting will be held on Thursday or Friday evening of this week.

PROMISED TO DO BETTER.

Sentence Was Then Suspended on Barney Tracy by Judge DeMeza.

Barney Tracy, who was arrested some time ago for purchasing liquor for two small boys last Christmas Day, was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning. The two boys, one 14 years and the other 11 years old, were present and one said that Tracy had received his money and got the whiskey which the boys had drank with very disastrous results.

Tracy did not remember anything about it and the Judge finally suspended sentence after Tracy showed a desire to do better in the future and leave such matters alone.

NERVOUS SYSTEM AFFECTED.

Engineer Clapp's Scalds So Serious as to Allow Him But Little Rest.

Fireman Behl, the injured railroad man at the hospital, is improving so rapidly that it is thought he will be able to leave for home in a short time. Engineer Clapp is not quite so well today, but his condition is not thought to be dangerous. His injuries are very much worse than those of Behl's, and the fact that the entire flesh on his back was removed, affects the nervous system exceedingly and he has not been able to get very much rest in consequence.

Plainfield Pioneers to Speak.

The twenty-first annual meeting of the American Purity Alliance will be held in Assembly Hall, United Charities Building, Fourth avenue and Twenty-second street, New York, this evening at 8 o'clock. Addresses will be delivered by Hon. Elbridge T. Gerry, Rev. L. H. Virgin, D. D., Rev. W. T. Labine, D. D., Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell, Rev. L. L. Seward, Samuel C. Blackwell, Rev. A. H. Lewis, D. D., and Aaron M. Powell, President.

Plainfield Welcomes Him.

Arthur L. Titsworth, of Madison avenue, has disposed of his old-established clothing business at 415 Broadway, New York, to Wm. V. Schenck, Jr., one of his employes, and retires today after nineteen years of successful business. Mr. Titsworth has associated himself with the Potter Printing Press Company, of this city, and enters upon his duties tomorrow morning.

H. P. Greenwood, of Hoboken, spent yesterday afternoon in town visiting friends.

ASK MR. NEWELL TO EXPLAIN

RED MEN WRITE TO THE MINISTER.

If the Minister Don't Answer They Will Publish Their Side.

There was the usual attendance at the services held at Hope chapel yesterday and those present had an idea that Rev. G. Kennedy Newell might make some mention of what transpired after his remarks about lodge customs the week before, but in this they were disappointed, for no reference was made to the subject whatever.

At the meeting of Miantonomoh Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., held last Friday evening, the members decided not to let the matter rest, and a committee was appointed to communicate with Mr. Newell and ascertain what he has to say regarding his previous words. In connection with this, Wm. Newcorn has written to the pastor asking him to make an explanation of the affair. Mr. Newcorn says that if he receives no reply he will publish his letter and will then prove to the public that Mr. Newell's remarks were entirely uncalled for. Those affected by the remarks of the latter are not inclined to let the matter drop until there is a satisfactory explanation.

ONLY 17, AND A LEG SHORT

A COLORED BOY STUMBLED AND WAS RUN OVER BY A TRAIN.

Taken to the Hospital Where His Life Was Despaired of For a Time But Now He's on the Road to Recovery.

Thomas Morris, colored, aged 17 years, met with an accident Saturday evening, near the Plainfield avenue railroad bridge, which resulted in the loss of a leg. It was about 8 o'clock and Morris was walking down the railroad tracks towards his home which is on Plainfield avenue. He heard a freight train coming behind and in his attempt to get out of the way he stumbled and fell on the tracks just as the train came along and run over his leg.

His cries attracted the attention of Patrolman Post, who is on that beat. The latter responded at once and soon learned what had happened. He then secured the assistance of a friend, and the two men together with the aid of a shutter carried the boy to the hospital where the entire staff assisted in the treatment of the boy's injuries. For sometime during the evening it was thought that the boy would not recover for he lost a great quantity of blood and he was extremely ill. He survived the shock, however, and is now on a fair road to recovery.

FINED FOR HIS SON'S INDISCRETION.

A Rabbit Penned Up on the Premises of Henry Myers at Mountainside.

A few days ago a young son of Henry Myers, a poor farmer of Mountainside, five miles from this city, captured a wild rabbit and penned it up in the barn, the little fellow intending to tame it as a pet. He did not know that he was violating a game law by doing this, and in some manner Game and Fish Warden Brown learned that the rabbit was being held on the premises. He made an investigation and thereat arrested Myers for violating the game laws. Myers was taken before Justice Collins at Westfield where he claimed that he did not know that the rabbit was a prisoner on his property. Under the law, however, Justice Collins fined him $20, Saturday.

SLIPPED AND STRUCK HIS HEAD.

D. N. Groendyke Injured as He Was Getting Into His Carriage.

D. N. Groendyke, of Mercer avenue, North Plainfield, was quite severely injured while returning from the morning service in the Crescent Avenue church, yesterday morning. He had descended the steps leading from the edifice and was about to step into his carriage, when he slipped and fell on the icy pavement, striking on the back of his head. He was rendered unconscious by the fall, and was rapidly taken to Dr. E. W. Hedge's office on the opposite side of the street. Upon examination it was found that no bones had been broken, but the patient was suffering from the shock.

AN IMPORTANT MEETING.

Common Council Will be Busy a Week From Tonight.

One week from tonight the city council will meet and much important business will be considered. At this time the applications for saloon and hotel licenses will be received, but they will not be granted at the time for the council always takes a certain amount of time to examine each license. The Mayor will make his appointments at this meeting and the council confirms or vetoes them. This together with much other business makes this meeting one of the most important ones of the year.

SHOVING QUEER MONEY

THOMAS CALLAHAN RECEIVED A COIN THAT WAS NO GOOD.

Reported to the Police Too Late and Latter Were Unable to Capture the Crooks—Noticeable Defect Was Light Weight.

Though the police were unable to obtain positive evidence of more than one case, it is believed that considerable counterfeit money was passed in this city Saturday afternoon.

It was about 3:30 o'clock when a man walked into Thomas Callahan's grocery store on Richmond street and asked for a can of condensed milk. At first he drew out a roll of bills to pay for it, and then, as if suddenly struck with the thought that he had some silver, he delved down into his trousers pocket and brought up a handful of coin. He picked out a shiny silver dollar and received ninety cents in change. Then he walked out, crossed the street and met a companion. The two walked off towards Front street.

They had not yet disappeared from sight when the thought commenced to dawn on Mr. Callahan that the dollar did not seem to have its usual weight. He dropped it in the palm of his hand again and raised his hand up and down in a slow, methodical way as a man will do when guessing at weight. The dollar seemed to be unusually light in weight. It was finally compared with a genuine coin and quickly the contrast between the two could be seen. Outside of the weight it was a very good counterfeit. Mr. Callahan did not notify the police for a couple of hours.

After he did, however, Sergeant Kiely notified nearly all the merchants in the city to be on the lookout for the "shovers of the queer." The fellow who passed the coin was described as being of medium height and weight and wearing a moustache. He was attired in a blue overcoat, derby hat and his shoes were covered with mud.

The police scoured the city for several hours looking for the culprits, but they were non est. Roundsman Frederickson visited the Clinton avenue station at 5:50 o'clock, and there was informed that a man answering the description of the above was about the station a half hour before, but had gone in the direction of Dunellen sometime before the officer arrived.

No further trace was secured.

F. H. Hebard, the Watchung avenue druggist, on investigating his cash, also found a counterfeit dollar, but when it was passed on him or by whom he has not the slightest idea.

TOOK HENS AND CABBAGES.

A MIDNIGHT RAID AT SCOTCH PLAINS.

Peaceable Citizens Wake up to Find Themselves Victims of Thievery.

Saturday night was cold and stormy, but it did not deter the evil disposed from making their rounds at Scotch Plains in the absence of any authorized "cop" and while the good people reposed peacefully "in the arms of Morpheus." Some rascal raided John Cook's hen roost that night and carried away a big, black Spanish rooster, and to make matters worse, his stock of well preserved cabbage was reduced to the extent of some 200 heads. It is evident that the thief or thieves had a wagon to carry away their booty. The cabbage had been buried with the roots up and they were torn bodily from the ground. The snow yesterday morning covered up the wagon tracks, so nothing was left by which the thieves could be traced.

In connection with the above, it may be stated that John F. Miller, Superintendent for John Cook, had some valuable yellow pine timber carried away the same night, and Billy Lee's well-guarded hen roost was broken into, but a well trained bull-dog frightened away the marauders before accomplishing their design.

SEPTEMBER WEDDING ANNOUNCED.

Marriage of Jennie Shepherd and S. C. Terry, Jr., Solemnized Long Ago.

The many friends of Miss Jennie Shepherd, of Warren street, and Samuel C. Terry, Jr., of East Third street, are now congratulating them, for they were married Sept. 27th, 1896, by Rev. Mr. Kerr, at the home of the latter in Elizabeth. A few days ago the facts became known and it caused quite a surprise. Both of the contracting parties are well-known in this city and have a large circle of friends. For the present they will live at the home of the groom on East Third street, and in the spring they will go to housekeeping.

Improvement Women to Meet.

A public meeting of the Town Improvement Association, will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m., in the Y. M. C. A. Hall. As the changes in the constitution and the proposed increase in annual fees are to be voted on a full attendance is desired.

CABINET SELECTION

Major McKinley Likely To Complete the Task Next Week.

MANY NAMES HAVE BEEN CONSIDERED

Outside of the Three Most Important Portfolios, State, Treasury and Interior, the Selections May Be Often Shifted Around Before March 1.

Canton, O., Jan. 25.—There is a growing impression that the cabinet will be practically completed within the next two weeks, with the possible exception of one place. Though Major McKinley may decide within the next ten days upon the eight men who are to form his official family, it does not follow that the final appointment of places and portfolios will be made within that time. Most of the men who are selected for the cabinet will doubtless be shifted about from time to time and the final cast of the cabinet may not be arranged before March 1. The secretary of state is, of course, decided upon and the secretary of the treasury will be as defieitely determined, and so will the secretary of the interior, but the portfolio of the war, of the navy, of agriculture, of justice and the postoffice department will be a good deal shifted about. The whole situation has been thoroughly canvassed, every available man in the country has been suggested for appointment to the cabinet and a legion of almost unknown quantities has caused the president-elect to be informed that if he so desired he would be told where he might discover some hitherto unsuspected timber for his cabinet. The New York problem of cabinet representation will probably be solved this week. The current gossip is that Gen. Stewart L. Woodford will be the New York member of the cabinet. He is highly esteemed by the president and personally is on most agreeable terms with him. The president-elect has a high opinion of Gen. Woodford's ability and if political conditions continue to be as favorable as they now seem to be, he is pretty certain to be the next secretary of war or the navy. Gen. Alger's appointment to the cabinet is not regarded as certain but the belief that he will be in it grows and this notion is strengthened by the knowledge that ex-Gov. Merriam of Minnesota and Henry C. Payne of Wisconsin seems almost to have dropped, for the time at least, from the list of those who are being seriously considered. There will be in all probability a cabinet officer from Wisconsin, Michigan or Minnesota and if Mr. Payne or Mr. Merriam is not chosen it is almost certain Gen. Alger will be, unless Lyman J. Gage should be made secretary of the treasury in which event his appointment might be deemed sufficient recognition for all that general section of the country. The doubts about Mr. Gage's political faith and economic creeds having been removed within the last twenty-four hours by the visit of a Chicago gentlemen to Canton, it may be safely assumed that his appointment is being more seriously considered than ever, though it is by no means certain that he will be selected and, indeed, the impression still prevails here that Chas. Emory Smith of Philadelphia is the strongest possibility.

THE COLD WAVE.

Severe Weather Now Prevails over a Large Portion of the Country.

Cleveland, Jan. 25.—Reports from points in the northwest indicate that the weather at present is the coldest known in a number of years. At St. Helaire, Minn., it is 40 degrees below zero. Reports from Missouri say that many cattle and sheep have been frozen to death. The Missouri river is frozen over at Omaha, Neb. The central western states are also experiencing very severe weather.

New York, Jan. 25.—Reports received here from various points in the New England states show that the weather is unusually cold, particularly in Maine and New Hampshire. In this state and in Pennsylvania and New Jersey a similar condition of affairs exists.

Utica, N. Y., Jan. 25.—This morning the temperature in the Adirondacks is as follows: Malone, 18 degrees below zero; at Tupper lake, 15 below; at Fulton chain, 10 below and at Remsen 5 below.

Cuban Resolutions.

Albany, Jan. 25.—The Cuban resolution of Assemblyman Writners, which extends sympathy to the Cubans in their struggle for home rule, is a special order in the senate for to-night. It will pass the assembly. The democratic senators will endeavor to have the original Writner resolution, calling upon congress to recognize the Cubans as belligerents, adopted instead of the compromise resolution, but their efforts will be unavailing.

Naval News.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The cruiser Detroit, now on the China station, has been ordered homa by way of the Suez canal. The Olympia has gone to Hong Kong from Nagasaki, and the Yorktown from the same port for Shanghai. The Marion has arrived at Acapulco, Mexico, the Maine at Fort Monroe, and the Monadnock at San Pedro, Cal.

1,400 Victims of an Earthquake.

London, Jan. 25.—The correspondent of the Times at Tehereh, capital of Persia, telegraphs that a dispatch has been received from Bushire, stating that 1,400 bodies of victims of the recent earthquake on the island of Kishm have been recovered.

Death of Mrs. Hungerford, the Novelist.

London, Jan. 25.—The death is announced of Mrs Hungerford, the novelist. She died yesterday at Bandon, county Cork, Ireland.

CONGRESS FORECAST

Programme of the Important Work on Hand This Week.

SENATE SESSIONS MAY BE LIVELY

Senator Turpie Booked To Open the Debate To-day on the Cuban Subject. Trouble Anticipated over the Nicaraguan Canal Bill.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The arbitration treaty, the Nicaraguan canal and the insurrection in Cuba will be again discussed in the senate during the present week. Senator Turpie of Indiana will open the Cuban debate today ostensibly on Senator Cameron's resolution recognizing the independence of the Cuban republic. Mr. Turpie will devote a considerable portion of his time, however, as he has said, to a consideration of the subject of the independence of congress, with such incidental strictures on the manifesto of Secretary Olney as may occur to a man who believes the executive department has overstepped its proper function in seeking to intimidate the senate by the threat of the veto power and the predicted defiance of contemplated legislation. Mr. Turpie's penchant for sarcastic comments and his failure to conform strictly to the language of diplomacy in attacking policies that he believes to be wrong, lead to the belief that his speech may be piquant reading.

Nicaraguan Canal Bill.

The condition of the Nicaraguan canal bill is peculiar. It is still the unfinished business. Senator Morgan, who has given the subject careful consideration, says the bill is drawn so as to come within the terms of the concession granted by Nicaragua, and he denies that the letter of Minister Rodriguez has any weight whatever. He will antagonize a motion to send the bill back to the committee if any is made, and insist upon the vote on the bill being taken. The debate in the senate will probably be protracted until the correspondence with Nicaragua called for by Mr. Morgan's resolution, adopted Saturday, is received. Meanwhile the Rodriguez letter will have an important bearing upon the general treaty of arbitration which will be taken up by the senate committee in special session to-day. Friends of the isthmus canal will antagonize action on the treaty until something definite is done on the canal bill. At the conclusion of Mr. Turpie's speech to-day the senate will listen to eulogies on the late ex-Speaker Crisp. The bankruptcy bill which was made the special order for this afternoon, will, in all probability, be postponed for a few days. The bill to provide for the representation of the United States by commissioners at any international monetary conference hereafter to be called—the Wolcott bill—will be considered to-morrow after the morning business.

Matters Before the House.

Less than six weeks of the present session of congress remain, and this fact has impressed upon the managers of the house the necessity of more vigorously pushing the appropriation bills yet remaining to be considered. It was stated yesterday by a member of the committee on rules that the agricultural and Indian bills now on the calendar would be the principal items of business on the programme this week. These bills although carrying comparatively small sums usually give rise to more debates than others on the list. The seed distribution provided for in the agricultural bill is sure to evoke criticism, and the Indian school question can be relied upon to occupy a day or more of the time of the house. The Indian bill further contains the provisions of the bill reported two or three weeks ago, to abolish the offices of Indian commissioner and assistant Indian commissioner and confer their duties on a bord of commissioners. This may be promptly disposed of on a point of order, but is more likely to be the occasion of considerable talk. The new immigration bill agreed upon by the conferees will be presented to the house to-day, and the advocates of the measure will endeavor to secure a day later in the week for its consideration.

Shoe Strike Settled.

Lynn, Mass., Jan. 25.—The edgemakers' strike in the shoe factory of Welch & Landregan has been satisfactorily settled, the firm having abolished the contract system which is a big victory for the men. In addition to getting the job at regular piece work prices, the operatives have succeeded in striking a blow at "farming" in the Lynn shoe factories that will in a great measure tend to do away with this unpopular system entirely.

Valuable Discovery.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Consul Deuster Crefeld reports to the state department upon a new article called pegamoid, which is crystal clear gelatinous fluid easily applied to almost any material and which resists humidity, acids, oils and various other influences in a remarkable degree. Textiles, paper, leather and other substances are rendered water proof, protected against vermin and remain smooth, soft and flexible.

Francis S. Key's Daughter Dead.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 25.—Mrs. Maria Lloyd Steel, who died here Saturday at the age of 92, was a daughter of Francis Scott Key, author of the "Star Spangled Banner," and niece of the late Chief Justice Taney of the United States supreme court.

300 Persons Trampled to Death.

San Francisco, Jan. 25.—During a panic caused by the breaking of a lamp and the subsequent fire in a temple at Kwong Tow, China, 300 men, women and children were trampled to death.

GOOD SIGNS IN LONDON.

Things Which Are Jokes Without Intending to Be Such.

The American's first visit to London brings to his notice, if he be at all observant, many peculiar signs, says the New York Mail and Express. Here are a few seen by a reporter last summer:

Englishmen are noted all the world over as prolific letter writers. In fact, little personal attention is paid to business when it is possible to write a letter and say what one ordinarily should say verbally. Attached to the heavy doors of four-fifths of the most successful business houses in the English capital is a highly polished brass plate, on which is inscribed: "Do Not Ring the Bell Unless an Answer Is Required."

Directly under this plate is an opening for dropping letters "that do not require an oral answer."

On the Strand, within a stone's throw of the Bank of England, is a well-known tradesman, who has a "richly" hung blue sign in his window which tells the busy throng outside that "Yankie Cyder Is Sold Here."

It may be considered a joke—this sign—as a party of Americans who inquired earnestly believed, but the tradesman took the matter quite seriously when the subject of the sign was broached, and then remarked:

"Hi ham er blooming blighter hif another chap didn't soy the same thing t'-day. 'E told me 'ow to spell Yankee, but 'ang me hif hit 'asn't escaped me memory. Hit will 'ave to do now, though."

A "gentleman's hairdresser" close to Charing Cross exposes a sign which says: "Hair Neatly Trimmed While You Wait."

And this sign, too, was not intended as a joke. London signs are indeed peculiar, if not strikingly odd.

HE WON HIS CASE.

Reminded the Maryland Squire of the Old Days.

"I went into a country district in Maryland a few days ago to try a case," said a Washington attorney to a Washington Star man.

"I appeared for the plaintiff and it must be confessed that the evidence failed to establish his claim. I presented the matter before the justice of the peace in the best light I knew how, but had very little hope of securing the verdict. My client, when I finished, whispered to me that he would say a few words if I were willing and, considering the case lost, I consented. It was the most unique speech I ever heard and it won the case. He said:

"'Squire, I brought this suit and the evidence, except my own, is against me. I don't accuse anyone of lying, squire, but the witnesses are the most mistaken lot of fellows I ever saw. You know me, squire. Two years ago you sold me a horse for sound that was as blind as a bat. I made the trade and stuck to it and this is the first time I have mentioned it. When you used to buy grain you stood on the scale when the empty wagon was weighed, but I never said a word. Now, do you think I am the kind of a man to pick up a rumpus and sue a fellow unless he has done me wrong?"

"It took just five minutes for the justice to decide for the plaintiff."

DISCARDED CHIMNEYS.

A Definite Vacuum Is Now Held Upon All Fires.

One of the most remarkable changes noted at present in the manufacturing industry is the giving up of the chimney to produce draught, and though, of course, a chimney offers so simple and efficient a means of making the requisite draught for the fire, it is stated that in one of the large works of England—locality not mentioned—chimneys have been discarded and a definite vacuum is held upon all fires. In this way the products of combustion and destructive distillation which result from the burning of coal and carbonaceous matter are collected, cooled, condensed and worked up. One of the methods noted as attracting attention in Germany consists in sucking the gases of the furnaces away and allowing them to pass through water in the form of small bubbles, which removes the soot and some of the products of combustion, the gases being then led to a gasometer, from which they are drawn into the process of utilization. A manufacture of this kind, it is urged, can easily extend pipes in any direction and draw the gases of combustion from their manufacturers—the purification of the atmosphere thus assured being another important result.

Dickens and the X Ray.

An amusing instance of anticipation of the penetrating character of the so-called X rays has been discovered, says the Electrical Review, in a most unlikely place—that is, in Dickens' "Christmas Carol." It will be remembered that when the miser, Scrooge, sees the ghost of his former partner, Marley, entering the room, Marley's body appears to be transparent, so that Scrooge can see clear through him and discern the two buttons on the back of his coat. It may be presumed that Marley wore the old-time blue coat with brass buttons, and that flesh and blood became transparent when metal buttons would not. It is now in order for the Society of Psychical Research to try the X rays for the detection of ghosts, but if they are successful they must give the credit to Dickens.

THE PLATT BANQUET.

Every Empire State Republican of Prominence Expected To Be Present.

Albany, Jan. 25.—The event of the present week in political circles will be the banquet tendered to United States Senator-elect Platt to-morrow night at Harmanus Bleecker hall by the state league of republican clubs. Seats will be provided for 1,000 guests at the banquet tables, while spectators numbering 1,500 will occupy the dress circle and gallery. Every republican of any prominence in the state is expected to be present. There will be many leading republicans from other states present. The hotels will be taxed to their utmost, but many of the guests will leave Albany on the midnight trains. State Treasurer Colvin, who is president of the state league of republican clubs, says the banquet will eclipse any ever given in the state. Senator Platt will arrive in Albany on the Empire State express shortly before noon to-morrow and will have rooms at the Hotel Kenmore. He may possibly attend the session of the legislature which honored him with such a high office on Wednesday last, but if he does not find time he will be enabled to meet them before the banquetting hour as they will nearly all call upon him at his hotel, after the legislature adjourns in the afternoon.

HOMESTEAD LAW.

Little Show for Creditors in Minneapolis Under Its Operations.

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—According to a decision just rendered here a man's homestead is a very indefinite sort of a thing, valued anywhere from $50 to $500,000. A Chicago bank asked for a receiver for William Banholzer, the St. Paul brewer, on a note of $20,000 it had against the old Seven Corners bank, which failed in 1893. Judge Bunn denied the application and said: "This cause presents in a very forcible manner the injustice that may be worked by our homestead law. The defendant is allowed to hold as his homestead five acres of land in the city of St. Paul, of great value, occupied not only by his dwelling house, but by his father's and by a brewery and buildings connected with it, a beer garden and a dancing parlor, and used not only for residence purpose but for the purpose of carrying on a brewing business. The statute and the decisions of our supreme court seem to absolutely protect the defendant in his enjoyment of the entire five acres however he may elect to use his property."

ENGLAND'S SNOWSTORM.

Heavy Losses Sustained by Farmers---Fishermen Drowned.

London, Jan. 25.—The snowstorm which began on Friday continues this morning and is causing many interruptions of travel and other inconveniences. Many sheep and other small animals have perished and the losses sustained by farmers and others will be quite heavy. The snow is so deep between Hastings and Brighton that a number of trains have been blocked, an occurrence which is seldom heard of in that part of the country. The heavy wind which accompanied the snowstorm has done considerable damage along the coast. Some of the fishing boats which have arrived at Lowestoft report the loss by drowning of several of their crews. A number of the boats were quite badly damaged in the buffetings they received while tryin to make port. Russia and France.

Paris, Jan. 25.—It is stated that Baron Mohrenheim, the Russian ambassador, has informed M. Hanotaux, minister of foreign affairs, that the czar has ordered Count Muraireff, the newly appointed Russian minister of foreign affairs, to proceed to Paris, where he will meet President Faure at an official dinner to be given at the Palace of the Elysee on Thursday next. It is generally supposed that Count Muraireff's visit is in some way connected with the Russo-French alliance and with the proposed action of the powers in the Turkish matter.

WOULD TAX THE RICH

New York's Comptroller Favors Graded Inheritance Tax.

STATE'S EXPENSES A SERIOUS MATTER

He Recommends a Tax of 5 Per Cent. on Estates of $1,000,000 or Less Than $2,000,000 and an Increase to 15 Per Cent. Over $3,000,000.

Albany, Jan. 25.—State Comptroller James A. Roberts will submit an unusually interesting report with important recommendations to the legislature this evening upon the financial condition of the state. He calls attention to a vast increase in state expenditures and recommends a graded inheritance tax—the largest estates to be made to pay the largest tax. The expenditures of the state during the last fiscal year, ending September 30, 1896, aggregated the sum of $26,510,425.77. Mr. Roberts makes the increasing expenditures for the support of the state government his leading theme, and warns the legislature that unless its members are economical in their appropriations of the state's money for this or that purpose an increase of the state tax rate cannot be avoided. He especially dwells on the large increase in the number of state charitable institutions, plainly, as a hint, that the state has done about as much in this direction as it can wisely do. He says: "In my last report to the legislature I called special attention to the enormous proportions which fixed charges of this state had reached, and took occasion to give prominence to the fact that unless new sources of revenue were discovered a low tax rate could never again be enjoyed by this state. A very fruitful source of income was discovered in the new excise law, which yielded to the treasury $3,364,014.98. But with this large addition to the state's resources, a comparatively high tax rate had to be made to provide the necessary funds to meet the ever-increasing expenditures. The tax rate last year was 2 69-100 mills on the dollar, with three exceptions this is the highest rate levied for the past ten years, notwithstanding the increase of over $3,364,000 in the revenue. The annual fixed charges against the state for the support of seventeen state charitable institutions, twelve hospitals for the insane, forty-five arsenals and armories, twelve normal schools, three state prisons, five state canals and the new capitol are given as $15,271,318.05 "This is an enormous amount of money," says the controller, "to squeeze from the people every year, and what is worse, the indications are it will steadily increase let the legislature do the best it can."

Inheritance Tax.

Mr. Roberts makes a suggestion regurding the inheritance tax which will undoubtedly arouse a wide popular discussion and be debated at length in the legislature. His suggestion is that the inheritance tax be graded so as to weigh heaviest on the largest estates. He points to the inheritance tax systems of Great Britain, France and Germany, and other countries as examples of graded tax systems, and suggests a tax of five per cent. on estates of $1,000,000 and less than $2,000,000; of ten per cent. on estates of $2,000,000 and less than $3,000,000, and of fifteen per cent. on estates of $3,000,000 and over. Such a graded tax system, if it had been in operation in this state during the past four years, he says, it would have put the sum of $27,714,590 in the state treasury, whereas, under the present system only $8,684,187.90 was paid in.

Railroad Rates to C. E. Convention.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—The arrangement by the trans-continental roads for Christian Endeavor business going to the San Francisco convention is not satisfactory to the officials of the society who have charge of the convention because it spoils their opportunity to get many special favors and concessions from the roads for themselves. In former conventions it is said much of the expense of the society and the officers individually has been borne by the roads being played against each other. Those in charge of the convention arrangements have notified the roads that there is a strong probability of the gathering being removed to Philadelphia.

Burned to Death in His Cell.

Auburn, N. Y., Jan. 25.—James McTaigue, the Elmira transfer to the Auburn prison, whose home is in New York city, who was burned to death Saturday night in his cell, was cooking his supptr over a naptha lamp, when the lamp exploded throwing the burning fluid over his person. His face and hands were terribly burned, and he died in great agony three hours later. His term of imprisonment would have expired in March.

Woonsocket, R. I., Jan. 25.—Kit Powell knocked out young Murphy in the fourth round of a glove contest at Burrillville Sunday morning in the presence of several hundred persons from various parts of Rhode Island and Massachusetts. Both men belong in this city. Powell weighed 102 pounds and Murphy 96. The purse was small, but considerable money was wagered on the fight.

South Dakota Money Stuck in Snow.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 25.—It is intensely cold throughout the northwest, from 12 to 20 degrees below zero in some places. The state treasure of South Dakota, nearly $280,000, under guard of militia, is stuck in the snow thirty miles east of Pierre. This money is being taken back to the banks from which it was recently drawn.

GUBERNATORIAL APPOINTMENTS.

The politicians are expecting Gov. Griggs to send to the Senate tonight the name of Secretary of State Kelsey's successor. Until two weeks ago Senator Edward C. Stokes, of Cumberland county, was popularly believed to be slated for the place, but it turns out that the Governor had never been consulted by Senator Stokes' friends, and he surprised them a few days ago by the intimation that Stokes was not to be appointed. The Governor has not revealed his intentions, but from the fact that he did not send to the Senate last week the nomination of George Wurts, of Paterson, to be Banking and Insurance Commissioner, the politicians are predicting that Wurts will be made Secretary of State. It is believed that the Governor will also send to the Senate the reappointment of Bennet VanSyckel as Justice of the Supreme Court. The principal objection to his reappointment is based upon the political ground that it will keep the Supreme Court Democratic, and in the event of the adoption and ratification of the judiciary amendment to the Constitution it will eventually place VanSyckel at the head of the court by virtue of his long service.

PASSAGE DOUBTFUL.

The bill to abolish Freeholders and substitute County Commissions has not yet materialized in the Legislature, but it can be expected in a week or two. The sentiment in connection with this subject has changed considerably within the past two weeks. Many, of course, are against the bill, and it is doubtful whether it can be passed, but, nevertheless, healthy argument is expected to be provoked by its introduction.

WORKING FOR CONSOLIDATION.

Recently, there has been a number of quiet conferences among the advocates, in the borough, of a Greater Plainfield, and methods for getting the consolidation proposition actually and forcibly before the public were discussed. A map of the proposed new municipality has been drawn and it will be reproduced in The Press in a few days, together with other interesting features of the movement for one town.

TIME FOR REAL WORK.

The third week of the Legislature will commence this evening. It is time for the members to get down to real work.

CONSTABLE TAKEN FOR A BURGLAR.

Shot by a Justice Who Thought He Was Trying to Break Into His Barn.

Freeholder Noah Woodruff, a justice of the peace, of Roselle, Saturday morning shot and dangerously wounded Edward Stevens, chief of the fire department and also a constable. The justice mistook the constable for a burglar. A set of harness was stolen from the barn of the justice Friday night. Stevens is employed by the Central Railroad, and started home shortly before 2 o'clock. On his way he saw the barn door of the justice open, and Woodruff, who was on the lookout, thinking he was the thief, shot him in the neck. Dr. Pierson was summoned and he dressed Stevens' wounds, and the later was sent home. Justice Woodruff was greatly distressed over his mistake.

Mrs. Ella Pearce, of Manasquan, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. John H. Blimm for a few days.

Wm. Bacon, of Haverstraw, spent Sunday with his fiance, Miss Sadie Walpole, at the latter's home in this place.

Timothy Toolin, who is said to be aspiring for police officer here, visited his brother in Bayonne and spent Sunday.

Miss M. A. Stuart, Mrs. De. G. Thomae's sister, leaves on steamer Advance from New York on Saturday, January 30th for California, by way of the Isthmus of Panama, for an extended trip of three months, returning overland through Colorado and other western states.

Louis Morrell expects to complete the work of drilling the 90-foot well for John Cook today, and tomorrow he will begin work on John R. Marsh's new well.

Since the cold weather has set in the main roads about here have been frozen up, but aside from their roughness they are again in a fairly good condition.

"Tom" Collins and Frank Allen, both local sports and both good with the gloves, have arranged for a six-round friendly bout at Blimm's Hotel on the evening of Feb 8th. The conditions are 8 ounce gloves and $20 a side.

Edward Hand has a horse whose age can be traced back for twenty-five years. The animal fell down in the barn on Saturday and all efforts to get him on his pins again were unavailing. It was decided to put the animal out of its misery today.

Henry Schenck, an all-round man for John H. Blimm, has been secured, it is said, by the Crescent Wheelmen, to give some of his fancy jig and buck dances at the forthcoming minstrel show in Music Hall, Plainfield. His impersonation of the English dude is said to be great.

A coop full of choice game fowls will go from here at 9:30 o'clock Monday evening to take part in a full-fledged cocking main in Hoboken. Over $100 has already been wagered on the result, and all the local sports are betting their loose change on the Plains' birds, which have been in training for some time.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. E. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject. He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

THEATRICAL.

The appearance of Chevalier at Music Hall tomorrow night will be the signal for one of the largest and most fashionable audiences, for many of those who have heard this famous music hall coster singer in London and in New York will be just as eager to listen to him again as those who have never before had that pleasure. The man is unique, and stands alone in his peculiar art. His legion of imitators have caught the mechanism fairly well, but not the favor that belongs to him alone, and makes him the thorough artist he is.

A cyclone of laughter and whirlwind of fun is the way those who have seen Murry and Murphy's comedians supporting Mark Murphy, in O'Dowd's Neighbors, describe the comedy. It is by no means an Irish comedy as its title would infer but a genuine operatic comedy drama with an Irish character interwoven in such a manner as to make it the center of attraction. Those who appreciate an evening of laughter will have no cause to complain after having spent two and one half hours with O'Dowd and his neighbors at Music Hall, Thursday night.

No less than seven distinct, full stage illusions, will be given by Magician Kellar during his entertainment in this city, in addition to a budget of novel experiments in sleight of hand, at which he has never had a peer. "Out of Sight" shows the gentlemen in the audience how to get rid of their wives without the necessity of a divorce court, by simply causing them to dissolve into thin air; "The Cassadega Propoganda" shows the cabinet seances of the Spiritualists in its true light, for Kellar accomplishes all of their manifestations with a little cabinet, not large enough to contain a doll. "The Simla Seance" exposes the famous artifices of the Davenport Brothers, and shows how they deceived the public. At Music Hall, Friday evening, January 29th.

A WILD NIGHT'S WORK

BY FLORENCE WARDEN

[COPYRIGHT, 1894.]

CHAPTER I.—WOMAN'S WILES.

Whew-w-w-w! how the wind blew How it swept along the Kentish fields driving the snow into drifts, whistling through the bare branches of the trees and hurrying the black clouds along in the lowering sky!

The mail train was speeding along to Dover, and the passengers, blinking out of the windows, shrugged their shoulders and shivered at the prospect before them.

"If it's like this inland," said one prosperous-looking old gentleman, tucked up in rugs in the corner of a first-class compartment, to his opposite neighbor, "what will it be like at Dover? Ten to one the boat won't cross to-night!"

At the further end of the carriage a young man was sitting, who seemed much disturbed by this remark.

"Do you really think so?" he asked anxiously, joining in the talk for the first time. "It takes a great deal to stop the mail boat."

The first speaker replied with the calm and pompous assurance of an experienced traveler.

"Well, and what do you call 'a great deal,' if you haven't got it there?"

And he pointed with his finger to the snow-covered landscape just as a fresh blast came howling round the flying train, covering the window with a thick white sheet of driving snow.

The young man looked more anxious than ever. He was a clerk in the employ of a firm of stock brokers, and had been intrusted for the first time with a duty of great importance. He was the bearer of a large amount of negotiable securities which, for safety, it was thought advisable to send by hand, and he had to deliver them in Paris on the following day.

When the train stopped at Dover station, therefore, George Llewellyn, for that was the young fellow's name, was among the first of the passengers to spring on to the platform, and to ask eagerly whether the mail boat was going to cross.

THE DETECTIVE CAME UP TO HIM.

"No, sir. She won't cross to-night. The storm's too high," was the disappointing answer of the official.

Llewellyn, however, would not give up hope at once. He had no luggage but his hand bag, and he waited about, refusing all offers of the porters to carry it for him, and made further inquiries, in the vain hope of at length hearing better news.

At last he became aware that something about him had made him an object of suspicion to two men whom, by their boots, he guessed to be detectives; and as, recognizing this, he was about to leave the station, one of these men came up to him very quietly and requested him to step into the superintendent's office.

Llewellyn saw that it was best to comply quietly, and, on finding himself shut in with the detective and a couple of policemen in uniform, he gave at once the fullest details as to his name, his residence, his place of employment, and his present errand. He also gave up his keys, so that the detective could inspect the documents he was carrying.

The examination lasted a very few moments.

"Quite right, sir, thank you," said the man, touching his hat with a smile, "and now you must excuse me for having detained you, but we've just had a wire telling us to be on the lookout for two well-known thieves, a man and a woman, who are supposed to have come down by this train with a number of stolen securities. So you see, sir, although it was a bad shot in one way to suspect you, on the other it was a good one, for you were traveling with securities, although they didn't happen to be stolen ones."

George Llewellyn accepted the apology and explanation good-humoredly and asked if it was by order of the police that the boat was stopped.

"Oh, no, sir. The weather's responsible for that," answered the man, shaking his head. "Though I don't say it won't help us to have a little more time to look around."

And he opened the door, saluting George respectfully as the latter passed out.

Out in the little squalid street outside the station, with the wind whistling round the corners and the snow melting into a dirty slush at his feet, Llewellyn asked himself what he should do. Should he put up at a hotel in the town? Or should he make his way to the house of an old friend of his father's, who lived, as he knew, a little way out of Dover, off the high road over the cliffs?

He decided on the latter course. Dr. Lowe was not a man who kept early hours, and George, who remembered in what direction the house lay although he had not been there since his boyhood, decided that he would be able to reach it in an hour, allowing for the state of the weather.

It was by this time twenty-five minutes past ten o'clock, and the snow was falling less thickly. It did occur to Llewellyn that the expedition had its risks, considering the value of the property he was carrying, but on the other hand, a night spent at a hotel was not without its dangers in the circumstances. So George, who was young, tall, muscular, and provided with a revolver, started on his way through the town.

He could hear the roar of the waves as they broke upon the beach; he had to fight against the wind when he reached the corner of the street. But on the whole the walk, for a strong young man, had its pleasures, for the snow had ceased to be blinding, and a battle with the wind stirs young blood into pleasurable excitement. In a very short time he had got clear of the town, and was on the high road in the open country.

Here the snow impeded his progress more than he had expected; for there was nothing in this high bleak spot to check the caprices of the wind, which swept almost bare great patches of the open land, and swirled the snow into heaps in unexpected places. It was a lonely walk enough, and George began to be puzzled as to whether he was keeping the right way. There were so few hedges or trees, and the featureless character of the country made it easy for the snow to blurr its outlines until they were quite undistinguishable.

He felt rather relieved when he caught the sound of human voices. He waited, as they seemed to be behind him. He heard them again in the roar of the wind. He hailed the unseen persons, but then the voices ceased. He presently went on again until he was startled to see in the darkness between him and the sea the dim outlines of two figures keeping pace with him at a little distance. He hailed them again, and the figures promptly vanished.

Without giving way to any cowardly fears George began to wish that he had been more discreet and that he had stayed at a hotel. There was nothing to do now, however, but to go forward as quickly and carefully as he could, for more than two-thirds of the distance must have been traversed by this time.

Unfortunately, however, soon after this incident he lost his way, hopelessly, undeniably. He found himself floundering, knee-deep, in snow, over something which might be a freshly-plowed field or which might be the ruins of a house, but which was certainly not the open road.

After a few fruitless struggles to get on firmer ground George again caught sight, a little way to the left this time, of two figures, which he perceived to be those of a man and a woman. Just at the moment of his discerning them the figures parted, that of the man disappearing from view, while the woman held on her way.

As she was evidently on firm ground George made towards her at once, not calling out, lest he should frighten her.

Before he came up with her, he saw, by her walk and by her figure, that she was young; and when he addressed her, saying that he had lost his way, she turned her head quickly, and showed him that she was adorably pretty. So entirely was he thrown off his balance by the unexpected sight of such a lovely face, that he stopped short in the middle of his speech, and left her to answer a question which he had not finished asking.

"You are on the high road—to St. Placid's," she said, quickly. "Keep straight on."

And then she glanced, with a sudden change of expression, at the bag he was carrying. Before he could do more than raise his hat and thank her, she had hurried past him like a hare, with just one more look, penetrating, intelligent, from his face to the bag in his hand.

George remained for a moment stupefied; he stared at the retreating figure before him, and fancied he saw her turn, with a gesture of invitation to him to follow and catch her up. Acting on the impression, he started forward, and then there flashed into his mind the words used by the detective at the station: "Two well-known thieves, a man and a woman," had travelled down by the same train as himself! He was at once ashamed of his momentary suspicion that the beautiful girl he had just spoken to could be anything but the angel she looked; but her furtive and eager glances at his bag recurred again and again to his mind.

The wind was still blowing very hard, and the snow, which had for some time almost ceased, began to fall again in great flakes, so that the landscape was soon entirely blotted out from view, and George found more difficulty than ever in keeping the road. At last he saw a large, dark object in front of him, which he recognized as the clump of trees which marked the spot where there were crossroads, and where he should have to take the road on his right to get down into the village, where Dr. Lowe's house stood. The crossroads were at the highest point of the neighborhood, and George could scarcely keep his feet, much less choose his way as he approached it.

Just before he reached the turning he came to a fair-sized house of only two stories, shut in by a garden inclosed by a high wall. Just as George got under shelter of the wall, a door in the middle opened, and out of the darkness the voice of the girl he had just met spoke to him:

"You will never find your way into the village through this snow. Won't you come inside the house until it has left off a little?"

George stopped. He could hardly see the girl's pretty face in the darkness and the blinding snow; but the voice was alluring in its sweetness, and the temptation to look once more upon such exceptional beauty as hers decided him.

"Thank you. It is very good of you, very good of you, indeed. If I am not intruding, I shall indeed be glad to accept your kind offer for a few minutes."

HE CAME TO A FAIR-SIZED HOUSE.

She stepped nimbly back, opening the door for him. He passed through on to a stone-flagged path, which led, under cover all the way, to a deep porch, under which the lamplight streamed brightly and invitingly through the open door.

The curtains of a large window on the right of the porch were drawn; but those on the left were still open, and allowed George to see into a dining-room made cozy by the shaded light of lamps, and by the glow of a bright fire. He caught glimpses of armor, helmets, spears, shields, shining on a dark rich wall; and of flowers and sparkling silver on a white-covered table.

George, who was half dazed by his struggle with the wind and by the action of the snow upon his eyes, thought vaguely of the story of "Beauty and the Beast," as he staggered up the stone path. There was something mysterious, almost uncanny about the shut-in house and its curiously hospitable inhabitant, which made him change his mind as he realized it, and turn, with an excuse upon his lips, to go out again.

At that moment he heard a key turned in the door by which he had come, and he knew in a moment that he had done wrong in entering. He made two rapid steps back, and was met by the young girl.

"This way," she said, as, passing him quickly with a smile of invitation on her face, she led the way into the hall.

He followed reluctantly, lured by the wish to see the attractive countenance in the full light, but resolving as he went that he would make an excuse to leave at once.

She went so quickly and he so slowly, that she had entered the dining room by the time George reached the hall. She held the door of the room invitingly open, and spoke again as he stood hat in hand, on the threshold of the house.

"Won't you take off your coat and shake the snow off before you come in? Then, when this storm has passed, you will be able to start on your way again quite dry."

AND CLOSED THE DOOR BEHIND HIM.

"I am deeply obliged to you for your kindness," said George, who was utterly bewildered by the situation in which he found himself, so that his words came haltingly from his tongue.

Seen in the bright light of the lamp which hung from the hall ceiling, his unconventional hostess was even more beautiful than she had looked outside in the darkness. She was tall and fair, with a figure more suggestive of strength than is usual in young women, almost masculine, indeed, in its unpinched, natural waist and rather square shoulders. A massive young woman, with long white hands and quick, lithe movements, and with a certain frank simplicity of manner which suggested that she did not live the cribbed and narrow life usual with the women of the middle classes. The very straightforward spontaneity of her welcome to this stranger was what one would have expected of a man, rather than of a young woman.

But the freshness, the unexpectedness of this was only another charm in the dazzled eyes of George Llewellyn. He found his heart beating faster, his tongue faltering as he looked at her [illegible] to make an excuse. It may be noted that his first vague suspicions had melted suddenly in the glow of her beauty and of her gracious, smiling manner.

"I thank you, I don't know how to thank you enough," he stammered, already wavering in his intention of going on; "but I really ought not to take advantage of your kindness. The fact is I am traveling with some valuable securities—"

A sort of sickness seized George when he got as far as this, and made him suddenly stop. For as soon as he mentioned the securities he saw a flash of light on his hostess' face. As he paused, she took up his speech for him.

"If you have anything of much value about you, that is all the more reason why you should not stumble about blindly in the snow, as you were doing when I first met you."

And she stepped out quickly from the dining-room into the hall, drew him inside the house by an unexpected movement of a strong arm, and closed the front door behind him before he had recovered from the amazement into which the rapidity and decisiveness of the movements had thrown him.

"Really, I must beg you to let me go on now," said he, in a low voice, as he made a strong effort to pull himself together, and to resist the pressure which he knew she was going to put upon him to stay.

"And I must beg you to be more reasonable, and not to reject the good fortune the gods send, just because it happens to be offered by a stranger."

"I am afraid I must seem ungracious—" said George quickly, as he put his hand upon the handle of the door. But she, laughing, rather nervously, turned the big key in the lock, and pulling it out in quite a leisurely manner, thrust it into her pocket, and springing, almost at one bound, back to the dining-room door.

"If you say 'no' to a woman, you know," she said as she once more invited him, by a gesture, to enter, "she finds some way of circumventing you after all."

BROKEN DOWN IN HEALTH.
Shouts to Whole World His Cure By Dr. Greene's Nervura.

Andrew H. Olney, Gibson, N. Y., says:—"I was broken down with nervous and physical prostration, before using Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and life was a burden. Now life is a joy and sleep is a luxury compared to it before taking Nervura.

ANDREW H. OLNEY, ESQ.

"I wish I could shout loud enough so all the world could hear, and tell them the good this wonderful medicine has done for me. It has made me from a weak, trembling, nervous irritable man, to one who feels he is on the highway to long years of health and happiness through Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy."

If constipated, use Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills with the Nervura.

Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry work will receive your work.

LOSS OF THE COMETA.

Spaniards Profess To Know Nothing About the Gunboat's Destruction.

Havana, Jan. 25.—The marine authorities here ignore the Cometa affair, and it is impossible to learn from them what, if any, truth there is in the report that that little gunboat has been destroyed by insurgents. The military authorities profess to know nothing of the matter and in this case their professions are believed to be true, for, in view of the antagonism between the naval and military authorities, it is considered that if the latter were in possession of facts detrimental to the navy they would not hesitate to make them known to the general public. From other than official sources it is learned, however, that the reports that have already reached the United States anent the loss of the gunboat are probably correct. The official reports give the details of a number of engagements between the government forces and rebels in the provinces of Santa Clara, Havana, and Pinar del Rio. According to these reports the troops were uniformly victorious. The rebel losses in the various engagements are placed at 37 killed, a large number wounded and two captured. The insurgent camps, prefecturas and over a hundred huts were destroyed. Many families who had taken refuge in the woods were found by the troops and taken into the towns. The Spaniards say their losses were four killed and a lieutenant colonel, three captains, three lieutenants and sixty-one privates more or less severely wounded. Notwithstanding the recent announcement of the "pacification" of Pinar del Rio the official reports show that the greater number of the engagements referred to took place in that province, which is pretty good evidence that the rebels are still conducting their operations there. The most important of the several fights took place near Guines, province of Havana, where the troops met the rebel parties led by Castillo and Delgado.

SIAM NOT SO STIFF-NECKED.

Arrival of the Machias at Bangkok Alters Her Attitude Toward Us.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The arrival of the United States gunboat Machias at Bangkok, Siam, because of an attack by Siamese soldiers on United States Deputy Consul Kellett, has already had the effect of materially altering Siam's attitude toward this country. This is proven by the fact that Siam is now making efforts to secure the arbitration of the claim of an American named Cheek against Siam for $200,000 for violation of a contract concerning the cutting of teak wood, about which Siam has along been stiff-necked, refusing absolutely to admit the justice of the claim. As to the attack upon the deputy consul, there is now no doubt that Siam will make a suitable apology.

Tax on Aliens in Madagascar.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The new French resident general in Madagascar has laid a tax of twenty-five francs upon every male Asiatic and Ethopian over 18 years of age in the island, and they must register January 1 each year. Additional taxes are also levied on the business callings of those aliens. By another sweeping decree all callings have been classified for taxation, the only exemptions being in the cases of salaried employes of the state, school teachers, artists, certain manufacturers and concessionaries.

Imitating Bryan's Book.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Judge Horton has granted an injunction against a Philadelphia publishing house to prevent an imitation of W. J. Bryan's new book. Of late another Bryan book has appeared. While the title page does not say it was written by Mr. Bryan, the display of words, in large and small type is such, it is said, as to convey that impression. The title is "The Great Battle." Attorney Newman said that similar injunctions would be asked for in every city where an attempt is made to sell the book.

First Shipment of Cuban Tobacco.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—The first lot of Cuban tobacco to arrive since the Weyler edict of last May forbidding its export reached Chicago Saturday consigned to a local firm that has a plantation in Cuba. The firm got forty-one bales of fillers out of the country after six months of petitioning for a permit from the Spanish authorities.

AGAINST SOCIALISM

Emperor William To Return to a Policy of Repression.

REGRETS THE LINE HE TOOK IN '89

The Influence Exercised by Religion on Socialism—Germany Will Support the Sultan of Turkey in His Financial Plans.

(Copyright, 1897, by the United Associated Presses.)

Berlin, Jan. 25.—The emperor's allusion at a recent court dinner to the reported existence of a court cabal, and his statement that he knew nothing of any such clique as has been said to exist, do not alter the fact that besides his majesty's public ministerial council he has his all-potent private advisers. The influence of General von Hahnke appears now in the ascendant with the kaiser, who has on several recent occasions dined his chief of the military cabinet alone, a distinguished mark of imperial favor and confidence. General von Hahnke's ascendency implies much. It means the active prosecution of the plans for increased armaments, and in the sphere of internal politics (for Hahnke is no mere professional soldier) it also means a return to a policy of repression of liberal ideas and especially of socialism. It is known that the kaiser has for some time past regretted the line he took in 1889 in endeavoring to reconcile the radical workingmen. He finds that they will not be placated on any terms but their own, and that his efforts at reconciliation have been taken as a proof of weakness on his part. In going back to a policy of restriction, of which the Umsturz bill in the reichstag was an instance, the kaiser will have the heartiest support from the Hahnke circle.

Effect of Religion on Socialism.

There is good reason for expecting a government measure in the landtag, proposing such amendments to the existing common laws, as will supply the Prussian authorities with ample means to counteract the still growing socialist propaganda. The law touching political organizations, rights of meeting and press criticisms of public men or events, is to be "amended," and the severest repression resorted to. The composition of the landtag renders these proposals more likely of acceptance by the landtag than was accorded by the reichstag to the Umsturz bill. Apropos of the spread of socialism, a socialist review, Die Neue Zeit of Stuttgart, publishes a statistical table on the influence exercised by religion on the development of socialism. The figures as given show that in every case where Catholicism is dominant socialism has the smallest relative number of adherents. In Hamburg, for instance, where the numerical majority is Protestant, the socialists hold 59.3 per cent. of the suffrage. In districts as in Hesse, where the Catholics form an important minority, the socialist vote descends to 24 per cent. and in districts such as Posen, a Catholic province, there are only 3 per cent. of socialist votes. Centrist papers draw the inference that the Catholic religion offers a greater resisting force to the growth of anarchistic ideas than the Protestant, and ergo, that the government in combatting socialism ought to recognize its best ally in the party of the centre.

Turkish Finances.

The kaiser is understood to have consulted Minister Niquel on the question of Turkish finances, especially in the light of the recent report of Sir Edgar Vincent, president of the Imperial Ottomon bank. The result has confirmed the kaiser in his determination to support the sultan in his project of a council of finance composed of Turks and Europeans appointed by the sultan himself, and not as desired by Lord Salisbury, under European control. The conclusion of the Vincent report that Turkey will soon be financially sound and prosperous, under even moderately good administration, is now the official German conclusion. The kaiser appears still to rely on the sultan as being desirous to obtain an honest and effective administration. Immediate developments in the east will tend to disprove the generally accepted notion that German interest in and influence upon Turkish matters, are only of a minor character. Upon this all important and initial question of financial reform, the sultan, with the support of Germany, will have his way. German policy, adroitly passive regarding Armenia, has been equally adroit on the leading question before the ambassadorial conferences. One result of this agreement between the kaiser and the sultan will be seen in increased concessions to German subjects, who now hold the concession for Anatolian railways, supply the officials who operate them, and get the principal contracts for arms and muntions.

BASKET BALL.

The business men of the local association will play the team from the Cranford Athletic Club in this city on the evening of February 1st.

Charles E. A. Heywood, physical director of the Plainfield, Y. M. C. A., went to New York Saturday night to unpire the basket ball game between the team from the 23d Street branch of the New York Y. M. C. A. and the team from the Summitt Association, at New York.

The basket-ball team from the business men's class in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium will make its debut tomorrow night in a regular match with the team from the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. The Elizabeth team has only played one other game but they are confident that the business men of Plainfield cannot defeat them at the game. The Plainfield players are of the contrary opinion and as they are a strong team, the fight will be an exciting one. The game will be played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium of this city. The same evening the regular team from the association in this city will go to Brooklyn and meet the team from the 26th Ward branch of the Brooklyn Y. M. C A.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Plainfield Athletic Club is now taking steps to reorganize its baseball team for this season, and has signed most of its players. Among those who will play is Billy Symons, who played first base for the Y. M. C. A.'s last season. He will cover this same position with the P. A. C.'s. Fred Winn will pitch again and Jack Moran will cover short. The team will also be strengthened by Jack Hickman, who played last season with the Bordentown Club. He has also played with the Trenton and Cape May teams and other good clubs. The club has been asked to join the New Jersey State League now being formed. One of the projectors of the League will attend the meeting of the P. A. C. next week and explain matters. Whether the club joins the League or not, they will endeavor to put a first-class team in the field.

WHIST.

The game which was to be played this evening between the whist four of the Park Club and the team from the Princeton Whist Club for the challenge trophy offered by the Park Club, has been postponed until Wednesday evening on account of the illness of one of the local team.

The fifteenth match of the season for the American Whist League challenge trophy was played at Albany Saturday between the Albany Chess and Whist Club challengers and the Albany Club holders, at the latters clubhouse. Forty-eight deals were played, the result being in favor of the Albany Club by a score of twenty-three tricks to eighteen.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Plainfield Catholic Club bowling team will go to Newark this evening and bowl the Institute team of that city.

A movement to form a two men bowling tournament is now on foot and all interested in the plan are requested to attend the meeting at the Ulrich bowling alleys on East Second street, this evening.

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jone, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says, that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

PASSING COMMENT.

Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, related an amusing incident in his sermon last evening. He said that a wife had been asked how far her husband had progressed in the study of the Bible.

"Oh," she replied, "he's graduated from the Bible to the Sunday newspapers now."

A rather amusing story is told of one of the applicants for the position of policeman. He was told to appear at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium for examination and he was on hand at the appointed hour. The doctor at once saw that the man was very strong and seemed to be well proportioned, which gave him a favorable impression. According to the rules each man is obliged to remove his clothing for examination. When this applicant complied with the rules it was learned that he had on four shirts which accounted for his robust appearance. It is needless to say that the man was not favorably considered.

There has always been a deal of good natured railery about the sons of the Emerald Isle securing positions on the metropolitan police force before setting sail from the "ould soil," but an instance of this is almost equalled in the case of an applicant for an appointment on the police force of this city under the new administration. When the time arrived for an examination of this particular candidate, an attempt was made to find him but it was unsuccessful and one of his relatives was told what was wanted of him.

"Oh, yes," replied the kin, "he is up home in Hunterdon county. I'll send for him this very minute."

New York has its society of women who favor the adoption of the short skirt as a street dress, and, while Plainfield has no such society, she has some devotees of that theory just the same. Yesterday, while the snow was coming down steadily and a big storm seemed sure, several of Plainfield's young women appeared on the streets on their way to Sunday-school in skirts that came to the tops of their shoes. While their sisters were wrestling with their own skirts, trying to keep them off the wet and snowy sidewalk, the sensible ones walked on comfortably and easily without playing the part of snow sweepers. It is an idea of the new woman, and a sensible one, too.

When you have lost an article and want to obtain possession of it again there is nothing that will aid its return half so quick as a notice in the cent-a-word column of The Press. Day after day evidences of this are shown, but last Saturday a particularly efficacious case was brought to notice. Last New Year's day a valuable lady's gold watch was lost and the next day advertised in this paper. Now it happens that H. M. Johns, of Division street, is a regular reader of The Press and when he finishes with the papers each week he forwards them to his friend, James McCready, of Raritan, who also takes delight in perusing its columns, advertisements and all. It seems that the watch was found by the latter but he did not know to whom it belonged untill two weeks after he was looking through the columns of The Press when he noticed the advertisement for the watch. Saturday, Mr. McCready came to this city, and the watch was delivered to the rightful owner.

THIS COON IS A FIGHTER.

STOOD OFF FIFTY MEN AND A DOZEN DOGS IN A HUNT.

Finally Put in a Stall With a Single Dog and the Latter Gave In After a Few Swipes From the Animal.

Nearly every man and boy in Avon Park and some from this city were up at Campbell's club-house at Avon Park, Saturday afternoon, to attend the grand 'coon hunt that had been arranged for that time. Edward Campbell and some friends captured several of those little animals last week and it was their intention to release the coons on Saturday for a hunt. The dogs of the neighborhood were pressed into service to chase the raccoons.

The animal was released early in the afternoon and after he had a good start, the dogs were allowed to follow while the crowd of men and boys, numbering in all about fifty, followed on foot. The 'coon ran in the direction of his old home in Dark Lane and, for a few moments, threw the dogs off the scent. They found it after a hunt and the chase grew exciting. The animal was finally found in a tree and snared. He was then allowed to go in a neighboring field.

The dogs followed, but the 'coon began to get angry and turned to fight the dogs. Now the raccoon has a peculiar way of fighting, for instead of standing on his feet or sitting up, he lays on his back and waits for the attack when he uses his sharp claws with great effect on the necks and breasts of the attacking dogs. When the 'coon was brought to bay, the dogs formed a circle around the animal and growled and snapped at the 'coon, but without avail. At last one dog, braver than the rest, made a plunge at the 'coon, only to have his throat almost slit open. The men then tried to capture the 'coon with a forked stick. That was too much for the patience of Mr. Raccoon and he started for Ed Campbell, who was one of the group. Mr. Campbell fled with the 'coon in full pursuit. The dogs saw him go and joined in the chase. The coon took to a tree, and Campbell escaped just as he was preparing to climb a tree with unusual rapidity.

The coon was captured the second time and then released for another chase after which he was brought down to the club house for safe keeping. One of the men in the party had a dog that he wanted to back against the raccoon and both were put in a stall together. It only took the coon half a minute to convince his opponent that he had had all he wanted and the dog left in a hurry, bleeding from several wounds that he had received in the short conflict.

Mr. Campbell now has three coons in captivity and one of them will be released next Saturday afternoon for another hunt.

POLICE APPLICANTS EXAMINED.

So Many of Them That They Are Divided Into Squads.

There has been a great many applicants for the position of policeman on the regular force and the number has been so large that the men have been divided into squads. Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, the examining physician, has already examined two squads and there yet remains one to be examined. This new order of things has developed one thing and that is there are very few men who are qualified to become policemen. According to the rules a man must not be under 25 years or over 35 years as a first consideration. Several applicants have shown themselves to be weak hearted which is one of the worst failings they could have. Others have displayed a weakness in some other particular. The examination is a very thorough one and tends to bring out the best material available in the city, which will give Plainfield an excellent police department if nothing else. The last examination will take place this week, and then the result will be submitted to Mayor Fisk for consideration. There is no doubt but what there will be some surprises when the public learn the result of this preliminary work.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE

GOVERNOR GRIGGS DID NOT NAME A SECRETARYY OF STATE.

The Bicycle Bill Progresses—Commissioners Appointed to Bring About Uniformity of Legislation Make a Report.

Governor Griggs increased the suspense with reference to the filling of the position of Secretary of State by sending no names to the Senate last night. There is just as much uncertainty as ever to who will be chosen, but the conviction is growing stronger that Senator Stokes is not to get the place. The Cumberland Senator does not give up, however, and says he will stay in the contest until the appointment is made.

State Consul Kircker of the New Jersey Division, L. A. W., was at the State House and obtained the fixing of Tuesday, February 2d, as a date when the House Committee on Railroads and Canals will give a public hearing on Assemblyman Gledhill's bill providing that bicycles shall be carried on railroads free as baggage when the owner is a passenger.

The House, last night, passed Senator Ketcham's bill making it unnecessary for the Law Judge of a county to sit with a Supreme Court Justice in a murder trial. Heretofore both Judges had to sit. The change is desired because it takes up too much time of the County Judge, which is needed to give proper attention to other trials.

No other bill was passed by either House, but a big batch of bills were introduced in each body. The more important were anti-trust bills by Senator Daly, which prohibits combinations to restrict trade; a bill by Senator Reed, reducing the legal rate of interest from 6 to 5 per cent.; a bill by Senator Johnson to better enable the Riparian Commissioners to prevent the destruction of the Palisades by the blasting of rock.

Assemblyman Lloyd, of Camden, introduced his bill providing for a marriage license law. Several attempts have been made at this kind of legislation, but all previous efforts have failed.

Each time the bill has been brought up it has been opposed by clergymen. There are a great many in New Jersey who claim that the present free and easy method of assuming marriage obligations is a disgrace.

The bills relating to marriage licenses that the moralists have favored have differed materially each year. These marriages are of a promiscuous sort. The records show that about 4,000 couples come to New Jersey annually from other States to wed—the majority from New York. It is probably for this reason that the bill introduced last year was to control the marriages of those from other States.

Assemblyman Lloyd has not yet announced just what the particular provisions of his bill this year will be.

There are only four other States in the Union that have no marriage license law.

The New Jersey Commissioners appointed to bring about uniformity of legislation in the United States made their report at the session of the Senate last night, at the same time submitting a draft of a bill relating to negotiable instruments.

The bill has been agreed upon at Saratoga by the Commissioners representing twenty-seven States, and is based to a large extent upon the British Instrumente act of 1882, which is now enforced in every English-speaking country but our own. It does not change materially the present laws of the State.

A similar bill will be introduced in New York, Massachussetts, Connecticut and other States. It was drawn up by John J. Crawford, of New York, and was approved by M. D. Chalmers, now in India, who drew up the English measure.

Mrs. Kleinecke's Tea.

A most charming afternoon tea was given yesterday by Mrs. Auguste Kleinecke, of Franklin place in honor of her friends, Miss Wheeler of New York, and Miss Ewing of Philadelphia, Mrs. Kleineck and her mother, Mrs. Depew, assisted by the guests of honor, received in the parlor. In the dining room Mrs. Stuart Patterson and Mrs. Harry Depew presided at the table, which was exquisetely decorated with red carnations, red candles and shades with smilax hung from the chandelier. Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Depew were assisted by Mrs. Clay and the Misses Huntington, Yerkes and Patton.

Stealing Papers.

For some time past those in charge of the Public Library have been annoyed a great deal with people who persist in taking both the local and New York paper from the reading room. If the guilty person is caught it will not be well for them.

SUPPORT FOR THE HOSPITAL

AMOUNTS GIVEN BY CHURCHES.

Entertainment Similar to the Kirmess to be Held in the Future.

A regular meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital was held last evening, when chiefly routine business was transacted. The members discussed the advisability of holding an entertainment similar to the kirmess which was held a year ago, and it is quite likely that such an affair will be held. However, nothing definite was decided upon.

E. H. Ladd, Jr., the treasurer, submitted a report of the money received from the various churches in Plainfield. The report is as follows:

All Souls' church, $13.17; St. Mary's church, $40; Grace P. E. church, $76.14; Crescent Avenue church, $153.15; Seventh-day Baptist church, $16.31; Congregational church, $21.77; total, $320.55.

There are one or two churches yet to hear from, and it is expected that all the money will be received in a short time.

DEATH TRAP IS THIS BRIDGE.

FEW SEE THE DANGER WARNING.

Sign is Weather Beaten and Letters Almost Obscured.

Somebody is negligent or else the bridge over Bound Brook to New Brunswick would not be in its present condition, a menace to all travellers along that road who do not know the country very well. The bridge is a wooden structure, never very strong in its best days. Last fall it was condemned by the proper authorities of Somerset county and a new iron structure ordered build. It was deemed too late in the winter to have the change made then and it took some time to secure the proper iron girders for the bridge. So a small sign board was laced on the bridge with the inscription, "This bridge has been condemned and all persons crossing it do so at their own risk." The sign was placed on the side of the bridge where it might be noticed by the drivers if they chanced to look that way. At night, of course, it cannot be seen without getting a lantern and examining the bridge closely. Now that it has occupied that position for several months the board, on which the sign is lettered with a black crayon, has grown weather-stained and the lettering has grown faint until it is hard to read. There is no other method of warning the traveller of the danger in crossing the bridge and accidents are extremely liable to happen every time a heavy wagon rattles over the bridge. There is another road by which wagons and carriages can reach Bound Brook and those acquainted with the condition of the bridge usually take it, but to the stranger the danger is great. The material for the new bridge has arrived but the contractor is waiting for the weather to moderate before beginning work; meanwhile the danger remains.

SAID NOT GUILTY, BUT CONVICTED.

A Dunellen Young Man Sent to Jail For Three Months.

John Papp, 20 years old, of 1004 Forest avenue, New York, and John W. Johnson, 21 years old, of Dunellen, who were arrested on December 11, for stealing goods from their employers, Schieffelin & Co., wholesale druggist at 170 William street, New York, were tried yesterday in Special Sessions. Papp pleaded guilty and was sentenced by Presiding Justice Jerome to thirty days in the City Prison. Johnson pleaded not guilty, but, the evidence being strongly strongly against him, he was convicted and was sentenced to three months in the penitentiary.

The Rev. Dr. W. S. Rainsford sent a written request to the Court asking lenity for Papp. He said he had known him for some time and believed he had been punished sufficiently.

Schieffelin & Co. reported that thefts still continue.

Cut Himself With an Axe.

Zacharirh Wilson, of Harmony street, met with a a painful accident yesterday afternoon while cutting wood at his home. With the axe raised in the air it caught in the clothes line, and in the attempt to get it loose it struck Mr. Wilson in the forehead, inflicting a deep wound. A physician was sought and it was found necessary to take several stitches in the cut. No serious results are anticipated from the injury.

RUMORS OF BIG DEALS.

ACROSS THE STATE BY TROLLEY LINES SOON TO BE THE THING.

Links to be Completed that Will Connect Jersey City and Phiadelphia—Many of the Obstacles are Disappearing.

It is reported that within a few months the links in the chain of trolley roads across the State of New Jersey will be completed, so that one may ride from Jersey City to Philadelphia. It is said by one who ought to know, that a Philadelphia syndicate had bought the rights of way and franchises of the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company, which had almost a complete catenation, passing through or touching all the important cities and towns in the State, and that one of the links, connecting Bound Brook with New Brunswick, is now in process of construction by the Raritan Construction Company. This line, it is stated, will be extended to Perth Amboy.

From Bound Brook the line, as originally laid out by the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company, passes through Millstone, Kingston and Rocky Hill to Princeton, and thence to Trenton. East of Rahway the trolley system is complete from Elizabeth to Jersey City.

The New York and Philadelphia Traction Company had the consent of property owners to connect Rahway with Elizabeth via St. George avenue or Westfield avenue, but the Union County Board of Freeholders would not grant the franchise over the county roads, either by St. George avenue or Westfield avenue, which latter avenue would connect Rahway with Westfield. The county roads are macadamized, and are pronounced to be the finest in the country.

This action broke the connection, as it cut out a most important link. If the company could have reached Moffatt's Hotel, one mile north of Rahway, in Westfield avenue, it would have been all right, but the franchise was not granted. Several months ago a company organized in Elizabeth secured the right of way to connect that city with Rahway via Elizabeth avenue, which runs on the North side of and parallel with the Pennsylvania Railroad, about 200 yards distant from it.

It is said that when they apply for the franchise they will get it, as this road is not macadamized. It is stated that this section will be constructed in the coming spring, and then, with the completion of the other sections above referred to, the main arterial trolley system in New Jersey will be complete.

There are various companies in the line, but it is believed that in one of these great corporations or syndicates will, at some time not very remote, be the unifying power that will control the united trolley lines of New Jersey.

PRIMARY TEACHERS UNION.

Ideas For Sunday-School Instruction Propounded in a Novel Way.

Miss Rocap led the devotional exercises and taught the lesson at the meeting of the Primary Teachers' Union, held yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. building. The lesson was on the subject "The Boldness of Peter and John," and Miss Rocap illustrated it by telling a story of a rich man who had an only son who enlisted and went to war. As time went on and the son did not come back, the father gave his servant instructions that whenever a soldier came to the door he must give him something to eat. One day a soldier called at the house carrying a paper for the rich man. On investigation it proved to be a message from the long lost son, and he had sent it through his soldier friend. And thus, the speaker said, we must come to our Father through His son Jesus Christ.

The topic for discussion was "Shall we have sub-divided classes?" The discussion was quite general and some were of the opinion that there should be, while others thought differently. The question was not decided unanimously by the members.

A Southerner to Preach.

Rev. Dr. Theodore L. Gardner, president of Salem College, West Virginia, will occupy the pulpit of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Saturday morning. Rev. Dr. Gardner is a brother of Mrs. W. H. Rogers, of Fifth street and Central avenue, and during his stay in this city he will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers.

To be Flower Stores.

There has been considerable wonderment as to who was going to occupy the little stores recently erected by Justice Vincent W. Nash on Park avenue near the Revere House. They have both been rented to Mrs. Volkman, who now runs her florist's establishment on the Crescent block on Watchung avenue.

DANCE DEFIED THE COLD

SECOND OF THE SUBSCRIPTION DANCES A SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR.

Though Without it Was Bleak and Freezing, the Casino Was the Scene of a Party Where Terpsichore Held Sway.

While the cold wind rattled the bare branches of the trees and the mercury fell dangerously near the zero point last night, it was a very different scene in the Casino of the Union County Country Club. The second of the subscription dances, which take the place of the Assemblies this year, was being held. The room was tastefully arranged for the occasion as a drawing room with soft upholstered chairs, sofas, rugs, and the like. Soft cushions covered the window seats in the alcoves while the electric lights that line the walls at intervals were shaded with pink tissue paper, casting a soft glow over the dancers as they whirled and glided in graceful movement around the room.

The following patronesses received: Mrs. Orville T. Waring, Mrs. James T. Scott, Mrs. William L. Saunders, Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman, Mrs. John B. Dumont, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. John Doull Miller and Mrs. William J. Roome.

Among those present were: Miss Grace Cooley, Miss Gertrude Baker, Miss Wharton, of Pittsburg; the Misses Holly, Miss Holly, of New York; Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, the Misses Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Depew, Mr. and Mrs. Kleinek, Miss Bessie Gina, Miss Smock, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Saunders, Miss Hall, Miss VanBoskerek, Mrs. Orville T. Waring, the Misses Waring, Mrs. John Doul Miller, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Miss Hun tington, Mr. Ames, Edward M. VanBoskerck, F. R. Fish, Jr., Lambert Fish, Clarence Peck, Siegfried Arens and Frank Frost.

Elliot, of New York, furnished the music. The stage was fitted up like the rest of the room but the orchestra, instead of being there, was placed on the floor in front, surrounded with a partial screen of palms and potted plants.

Dinner, one of Max Wiertz's best, was served at midnight, after which the dancing continued until an early hour this morning.

The dances are under the direction of Clifton Wharton, Jr., Orville G. Waring, Howard Huntington, Harry V. Borden and Howard W. Beebe. Mr. Wharton and Mr. Borden were not present last evening.

MINSTREL TICKETS NOW ON SALE.

Great Demand for Seats to Witness the Crescent's Efforts.

The Crescent Wheelmen's minstrel show, which is to be held at Music Hall next Tuesday evening promises to be a great success, as far as the audience is concerned, at any rate, judging from the way that the tickets for the show are selling. They were put on sale this morning at Mallinson's drug store, on North avenue, opposite the station, and there was a crowd of buyers as soon as the sale began. The commuters stopped on their way to the train so as to be sure of good seats. A large number of the seats have been sold already and many are sure to go tonight to those who forgot to stop this morning. Those who want to get tickets will pay a visit to Mallinson's drug store at once if they want any tickets.

Councilmanic Conference.

There will be an informal meeting of the City Council on Saturday evening to discuss the city treasurership matter. This plan was adopted for the reason that the Council will hold its regular meeting next Monday evening, at which time the election of a new treasurer will take place. It now looks as though there was going to be a grand rush for the office.

AMERICAN PURITY ALLIANCE.

Resolutions Adopted Calling for a Stronger Enforcement of Law.

The American Purity Alliance held its twenty-first annual meeting at the United Charities building, in New York, last evening. President Aaron M. Powell read a paper by Elbridge T. Gerry, President of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, on "Prevention." An address of Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell was read by the Assistant Secretary. Addresses were also made by Rev. Dr. S. H. Virgin, Rev. Dr. W. T. Sabine, Rev. Dr. S. S. Seward, Samuel C. Blackwell, and Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, of Plainfield.

Resolutions were adopted protesting against the licensing and legalizing of social vice as a menace to the home; demanding that the prevalent tendency to sensuous appeal and improper display in connection with social and dramatic entertainments of a certain type should be subjected to increase restraint; that the alleged outrageous disregard of decency at a recent dinner in New York calls for a full investigation by the proper authorities and legal punishment of the chief agents.

Aaron M. Powell was re-elected president. The list of vice-presidents is headed by the Rev. Dr. William N. McVickar of Pennsylvania. The Recording Secretary is Mrs. Naomi Lawton Davis, 576 Lexington avenue, New York; corresponding secretary, Anna Rice Powell, Plainfield, and treasurer, Elizabeth Gay, West New Brighton, N. Y.

CRANFORD CASINO GONE.

The Intense Cold Interferes With the Work of Firemen.

The Cranford Casino was burned to the ground last night. The fire started from a defective flue, and owing to the high wind soon had the entire building wrapped in flames. The firemen did the best they could, but it was impossible to save the building. The water from the nozzles froze almost as soon as it left them, and the firemen were hampered greatly in their movements by the ice, which formed on them and also on the hose. The building was occupied by the Cranford Country Club. It was a new structure and had been fitted up with all the latest improvements. The building and furnishings cost $15,000.

ICY TEARS TO FOLLOW

A SNOWSTORM PREDICTED TO END THE FRIGID SEASON.

But in the Meantime Jack Frost and Old Boreas Are in League and All the Country Hovers Near the Warmth.

Old Boreas and Jack Frost are evidently in league against the rest of the world and, at present, they are having things about their own way. While yesterday was colder than any other day this winter, today is the record breaker for 1897. Jack Frost had a good grip on the mercury yesterday and he did not relax it in the slightest. The mercury managed to reach the 20° mark early in the afternoon, but Jack Frost was on the alert and at 6 o'clock in the evening it had fallen to 10° above zero. Four hours later the thermometer registered 6° above zero, while Boreas was enjoying himself by raising a gale that almost took the lonely pedestrian, who struggled along the street against its biting blasts, off his feet.

The face of the coal dealer was wreathed in smiles as he stood in front of the fire and rubbed his hands after a day of lively work. Everybody had forgotten that they needed coal until the furnaces began to eat it up so rapidly in their efforts to drive out the advance agents of the dual combination. The ice dealer also settled near the fire with a satisfied expression on his face. The day had been a hard one, but the results extremely satisfactory. The ice was being cut as fast as possible and it was freezing every minute.

There was trouble in some homes, however, for the supply of coal was short and there were no funds to procure any more with. The last cent had gone to buy coal to drive out the biting cold; but still the frosty arms of the invaders crept in at every crack and canny. Shawls, blankets and comfortables were brought out, and the little ones hurried shivering to their bed, to be wrapped up in the blankets to protect them from the cold, which was fast gaining mastery of the fire.

Early in the morning the waning moon came out and looked on the scene. The mercury had given up to the powerful Jack Frost and hovered dangerously near the zero point. Early this morning, the thermometer registered six degrees above zero. At Somerville, six degrees below zero is reported.

The cold wave extends all over the country from one side to the other, only a small portion of Florida escaping the chilly combination which reigned elsewhere. While there are no signs of a speedy breaking up of the cold wave, the weather forecasters are confident that the power of Boreas, the mighty north wind, will be broken today.

When Jack Frost loses his old ally, he will become discouraged and gradually release his grasp. The bright skies will become cloudy and weep icy tears at the defeat of the dual combination. According to the weather bureau, the predicted snow storm will reach here about Thursday, accompanied by high winds.

The Wife Gets Some Attention.

Plainfield is exceedingly fortunate in being able to secure Leon H. Vincent, the well-known lecturer, to come to this city to deliver a course of lectures. Those who have heard him in the course of lectures that he gave at the Plainfield High School, several years ago, were much pleased and will be only too glad of another opportunity to hear this pleasing and entertaining speaker. The first of his lectures will be given on Thursday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. hall, beginning at four o'clock. His subject will be "Carlyle and His Wife." The course is given under the auspices of the Daughters of the Cross.

Silk Mills Almost Finished.

The silk mills at Stirling, belonging to H. A. Streuli, of this city, are almost completed, but work is now at a standstill on account of the extremely cold weather. The buildings are about completed and as soon as the weather moderates the work will be continued. They will probably be completed in about two weeks.

Collided in the Road.

James Coddington, of Mt. Horeb, and Gus Baldwin, of Washingtonville, had a collision the other night on Somerset street while they were driving in opposite directions. An axle and the shafts on Mr. Coddington's wagon were broken. Mr. Baldwin promised to stand good for all damages.

GREAT SUFFERING IN THE WEST

Chicago Takes Measures To Relieve Her Thousands of Unfortunates --- Many Persons Overcome by the Cold and Some Frozen to Death.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The barometer has risen from the lower lake region southward to the east gulf coast and it has fallen in all other districts. It continues highest north of Montana and is decidedly lower in the St. Lawrence valley. The temperature has fallen decidedly in the southern and middle Atlantic states, and it has risen slowly in the Missouri and upper Mississippi valley and over the greater portion of the lake regions. It continues below zero as far south as the Ohio valley and it is below freezing on the Texas coast and generally in the interior of the gulf states. The temperature will continue low, but will rise slowly in the states of the central and upper Mississippi valley. It will be much colder on the southern Atlantic and east gulf coasts with freezing weather in northern Florida to-night. Throughout the Ohio valley and the lake region the prevailing cold wave has been accompanied by lower temperatures than any previously recorded by the weather bureau for this season of the year. Following are some minimum temperatures reported on the 25th with their relation to the lowest previous recorded during the last ten days of January, viz: Chicago—20 degrees, 3 degrees below; Indianapolis—14, 3 degrees below; Cincinnati—14, 3 degrees below; Pittsburg—8, 3 degrees below; Detroit—14, 6 degrees below; Sault Ste. Marie—18, 6 degrees below.

SUFFERING IN CHICAGO.

Many People Without Fuel or Homes—Some Frozen to Death.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—The people of Chicago, in bodies and as individual citizens, have been aroused to take prompt and generous action for the relief of two score thousand destitute inhabitants, whose suffering for want of fuel, food and clothing has reached an extreme stage as result of the terrible cold wave which came upon the city Saturday, increasing in intensity until last night it reached the lowest point officially recorded in a quarter of a century—20 degress below zero. Only once in the history of the bureau—December 24, 1872, 23 below—has the temperature fallen lower. Mayor Swift has issued a proclamation appealing in urgent language to all citizens who have the means to spare, to contribute at once money and supplies to prevent the starvation and freezing of unfortunate thousands, and many responses have been received. All police stations have been thrown open to the homeless, and last night everyone was crowded with refugees from the freezing air. The mayor's proclamation is the first of the kind to be issued in twenty-five years. The worst and most numerous cases of suffering were reported from South Chicago and Lensington. Many persons have been overcome with cold and several were frozen to death.

OF NO SIGNIFICANCE

Liliuokalani's Call on the President Purely Personal.

RESTORATION WAS NOT MENTIONED

Did, However, Thank President Cleveland for Withdrawing the Harrison Annexation Treaty---Mrs. Cleveland Was Out.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The visit paid by ex-Queen Liliuokalani to President Cleveland yesterday was entirely in formal and was so designated in the note sent by the deposed monarch to the president, requesting the privilege of calling, and the answer of the latter granting it. Joseph Helelule, the agent and secretary of Liliuokalani and Julius N. Palmer of Boston, the American friend who accompanied her to Washington, went to the White House with an autograph note from the ex-queen addressed to the president. She asked merely that he receive her informally in a personal capacity, basing the request on the ground that it was a custom in her country for the head of the government to receive foreign visitors of distinction. Shortly after this the president sent a note to Mr. Helelule appointing 3 o'clock as the hour at which he would be pleased to have her call. At the appointed time ex Queen Liliuokalani, Miss Kia Nahaolelena, her companion-in-waiting; Mr. Helelule and Mr. Palmer drove up to the White House in a carriage and were immediately shown to the blue room. The ex-queen was tastefully dressed. The greeting between the president and the former queen was extremely cordial. Mr. Cleveland, entering the room, advanced with outstretched hand and as he grasped that of Liliuokalani, he said: "I am very glad you thought of calling on me." The president invited the ex-queen and her companions to be seated, and then entered into a pleasant conversation with the former. They talked about the death of Minister Willis, and the ex-queen spoke of him in words of praise. There was nothing said about restoration, but Liliuokalani took occasion to thank the president for his withdrawal of the treaty of annexation sent to the senate by President Harrison four years ago.

Mrs. Cleveland Was Out.

When Liliuokalani inquired about Mrs. Cleveland's health, the president remarked that she had been preparing to go out as he came down stairs, but he would ascertain whether she was in or not. He called a messenger, who informed him that Mrs. Cleveland had gone out walking a few minutes before. These things formed the bulk of the conversation, which was informal and personal from begining to end. The call lasted about fifteen minutes, and, after making their adieus to the president, Liliuokalani and her attendants went out into the freezing atmosphere again and entered their carriage. They were driven immediately to the Shoreham, where the party are stopping. "The queen was received delightfully," said Mr. Palmer to a reporter of the United Associated Presses. "Her reception could not have been pleasanter, and the president showed himself to be a most agreeable and kindly gentleman." Mr. Palmer said that no plans had been made for Liliuokalani's future movements. He did not know how long she would remain in Washington. This is the second time Liliuokalani has seen President Cleveland. Ten years ago she accompanied the then queen Kapeolani, her sister-in-law and the consort of King Kalakaua, on a visit to the United States. They were received officially by Mr. Cleveland, then serving his first term, and were shown many official courtesies while here. Although many persons sent their cards up to her apartments, after her return from the White House, a few only succeded in seeing her. One of these was Mr. Morgan, treasurer of the United States. Mr. Morgan is of high degree in the Masonic fraternity, and he came to pay his respects to the ex-queen as the widow of Gen. Dominis, who was a thirty-third degree mason.

STREAMS LIGHT TOWNS.

Electric Plants Run by Melting Snow in Switzerland.

Besides a considerable number of large water-power installations, Switzerland is full of small power plants, nearly every town in that land of mountains and water-falls being well supplied with power from the "white coal," as the melting snow on the mountain sides has well been called, says an exchange. When there are no large streams, many small ones are impounded and collected in reservoirs on the hillsides, and it is rare to find a place of any size which is not well lighted by the power of some mountain stream.

At Montreaux, says a London paper, the electric tramway gets its power in this way, and from the old Roman town of Vevey to the mediaeval castle of Chillon one may ride in a trolley car propelled by the power of an insignificant little stream, which may or may not be noticed in climbing up the hillside just above.

The capabilities of this general utilization of natural power are beginning to be understood everywhere, and with the appreciation of the possibilities of the best methods of long-distance transmission the development of many mountain streams must surely come. There are innumerable streams which, while very small, are yet very high, and these can with comparatively little difficulty be impounded and carried down many hundreds of feet, thus making up for their lack of volume by the great pressure readily obtainable, and, either by the use of electricity or compressed air, the power may be transmitted to many points of application with but little loss.

LEGAL FIGHT FOR A BIG CAVE.

Secretary of the Interior to Decide a South Dakota Case.

Litigation, which has been in progress for more than a year for possession of the famous Wind cave, at Chamberlain, S. D., has now reached an interesting stage. McDonald, the man who located the cave before it was surveyed and held it as a squatter, made final proof in June, 1895, claiming the land as agricultural land. A few months later the South Dakota Mining company filed a protest, in which it was alleged that minerals existed on the property.

The register and receiver of the United States land office at Rapid City investigated the matter, and decided in favor of McDonald, as the investigation showed there was no mineral-bearing rock to be found in the place, although colors of placer gold as well as other mineral traces were discovered. The case was then carried to the commissioner of the general land office. He decided that the land was neither agricultural nor mineral, and held for cancellation McDonald's application for a patent.

Both parties are naturally dissatisfied with this sort of a decision, and both have now appealed the case to the secretary of the interior. A decision is awaited with considerable interest, as the cave is equivalent to a fortune to the person who becomes the owner of it.

MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION

Delegates from All Parts of the Country in Session at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Jan. 26.—More than ordinary interest is centered in the second annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers which was called to order this morning at the new Horticultural hall by its president, Theodore C. Search of Philadelphia. This is the first great gathering of business men representing the manufacturing interests which has taken place since McKinley's election, and it is hinted that certain changes in the national policy may result from the interchange of ideas on the subject of protection and commercial intercourse with other nations. This convention, therefore, which represents the manufacturing industries of every state in the union, has a political as well as a commercial significance. Delegates are present from north, south, east and west, and there are nearly 600 members from other states in the city. The convention will take up the business introduced at the last meeting in Chicago in January, 1896, and consider the reports of the different sub-committees appointed by the executive committee. One of th principal reports will be that of the committee appointed to secure such legislation as will create a new member of the cabinet, to be known as the secretary of manufactures.

TO AVOID A RUN.

The National Bank of Pottsdam Forced To Close Its Doors.

Gouverneur, N. Y., Jan. 26.—The National bank at Pottsdam closed its doors late yesterday afternoon. There was no run, but one would have been probable had not this been done. The officials of the bank declare that all the depositors will be paid in full. The true condition of the bank cannot be learned until the bank examiner has made an examination, but it is believed that the statement of the bank officials will be borne out. Among the deposits is one of a thousand dollars of the county money, but the county treasury is amply protected by the bondsmen of the bank. Its capital stock is given as $200,000; surplus, $40,000; undivided profits, 6,000; deposits, $350,000; and loans and discounts, $500,000. The failure, it is said, is due to unfortunate investments made of late.

Clemency for Ensign Coleman.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Ensign N. T. Coleman, recently tried by court martial at Washington for culpable inefficiency and disobedience of orders while acting as naval steel inspector at Harrisburg, was found guilty and sentenced to a year's suspension with loss of twelve numbers. Secretary Herbert has remitted the suspension and ordered him to be reduced six numbers with restoration to duty.

Murderer Denied a Reprieve.

Elmira, N. Y., Jan. 26.—The attorneys for Martin V. Strait, the Elmira murderer, now in Auburn prison under sentence of death by electrocution the week beginning January 31, have received a dispatch from Albany stating that Governor Black refused to grant the reprieve asked for. Papers of appeal have been drawn up and will be filed immediately.

Fined for Discrimination.

Salem, Mass., Jan. 26.—In the district court yesterday, James H. Saul, a barber, was charged with refusing to shave an Armenian, discriminating against him on account of his race, and was fined $10. He appealed. The defence was that the refusal was not on account of the race of the complainant.

The Conemaugh Claim Settled.

London, Jan. 26.—The owners of the tugs which assisted to float the American steamer Conemaugh, which, on her way from Southampton for Hamburg, was aground twice in the Elbe, demanded $3,355 for the work, but a settlement of the claim was effected for $2,060.

CANE FIELDS BURNED

Weyler's Troops Leave Enormous Destruction in Their Wake.

AMERICANS THE HEAVIEST LOSERS

The Principal Sugar Belt of the Island, the Cienfuegos District, in Flames, Matanza and Havana Districts Also on Fire.

Key West, Fla., Jan. 26.—Advices from Havana say that the conflict between the sugar planters and Weyler continues with more bitterness than ever. Both are determined to carry out their purposes, and the unusual spectacle is presented of two contending parties fighting with one another without openly declaring their hostilities. Weyley, on one side, is trying to prevent them from grinding, but without stating it officially, and the planters, on the other, as in defiance to his orders, are boldly initiating their crop. At present only about a dozen sugar estates are already grinding in the several provinces of the island, but many others are making preparations therefor. Weyler, it is declared, has given orders to his troops to burn all the cane fields on their march, and especially of those estates whose owners have declared their intention to grind in spite of his orders, for instance, the "Constancia," belonging to the Marquis of Apezeteguia, who has departed for Spain to complain against Weyler. The consequence is that the principal sugar belt of the island, the Cienfuegos district, is said to be ablaze. Matanzas and Havana districts are also on fire. Over 1,500,000 "arrobas" or quarters of cane have been burned in the "Pilar" estate, near Artemisa.

Americans the Losers.

The damage done can be easily calculated. In the "Constancia" case, the direct sufferers will be Americans, who control a great interest in that property represented by $750,000, loaned on the same by an American syndicate. Of the war nothing much that is new can be said. Weyler continues on his march without deviating from the highways and the railroad lines. Despite the strong column marching with him, he apparently fears to enter the unexplored regions. As he burns and destroys everything in his passage he illuminates his way as if he carried a torch in his hand, and the rebels can easily avoid any encounters with his solid column. Thus it is explained why he has had no encounters with them.

AGAINST FILIBUSTERS.

The U. S. Attorney at Baltimore Will Push All Cases That Come Before Him.

Baltimore, Jan. 26.—United States district attorney William L. Marbury says that the grand jury of the United States district court will be in session next Friday, and if at this time the proper evidence is in his possession, and witnesses are at hand, he will lay before it the cases of Gen. Carlos Roloff, secretary of war of the Cuban provisional government, and Dr. Joseph J. Luis, a compatriot, who are under arrest in New York upon the charge of violating the neutrality laws, the specific charge being the fitting out and sending from Baltimore a filibustering expedition upon the steamer Woodall in July, 1895. Mr. Marbury, in discussing the matter, said: "At present the whole matter is in the hands of Wallace McFarlane, the United States district attorney of New York. He is conducting the preliminary examination and will have entire charge of the matter until the necessary evidence is secured and the attendance of witnesses is assured. The examination thus far develops the fact that the Woodall was purchased and provisioned here and sailed from this city, hence it is more than probable that indictments will be found in this district. If such be the case the accused parties will be brought here for trial. I know that it is the purpose of the president and the attorney general to prevent filibustering to the full extent of the power of the government, and under instructions from the department of justice every case similar to this will be promptly investigated, and all those deemed to be guilty brought to trial."

END OF CUBAN WAR NEAR.

Gen. Garcia Writes That the Spanish Cannot Hold Out Much Longer.

New York, Jan. 26.—A letter received at the Cuban junta from Gen. Calixto Garcia, dated at Santiago de Cuba, states that the Spanish will never attempt to enter that province unless with 7,000 or 8,000 soldiers, and that the insurgents practically own the province. The writer further states that the end of the war is near at hand as the Spanish cannot hold out much longer.

American Citizens Arrested in Cuba.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The president has sent to the senate, in response to a resolution, a list of American citizens, either native born or naturalized, who have been arrested in Cuba since the beginning of the present insurrection, together with the action taken in each case. The arrests number seventy-four. Of these seven have been tried and appeals were taken in two instances from the sentence imposed—those of Sanguilly and Someillen. In the cases of the five Competitor prisoners, a new trial has been ordered. Seven American newspaper correspondents were also arrested and banished.

Candidate for Pension Commissioner.

Albany, Jan. 26.—The name of Harvey G. Ellis of Vermont will soon be presented to President-elect McKinley as a candidate for deputy commissioner of pensions. Mr. Ellis has for several years been a special examiner for the pension bureau in northern New York.

THE TREASURERSHIP.

It is understood that the City Treasurership has been offered to H. O. Newman, and he now has the matter of acceptance under consideration. Mr. Newman is a thoroughly experienced accountant, having long been employed in that capacity with Boice, Runyon & Co. S. R. Struthers, whose name was mentioned in connection with the Republican nomination last December, is also spoke of as a successor to Alex Titsworth. Like Mr. Newman, he is also an experienced accountant. Either one would make a creditable official to handle the funds of the city.

A COMPROMISE PROPOSED.

The railroad companies have decided to seek a compromise for Gledhill's Bicycle Baggage bill. They will ask to be permitted to charge a minimum fee for carriage, and be required to provide cars furnished with suitable racks, while the bicycle owners be required to remove lamps, cyclometers, and other breakable attachments. The companies will also seek to escape responsibility for damage to wheels. The Gledhill bill has been officially indorsed by the New Jersey division officers, and all members of the L. A. W. have been called upon to assist in securing its passage.

LEGISLATION FOR MODEST PEOPLE.

Senator Reed is indeed a man of the people. Having introduced a bill at the opening of the Legislature in which he seeks to make the spirit of good cheer which is supposed to pervade the holiday season a thing of reality, by arranging matters so that tax-paying and gift-giving do not come together, he follows up this act with another one in which he aims at lowering the legal tax rate of interest from six to five per cent. The benefits of both bills would be felt most by persons of moderate means.

INSPIRATION FOR HOUSEWIVES.

The housewives and mothers who are constantly complaining of the arduousness of their family duties should take solace and inspiration in the life of Mrs. Margaret Hungerford, known to lovers of light literature as "The Duchess," whose death occurred Sunday. Besides being the author of twenty-seven novels, she was the mother of six children. And she didn't neglect the latter for the former.

AN INSURANCE BILL.

Senator Reed introduced a bill in the Legislature last night providing that in any action on a life insurance policy not exceeding $500, the fact that such policy was issued after a medical examination by the company's physician shall be conclusive evidence that the insured was in good physical condition when the policy was issued.

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jone, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says, that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

THEATRICAL.

It is delightful to observe the genuine success arriving to Albert Chevalier, who is an artist quite beyond comparison because he is so vivid a note in the vaudeville kaleidescope that in his line noboJy is clever enough to be mentioned with him. He is an actor of great force and charm and a singer sufficiently limited in voice to keep his character work tone-perfect, and still quite musical enough to be enjoying. His bright and entertaining mannerisms are those of a character color, and his entire study of East End London life is innocently amusing. The variations of the coster impersonations, with a gentle eccentric minister of the sort most cultivated by higher society, is, perhaps, as pleasant an innovation as anything could be. In Music Hall, tonight, Mr. Chevalier will give, of course, "Old Dutch," no manner of change can ever drive this beautiful old piece of comedy-pathos out of the talented Chevalier's repertoire. In the halls in London if "Old Dutch" is left out of Chevalier's bill there is likely to be a stampede in the pit.

There are a large number of circuses and theatrical attractions now touring the country, but there is but one Mark Murphy and he is soon to visit our city with Murry and Murphy's Comedians in the most laughable of all musical operatic-comedies, "O'Dowd's Neighbors." Messrs. Murry and Murphy were for many years under the management of that veteran amusement caterer, J. M. Hill, of New York city, and their names are a household word with all theatre-goers. When they reach our city they will be welcomed with open arms and the laugh-provokers will be greeted with the old adage, "Glad to see you, boys."

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by T.S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner of Park and North avenues.

A Pound of Many Things.

The pound social held last evening under the auspices of the Woman's Relief Corps, auxiliary to Post 73, G. A. R., was for the purpose of securing a quantity of useful articles to be distributed among the needy ones who are especially associated with the two organizations. The response to contribute a pound of something useful was very generous, and as a result many will be made comfortable.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

The Misses Hunt entertained company from Bound Brook over Sunday.

Miss Mina Slade is a new acquisition to Edsall's force of efficient clerks.

Mrs. J. M. Apgar, of High Bridge, is visiting at the home of W. W. Walters.

The Dunellen fire department will hold its first regular meeting in the new town hall, on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kitchen have returned to Brooklyn, after a few day's visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Huff.

W. N. VanAman, of New Brunswick, was in Dunellen, yesterday, and photographed a group of well-known residents.

The Washington Avenue Card Club will be entertained on Friday evening at the home of the Misses Barrett, of North Plainfield.

The members of the Dunellen Checker Club will meet in W. H. Coles' office this evening to compete in another of their series of games for hours.

Miss Jennie Apgar, of High Bridge, has been visiting the family of W. W. Walters for the past few weeks, and much of the time she has been ill from heart trouble.

Rev. Augustus Todd preached at both the morning and evening service in the Presbyterian church, on Sunday, and music was furnished by the regular church choir.

The ice was measured on the New Market pond, yesterday, and it was found to be about 8 inches in thickness over the shallow water, and 6½ inches over the running stream.

The condition of Miss Fannie Jennings, of Green Brook, who underwent the delicate operation of having an aggravated tumor removed some time ago, is reported as but little improved.

The health of the borough is reported by the leading physician to be remarkably good for this season of the year. Outside of a few cases from colds, the inhabitants are remarkably healthy.

The borough Council will meet in regular session next Monday evening. Outside of the routine of business, it is understood that some definite action is to be taken concerning the street lighting.

Yesterday was by far the coldest day experienced here this season. At 7 o'clock in the morning the thermometer registered from 6 to 8 below zero, and in fact during the entire day, it did not raise but little above zero.

The many friends of Mrs. W. H. Coles will regret to hear that she is ill at her home with pneumonia. She was taken on Friday night, but it was not until Sunday that the symptoms of pneumonia developed. She is, however, fairly on the road to recovery.

A stage load of young people, 14 in all, drove over to Alexander Randolph's at South Plainfield, last evening, and spent a few hours in dancing and other social amusements. Frank VanNice drove the party over in a bowlster wagon, and although the weather was exceedingly cold, the young people didn't seem to mind it one bit.

The New Market coal dealers are short of coal. One dealer has nothing left in his yard but a small amount of pea coal, and yesterday he was obliged to borrow from his Dunellen neighbors in order to supply his customers. It requires about three weeks' notice in advance at present to get coal from the mines, and then it is liable to be delayed for a day or two in transit.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Mrs. T. M. Paff arrived home from Brooklyn yesterday, where she has been for a week past attending her mother, who is very ill.

Measurements were taken on the mountain pond yesterday and seven inches of ice was recorded. Another inch was added during the day and last night, and today the work of marking out was begun. Weather permitting, the crop will be harvested in about a week.

The goods and chattels of the late James A. Baker were put up at auction yesterday and there was a large attendadce of purchasers and others who had been drawn there out of curiosity. The goods sold fairly well, but much of the stock did not begin to bring the purchase price.

The entire postoffice fixtures and other paraphernalia were removed Saturday night from their former location to the Dean building. The latter building is the property of the Baptist church, and it is understood that it has been leased for a term of years. The transfer of mail matter, office fixtures, etc., was accomplished with little or no inconvenience to the public, and acting Postmaster Norman C. Dunn had everything in readiness for the distribution of mail matter early yesterday morning.

Don't worry about your health. Keep your blood pure by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and you need not fear the grip, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia or typhoid fever.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic, easy to take, easy to operate.

Mr. Clark, of Rahway, was the guest of H. S. Littell on Sunday.

Master Warren Blanchard has returned from a visit with relatives at Newark.

H. S. Littell sprained his ankle a few days ago, and he is confined to the house.

Miss Etta Lee conducted the service at the chapel last Sunday evening. The attendance was large.

Those who heard Dr. Scofield, of Westfield, talk at the chapel last Thursday evening, enjoyed a rare treat.

A Junior Christian Endeavor social was held in the chapel last Saturday afternoon, which proved to be a thoroughly enjoyable occasion. Tables were furnished by the committee and the chief amusement was the playing of games. Refreshments were served during the afternoon, and when the young folks departed for home they all agreed that they had spent a very pleasant time.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A party was given at the home of Alexander Randolph, on his farm near New Brooklyn, last evening. It was attended by about sixty young people from this city and New Market. The Plainfield party started from the home of Miss Ernestine Smith, of Madison avenue, early in the evening, and were taken over to the scene of the social gathering by two of Captain Hand's largest stages. The evening was spent in playing games and dancing, while refreshments formed a pleasant interruption. The Plainfield party returned home about one o'clock.

WASHINGTONVILLE.

Cooby's poultry farm at Washington Valley shipped today a breeding pen of their mammouth Pekin Ducks to the State Agricultural College of Maryland to be used in demonstrating to the farmers of that state the advantages of duck raising.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. E. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject. He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." Elementary examinations for gymnasium work will be held in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on the evening of February 4th, when the candidates will try for certificates which are awarded to those who secure the necessary percentage for work according to the prescribed order. The preliminary examinations were held last October. The examination will be in calesthenics, free work, three moves on three different pieces of apparatus, and a potato race. It will be necessary to secure 65 percent out of a possible 100 per cent to secure a certificate. The examination will be conducted by Physical Director Heywood, of the association.

J. H. Leggett, the druggist, is confined to his home with a slight illness.

to sufferers from catarrh will not be amiss if a cure can be offered. Ely's Cream Balm has become a favorite in all sections of the United States. Your cold in the head will be quickly relieved by it, and the severest attack of catarrh will yield to, and be perfectly cured by a thorough treatment. Catarrh is not a blood disease, but an inflammation of the passages of the nose and throat, due to climatic changes.

CHAPTER II.—MAN'S REVENGE.

The young man felt himself torn as if by sharp thorns, with keen feelings, of passionate attraction, of repulsion as keen, and by a sense of imminent danger. He followed the girl into the dining-room, holding his bag with a firm hand, and looked at her with an expression which caused the blood to rush to her face, and her eyes to droop suddenly.

The table was between them, for she was standing by the fireplace at the opposite end of the room, leaning against the mantelpiece in an attitude which showed off the lines of her fine figure to unstudied advantage against the red glow. Her blush, the womanly bend of her head at his look, caused a revulsion of feeling entirely in her favor in the young man. And even as he gazed at her, bending a little forward to get a better view of her face by looking under the hanging oil lamp with its red shade, he saw that her expression of modest shame gave place to one of doubt, of fear. She looked up quickly, and their eyes met.

In a moment he felt satisfied, as an older man would not have been, that the suspicions her strange conduct had aroused were unfounded. He heaved a sigh of relief. He felt so much, however, that he had to put a constraint upon himself which made his manner abrupt, and his voice harsh as he spoke.

"I must go now," he said, turning abruptly. "Open the door, please."

He had turned his back to her, to avoid the strong influence he felt she had upon him. In the silence which followed his words, he heard her rapid and labored breathing. His doubts awoke again. He even glanced sharply round, as if in doubt whether she was not approaching him with some sinister purpose. And he saw that she had indeed come a little nearer, and that her large gray eyes were wide with doubt and fear.

"Why do you wish to detain me?" he asked, so sharply that she was taken aback, and gave a little forced laugh while she prepared an answer.

"Surely that is a singular way of acknowledging hospitality," said she, without looking at him, "to question the motives of it. Out here in the country we are not like the people in towns, who look shyly and coldly upon strangers. On the contrary, we offer them fire when they are cold, and light when they have lost their way. If you're so suspicious, why did you accept my direction as to the road you were to take?"

He paused before answering. It was not easy to tell her the reasons for the change in his attitude, although he could not but suppose that she knew them already. He had seen something of the world, and was not particularly diffident with any class of women.

But there was something about this girl, an air of innate refinement, the accent of a gentlewoman, a suggestion in her look and manner that she was playing a part for which she was not suited, which prevented his putting upon her outrageous conduct the construction he unhesitatingly would have done in the case of another woman.

He was hopelessly puzzled. He noted that the room, comfortable as it was, was shabby and worn as to furniture; that the girl's dress was severe in its inexpensive simplicity; that the glass and silver which had looked so imposing from the outside were exceedingly old fashioned. He noted also that the table was laid for two persons. And, finally, he remarked to himself upon the fact that since he entered he had heard no sound indicating the presence in the house of any person besides himself and his mysterious hostess.

Just as he came to this point in his reflections, however, he saw in the lady's eyes a look which showed him that she was listening for some sound outside, rather than waiting for the answer to her question. So he made up his mind rapidly and walked quickly to the window, which was about three feet from the ground.

"You can see nothing from there but the snow falling," said the girl, in a voice which was not without a tremor of anxiety. "We are shut in here by a wall, as you may have seen, as a protection from the gales we feel here so terribly."

Without answering George put up his hand to throw back the catch of the window.

"Oh!" cried she, in a higher key; "you are not obliged to go out that way. If you will take a glass of wine to make amends for your doubts of my hospitality, I will open the door for you immediately."

Without waiting for an answer she left the room, and returned in a very few moments with a decanter of wine, which she placed upon the table. Without heeding the fact that he had opened the window, and was evidently on the point of making his escape by that way, she poured out a glass of wine, and offered it to him with her own hand, coming round the table and holding it close to him.

"You won't refuse, will you?"

George, with one searching look into her face, took the glass, and put his lips to the wine. Then he put the glass, with a firm hand, down on the table.

"You must excuse me," said he, shortly. "This wine is drugged."

She was very near to him as he spoke. The next moment she had snatched the bag from his hand and sprung to the door. In the second which followed the seizure she had got such a good start that she was able to slam the door in his face as he pursued her. By the time he had opened the door she had reached the extreme end of the long, narrow hall which ran through the house from the front to the back, and was pointing a revolver at him as he darted after her.

"If you follow me, I'll fire," she shrieked.

"IF YOU FOLLOW ME I'LL FIRE."

He attempted to follow, not heeding the warning. Ping! Ping! He heard two shots, and felt himself hit in the right arm. Notwithstanding this, however, he darted after her. But he was too late. She disappeared through the door at the end of the hall, and he heard the key turn on the other side.

He threw himself with all his force against the door, but with no result. Then, finding that he was wasting his time, he ran back to the dining-room, and leapt out of the window into the snow-covered flower border underneath. The snow was falling as fast as ever, and he sank in it inches deep as he looked for a way out.

But he found that he was caught in a trap indeed, for the wall, which was too high to climb, inclosed the house, with its stables and garden, the whole way round. He made for the wooden door in the wall by which he had first entered the premises, and as he did so, he trod upon something hard, which was lying in the path. Looking down, he saw, to his surprise, a bag, so thinly covered with snow that it had evidently only lain there a few seconds.

With a momentary absurd hope that it might be the bag which had just been stolen from him, Llewellyn stooped down, picked it up, and was about to examine it in the light from the dining-room window, when there suddenly broke upon his ear the sounds of human voices within the house.

And first of all he heard the voice of the girl who had robbed him. She was sobbing, and crying in a voice full of distress:

"Oh! papa, papa, I had to shoot him, and I'm so afraid I hurt him! I couldn't help liking him all the time, and oh! it was dreadful, dreadful! And now I've got his bag I want you to find him, and do all you can for him, if he is really hurt!"

STOOPED DOWN AND PICKED IT UP.

George Llewellyn did not wait to hear more; he put his hand on the window-sill, and vaulted into the room.

The relief he felt on discovering that he had now a man to deal with was so great that, disregarding the fact that he was wounded, and that the blood was trickling down through his sleeve, he raised his revolver and turned to the newcomer.

The young girl screamed and threw her arms round her father's neck.

But before another word was spoken, George Llewellyn's arm had dropped to his side, and he stood staring in bewilderment, first at the old man, and then at his daughter.

For if he had doubted the possibility that the beautiful, smiling girl could be an accomplice of thieves, how could he harbor a suspicion about the stout elderly gentleman, with the gold spectacles and the stamp of British respectability on every homely feature?

"Why, who are you? What—w-w-what—"

The word died away upon his lips as the elderly gentleman, starting and staring at him in his turn, suddenly exclaimed:

"Little Georgie! Henry Llewellyn's son, by all that's marvelous! Why, why, what's this? George Llewellyn, little George turned thief! Why, what does it mean?"

George had by this time grown accustomed to the sudden change from the darkness outside to the light of the room, and he staggered in amazement against the table.

"Doctor—Dr. Lowe!" he exclaimed hoarsely. "Was it—was it your daughter that took my bag and—and shot me?"

There was a moment's pause, during which the girl, with a cry, and a look of horror, sank down into a chair, with a deadly white face.

The doctor took off his glasses and wiped them.

"There has been some mistake, some desperate blunder!" said he, decidedly. "What were you doing in this part of the world?"

"Coming to see you," replied Llewellyn, promptly. "I was to have crossed to Calais to-night, with some securities which I was taking for our firm to Paris. Finding that the boat couldn't cross, I thought I would find you out and ask you to give me a night's shelter. I lost my way, and—"

He was interrupted at this point by a moan of distress from the young girl, who burst into tears and hid her face in her hands.

The doctor, who was by this time examining Llewellyn's arm, to see the extent of the harm done, smiled rather grimly into the young fellow's face.

"My strong-minded daughter has brought herself into a nice mess this time," said he.

The girl herself sprang up at these words and ran to the door.

"Is he—have I—is he—badly hurt?" she jerked out between her sobs.

"Well, he won't die of it," answered the doctor, with a twinkle in his eye.

George was so much excited and relieved by the discovery he had just made that he answered in a tone which showed him to be in the best of spirits:

"It's nothing at all; it's a mere scratch, Miss Lowe. Please don't make yourself unhappy."

The girl turned slowly round, revealing a most woe-begone and grief-stricken countenance. She looked anxiously at her father, and seeing by the expression of his face that she had really not done much harm, she began to dry her tears, although she still carefully avoided meeting Llewellyn's eyes.

"My dear," said Dr. Lowe, "go into the surgery and get me the box where I keep my bandages. I can finish this business here, for it won't take me a minute, and it's cold in there."

As soon as his daughter had left the room, the old doctor burst into a fit of laughter.

"I shall break her heart if she hears me laughing," said he, wiping his eyes. "Just now when I came in, by the back way, as I usually do at night, I found her waiting for me, waving a black bag in triumph over my head, and telling me she had caught a thief. And she was so proud, poor child, of having inveigled you in here, and detained you so long. She said she was in an agony of fear, lest I should be late, and you would get away, bag and all."

"But," asked George, when the doctor had finished another roar of laughter, "what made her take me for a thief? Surely a man may carry a bag without any dishonest intention?"

"She's an operator at the telegraph office, and she was at the instrument when a message came through to say that two thieves with stolen securities were coming down."

George stared for a moment in silence at the doctor, and then began to laugh. It was annoying to have gone through all the revulsions of feeling of the past hour for nothing, as it were.

"But what made her decide that I must be the thief?" asked he.

"Well, she met a policeman on her way home, who told her that the thieves had been seen to come in this direction."

Then George put a practical question which betrayed the interest he felt in his fair captor:

"And do you let that young girl walk home by herself late at night over this wild country?"

The doctor shrugged his shoulders.

"She's as self-willed as ever she can be. In fact, she's getting too much for me," said Dr. Lowe, with a sigh.

"I meet her in the town when I can and bring her home. But the gypsy won't wait for me, and she carries a revolver, as you have reason to know. Here she comes again. For goodness' sake say something to her so that she may not see me laughing!"

Fortunately for everybody in the rather strained state of affairs, a violent ringing and knocking at the front door startled them all, and diverted attention from the awkward occurrence.

Miss Lowe ran to the outer door, for the one servant had long since gone to bed; and when she reentered the dining-room it was with a policeman.

"I beg pardon, doctor; but I've got a job for you here outside. We've caught the thief; he had got about a mile beyond here, when he found us close behind, and he jumped over a wall to get away from us, and broke his leg, not knowin' there was a drop on the far side. He must have thrown away the bag he carried with the swag, for he left the town with one, but had none when we picked him up."

"Is this it, by any chance?" asked George, producing the bag he had found in the garden outside.

An examination of the contents proved that this was indeed the case; and the thief, when he was confronted with it, confessed that he had thrown it into the garden of the doctor's house as he ran past, thinking that the high wall would mark the spot sufficiently for him to return and recover it if he should evade his pursuers.

When asked what had become of the woman who had accompanied him down in the train, he explained that he and she had parted on finding themselves pursued and that she had made for the village of St. Placid's.

George Llewellyn remained at the doctor's house that night; and, although there was a shyness between Lily, the daughter, and himself, he had a very pleasant chat with his host, who explained that they had left his old house in the village for the one which they now inhabited.

And the shyness between the young people wore off before George went away on the following day, for this little bit of dialogue passed between them:

"It was very stupid of me not to recognize you."

"Recognize me! How absurd! Why, when you came here last, fifteen years ago, you were only ten and I was five!"

"Do you think you will recognize me next time I come?"

"What, in another fifteen years?"

"No, in less than that."

"Perhaps I may."

And George Llewellyn came again so soon, and comes so often, that the doctor feels sure it will end in his taking Lily away with him.

THE END.

HER HALLOWEEN EXPERIMENT.

As a Result the Engagement Will Be Announced Shortly.

"Oh, Emma," said Ethel, sweetly, to her particular chum, "I have something to tell you, dear."

"And I am quite sure that it must be something very nice, judging by your radiant face," replied Emma. "Tell me what it is. I'm just dying to hear."

"First tell me something."

"Well?"

"Did you ever work a halloween charm to find out who is to be your husband?"

"No, but I've heard of such things. You don't mean to say that you have done anything of the kind?"

"Yes. Was it naughty of me?"

"Oh, I don't say that, until I have heard what you did. Was your spell successful? Did you actually see a man's face?"

Ethel nodded her pretty head vigorously.

"Oh, who was the man? But no! Tell me the story just as it happened. How did you work your enchantments?"

"Well, it had to be done precisely at midnight, you know."

"So I understand."

"The charm is this: You take a ripe red apple, and you eat it standing in front of a mirror, finishing it just as the clock strikes the witching hour of midnight."

"How perfectly creepy."

"And the light must be turned down very low, almost out, you know."

"O, you brave girl! I wouldn't have dared do anything like that."

"And just as the clock strikes the last stroke of the midnight hour, the face of your future husband appears in the mirror, over your shoulder."

"You went through all that, did you?"

"Yes."

"And did you see a face?"

"I did, just as clear as anything."

"Whose was it?"

"Jack Bellefield's."

"No."

"Yes."

"How do you account for his face appearing in the mirror instead of some one else's?"

"I think it was because Jack was behind me at the time. He's going to get the engagement ring in a day or two."

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry orders will receive your work.

PRICE OF ARMOR.

Secretary Herbert Investigates the Cost at the Carnegie Steel Company's Plant.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Secretary Herbert has sent to the house a supplementary report in the matter of the price of armor. The letter of the secretary states that the president of the Carnegie Steel company took exception to certain comments made by him (Secretary Herbert) as to the cost of the company's plant and requested a further examination of the books as to the cost of the plant. The invitation was accepted and Prof. Alger of the navy and A. S. Dunham, an expert accountant, made a further examination of the books. Their inspection showed the value of the plant to be over $3,000,000, the amount given to the company and commented upon in the report. The proffer of the company was limited to the question of the cost of the plant. The letter of President Leisham of the Carnegie company to Secretary Herbert mentions that "it did not occur to them that any statement of facts they presented would not pass undoubted, but since they have been viewed with suspicion, they demand at the secretary's hands a prompt investigation of their books, so far as they relate to the cost of the plant. Naturally," continues Mr. Leisham, "we cannot rest for a day under the implication you seem to make that we have not told the truth." Secretary Herbert, in replying to this letter insists that his comments "were just such as would have been made by any court in the land in discussing the evidence of yourself or any other creditable witness, and they were legitimate."

TORTURED BY FIENDS.

Masked Burglars Burn an Old Man Until He Turns Over His Money.

Trinway, O., Jan. 26.—John Harper and his son George, living near here, were awakened during the night by five masked men in their room. After binding the young man, the father, who is 80 years old, was tortured with hot irons until he revealed the hiding place of his money box, which contained only $15. After cursing them for not having more money the robbers departed. The Harpers are wealthy and generally keep large sums of money in their house. The old man is severely injured and may die.

Opposition to the Immigration Bill.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Representative Barthold of Missouri, the chairman of the house committee on immigration, will oppose the conference report on the immigration bill which provides an educational test for emigrants. The two features of the report to which he objects are those which estop the wife, if she be illiterate, from landing with her husband, provided the latter can read and write, and the provision which requires that the emigrant shall be able to read the language of his nativity or place of residence.

Removed from Office.

Cincinnati, Jan. 26.—President Cleveland has removed Joseph Dowling of Dayton, O., from the office of internal revenue collector in Cincinnati. The president's action is said to be the outcome of a complaint made by the United States civil service commissioner at Washington last summer. The specific charges against Dowling were making assessments and collecting money from clerks in his department for political use.

Commodore Melville Convalescing.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Commodore George W. Melville, engineer-in-chief of the navy, is convalescing from the effects of a severe operation performed on him last Tuesday, which is believed to have eradicated the cause of serious intestinal disorder which he contracted in Siberia after the Jeannette disaster and which has frequently since that time threatened his life.

ALL POINTS TO GAGE

Every Indication That He Is To Receive the Treasury Portfolio.

NOT YET OFFERED THE PLACE

H. Clay Evans' Friends' Fruitless Efforts—The Name of Another Californian Mentioned—Mrs. McKinley Goes to Chicago.

Canton, O., Jan. 26.—Major McKinley, in spite of the zero weather, continues to receive large numbers of callers. Three southern republicans Messrs. Pettibone, Houk and Baker came to urge the president-elect to make H. Clay Evans of Tennessee post master-general. Major McKinley was much interested in what they had to say, but, in view of the fact that there is and has been from the start much opposition to Mr. Evans from politicians of note in his own state, it is not likely he will be offered a portfolio. There is no reason, indeed, for supposing that the southern republican in the cabinet will be other than judge Nathan Goff of West Virginia. There is still much comment upon the rumor of Lyman J. Gage's selection for the treasury portfolio. Letters and telegrams commending in warm terms the suggestion of Mr. Gage in reference to this position continue to reach the president-elect in large numbers. No tender of the treasury portfolio has been made, but the chances that it will be offered Mr. Gage increase hourly. Mrs. McKinley, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Barber, and by H. O. Heistand, left for Chicago last night. She will be absent about a week. Major McKinley does not expect to leave Canton till he sets out for Washington five weeks hence. Freman Older of San Francisco called on Major McKinley last night to urge the appointment of Joseph Waymir of California to the cabinet, but it seems to be practically settled that Judge McKenna will be the Pacific slope member of the cabinet.

AGAINIST TRUSTS.

Senator Lexow's Bill Passed by the Assembly at Albany.

Albany, Jan. 26.—Senator Lexow's bill providing for an investigation of the reports of the existence of trusts in New York state passed the assembly last night by a vote of 99 ayes to 34 noes, without amendment as it came from the senate, after a somewhat heated debated. Mr. Green, dem., New York, moved to substitute for the Lexow resolution, the resolution of Senator Grady, which was defeated in the senate, directing the judiciary committees of the two houses to report at once any amendments to the present law designed to frustrate the operations of trusts. This was voted down as was also a resolution offered by Mr. Trainor of New York, providing that no resolution for fixing the time for the final adjournment of the legislature shall be considered by either senate or assembly until such bill or bills have been submitted to both houses for a final vote thereon as will tend to dispose of the trusts.

New Jersey Legislature.

Trenton, Jan. 26.—The third week the legislative session began last night. Beyond the introduction of a big batch of new bills, but little business was transacted, and within thirty minutes both houses adjourned until to-day. The house passed a single bill, authorizing supreme court judges to sit alone in murder trials. Among the reports received was that of the commision appointed by Gov. Griggs last winter to inquire into the necessity and feasibility of erecting a home for indigent sailors and soldiers of the rebellion, in which they may live with their wives. In the present home, at Kearney, they must live alone. The commission favors the plan.

Beet Sugar Company Incorporated.

Trenton, Jan. 26.—The Beet Sugar Manufacturing & Development company of Jersey City and Chicago has been incorporated with a paid capital of $200,000. The company will operate sugar refining factories. The stock is divided into 2,000 shares, and is held as follows: A. Orr Symington of Newark, N. J., 400 shares; W. G. McDougall of Yonkers, N. Y., 600 shares, and J. L. Johnson of Chicago, 1,000 shares.

New York Board of Claims.

Albany, Jan. 26.—The annual report of the state board of claims shows that since the board was organized in 1883, it heard and disposed of 2,571 claims against the state, aggregating $7,348,098. The awards on these claims amounted to $1,398,706. There are 743 claims pending before the board.

BEATEN AWAY FROM HOME.

Plainfield Catholic Club Bowlers Defeated at Newark.

The bowling team of the Plainfield Catholic Club was defeated in two games rolled on the alleys of the Institutes of Newark, last evening. Their opponents were the Institute team and the latter only won after two hard fought games. Both teams rolled fairly well although no phenominal scores were made. The alleys were extremely cold and the members of both teams shivered most of the evening despite the two big stoves that roared away at one end of the alleys, which were located in the third story of the club house.

In all the games the Plainfield ever rolled with this Newark team, in past years, the Plainfield bowlers were victorious in all but one.

After the game a number of the Plainfield team and their rooters attended the ball of the St. Columbia's Society at Cruger's Auditorium.

PASSING COMMENT.

A watch with a history was presented to S. L. Hart, at Flemington, last week, by Stewart Hoffman, of Somerville. During the Revolutionary War, when the British Army retreated from Trenton after its defeat by General George Washington's troops, some of the "Redcoats" visited the hotel on the outskirts of Bound Brook, now occupied by Miss Louise Fisher. It was then reported that Washington was on his way to Bound Brook, and they left hurriedly. After their departure the watch was found in the room which they occupied.

While everybody else was bundled up in their warmest wraps this morning, W. E. Martin, manager of the Postal Telegraph Company in this city, walked down the street as if it was a warm spring day. He carried his overcoat on his arm as he slowly strolled along and read a newspaper as if the cold wave was thousands of miles away. The chilly gusts whirled the dust about him and tried to drag his overcoat out of his arms, but he paid no attention to it and smiled on his friends as they went shivering by, and appeared to be enjoying himself. Whether he has discovered some new protection against the cold, or is equipped with a body stove of recent invention, it is impossible to say, but how anyone could forget that it was cold this morning and so neglect to put on his overcoat, is beyond the understanding of any ordinary man.

Ex-Councilman Ernest R. Ackerman was peacefully sleeping in his room the other night when he was suddenly roused by the vigorous ringing of the telephone bell down stairs. Supposing it to be a telegram or something very important, Mr. Ackerman sprang out into the cold and hurried down stairs. He answered the ring.

"Hello, who's that?" said the voice at the other end of the line.

"Number 48, Ernest R Ackerman's," replied Mr. Ackerman as a chilling draught played around his pedal extremities.

"Number 48?" queried the voice, "why, I thought that that was the number of the station house. Isn't this the station house?"

It wasn't the station house, as Mr. Ackerman explained, and then he learned that the one who had so unceremoniously raised him from his comfortable bed was a member of the police department. So it would seem that Plainfield is so good a place that the station house is so little used that some of the police forget its number on the telephone. The real number of the station house is 54 b.

It is not generally known that the Grand Opera House on Twenty-third street, New York, was built by the father of N. W. Pike, of East Front street, but such is the case. The elder Mr. Pike, whose surname was Samuel N., made over a million dollars as a rectifier and distiller in Cincinnati, and then moved to New York.

He wanted to educate the people in music and built the Grand Opera House. A friend laughed at the idea, saying that it was so far out of the way that nobody would go to it. "I will make it so fine and attractive that they will be obliged to go," Pike replied. The house cost him about $1,000,000 before he got through with it, for he conducted it at a loss for several years.

Fisk and Gould wanted the Grand Opera House for Erie Railroad offices, and the negotiations for a transfer hung fire for a long time. Pike occupied the house that Mrs. Langtry lived in during her stay in New York. One night Fisk called. "Pike," he said, abruptly, "there have been too many go-betweens in this matter. Let us settle it without the help of any other man. What do you want for the Grand Opera House?"

"A million dollars," said Pike.

"I'll give you $950,000," snapped Fisk; "$350,000 mortgage and the rest cash."

"Sold!" exclaimed Pike, and thus the trade was made. Fisk and Gould leased the offices to the Erie Railroad for $75,000 a year.

HOW ICE IS HARVESTED.

EVERY MAN TO HIS TASK AND THEN IT IS DONE EASILY.

All the Handing is Done by Machinery and the Men Only Have to Know Just How to Switch a Cake at the Proper Time.

It is rather cold work to stand and watch the operation of ice-cutting but it is a very interesting one never-the-less. While every body knows that it it is cut somehow, the way in which it is done and the ice transfered to the ice-houses is known to but comparatively few. Plainfield has only one ice company that cuts its own ice in the city limits and that is the one of which John H. Tier is the proprietor. For a week he has been planning to start the work as the ice was of the required thickness, but warm weather, rain and snow have all taken their turn in preventing the operations from going forward until yesterday when a large force of men were set to work on the pond.

Tier's pond is a body of water fed by Green brook, running from Bank place to Elm street, parallel to Front street. It is somewhat over an acre in extent. The ice houses are at the end of Bank place and are two in number.

A line is drawn on the ice at the start and along this line the ice plow is run. The ice plow consists of a sharp blade that cuts into the ice to the depth of four or five inches. The plow is pulled by a horse and guided by one of the men. Attached to one side is the marker, a rather dull blade that leaves a line on the ice to one side of the plow showing where the next path of the plow shall be. The pond was divided into cakes three feet long and two feet wide, by the use of the plow and marker. The cakes are not entirely separated from each other by the plow, the ice being cut only to the depth of four or five inches. After the entire pond had been divided into the cakes, those nearest the ice house are broken off from the rest by means of a four-pronged spade-like instrument called a fork-bar.

The ice houses are large shed-like structures without floors and a door that runs all the way up the side of the building, which is about sixty feet in height. This door is on the side toward the pond. The two ice houses are side by side and the door in the one nearest Front street opens into the other.

The hardest work is the transferring of the large cakes of ice from the pond where they are floating about to the ice house to be stored away for future use. The cakes average in weight from 210 pounds to 235 pounds, and are very hard to handle. They are conveyed up to the ice house by an endless chain that carries them up an inclined plane. There are openings in the inclined plane corresponding to the different runways that lead into the ice house.

Men, armed with ice poles, poles with sharp spikes on the end, are stationed about the portion of the pond in which the cakes have been separated from the rest with the use of the fork bar, and they push and direct the cakes toward the end of the scaffolding in which the endless chain runs. Here is stationed a man with another fork bar to separate any cakes that have been missed in the breaking up of the ice. Three men stand around the end of the scaffolding, and with the assistance of their ice poles, push the cakes into the path of the wooden cleats that are placed at regular intervals along the endless chain to carry the cakes up the inclined plane on the scaffolding.

Yesterday, the work of filling the ice houses had only just begun, and so the lowest of the runways into the ice houses were used, only three layers being laid. The cakes fell through the opening in the inclined plane, which can be closed when necessary, and then slid down the icy runway, which was inclined into the icehouse. Here the runway was continued into the other house, the ice cakes to be stored in the first house being taken off by the men there with their ice poles. The cakes come flying down the runway, and it requires considerable skill to stop them and draw them off at the right place.

The power used for the endless chain is furnished by a steam engine. The men employed by Mr. Tier are the same ones that he has had for years, and they thoroughly understand their business. The spade with which the cakes are poled from the end of the pond to the scaffolding, and then up the inclined plane and slide into the house, is quite remarkable, and everybody is kept hustling to do their share of the work.

The work will be continued for several days if the cold weather keeps up, and it is well worth a short visit to watch the operations of ice cutting and storing in the icehouses.

NOTING THE CITY ILLS.

TOWN IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION SUGGEST VARIOUS METHODS.

Littering Streets With Ashes, Store Sweepings and Papers is Complained Of—One Member Would Act Aggressive.

There was a good attendance of members at the meeting of the Town Improvement Association held yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. building. The president, Mrs. Pierre Mali, occupied the chair. The first business of importance considered was the ordering of 500 postal cards for the various committees of the association.

A member spoke of the objectionable features about the present ash carts in use in the city, and she wanted to recommend to the Council that they adopt some ordinance which would abate the nuisance, She was informed that the Council has under consideration at present an ordinance which will abolish the trouble. She did not think, however, that if such an ordinance was adopted it would be enforced unless the association attended to the matter, and she thought that an ash-carter should be brought to justice by the association when he was found to be violating the ordinance. She also spoke about the practice of people about town who persisted in sweeping the refuse from their store into the street. She had been informed by Chief Grant that if a person was detected doing that sort of thing they could be punished for it. She was willing to watch these violators, but wanted the association to stand behind her. She cited a case where one person had violated the rule three times, and if the association would stand by her she would see that this person was brought to justice. Another place spoken of as being bad in this respect was at the postoffice, where the janitor persisted in sweeping all the papers into the street, and she wanted to know if the association was expected to furnish the government with a basket in which they could place these papers, etc. In regard to the latter it was decided that the street committee should send a communication to Postmaster Hetfield asking him to see that the nuisance is stopped.

She also reported in the matter of street signs. She said that there were 684 streets and not one-third of them had suitable signs at the intersection of the streets. She recommended that signs made of copper and aluminum be suggested to the City Council and that they be asked to put the proper number of them where they are needed. It was thought the cost would be about $500, and one woman thought the association might do the work. Other members were of the opinion that the city should do it, and the suggestion was ordered sent from the committee to the Council.

At this time the members considered the changes recently made to the constitution. Among the most important changes made was one creating an advisory board to be composed of men who are to consult with the advisory board of women. The constitution was also amended so that meetings shall be held monthly unless otherwise agreed, and that the annual meeting shall be held in April.

Mrs. Kimball made a strong plea against the raising of the price of the annual dues. She thought that many would join at 50 cents where only a few would come in at $1. The members decided to leave the dues as they are at present.

It was decided to have 200 copies of the constitution printed. Mrs. Krom stated that she had been informed that they would cost from $5 to $7, but she thought that she could get them printed for less.

Mrs. Mali said that she would like to ask the Association for the sum of $50 to be used for the work of pulling the stumps out of the ground at the city park. She said that she spoke of the matter at present so that the members would be prepared to vote intelligently at the next meeting.

Regarding the recent request made to Mayor Fisk that he appoint two women as members of the Board of Health, it was stated by Mrs. Frost that her husband had informed her that according to the laws of this State a woman could not be appointed to membership on the Board of Health, and it would be necessary to have the laws changed.

It is the intention of the members to place at convenient points suitable wire baskets in which papers, litter, etc., can be put, and in this way help to remove the objectional matter which is usually found on the streets. A sample basket was at the rooms, yesterday afternoon, and all agreed that it was a most excellent thing.

An X-ray Machine in Town.

Dr. F. Wood, of Crescent avenue, received a very elaborate X-ray machine yesterday which he will use in his surgical operations.

AN ORGANIZED MOVEMENT TO ACCOMPLISH THE CONSOLIDATION OF CITY AND BOROUGH.

Meeting of Prominent Citizens Held in the Borough Last Night at Which the Preliminary Steps Were Taken for the Consummation of the Movement—Ex-Mayor Saunders Makes an Elaborate Argument in Favor of the Consolidation—The Names of Those Who Sanction the Consolidation.

A good deal of quiet work has been going on among borough citizens looking to a consolidation with the city, and last night, in pursuance to the following call, a meeting was held at the home of L. B. Woolston, 30 Fairview avenue:

The undersigned citzens of North Plainfield favor the consolidation of city and borough and its union under one government. It is understood that a society is to be formed to effect this result and that questions of ways and means are to be decided by the united action of that society.

H. K. Caroll,	A. E. Faber, Jr.
Edwin S. Hooley,	Henry A. McGee.

The meeting was organized by the election of L. B. Woolston as chairman and A. E. Kenney as secretary.

The chairman was authorized to appoint a committee of three to draw up a plan of permanent organization and call the next meeting.

After a preliminary discussion of the general plan of action, ex-Mayor Saunders addressed the meeting as follows:

"We have been taught by Jefferson that government is perhaps a necessary device, of which the more we have the worse we are off. Is it not true that in national, State and municipal affairs there is a tendency to expand the functions of government; to increase the offices and to make places; a tendency which inevitably leads to extravagance. We are suffering just now from an overdose of government at Washington. We, of New Jersey, have been patient and long suffering under legislative abuses at Trenton. In a speech recently delivered in Plainfield, Mr. Richard V. Lindabury declared that so many and conflicting laws had been passed by our legislature that nobody knows just where we stand.

"So, too, in our municipal affairs, we see the same inclination to too much government. Who is there who thinks that the peace, happiness and prosperity of the people of New York would suffer by the abolition of her Board of Aldermen? And to come down to things in our midst, who is there about us whose property would be less secure, whose person would be less free or less safe or whose happiness need be less complete with one government over the two Plainfields?

"A municipal government is necessary for the protection of property, for the maintenance of law and order, for the preservation of the rights of individuals and to promote the welfare of the community. In order to best effect these ends it is wise to adopt home rule, even though it necessitates keeping up the machinery of government in each settlement. It would obviously be unwise to say that one set of officers is sufficient to manage every town in the state. It would not do to consolidate Plainfield with Camden because the interests of the two communities are not identical. What might be good for Camden might not necessarily be good for Plainfield. It is only because these places are wide apart and have different interests that two governments are necessary. A community living on ships has obviously different interests from people on land, hence unity of government is not practicable. Home rule is the only excuse for our numerous governing bodies which are maintained at great public expense and where some good men waste much valuable time.

"To be extravagant in public affairs is an easier and a greater crime than to be extravagant in private affairs. It is always easier to spend other people's money than to spend our own. We more readily assent to the creation of a new office than to the addition of a new clerk in our business or another servant to our household. And yet does anyone deny that the same rules which govern the affairs of business apply the equal force to effect prosperity or ruin in national, state and municipal government? If economy is a wise policy in one it is as wise in the other. If it is a good thing to consolidate two shops which manufacture the same product; if it is a good thing to join under one head two department stores which sell the same goods and to the same people, then it should be a good thing to consolidate two cities which are joined together by nature and in which are people whose interests are identical. Home rule is not an argument against, but a reason for the union of Plainfield and North Plainfield. We are the same people, mingling one with the other in social, political and religious intercourse. We use the same streets and buy goods at the same stores; we belong to the same churches, lodges and societies; we contribute to the same charities. There is but one hospital, but one Childrens' Home, one Y. M. C. A., one boys club. We are one in interest, one in sympathy, one in fact, yet divided in government. So much for consolidation in the abstract, I will not dwell longer on this point because it appears plain that every intelligent citizen who is without prejudice will agree that the union of city and borough is a good thing provided it can be effected in an equitable manner.

"In looking at the practical questions involved the first and most important point in taxation. We may not, perhaps, agree with Alexander Hamilton that property is the basis of all government, yet it is only fair to admit the right of the freeholder to an active voice and influence in municipal questions—he pays the freight. Now, there seems to exist an impression that one of the difficulties in the path of consolidation is an inequality of taxation between city and borough. No such inequality exists. The nominal rates for the year 1896 are, Plainfield 2.30, North Plainfield 2.06. A tax rate is deceptive unless due consideration is given to valuation. We know that corporate bodies have at times juggled with tax rates, for political effect. In order to

HONORED THE PAST MASTER

ANCHOR LODGE PRESENTED A JEWEL TO C. C. HOWARD.

Howard Receives a Token of Esteem From Brother Members.

A pleasant surprise was in store for those who attended the communication of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., last evening, and the large attendance was most gratifying to those who had the affair in charge. The surprise was the presentation of an elegant Past Master's jewel to C. C. Howard, the last worthy retired officer of this lodge. The presentation speech was made by Rev. E. M. Rodman, the chaplain of the lodge, and it was a masterly effort. On behalf of the lodge he complimented Mr. Howard for the excellent service he had given the lodge, and hoped that he would not allow his interests to decrease. Mr. Howard responded in his usual happy manner, and he thanked the members for the honor bestowed. After this bit of pleasantry, the fellow craft degree was worked on one candidate, and a banquet was served under the very able management of Stewards, H. C. VanEmburgh and Clifford Pearson. While the latter was in progress several excellent speeches were made by the members.

Died in a Philadelphia Hospital.

Mrs. William Smalley, wife of the active member of the firm of L. D. Cook and Company, the leading lumber dealers in Bound Brook, died at the hospital in Philadelphia last night as the result of an operation performed on her a short time before. Mrs. Smalley was well-known in Bound Brook and, as it was not known that her condition was serious, the news of her death was a great shock to the community. Mrs. Smalley was the daughter of L. D. Cook. She was well-known in this city also.

Social Side of the Church.

A special meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church was held yesterday afternoon in Vincent chapel to make arrangements for a series of entertainments which will be given by the society this winter. The first will be a Martha Washington tea which will be held in the chapel on the evening of Friday, February 26. Two other entertainments will be held later in the season, one of which will be the tabeaux, which were given in Vincent Chapel last fall by the young ladies of the church.

An Appetizing Event.

There is nothing more appetizing than a good turkey supper, if it is cooked and served right, and you will make no mistake if you attend the turkey supper to be given Thursday and Friday evenings in the parlors of Trinity Reformed church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society. The proceeds will go toward purchasing a new carpet for the church. Excellent music will be furnished each evening, and the admission, including supper, will be 35 cents.

Peary Is Coming.

Lieutenant Peary, whose tales of adventure and explanations in his search for the North Pole have interested every American, has been secured to lecture in Music Hall, Thursday evening, February 25th. He will bring with him a hundred beautiful views of the land of perpetual ice, all of them taken by himself in his visits up there.

Mr. and Mrs. James Huntington, Sr., of the borough, went to Newark today to attend the funeral of the late Mr. Frey, an uncle of Mrs Huntington.

PAID IN SPURIOUS COIN.

THEN JOHN PEDRO GAVE NINETY-FIVE CENTS IN GOOD MONEY.

In Looking Over Their Change Several Merchants Find That the Counterfeit Dollars Have Been Passed on Them.

The passing of counterfeit coin in this city, as has already been mentioned in the Daily Press, still continues and the man who is circulating the spurious coins remains undetected.

John Pedro, the colored bootblack in Brown and Hill's barber shop on North avenue, polished a man's shoes yesterday afternoon and received a silver dollar, giving back ninety-five cents in change. After the man had gone John learned that the coin was valueless. It was the same as those that have already been put into circulation. It was an excellent imitation of silver dollar in appearance but it was entirely too light.

Pedro did not remember the man that gave him the coin and there was no other clue. It was possible that the man was not the real offender but had received the coin without any knowledge of the fact.

Several other dealers in the city have found the spurious dollars among their change but there is no clue so far to the identity of the one who is passing them.

VETERANS ARE NOT AT ODDS.

NO TRUTH IN THE NEWS' STORIES.

Everything is Harmonious and the Post Consolidation Will Come.

At a meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., held last evening, terms for consolidation with the other Post were agreed upon, and they will be submitted to the latter for consideration. Regarding the recent articles published in another paper, the comrades are very indignant, and they are fully convinced as to who the author is. The person who is supposed to have something to do with them is opposed to a consolidation and will no doubt fight the scheme to the end. Such obstacles as were mentioned in the articles have not been considered by the comrades at all and will not be. The comrades feel sure that the matter is published to injure the scheme, and the majority of them do not countenance such attacks.

NOT KNOWN IN PLAINFIELD.

A Man Dies in New York Who Was Thought to Live in This City.

A well-dressed, elderly man started at noon, yesterday, to go up the steps of the Parmley Building, No. 165 Broadway, New York. He had nearly reached the top of the marble flight when he reeled, cried out in alarm and fell backward. He was picked up unconscious and taken to the Hudson street Hospital. There were few papers in the pockets of the clothes. On some was the name Charles Adams, Plainfield, N. J., and on the other the name C. P. Adams.

The man revived long enough to say his name was Adams, and that he was a retired merchant, sixty-seven years old, married, and lived at Plainfield, N. J. Then he relapsed into unconsciousnes, and at 7 o'clock he died.

The hospital authorities sent a telegram to "Mrs. Charles Adams, Plainfield, N. J."

There is a Charles R. Adams, mason, living at 152 Duer street, but no harm has come to him. The telegraph company was unable to find any such person in this city. The postoffice does not deliver mail to any other Charles Adams besides the one living on Duer street and from no source could any trace could be received of any other Charles Adams. It is believed that the man did not live in this city.

A Pleasant Sociable.

A dime sociable was held at the residence of V. W. Nash, of Prospect avenue, last evening by the members of Paugh-Caugh-Naugh-Sinque Council, D. of P. There were two recitations and a mock trial. Dancing closed the evening's pleasure. Naylor furnished the music. The committee consisted of A. Wilson, Mrs. Riker, Mrs. Smalley, Mrs. Terry and Mrs. Divine.

Lost a Finger.

An employee of the Scott Press Works, named Newmiller, had a finger on his right hand cut off while working in the press rooms of the New York Times, yesterday morning. He was brought to his home in this city where he is staying at present until the wound is healed somewhat.

FAVOR THE TREATY

Distinguished Gathering at Washington Endorses Arbitration

SUPREME JUSTICE BREWER'S SPEECH

The Meeting Not Intended To Trespass Upon Any Prerogative of the Senate. Much Enthusiasm Aroused. Resolutions Adopted.

Washington, Jan. 27.—A very distinguished audience, representative of influential, social and religious elements of the national capital, filled the Grand Opera house last evening "to attest their approbation of the great principle of international arbitration as embodied in the treaty between this republic and Great Britain now pending in the senate."—Hon. John W. Foster, ex-secretary of state, who called the meeting to order, pointedly disclaimed any purpose of criticizing or seeking unduly to hasten or influence the action of the senate. He said he recognized the senate as a co-ordinate branch of the government. He closed by saying: "I venture, however, to say, speaking for myself, that the final action of the senate will not be such as to defeat the treaty which is desired by the great majority of the people of the United States, and whose defeat would discredit this government in the eyes of the world." The outcome of the meeting was the unanimous adoption of a resolution declaring that, "believing this treaty to be a distinct advance toward the best civilization, and trusting that it may prove a helpful example for other nations, we shall hail with joy and patriotic pride its confirmation by the senate of the United States." Gardner G. Hubbard was the presiding officer. Professor B. L. Whitman of Columbian university made some pointed remarks about two diseases prevailing in American social life, one known as anglomania and another disease, largely political in its character, known as anglophobia. He claimed that anglophobia was as unreasonable as anglomania was ridiculous. Ex-senator John B. Henderson, formerly of Missouri, now of Washington, delivered a vigorous address in support of the general principle of arbitration, in which he incidentally criticized the tone of President Cleveland's Venezuelan message, and asked if arbitration was good for England and Venezuela why not good for England and the United States? It was reserved to Associate Justice Brewer of the United States supreme court to rouse the meeting to its highest point of enthusiasm. Justice Brewer began by saying that he had come here to be counted in favor of an arbitration treaty. "When I say that," continued Justice Brewer, "I do not want to be considered as one who would trespass upon the prerogative of the senate to make a careful canvass of every line of the treaty. It is the senate's duty to consider that treaty carefully, and when I say that, I say it is no trespass upon their rights for American citizens to express their views of that treaty. In spite of all the intimations I see in the press, I believe that the senate will not declare itself 'in favor of the law, but against its enforcement.' They will act upon it with the desire to do the best for the interests not alone of this country, but of the world. (Applause.) I know judges make mistakes. Having been on the bench many years, I know it is dangerous to submit grave questions to such a tribunal. But, then, what are the errors and losses incidental to arbitration compared to the horrors of war? (Applause.) What are a few million dollars of wrongful damages in comparsion to the sacrifice of thousands of human lives?" He declared in ringing tones his opinion that the United States had now an opportunity which if once lost might never be regained. Gov. Stanard of St. Louis, from the national board of trade, presented the resolutions in favor of arbitration adopted by that body. A letter was read from Cardinal Gibbons fully endorsing that treaty, and after the benediction had been pronounced the meeting adjourned.

Elopers Arrested.

COLD MOVING SOUTH

Temperature Rising in North from Atlantic Coast Westward.

CHANGE, HOWEVER, COMING SLOW

In Chicago the Mercury Climbs to the Zero Mark---Little Relief in the Far West---Intense Suffering Among the Poor People.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The temperature has risen slowly from the Atlantic coast westward over the Ohio and upper Mississippi valleys and the northwest. It continues low and has fallen slightly in the southwest and it has fallen decidedly on the central gulf and west Florida coasts where it is below freezing. There has been little change in temperature in Florida and as this region is covered with an area of rain it is probable that the cold wave will not extend to the south of Jacksonville with sufficient intensity to cause injury to crops. The temperature will remain about stationary today in the middle Atlantic states north of Virginia with fair weather, and it will rise slowly in the central valleys with light local snows. The high winds which have prevailed on the Atlantic coast north of Hatteras, due to the depression in the lower St. Lawrence valley, have been succeeded by brisk northwesterly winds which will continue to-night.

NOT SO COLD IN CHICAGO.

The Mercury To-day Climbs Up to the Zero Mark.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Bitterly cold weather, aggravated by wind, continues to afflict the poor people of Chicago and make the lot of those more fortunate at least uncomfortable and attended with danger from frost bites. At midnight last night the official record was that of three successive days of a temperature below zero and in the double figures most of that time, too. It is not so cold today, but the mercury is still hovering around the zero mark. An unknown man was found frozen to death on the outskirts of the village of Tinley Park, near Blue Island, on the Rock Island railroad yesterday. James McCormick and George Werntz, a telegraph operator, were found near together on Wells street with both their hands frozen. Many less severe cases of freezing were reported from police stations and drug stores, where most of the victims took refuge. The cry of suffering for want of heat and food and sufficient clothing has been answered by a general and generous contribution of money, food and clothing.

Cold Wave in Missouri.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 27.—The thermometer at midnight last night registered 2 degrees below zero, two degrees warmer than yesterday, but the indication is that the cold wave will continue for several days. The Missouri river is frozen solid from bank to bank. There is much suffering among poor, applications to the charities being unusually heavy. Reports from Kansas show that the cold wave has the state tight in its grasp.

Cold Weather in Kentucky.

Louisville, Jan. 27.—The thermometer registered 4 degrees below zero last night. Heavy ice is running in the Ohio and two more days of extreme weather will gorge the river in the narrow places between Louisville and Cincinnati and cause the suspension of navigation.

Ice Bridge at Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Jan. 27.—An ice bridge has formed in the gorge, extending from the upper suspension bridge to the rapids. The ice scenery around the cataract is magnificent. The weather contines very cold.

20 Below in Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 27.—The thermometer at midnight was 9 below in this city, 20 at Valentine and 6 at North Platte. Live stock in the state is not suffering.

Bryan Thanks Tammany.

New York, Jan. 27.—At a meeting of the Tammany Hall general committee last night the following letter, addressed to John C. Sheehan, from Wm. J. Bryan was read: "I wish you would express to Tammany Hall my appreciation of the services rendered by the organization during the campaign just closed. They did their duty and did it well and are not to blame for my defeat. To you I am specially indebted. Our cause will yet triumph."

An American's Success Abroad.

An old story revived by the late historic festival in Plymouth is about Joseph Bartlett, an American lawyer, who went to England shortly after the close of the revolutionary war. One evening he strayed into a theater and found the actors performing a species of satire on the war. A company of American soldiery was introduced—a ragged, motley set—armed with scythes, hammers and soldering irons. In contrast there moved across the stage a troop of British warriors in fine gay trappings and glittering arms. The difference was amusing, and the British audience laughed. In the midst of the merriment Lawyer Joe arose and shouted: "Long live his majesty, King George of England, whipped by sailors, tinkers and cobblers!" There was a profound hush. For a second it seemed as though the American would pay for his temerity with his life, but admiration for his pluck won the day, and the ominous silence was broken with a ringing cheer.

Two Horses.

The editor of the New York Christian Advocate learned not long since from a coachman that horses are not unlike human beings. He writes: Riding in a friend's carriage one day, we noticed that the coachman made constant efforts to restrain one of the horses and to hasten the other. As the pair were handsome and perfectly mated, we said: "What is the difference between these horses, that you are constantly touching up one and holding in the other?" Said he: "The one that I whip cannot possibly overwork himself. I will not say that he is lazy, but he is so made up that he never can and never will do himself any damage. It would be impossible to whip him so hard that he would hurt himself. The other can trot a mile in less than 2:25, and he would trot from the love of it until he dropped dead. Hot or cold, he does his best."

Measuring Its Own Velocity.

By means of an electrical device experimenters, acting for the United States board of ordnance, have recently succeeded in obtaining photographic records of the motion of a projectile while yet inside the bore of a cannon. The projectile carries a rod of wood attached to its front end, and copper rings, encircling this rod at fixed intervals, successively form electric contacts as the rod is driven from the gun. Each of these contacts produces an automatic record on a photographic plate. The Scientific American, in describing the apparatus and experiments, says that the shortest distance traveled by the projectile between two successive records was 3.7 centimetres, which is a little less than an inch and a half, and that some of the time intervals between the records were only one-two-thousandth of a second.

Indictment of Seeley and Others.

New York, Jan. 27.—Herbert Barnum Seeley, James H. Phipps and Theodore Rich, who were indicted yesterday for their participation in the events connected with the recent dinner given by Mr. Seeley at Sherry's, the indictments charging them with conspiring to procure an improper performance by two dancers, will be required to plead to the indictment in the court of general sessions to-day.

France and the United States.

Paris, Jan. 27.—It is semi-officially announced that if the negotiations for an arbitration treaty are resumed between France and the United States it will not be until the Anglo-American treaty is definitely concluded.

American Girl to Wed Abroad.

London, Jan. 27.—The betrothal is announced of Miss Alice Harper, daughter of the late Henry Harper of Philadelphia, to Capt. Phillips, formerly of the Thirteenth hussars.

Jones Re-elected Senator.

Carson City, Nev., Jan. 27.—John P. Jones has been re-elected as United States senator by the Nevada legislature, both houses voting separately.

Fourth-class Postmasters.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The following fourth-class postmasters have just been appointed: New York—Mrs. S. A. Roberts, Riders Mills; Mrs. L. E. Lard, South Onondaga. Pennsylvania—M. L. Hartman, Schaefferstown; A. B. Lesher, Shoemakersville.

Pension for Dr. Barnard.

Hartford, Jan. 27.—In the house a bill has been presented by Representative McLean of Portland providing a pension of $1,000 per year for Dr. Henry Barnard, the veteran educator.

Not Guilty of Embezzlement.

Columbus, O., Jan. 27.—L. A. Culver, president of the Logan, O., bank, who has been on trial for the last week at that place on the charge of embezzlement, has been acquitted by a jury.

Fitchburg Railroad Bonds.

Boston, Jan. 27.—The railroad commissioners have approved the issue of $2,750,000 of 4 per cent. thirty-year bonds by the Fitchburg Railroad company for the purpose of refunding.

Clevelands Dined by the Lamonts.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The president and Mrs. Cleveland were entertained at dinner last evening by the Secretary of War and Mrs. Lamont.

would make no impression on the number of the germs of consumption that exist in one affected lung. All germs are little enough, but those which cause consumption are very minute. Cod-liver oil won't kill them. We don't know a remedy which will. The germs float in the air and we can't keep from breathing them into our lungs. Then why don't all of us have consumption? Because a healthy throat, sound lungs, and a strong constitution won't allow the germs to gain a foothold.

U. P. RECRGANIZATION.

Some Modification of the Bond Issue Plan Necessary.

New York, Jan. 27.—The reorganization committee of the Union Pacific railway met yesterday afternoon and reached the conclusion that some modifications in the reorganization plan were necessary. In order to limit the issue of new first mortgage bonds for reorganization purposes to $75,000,000 it was decided that two classes of the junior securities, the Union Pacific sinking fund bonds and the Kansas Pacific consolidated bonds, should receive a smaller per centage of first mortgage bonds and a larger percentage of preferred stock than under the original arrangement. The exact proportion of bonds and stock was left for future consideration. The whole issue of the first mortgage bonds will be $100,000,000, but $25,000,000 will be reserved for the future needs of the reorganized company. Deposits of Union Pacific sinking fund bonds and Kansas Pacific consolidated bonds will be accepted up to February 25 only. The committee states that modifications in other features of the reorganization plan appear not to be required, but the plan will not be declared operative until it is assured that the final effect of the arrangement for the settlement of the debt to the government will create no conditions other than those which now exist.

LILIUOKALANI RECEIVES.

Numerous Washington Women Call on the Deposed Queen.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Liliuokalani, ex-queen of Hawaii, received in her apartments at the Shoreham last evening, assisted by Miss Kia Nahoolena and attended by Joseph Helelulu, members of her suite. Although it was not generally understood that the reception was public, several hundred ladies, well known in the official and social circles of the capital, for the most part impelled by curiosity, presented themselves and were introduced by Julius N. Palmer, who invariably addressed Mrs. Dominis as "your majesty" and spoke of her to the visitors as "her royal highness." Those who conversed with the ex-queen found her an intelligent, graceful, dignified hostess, and doubtless as the result with which she greeted her callers, invitations will be extended to her, and she will probably hereafter be seen at many functions while the gay season lasts. If that was the idea of the reception, it was cleverly carried out, and will prove a great success, for the ex-queen clearly intimated to all questioners that she was delighted with Washington and its people and had no idea of leaving hastily. She gave to some the impression that she might like to stay here always.

LOSS OVER $1,500,000

Sixty Buildings Destroyed by Philadelphia's Great Fire.

MANY PEOPLE VIEW THE RUINS

Mr. Wanamaker Now Places His Loss at $100,000 with No Insurance—Change of the Wind Probably Saved Much Other Property.

Philadelphia, Jan. 27.—Although the weather continues extremely cold thousands of people have visited the ruins of yesterday's great fire, the most destructive conflagration, in fact, that has visited the Quaker city in years. Several engines played streams of water on the ruins all last night and to the ruins great icicles are formed and the streets and sidewalks in the vicinity are coated with waves of ice, forming a somewhat fantastic scene. Although the Wanamaker store escaped serious damage by the flames, the destruction being confined to the clock tower and part of the roof, great damage was done by water, and Mr. Wanamaker places his loss at $100,000. He carried his own insurance. The whole block on the north side of Market street from Thirteenth to Juniper and from Market to Filbert streets is in ruins, and the estimated total loss of $1,500,000 is probably conservative. Outside of John A. Felt, who fell dead from excitement while assisting in removing goods from a store, no lives were lost, although there were several narrow escapes. The two firemen who were injured by falling walls are not very badly hurt. It is now known that the fire started in a bakery which was operated by Hanscom Bros. in connection with their grocery store and which was located in the basement thereof. Hanscom Bros. occupied a portion of the lower floor and basement of the six-story building leased by Hirsch Bros., extensive umbrella manufacturers, and the flames were first seen by an employe of the latter firm. The Hirsch building, which was totally destroyed, was owned by the H. C. Gibson estate and its approximate value was $500,000. The property is partially covered by insurance. The various properties in the block that were either destroyed or badly damaged, no structure escaping injury, were, in addition to the Hirsch building, as follows: Hillan's drug store, J. Nicolays & Co., confectioners; Sterner & Hall, cigars and tobacco; H. D. Roberts & Co., and the Mizpah restaurant; Blum Bros., cloak manufacturers, Marshall's restaurant, Wells' hat store, James Dickson, heaters; Alfred Godwin, stained glass; Showell & Fryer, grocers; Jacob Miller, men's furnishing store; Jarblis, cigars; McCune, pictures; E. Pitber, notions and stationery; S. S. Shull, drugs; A. Heines, bakery, and the Cafe de Blumberg, 18 and 20 North Thirteenth; Budd & Kite, jewelers; Huber & Weber, opticians; J. H. Stoll, jeweler; W. F. Steif, wall paper; Foley, oyster house; Gallagher & Longheim, leather; Furlong's saloon; the building 1304 Filbert street, occupied by a dozen tenants; the seven story building, 1306 to 1310 Filbert, the first floor occupied by the Collings Carriage company, and the upper floors by the Dunlap Printing company. Other property in the block, which are not numerated in the above, also suffered. A dozen business places on the east side of Thirteenth street and between Market and Filbert streets were damaged, principally by smoke and water. Mayor Warwick said this morning: "This has been one of the most awful visitations of fire we have had in years. Such work as our firemen have done has never been excelled. At one time the Wanamaker store was in danger of destruction and if that had gone, there is no estimating what the result might have been. The downfall of the wind was a merciful occurence. With a high wind continuing the conflagration might have spread over a great area." In all sixty buildings were destroyed.

TO MUCH RETICENCE.

Speaking frankly, it is a bit surprising to view the policy of the gentlemen who are going actively ahead in the movement looking towards a consolidation of the city and borough, in their attitude to the public press. Though they depend in a great degree on the co-operation of the newspapers to further the plans which they hope to see consummated, there was a profound air of reticence surrounding the meeting last night, so far as an opportunity of acquainting the newspapers with its purport was concerned. No newspaper representative was invited to be present, though the proceedings were of the highest import to the public. Of course, a report was furnished to the papers this morning, but in a matter where there should be no individuality and in which the public is wholly concerned, it seems odd that it should have been so.

MAY NOT REAPPOINT MARX.

There is a likelihood that George Marx will not be reappointed by Mayor Fisk as Overseer of the Poor. While we know nothing of Mr. Fisk's mind in this respect, it is said that he is not inclined to continue a naturalized citizen in office when there are other creditable applicants for the place. Israel D. TenEyck, who was a candidate last year, and Charles VanWinckle, a Republican worker, are mentioned as candidates for the place.

MR. NEWMAN DECLINES.

H. O. Newman told a Press representative this morning that he would not accept the City Treasurership under any conditions. J. Howard Leggett, the East Front street druggist, has made formal application for the office. Among other names mentioned are W. T. Arnold, William Newcorn, Charles Van Winkle, Frank Dunham, Arthur L. Titsworth, George D. Hallock and J. W. Murray, Jr.

TWO MEMBERS' TERMS END.

LAST OF PRESENT HEALTH BOARD.

President Geo. Rockfellow and Secretary H. O. Newman Retire.

The present Board of Health of the city held its last meeting last evening and completed its work for the year. The ordinance required by the State law, relating to the connection of all houses with the sewer, was read for the third time and then unanimously passed. While the ordinance states that all buildings shall be connected with the sewer, the Board will give property owners time in which to make the connections and will enforce the ordinance with discretion. Other routine matters were attended to by the Board.

George W. Rockfellow and H. O. Newman are the two members of the Board whose terms run out the first of February. Mayor Fisk will appoint new members to the Board at the meeting on Monday night. Mr. Rockfellow is the present president of the Board and Mr. Newman the secretary. They were elected to the offices of the Board.

A number of the congregation of the First M. E. church are agitating the questiong of changing the location of the parsonage. It is said that the present parsonage on Grove street is too far from the church for the convenience of the pastor.

ABOUT THE ANNEXATION

get a low rate it is simply necessary to put the valuation up and vice versa, but no such juggling has occurred in our case. The best judgment obtained from those who ought to be well informed on this subject is that valuations in the city are generally a little below 50 per cent while in the borough they are a li tle above 50 per cent. Union County tax rate for last year was 53 cents on the $100. Somerset county tax rate was 54 cents on the $100. Both of these rates are high—that in Union because of her good roads and that in Somerset because of floods and bad roads. Another mistaken idea prevails as to the comparative expense of maintaining the city. The city rate for 1896 is 50 cents on the $100, this includes police, lights, Board of Health and road or street expenses. The corresponding items in the borough foot up 53 cents on the $1.00, so that in these two important items of "City" and "County" taxes the present rates are lower in the city than in the borough even at existing valuations. These figures may be verified by anyone who will take the trouble to compare the assessors tax bills for 1896. In some other items the reverse is true, as for instance in the Fire Department tax the rate in the city is .22, while it is only .15 in the borough. State and special school taxes in the borough foot up .78, while those in the city including "Bonds tax" are .86 These figures only prove one thing, and that is that taxes in Plainfield and North Plainfield are about equal, and so the question of inequality of taxation can exert no influence against consolidation.

"It has been said that the borough is better off as it is, controlling its own affairs, while if joined to Plainfield it would be but an outlying ward. The borough is too big in property, too strong in influence and already too near the main arteries of the city to be cut off with a shilling in the distribution of spoils. It will not be to the interests of the city to neglect so strong a limb of its being, and as the greatest growth of cities is usually to the westward, we might expect increased development and growth in the borough, thus adding taxable property. The borough with, perhaps, four members in the City Council would be able to hold her own until that time when all lines of separation would be lost, and Green brook would become but a peaceful twin to that amphibious trail called Cedar brook.

"Let us look at some of the reasons in favor of consolidation:

"1—It is one of the fundamental maxims of business and Government that two men should not be employed to do work, which can be done equally as well by one. Two Mayors, two Councils, two clerks, two attorneys, two tax assessors, two collectors, two street commissioners, two chiefs of police, two fire chiefs, two overseers of the poor, are unnecessary in this little circle of ours. It is simply extravagance in time and money. Not one of us would think of keeping up such an organization in his own business.

"2—Joint co-operation in building and maintaining sewers and other improvements would reduce the per capita expense and aid in getting the best results. A community of twenty thousand might afford to go to tide-water for sewage disposal, while one of half the population might not. Plainfield's present system is probably the best under existing circumstances but think of the folly of North Plainfield building its own system to tide-water, or maintaining separate disposal beds! Are the intelligent taxpayers of the borough ready to buy property in the face of the fact that the city's beds are big enough for two? Will they be willing to employ men to take care of them when the men employed by the city can attend to both? The alternative is to go to tide-water at an expense which makes it prohibitive. Yet who will deny that the borough must in time be sewered? It will not do to rely forever on our gravel soil. It is difficult to convince intelligent people that one portion of a town with cesspools is as good a place to live in as another with sewers.

"3—The administration of justice is retarded by the present condition. The authority of the city and borough police stops at the county line, so that criminals escape capture by flight across the brook. The only magistrates in the borough are justices of the peace, hence important civil and criminal cases must go to Somerville, an inconvenience and expense in time and money. Plainfield has only a city court which has many limitations. Consolidation would probably entitle the city to a district court for cases now tried in Elizabeth. Need one ask for a better reason for union than that it will aid in the administration of justice?

"4—Municipal improvements are retarded by the lack of political co-operation between the two towns. Much of the delay in opening up Watchung avenue was due to this conflict. The streets in the city which lead to the brook are in bad condition, because of neglect and a feeling that if anything is done our neighbor will get the benefit of it. Sycamore avenue in the borough has recently been cut through to Front street at private expense, and it will probably be a difficult matter to get the chairman of the street committee in Plainfield to accept and care for the little spur on his side because those foreigners in the borough will get all the benefit and should pay the tax. No such conditions would arise if we were united. If a bridge is needed across the brook it will not be built until the two boards of chosen (and very precious) freeholders are brought together each in their respective county seats. Think of this kind of home rule! A board of freeholders in Somerville and another in Elizabeth passing on the question whether or not Plainfield can have a bridge for one of its streets!

"5—Free access to the public schools and to the public library is much to be desired. The High School of the city is not free to borough residents. A free library is a fruitful source of cultivation and enlightenment; it is open to the poor as well as to the rich, and the charge which is made for residents of the borough, even though it be small, is nevertheless a barrier to its general use.

"6. The laws that govern cities are not the same as those that govern boroughs, hence where the two are practically merged in one there is an inequality of conditions. The difference in the saloon license tends to drive the saloon into the borough. The laws compel them to close at eleven o'clock at night in the city while in the borough they keep open till twelve and sometimes later. After eleven at night the city empties its saloon refuse into the borough. I have known this to result in so much disorder as to require a special officer to look after the regions of the bridge at night.

"7. A single Board of Health would probably clean the filth from the brook and maintain it in a proper condition. What is everybody's business is nobody's business, and in spite of laws, threats and wrangles the brook is still the same foul and unkept thing—an open letter.

"8. One fire department with all that this implies.

"9. One police department.

"10. Lower taxes because of the increase in the per capita.

"11. The borough is now contributing to build up and extend the business district in the city and without getting any benefit from taxation.

"12. The population of Plainfield is 13,629, that of North Plainfield, 4,879. The influence of Plainfield would be extended The rating is now too low because it is based on the population of the city alone, while in reality the borough should be added. Post offices and other privileges are based on population.

"But you will ask how can union be brought about? The friends of this movement are united only in their desire for consideration by that means which is the most equitable. An act of the Legislature should be the first move, next a vote of the people. Four plans have been proposed, as follows:

"1—Consolidation without changing the county lines.

"2—To take a slice from Somerset county thereby bringing North Plainfield into union.

"3—Adding Plainfield to Somerset county.

"4—A new county."

Attached herewith is a map which has been prepared in aid of this movement and which shows county and municipal lines. Much progress has already been made in cultivating public opinion.

All present were enthusiastic in their determination to promote the consolidation of the City and Borough.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Laing are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Hayden, of Waterford, Me.

Rev. A. F. Todd occupied the pulpit in the Presbyterian church Sunday morning and evening.

Miss Maggie Cross, of Newark, is spending a few days with Miss Lydia VanDeventer, on Centre street.

Miss Fanny Jennings, of Greenbrook, is lying dangerously ill at her home, suffering from Bright's disease.

The members of Bucket and Engine Co., No. 1, will meet on Thursday evening for the transaction of some important business.

William Gulick, who has been suffering from an affliction to one of his eyes, is better, and the sight has been almost fully restored.

On Sunday, February 7th, Bishop Scarborough, of this diocese, will pay an official visit to Holy Innocent's church, and conduct confirmation services.

Dunellen's budget of taxes is now due and payable to the collector. If they are not paid on or before February 1st, the names of the delinquents will be returned to the District Court and additional costs will be added.

A regular meeting of Court Dunellen, No. 1128, I. O. F., was held Monday evening, with Chief Ranger Snyder in the chair. One new member was proposed and the proposition will be acted upon at the meeting two weeks hence.

Central Railroad Conductor Whitfield Barber, who has been connected with the road for the past 33 years, resigned Tuesday, when the new time table went. He lives with his family in Phillipsburg, and according to the new schedule of trains he was either left in Mauch Chunk or Jersey City each night and this he didn't like.

The committee on athletic sports, in connection with the Dunellen Athletic Association, will hold a meeting at the home of one of the members, as yet to be announced, some evening this week, probably Thursday, for the purpose of devising new plans and adopting some system for raising the necessary cash for the erection of the proposed new club house.

Willard Apgar, son of Contractor John Apgar, while at work in the planing mill here Tuesday afternoon, had a narrow escape from perhaps fatal injury. He was at work around the steam boiler, when the water guage was blown off with great force, striking him and knocking off his hat. He was stunned for the time and suffered mainly from shock. The escaping steam nearly scalded Pax VanArsdale, who was in the shop at the time, and who had the presence of mind to run into the yard, where his clothing actually froze on his body.

SCOTCH PLAINS

Mrs. Ella Pierce has returned to her home at Manasquan after a few days' visit with Mr. and Mrs. John H. Blimm.

The report that Thomas Collins was to participate in a glove contest is erroneous. Mr. Collins is not in any sense a "sport."

The many friends of Mrs. W. H. Turton will regret to learn that she is very ill at home suffering from pneumonia. Dr. Westcott is the physician in charge.

Real Estate Agent Thomas M. Paff is holding himself in readiness to meet the members of the New York syndicate, who are expected any day now to come out here and buy up large tracts of land on the mountainside.

On the evening of Wednesday, Feb. 10th, there will be a grand stereopticon exhibition for the benefit of the organ fund of the Baptist church. The object of the entertainment is to raise funds to defray the expenses of removing the organ from the rear of the church to the front.

Executor Wm. Stanbery, who is settling up the estate of the late James A. Baker, hopes to complete the auction sale of goods this week. An inventory of the stock had not been taken before in twelve or fifteen years, and much stock had accumulated that would now scarcely bring the cost price.

The amateur dramatic entertainment for the benefit of the public library, which was held in the truck house Monday evening, was a grand success in every way, and the profits will prove as a nucleus for the enterprise. The programme included music, a farce entitled "First Aid to the Injured," and a two-act play, "A Box of Monkeys." Those who took part and aided materially in making the entertainment a success were: Mrs. Beasley, Miss Poole, Miss Kennedy, Miss Frentz, Miss Kyte, Miss McInerney, Mr. Cottrell and Max Sykes. Miss McInerney and Mr. Sykes were elevated in the estimation of the audience to a point "out of sight" for their clever work. In fact each and everyone who took part acquitted themselves admirably.

THEATRICAL.

A pressure of important news matter on the local columns prevents an extended criticism of the performance of Chevalier at Music Hall last night, but it can be said that he is the greatest character actor that has ever been seen in this city. The audience that greeted him was a large and fashionable one.

O'Dowd's Neighbors, announced to appear at Music Hall presented by Murry and Murphy's comedians, headed by the inimitable Mark Murphy, promises to be one of the best entertainments that has visited our city for years. The comedy enjoyed a long and successful run at both New York city and Chicago and was heartily commended by the press and approved by the public. A large number of new plays were launched on the theatrical boards last year and but few of them are to be again seen this season. O'Dowd's Neighbor's, however, are among those who revisit us and from the excellent impression made on the former visit, it no doubt be anxiously looked for by all old friends and many new ones. The organization is as usual headed by Mark Murphy, who has been surrounded by one of the strongest acting companies that could be procured.

Magician Kellar is the only man who ever took a conjurer's show through India and around the world. India is the hot-bed of street fakirs, necromancers and magicians, of all sorts, from the poorest to the most expert of the wonderful Mahatmas, and Mr. Kellar saw them all. His narrations of their weird work are as interesting as tales from the Arabian Nights, but some of the adventures he met, he does not look back upon with pleasure. When in Burhma he was invited to go to the capital and give an entertainment in the royal audience hall, before the king. The acceptance of the invitation entailed a journey of 700 miles up the Irrawaddy river, from Rangoon to Mandalay and thence to the Court of Ava. The king expected to see a magician who performed simple tricks, after the manner of his own magicians, but when Mr. Kellar presented some of his spiritualistic cabinet seances, the old monarch declared that he was in league with the devil and caused him to be arrested and detained as a prisoner, together with all of his assistants. After ten days Kellar and his company escaped to Mandalay, with the assistance of Rev. Mr. Walsh, an American missionary at the court of Ava, but all the magical paraphernalia and the cabinet which got him into trouble, are still in the hands of the old king's successor at the palace. Kellar comes to the Music Hall, Friday evening, Jan. 29.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. E. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject. He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." JOKE AND STEP TO FILL IN.

Crescent Wheelmen Will Have an Entertaining Programme.

The Crescent Wheelmen's minstrels are only a week off and all is activity among the members who are going to take part in the entertainment. Rehearsals are being held every night of some part of the show and everybody is working hard to get ready for the event. The different couples in the proposed cake walk are practicing their little tricks on the sly, for all are anxious to be the shining light in the affair. Those taking part in the overture that opens the performance have their parts down pretty well and the rehearsals in that direction have been very satisfactory. The dance which is to be given by eight of the young men of the club promises to make a great hit when brought before the public.

There has been some doubt at what the specialties are to be but the committee has decided that they will have nothing unless it is first-class. Bob. Whittaker is excellent in his bareback act and the committee have several other specialties in mind, some already decided upon, which will undoubtedly please the big audience that will gather at Music Hall next Tuesday night.

THREE ODD PETS.

A Monster Cow and a White Wolf with Blue Eyes.

An Intelligent Rooster—If Their Offspring Resemble Them They Will Originate New Varieties.

[COPYRIGHT. 1896.]

A cow, a wolf, and a rooster; it is an odd triumvirate. The greatest of the three is the cow, for she weighs no less than a ton and a half. In these days of prize beef, there is nothing very surprising about an ox that weighs a ton; but when, as in this case, a cow not only attains but greatly exceeds that weight, it is quite another matter.

This largest of cows is the pride of Tulare, Cal. She stands exactly 16 hands high, or, in ordinary measurement, five feet, 14 inches. She is beautifully proportioned, and as gentle as the gentlest of her kind. She weighs 3,000 pounds, and contrary to all precedent, is a good milker too. At her best, she has been known to yield four gallons of milk a day. The milk, too, is of extraordinary richness, and the butter obtained from the cream is so excellent as to bring almost double the ordinary price.

This huge animal is seven feet, eight inches in length. All this growth has been attained in six years, and one of the strangest facts in connection with the animal is that she is still growing. Her owner is firm in the belief that if she is allowed time she will tip the beam some day at two tons.

Following the same route to fame is the calf of this formidable animal. Though only nine months old, it is already as large as any ordinary cow, and is growing at an astonishing rate. It weighs a hundred pounds for every month of its age, and from present indications in a few years will rival its giant mother. The mother is valued at $2,500; no valuation has ever been placed on the calf, and money will not buy it. Taken altogether, the pair can truthfully be termed the star attraction of Tulare county.

THREE REMARKABLE ANIMALS.

There is little in common between a cow and a wolf, but in this instance both have achieved greatness in all senses of the term. While the giant cow is browsing in the succulent pastures of California, the biggest wolf, and the only white wolf ever captured in Texas is snarling and pulling at the end of a big chain on a ranch near Grady, in that state.

Though a large specimen, the actual size of this wolf is not so very great, because he is of a small variety, the coyote—but it is only second to the hyena in the horrible sensation produced by its howl. A white wolf, however, is a rara avis, and this one has a temper that, for the particular species to which he belongs, is as extraordinary as the color of his fur. The coyote is a coward by nature. No specimen was ever known to make a fair fight. Indeed, the coyote has been justly called the American jackal. Mr. McComb, who captured this remarkable animal, tells a graphic story of how he managed to lariat his prize. This is what he said to the writer:

"To understand about the capture of this white wolf of mine it is necessary to know something about the nature of the country where he was captured. The face of the land is very broken. Often you will encounter canyons 300 feet deep; a good share of the country round about Grady is of such a nature as to render it almost impossible for a man to travel through it on horseback. If he wants to see what it is like he has got to foot it, and I don't mind saying that's a job that there is no pleasure in. Naturally, the country is thinly settled, and it really isn't of much use to anybody but stockmen.

"Several weeks ago while I was riding on my ranch I saw what I took to be a white wolf. When I saw the wolf it was too near the thick and almost impenetrable cedar brakes for me to try to capture it on horseback. I kept a lookout, however, and a few days afterward one of my riders saw it near the ranch. It seemed to have a fondness for that section of the country, and every once in awhile I would hear about it or see it. Often it came within range of my gun, but I didn't want to kill it. It was very sly, however, and at no time could anybody find it far enough from the brakes to admit of its being caught.

"On one occasion we chased the beast about a half mile, keeping the rope circling round our heads all the while, but we could not get near enough to rope it. I saw that it was no use to try this sort of thing, and so I began setting common steel traps for it near the house. You see, it had got into the habit of coming around the house to catch chickens. I kept the traps set for two weeks without any result, but at last, on examining them, I noticed a streak of white circling a small mesquite tree, and at short intervals pieces of the bark and limbs would fly from the tree. Then I knew I had got my wolf.

"I routed the boys out and we went to the place. There he was, fast in the trap, and the maddest and ugliest brute you ever set your eyes on. Big? Why, I never saw such a coyote in my life, and he had more grit than a whole regiment of the ordinary kind. After we had him in the trap, however, we were too much for him. After we had a couple of lariats on him we held him tight and took the trap off his foot. Then we fastened a stout chain round his neck and attached him to a tree.

"There has been a regular stream of visitors here to see him ever since. Among those who come are a good many men who have grown gray on the Texas frontier, and they all declare that among the thousands of coyotes they have seen they never even caught a glimpse before of one that was white.'

The wolf is a curosity in several ways, not only for his size, temper and color but for his eyes, which are a deep, hand some blue. Nobody ever heard before of a wolf with blue eyes. Unquestionably he is the greatest curiosity of this kind that has ever been captured in the United States.

From the giant cow of California and the white wolf of Texas to the educated rooster of Putnam, Conn., is a far cry. His advent into the family which has brought him fame was made in a dog's mouth. He has become the particular pet of little Judith Hopkins, and she tells the story of her favorite in this way:

"One day about a year ago a strange dog came running into the yard with a bantam rooster in his mouth, which he buried under the leaves, supposing it to be dead. Soon after the dog left the rooster came out of the earth and ran away.

"With the help of a bird dog we drove him to our home. For a few weeks he spent most of the time under the piazza. As cold weather came on he began to come out on the piazza and to fly up to the window and allow himself to be taken in. At night we kept him in a barrel down cellar, and he soon came to be very tame. One day in spring we were playing with the wheelbarrow, and we put him on it, and as he did not fly off we thought we would try him in a doll carriage. We found that we could draw him around as we wished.

"We often cover him with a blanket, and he does not mind it at all. At one time he was left alone with us for two hours in a carriage. He did not jump out in all that time. I would rather have my rooster than a bicycle."

LACK OF EDUCATION.

The Convicted Forger Admitted That It Ruined Him for Life.

A certain philanthropic woman has a theory that the remedy for crime is universal education, says the New York Journal. A short time ago she visited Sing Sing in company with several friends. Among the convicts was a man whose face betokened intelligence. She called the attention of her friend to him, saying: "There is a man whose countenance shows natural intelligence, and yet I am satisfied that he was deprived of an education.

"I'll wager that he is well educated," said one of her friends, and, turning to the warden, asked:

"What was that man convicted of?"

"Forgery," was the response.

"See?" said the friend, turning to the lady.

"Well, I don't care. I do not believe he is an educated man. I want to talk to him."

Permission was obtained, and the following colloquy ensued:

"Did you have the advantage of an education?"

"No, ma'am."

"Don't you think if you had received a liberal education you would have been a free man?"

"I know it, ma'am."

"I told you so," turning to her friend, and then speaking to the convict again, she said:

"You feel within yourself, do you not, that knowledge would have directed you into paths of rectitude?"

"I don't know about that, but I do know that if I had been properly educated I would not have spelled 'bearer' with a double r, and that's what got me caught."

Liszt's Wonderful Skill.

The most skillful of all pianists was Liszt. When learning his profession he was accustomed to practice scales and exercises for ten hours a day. It is said that he practiced thus in private for ten years.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE PLATT BANQUET

Many Prominent Republicans Honor the Senator-elect.

A GORGEOUS EVENT AT ALBANY

Several Hundred Women Add to the Splendor of the Scene—Men of National Prominence Make Addresses. Speech of the Guest of Honor.

Albany, Jan. 27.—Hon. Thomas C. Platt was last night honored by an assemblage of prominent republicans gathered from all over the state. The occasion was the banquet tendered to the senator-elect by the New York state league of republican clubs. Harmanus Bleecker hall was the scene of the festivities. The interior decorations and arrangements were both gorgeous and elaborate, consisting of flowers, ferns, palms, flags and banners. This was probably the first occasion where ladies were in attendance at such a large banquet and their presence added much to the gorgeousness of the scene, there being fully three hundred present. It took some time for the guests to be seated. They began arriving at 6 o'clock, but the banquet did not commence until shortly after 7 o'clock. The speakers and invited guests took their seats at that time, walking to the banquet tables in pairs. Mr. Platt came in with President Colvin and the rest followed in order. Mr. Platt took the center seat, facing the body of the house, and next to him was State Treasurer Colvin. The other pairs divided and arranged themselves on each side of the guest of honor. The speakers were United States senator-elect Thomas C. Platt, Gov. Frank S. Black, former United States senator Pitt Kellogg of Louisiana, president D. D. Woodmansee of the national league of republican clubs, Lieut.-Gov. Timothy L. Woodruff, Gen. R. A. Alger of Michigan and Hon. Chauncey M. Depew. Among those who sent letters of regret were the following: Vice-president-elect Garret A. Hobart, J. H. Buck, executive secretary of Connecticut; Roger Wolcott, of executive department of Massachusetts; C. W. Lippett, governor of Rhode Island; Josiah Grant, governor of Vermont; John W. Griggs, governor of New Jersey; Daniel H. Hastings, governor of Pennsylvania; Governor Powers of Maine, United States Senators O. H. Platt, Hale and Frye; ex-United States Senator Mitchell of Pennsylvania, ex-president Benjamin Harrison, Senator Edmonds of Pennsylvania, F. B. Farnsworth, president republican league of Connecticut; J. Heney Gould, president republican league of Massachusetts; Edward C. Reynolds, president republican league of Maine. Telegrams of regret were also received from President-elect McKinley and Mark A. Hanna, chairman of the national republican committee. When Senator-elect Platt was introduced he received a royal welcome. His remarks were interrupted time and again by vociferous applause.

Senator-elect Platt's Speech.

Senator-elect Platt spoke in part as follows: "It is not without hesitation that I have again accepted the responsibilities of public office. Indeed, it seemed as though the temptation to do so had been put by and that the remainder of my life would have no other relation to public affairs than such as become every citizen. Nor could the situation have arisen in which I should have sought even so high an honor as the one just conferred. I shall be acquitted, I think, of any affectation about office-seeking and office-holding, but it is a fact that I have not been a candidate for the senate. I have not asked any member of the legislature to vote for me. I did not even intimate until after the caucus that I should accept the office if it were tendered. That it has come under these circumstances, and with such generous expressions of good will and confidence from republicans throughout the state makes it a pleasing burden and a rich compensation for all that I have done and tried to do in my party's service. Sufficient time has passed since the November election to permit a close examination of its results. It cannot be said that they are wholly satisfactory. The bewildering programme of legislation proposed by Mr. Bryan obtained so great a popular support as to forbid the idea that agitation in its favor will be abandoned, and our democratic friends who, without giving unqualified adhesion to republican principles, nevertheless, constrained by their convictions on the money question to support the republican candidates, should give sober consideration to this fact. It is yet yet certain that any plan for the relief of the treasury can pass the senate as it will be constituted after the 4th of March. The lesson which this possibility teaches to the sound money democrats, and the duty it enforces upon them, seem entirely clear. They must come into the republican party, exert their due influence upon its politics and accept their share of the responsibility for its work. And, without abandoning any vital principle, which they could not ask or expect, we must seek in all we do to hold their confidence and support. There can be no pretence that the American people do not desire to return to the protective policy. The people do not want the Wilson bill patched up. They want it repealed and in its place their plain demand, to which the election of successive majorities in the house of representatives sufficiently testifies, is for the enactment of an intelligent and consistent protective tariff. If there is no other respect in which the country is to be congratulated upon the result of Mr. Cleveland's administration, it may be admitted that since the present secretary of state assumed the direction of our foreign affairs, the position of our country abroad has improved. I have had no fair opportunity to examine the text of the arbitration treaty, or to consider the possibilities that may arise under its various provisions, but with the principle involved it seems as though all civilized men must be sympathetic. I look to see the time when the people of every American country will govern themselves without theoretical or other interfence from any European sovereignity, and the attitude of our people is bound to be one of friendly interest whenever the American subjects of a foreign power decide that the time has come for them to establish a free and independent American state. The attitude of our government, however, cannot always express the sympathies of the people. It has its treaties to observe and its code of public law to respect. Acts of intervention, moreover, involve responsibilities, and these must be assumed with caution. We neither wish to govern Cuba nor to fight Spain, and no act of government should be performed that leads us in the direction of either of these enterprises. Four years ago the thought of to-night's festival would have seemed absurd. Let us take care that four years hence it shall have no such seeming. Let us prove ourselves competent and honest and truly representative of the hopes and impules of the people."

WANT A MODERATE TARIFF.

Report of the Special Committee of Manufacturers' Convention.

Philadelphia, Jan. 27.—The special committee appointed by the national association of manufacturers at their convention to prepare a report on the tariff are practically unanimous in their opinion upon the kind of tariff that is wanted. The report recommends the passage by congress of a tariff bill that will be a mean between the Wilson and McKinley bills. While favoring a tariff imposing higher duties than the present law, the report does not recommend a bill so radical in its imposition of duties as the McKinley law. Duties sufficient to support the government are recommended, and a fair protection to American industries will be advocated. Reciprocity is also urged, and an admonition is conveyed to the ways and means committee of the house of of representatives that the manufacturers of the United States want the new tariff bill prepared and passed with as little delay as possible.

OSAGE INDIAN FRAUDS.

Senator Allen Charges Traders with Extortion in Dealing with Them.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Senator Allen, as a sub-committee of the senate committee on Indian affairs, charged with the duty of investigating certain alleged frauds in connection with the Osage Indian funds, has submitted a very strongly worded report to the senate. The frauds, he says, are so glaring, and yet so easy to remedy, that it is cause for surprise that the interior department has not given it any attention. He asserts that in some instances personal violence has been used to obtain the Indian's check in payment of advances made. Congress, he thinks, should enact such legislation as will protect the Indians in their quarterly payments. The report charges the traders with extortion in their dealings with the Indians. Large sums, it is said, were raised by the licensed traders as "attorney fees" to be used to pay "for influence in securing the payments to the Indians."

American Pilgrims to the Holy Land.

Gibraltar, Jan. 27.—Among the passengers on the North German Lloyd steamer Werra, which has left here for Genoa, is a party of pilgrims from Brooklyn, N. Y., who are bound for the Holy Land. The Werra will take the party to Alexandria, Egypt, whence they will make a tour of Palestine, and upon their return they will visit Rome, where they expect to have an audience with the pope. The pilgrims have with them an American flag, which it is their intention to deposit in the church of the Holy Sepulchre at Jerusalem. They expect that their trip will occupy about two months and a half.

Rough Voyage at Sea.

Boston, Jan. 27.—The German steamer Sprott, in port here from Hamburg, via Dartmouth, encountered fearful weather on the passage, and came in with her cargo shifted and the ship heavily coated with ice from stem to stern. She encountered a violent gale, which blew with unabated fury for forty-eight hours. During the gale one gigantic wave swept over the ship amidships, doing great damage. The second mate and two seamen who were on the bridge at the time narrowly escaped being carried overboard by the torrent of water and were badly injured.

Inheritance Tax Law Constitutional.

Columbus, O., Jan. 27.—The Ohio supreme court yesterday held the state collateral inheritance tax constitutional. It places a tax of 5 per cent. on property descending by inheritance to other than a lineal descendant. It has proved a failure as a revenue getter and little interest was taken in the case.

The Ryan-Tracy Fight.

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 27.—The Ryan-Tracy fight for the welterweight championship of the world, in Syracuse on February 24, is now an assured fact, as a telegram has been received by the local Empire Athletic club from John D. Hopkins of Chicago saying that Tracy has signed the articles.

THROUGH ITALY BY BIKE.

REV. C. E. HERRING RELATES SOME OF HIS INTERESTING EXPERIENCES.

May be Romantic to Find One's Own Way, But Exciting Sometimes, too, So He Advises Tourists to Get a Guide.

"Under the Sunny Sky of Italy" was the subject of Rev. C. E. Herring's illustrated lecture given at the First Presbyterian church, last evening, before a large and interested audience. In one respect the lecture was a decided novelty, for it was unlike most lectures of a similar character. The views were undoubtedly the finest ever witnessed in this city, and they were ardently admired by everyone.

At the start, Mr. Herring told his audience that if anyone ever expected to take a trip abroad he would advise them to secure a first-class guide by all means. He then recommended that they travel by wheel, for it is not only an inexpensive method, but there is an element of freedom about it. One of the great advantages to be gained by this method of travel is that one becomes acquainted with the inner life of the people, their ways and means of living and the language they speak. He said that he and his companion, Fred Bettman, gained a great deal of information by traveling in this way.

A superb view of a handsome cathedral was shown, and Mr. Herring said that a most peculiar thing about it was that the front doors were used for billboards.

An amusing view was that showing the women washing their clothes by the side of the river. In this view there were no less than twenty-five women performing this sort of work, and in connection with this, Mr. Herring said that the Italians seem to adopt extremely hard methods for doing their work.

The speaker gave a thrilling account of a night spent on a mountain in his attempt to reach the top. He was obliged to push his wheel nearly all night and at a late hour he sought shelter at the home of a man who treated him grandly. During the night there was a terrific thunder shower which caused great floods all through that section.

Of Florence, Mr. Herring said, he was very much disappointed, for he had expected to see a great deal more than he did. With Venice he was more than pleased, and especially so with St. Marks.

A peculiar habit practiced in Italy is in the serving of milk. Instead of this commodity being delivered in wagons, the cows and goats are driven along the street and if anyone desires milk the owner stops in front of the house and milks the cow or goat, and in this way serves the milk.

In conclusion several views of a local nature were shown, including Park avenue and the interior of the First Presbyterian church. At the latter place the speaker left his audience, after thanking them for their kind attention.

At an early date Mr. Herring will give a lecture on Rome, which no doubt will be fully as interesting as the one given last evening.

START OF MODERN LIFE

DR. RIGGS DELIVERS HIS THIRD UNIVERSITY EXTENSION LECTURE.

A Large Audience Listens to His Remarks in the Crescent Avenue Church Quoting Historical Facts and Observations.

Even last night's biting cold and wind cold not chill the interest and enthusiasm of a university extension lecture audience, and the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church was crowded with listeners to hear Dr. James F. Riggs' third lecture on "Vital Forces in Modern History." The subject of this lecture was "Beginnings of Modern Life," and Dr. Riggs said, in part:

Changes come slowly, yet they do come at last, and the most substantial institutions are effected thereby. In our complex civilization we have a singular blending of things new and old.

A very remarkable bridge, provided by God in his mercy, reaching from the classic Roman Empire to modern national life, and from the Latin social order to that of our own times, was the feudal system. Feudalism is thus defined by Prof. Stubbs: "A complete organization of society through the medium of land tenure, in which from the king down to the lowest land-owner all are bound together by obligation of service and defense." In this singular system the first thought was of the foreign foe, for the country was in imminent peril of invasion at any time. The second thought was of agriculture.

When the schemes of Charlemagne broke down and his unwieldly empire fell to pieces, feudalism took care of the fragments. Nations, in the modern sense, did not exist at all. What is now France then constituted twenty-nine different States, or baronies. In 1273 the territory now called Germany was split up into 116 ecclesiastical States, or bishopries, and one hundred temporal baronies.

Chivalry was the outgrowth of the feudal conditions. In it the better class of knights banded together to defend the helpless and to defend one another. Though in some ways the system seems to us absurd, yet it rendered a large service to society, to womanhood, to good manners. After it became hurtful the system lost its power, and gradually assumed a new form as the vitality of Europe presented itself in the new national type.

The feudal system was brought to an end chiefly by four facts, the growth of commerce, the natural growth of power, the rise of the free cities, and the development of a middle class intermediate between the knights and the peasantry.

The ninth century witnessed the outlining of modern kingdoms in a dim and shadowy form. England, a heptarchy, finally yielded in 827 to Egbert of Wessex, who unified the state. Ireland, ravaged by the Danes for many years, was brought into one kingdom by Brian Boru, about 1000. Scotland, a dualism, Picts and Scots, became one under Kenneth II., 843. Denmark, many fragments, united in 863 under Gorn. Norway, the thirteen little sovereignties, united in 880 under Harold, and the people then driven out of the land colonized the islands north of England and Scotland. Sweden, a dualism, Swedes and Goths, united under Eric, who died 885. This state was for many years the foremost power of Northern Europe. In Russia the monarchy was established by Ruric, who died 879; but Russia in the modern sense is the development of recent centuries, since the time of Peter the Great. Central Europe was parcelled out at the treaty of Verdun, 843, but there have been so many changes since that it is hardly fair to press this partition treaty, and it is better to say that Germany, France and Italy are the development of a later period. In each country there was a long and severe struggle, the notion of a true national life finally triumphing, as against the feudal tendency to disintegrate and fall.

The distribution of the population under the feudal system was somewhat different from that which prevailed in classic times, and had a tendency to favor the growth of towns. Arms and ammunition must be had, even if no other form of manufacturing zeal had arisen. The financial question was always pressing for a solution. The landed aristocracy could command lances more easily than money. But the towns did a cash business, and soon became the source of supply in monetary affairs. The result was that loans to men of rank brought in return favors of various sorts; exemptions from annoyance, burdens, and pillage, but especially the system of formal rights known to our own day as "charter rights." These were obtained in three ways; by purchase, direct or indirect, through loans that were never repaid, etc., by war or threats of war, as in the case of King John and the "Magna Charta," or by the gradual acknowledgment of customs, privileges, or immunities.

The "Imperial cities" were those which had received charters from the Holy Roman Empire, instead of from kings. They were at first bulwarks of civilization against barbarism, and a benefit in everyway, but ended by being an obstruction to civilization, a nuisance, and focal points of petty tyranny or unworthy prejudice. In general they have yielded in time to the force of modern life, and have been drawn easily into the current of national evolution. Some resisted to long, and are mere curiosities, patches of mediœvalism in the modern way, as Lugano, Monaco, San Marino, Hamburg, Lubeck and Bremen still hold out and cling to their individuality as of old. They are all that is left of the federation called the "Hanse Towns."

Municipal life and orders owe a vast debt to these free cities. They were several centuries in advance of the country at large in the evolution of modern activity. In respect to manners and refinement on the one hand, and sturdy business vigor on the other, the cities led the way.

PASSING COMMENT.

A Plainfield woman very prominent in charitable work in this city met a friend yesterday afternoon as she was going out to attend to some duties. The latter inquired, "Why, you are not going out today, are you?" Whereupon the woman replied, "How would I dare to stay in when God has given me such a beautiful day in which to do my work."

* * * *

A Justice of the Peace at Lambertville is authority for this peculiar legand which he related the other day: "Out in a dark and lonely ravine, in the heart of the Sourland Mountain, near where I was born, are three stones, very much resembling eggs. The stones lie side by side and are peculiar in color. The story of the stone, as told me by my father, and which I afterward investigated and found to be true, is this: In the dark hours of the morning, at about the time the cock crows, these stones turn over. I have seen this strange occurance many a time, and could yet to this day take anybody to the spot and show him the stones. The superstitious people in the mountains say that the story has been passed down from one generation to another that three persons were murdered at that spot and that the murderers were never brought to justice, and they say this is the reason that the stones turn over."

RESCUED A MAN FROM DROWNING.

Two Plainfield Young Men Distinguished Themselves as Life Savers.

Two Plainfield young men distinguished themselves at the fire in Cranford, Monday night, when the Casino was burned to the ground. One of the men living on the opposite side of the river started to come across on the ice, supposing that it was strong enough. When he had reached the middle of the river, the ice gave way and he fell into the icy stream. His cries were heard by George Snediker, of Grove street, and Aleck Milne, of Sycamore avenue, both of the borough. They hurried to the rescue and after much effort, pulled him out. The man was almost exhausted and had to be carried to a neighboring house. The rescuers were also wet by the icy water and have been suffering with severe colds since. Snediker only recovered a short time ago from an attack of pneumonia.

TRACING INFANT LINES.

RESEMBLANCE OF JUVENILE PICTURES TO MEN AND WOMEN.

Unique Pastime Invoked at a Party Given by Miss Ida Spicer in Honor of Her Cousin—Each Brought Likeness.

An enjoyable social gathering was held at the home of Miss Ida Spicer, of West Fifth street, last evening, in honor of her cousin, Miss Jennie Spicer, of Westerly, R. I. Each of the guests was asked to bring the first picture he or she had had taken when a child. Most of the guests brought the pictures and the latter were then arranged in a line without names and all tried to guess the identity of the original of the picture. This was the occasion for no end of fun, and there was lots of excitement in trying to trace a resemblance between the pictures and the guests. There were forty pictures in all, and Miss Luella Clauson was the most successful of all in guessing. She guessed twenty-nine correctly and was given the first lady's prize, a china bon-bon box. Frank Clauson was the best guesser among the men, having twenty-four names correct on his list. He received a photograph portfolio.

The room was then darkened and the guests were called upon, one by one, to stand in front of a lamp and cast their silhouette on a screen, while the rest tried to guess their name from the profile. After all had been guessed refreshments were served and all those present enjoyed a little social chat.

Among those present and who were represented in the photograph gallery were the Misses Addie P. Jackson, Marie Newman, Lucy Dunham, Matie Green, Evelyn M. Lewis, Lena Tomlinson, Grace Clauson, Lulu Lewis, Elizabeth Allis, Ernestine Smith, Ida Randolph, Mabel Mitchell, Lulu Clauson, Ethel Titsworth, Gussie Clauson, Madge Sutphen, Mabel Maxson, Edith Davis, Anna Wooden, Bessie Titsworth, Jessie Utter, Ida Spicer, May Ross, Nellie Spicer, Maud Mosher and the Messrs. Marc Clauson, Everett Kimball, Frank Smith, Frank Clauson, Nathan Lewis, Harry Maxson, John Sutphen, George Wooden, Frank J. Hubbard, Arthur J. Spicer, Asa Randolph and Robert Randolph.

MEETING OF THE GRAND LODGE.

Four Hundred Blue Lodges Represented in the Masonic Gathering in Trenton.

Masonic Temple in Trenton was crowded yesterday by more than four hundred delegates from the various blue lodges, on the occasion of the 120th session of the New Jersey Grand Lodge. There are 1,700 lodges in the State, and all were represented.

The Most Worshipful Grand Master, George W. Fortmeyer, of East Orange, was unable to be present, so the sessions were presided over by Deputy Grand Master Josiah Ewan, of Mount Holley, who also read the Grand Master's annual report. Secretary Redway's report showed that the membership is now more than sixteen thousand, and all the lodges in the jurisdiction are in good condiction. The election of officers takes place today. There are no contests in sight, and it is probable that all the old officers will be re-elected.

Interest in Retiring Sale Increasing.

Perhaps no special sale of general merchandise in Plainfield has ever created such a wide spread and enthusiastic interest as the great retiring sale now going at Edsall's Commercial Palace. Today is the eleventh day of the sale and Mr. Edsall says each day the interest in the sale has increased, and a larger number has been in attendance, and each day's sales has been larger than the day before. When it is remembered that this is about the dullest month of the year, and in dull times, too, such an unusual demonstration of public patronage speaks volumes for the popularity of this house, and the high standing with which it is regarded by the people.

White to Put in An Elevator.

Edward White, the popular West Front street merchant, is planning to add several conveniences for the benefit of his customers at his well-equipped store. He was visited by representatives of the Otis Elevator Company who expect to put up an electric elevator, similar to the one in the Babcock building, in the building now occupied by Mr. White. Mr. White uses the basement and the first, second and third floors of the building and it will be for the convenience of his patrons who wish to go from one floor to the other that the elevator will be put in.

Walter Runyon, a well-known builder, of Westfield, was placed on trial in the Union County Court yesterday for alleged false pretenses. He is charged with securing building material by misrepresentations.

A LIVE BULL THE TROPHY

VALUABLE PRIZE SHOT FOR AT THE CLIMAX CLUB TRAP.

The Weather Was Too Cold For Bystanders But the Participants' Interest Was Maintained From the Start to Finish.

It was cold and damp at the grounds of the Climax Gun Club, yesterday afternoon, when the crack trap-shooters assembled from far and near and they had to keep moving about or take shelter in the sheds to keep warm. The flakes of snow kept falling at intervals throughout the afternoon, but the expected snow storm did not come. The bull, the stake for the shoot of the afternoon, was tied up in the shed and mildly watched the shooters as they decided among themselves who was to have him. It was the day for the regular monthly club shoot of the Climax Gun Club and so the members came out in force. They used the regular traps with the clay targets.

The shoot for the bull was conducted in another part of the grounds and the mark in this case was a block of wood, four inches square, placed in a black background. The object was to have as many as possible of the shot stick in the block and the contestant having the most would get the bull. There was lots of excitement in this shoot and the crowd of spectators braved the cold raw air to see the fun.

The day was not an ideal one for shooting on account of the cold and snow which obstructed the sight, but the light was good and the background of gray clouds made the targets easy to see. There was but little wind to disturb the contestants.

The club shoot resulted as follows: Woodruff, handicap 2, 24; Singer, handicap 9, 14; Brantingham, handicap 1, 22; Goodman, handicap 7, 25; Swodey, handicap 6, 21; Lister, handicap 14, 16; Manning, handicap 1, 20; Scott, handicap 5, 21. The shoot was at twenty-five targets for the scratch man.

The bull was finaly won by Thomas Brantingham of South Plainfield.

SOCIETY TARRIED THERE.

MOST BRILLIANT EVENT WAS THE TEA AT THE PARK CLUB.

The Event Given by a Number of North Plainfield Society Women, Who Conducted it in a Complete Manner.

The Park Club house never presented a more charming scene that it did yesterday afternoon when a tea was given by Mrs. W. Journeay Roome, Mrs. James T. Scott, Mrs. William L. Saunders and Mrs. B. Arrowsmith Hegeman, Jr. Society, resplendent with wealth, beauty and culture, was present to grace the occasion and a more brilliant assemblage of people has not been seen this season.

The tea was given from 4 to 7 o'clock, and during those hours the pretty little clubhouse was thronged with the best people of the city and borough, who made it a triumphant society event.

The decorations were of an Oriental character, with a profusion of roses and smilax, and the prevailing colors, green and pink, were beautiful in their arrangement. About the fireplace were the decorations most striking, where the smilax, intermingled with the roses, gave additional brilliancy. The table was also decorated in a similar manner, with an equal charming effect.

Those who gave the tea were assisted in receiving by Mrs Charles Matthews, Mrs. Joseph W. Sandford, Miss E. E. Kenyon, Mrs. Henry A. McGee. Those who presided at the table were: Mrs. Robert L. Burnett, Mrs. David F. Harbough, of New York; Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Mrs. F. W. Iredell, and they were assisted by Miss Van Boskerck, Miss Stewart, the Misses Holly, Miss Vail, Miss Cooley, Miss Huntington, Miss May Sandford, Miss Murphy, and Miss Ethel B. Bowers, of New York; Miss Drake, of Westfield.

Those who took part in the tea were richly gowned in exquisite creations of the modistes' art, as well as those who were present as guests. There was a decided absence of all formality, and the grace and charm which characterized the affair were marked features. There were fully 500 people present, and this included a goodly number of the male sex, who did the honors in a most gallant manner.

At intervals, the sweet strains of the stringed instruments were heard, and this added greatly to the notable event; and it was not until the last selection was played that the guests had left the scene of pleasure and gayety.

Those who attended the tea will long remember the event with the greatest pleasure.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

A PLAINFIELDER INTERESTED IN AN IMPORTANT COURT DECISION.

French People Endeavor to Prevent B. O. Bowers & Company From Using French Terms on Their Sardine Labels

The firm of B. O. Bowers & Co., of which Benjamin O. Bowers, of Franklin place, it the senior member, has just been victorious in a suit brought by the people of France for the alleged use of French terms on labels for American packed sardines. The case came up for trial in Part Four of the Criminal Court at New York, yesterday.

The suit has been pending for some months and the trial has on several occasions been postponed. The grounds upon which the suit was brought were substantially as follows: It is a general practice among the sardine packing companies of Maine to use labels on their boxes having French names, either of persons or places or the contents, and also the word "sardines." So far as was learned, however, the boxes bear either the name of the packer or the place in this country where packed, or both. The use of French terms, it is held by some, is intended to give the impression that the goods are the foreign article.

The suit was brought, it is understood, at the instance of an association of French exporters. It was argued at the trial that the American packers has no right to use the word "sardine," as the Maine fish, it was alleged, were only a species of herring, and further, that the use of French names was illegal.

The defense set up that there was really no such fish as the sardine, but that both the foreign and the Maine fish were only species of the herring family and that accordingly both the foreign and American packers and equal right to use the name. As to the use of French names, it was argued that they were merely used as trade marks, and that there was nothing illegal in such use so long as the boxes bore the origin of the goods.

The jury returned a verdict of not guilty after being out only a few minutes.

Two other similar suits are pending against other West Side merchants, but it is believed by some that they will be abandoned as a result of yesterday's verdict.

PARK'S STILL INVINCIBLE.

PRINCETON'S FAIL TO WIN AT WHIST.

The Big Four Retain the Cup Which They Offered as a Prize.

The experts of the Princeton Whist Club came to Plainfield last evening and met the "big four" of the Park Club. The Princeton players returned, but they did not take the cup with them. The victory was a comparatively easy one for the Park's and they won the game with seventeen points to spare.

The match was to have been played on Monday evening bnt on account of the illness of one of the Park team, the match was postponed until last evening when it was played at the residence of George T. Rogers on Myrtle avenue. The Park Club was represented in the contest by the regular team, Messrs. Rogers, Townsend, Howell and McCutchen. The Princeton players were Prof. Lewis, and Messrs. Doren, VanDyke and Howe.

The first round resulted in the Park's scoring nine points to their opponent's two. The second round was still more in favor of the home team, the score being fourteen to one, in favor of the Parks. The score of the third round was five to two in favor of the visitors. The score of the game was twenty-five to eight in favor of the Parks.

A FAGOT TEA.

A Novel and Pleasant Affair Given by Mrs. Yates.

Miss Clementine R. Yates, of East Seventh street, entertained a few friends at her home yesterday afternoon in an exceedingly novel manner. The affair was called a fagot tea, and each fagot that was put on the fire had a number. The guest that held the number corresponding with the one on the fagot was obliged to entertain those present. A silver souvenir spoon was hidden among the fagots and the one who was able to find it before the fagots burned was entitled to the souvenir. Mrs. Cahoone was the fortunate one to secure it.

A beautiful vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. Cooley while her fagot was burning. Miss Yates, the hostess, gave a talk on her trip to Egypt, and she was assisted by having two persons attired in the native dress.

Dr. Grant and family, of Washington avenue, have gone to New York to spend the rest of the winter.

BOLD THIEF'S WARNING.

LEFT A NOTE AFTER INVADING AND PILLAGING A HOUSE.

Next Time He Calls All Found Awake Will Be Put to Sleep, the Note Said—His Visit Last Night Evidently Cut Short.

It is not the usual habit of thieves to leave their name and address when plying their trade, but such was the case with the one that entered the residence of the Misses Davis, at 1020 Watchung avenue, last evening. It is evident that the burglar entered by the front door and departed by the same way. He secured some plunder but was evidently frightened away by something or somebody, for he left the most valuable articles behind.

The Misses Davis live at the house before mentioned with their colored servant. Their father died last August. Last evening they went out to make a call and spend the evening at the home of a friend. They left the servant in the house who retired to the kitchen to write a letter, after which she went to her room for the night. That happened about nine o'clock, or a few minutes after. The Misses Davis returned a few minutes before ten o'clock. To their surprise, the door was open about a foot and there were foot prints in the snow on the piazza. As they had left the door locked, they were naturally surprised.

The was no sign of anyone around and they entered the house. When a lamp was lighted, they looked in the rooms to find the drawers of the tables and book cases had been pulled out and their contents emptied all over the floor. This was too strong evidence to be doubted and the two women, greatly alarmed, hurried to the home of a friend who had a telephone and word was sent to the police station.

Sergeant Kiely was at the station when the word was received and he immediately hurried to the scene in a hack. A thorough search of the house was made but it failed to reveal the presence of the prowler. He, or she, which ever it was, had not forgotten to leave something, for the searchers found a note lying on the table in the dinning room. It was written on half a sheet torn from a blank book. The paper was cheap and ruled. The note was as follows:

When I come again all I fine awake I will put to sleep yours truly
Mary Williams
answer soon 46 Pulaska St

There was a lack of punctuation, which suggested that the writer of the note was somewhat illiterate. The writing was rather small, and had the appearance of a feminine hand. The signature had evidently been written with care, as the letters were very carefully finished, and the writing was much darker than the rest. The note was written in pencil.

The unbidden guest had left other traces of his visit. Every drawer in the first and second floors had been ransacked and their contents strewn about. In the sleeping room of one of the occupants of the house there was a jewel box, containing some diamonds, a gold watch and some other little trinkets. The cover had been removed from the box but the contents had not been touched. It is supposed that the burglar was disturbed just as he reached this part of his investigation, perhaps by the servant when she retired, and departed suddenly leaving the jewels untouched. The only missing article is a pocket book, which contained $7, mostly in small change.

The intruder had evidently provided for his escape, for the window opening out on the hedge which bounds the property of Mr. Opdyke, next door, was found open. There were no foot prints on the snow below it, nor was the snow on a large vase, close to the window, disturbed, as it would probably have been had the burglar made his entrance that way. The door is said to have been locked as the Misses Davis went out, but when they returned, it was open, and there were no traces of violence on it. It must have been opened from the inside or else by the use of a skeleton key.

The Misses Davis place implicit trust in their servant, and do not beleive that she was an accomplice in the burglary.

Roundsman Frederickson made another investigation of the house and premises this morning, but he failed to reveal any clue to the thief.

METHODIST PARSONAGE.

A HOME FOR THE PASTOR WANTED NEARER THE CHURCH.

The Present Parsonage is Not Conveniently Situated in the Borough—Several New Places Under Consideration.

With the change in the pastor at the First M. E. church there will also be a change in the location of the parsonage, as was mentioned exclusively in yesterday's Daily Press. The change is being generally discussed among the members of the congregation and will be acted upon at a meeting of the trustees which will be held soon.

In the early history of the church the parsonage was located in the little frame house which now stands on Madison avenue behind the Jackson building. The parsonage was then considered a nice place and it had a broad lawn attached. Here lived the ministers as close to their church as they could wish. As the business part of the city moved up West Front street the desirability of the parsonage was gone. The present house on Grove street, just beyond Lincoln place, next to the German Lutheran church, was then rented by the church and the house furnished and fitted up by the congregation. The house is three long blocks away and the chief objection to it is on account of the distance from the church. Most of the congregation believe that the pastor should live closer to the church. It has been suggested that the parsonage be located close to the church or on the line of the trolley cars, so that he could reach the church easily. Several houses on West Front street have been looked at as well as one on Central avenue, near the church. The house on East Fifth street, now occupied by F. S. Green and family, has been suggested, but so far there has been no decisive action taken in the matter.

WAS A PLAINFIELD MAN

PETER CHARLES ADAMS DIED UNKNOWN TO HIS FAMILY.

Death Came in the Hudson Street Hospital, Tuesday, But His Relatives Did Not Know of His Demise Till Yesterday.

The identity of Peter Charles Adams, who fainted while climbing the flight of stairs leading to the Parmley building, 165 Broadway, New York, Tuesday, and who died soon after at the Hudson Street Hospital, has been disclosed. He was a resident of the borough, living with his son-in-law, Edward L. Suffren, at 72 Linden avenue. The trouble in finding his home was occasioned by the fact that the papers found on the body were marked with the name Charles Adams, while he was known as Peter C. Adams to the postal authorities.

His relatives in this city did not learn of his death until yesterday afternoon, when Philip Suffren, son of E. L. Suffren, brought the news to them. They only knew the circumstances as given by she papers until last evening when inquiries were made at the hospital in New York. The remains were brought to this city this morning and taken to the home of Mr. Suffren.

Peter Charles Adams was born in New York city on November 22, 1822. He spent his early life there and entered in the real estate business when a young man and afterwards became a real estate broker. He amassed a comfortable fortune at his business and several years ago retired and came to this city with his wife to live with their daughter and her husband, at the home of the latter on Linden avenue. He leaves a wife and five children. One of the other daughters lives with Mr. and Mrs. Suffren.

They were all greatly prostrated by the news.

UNITY'S JOLLIFICATION.

Brother Pythians From Perseverence Lodge Work Two Ranks.

There was a night of great jollification at the rooms of Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., last evening. The members of Perseverence Lodge, No. 74, were present at the meeting, and the team from that lodge worked two ranks on one candidate for Unity Lodge. There were about seventy-five present, and a very enjoyable time was spent. The affair ended with a grand banquet, in which guests and entertainers took part. There were recitations and speeches to please the mind, and a bountiful supply of good things to satisfy the inner man.

One Tribe to Keep Quiet.

A meeting of Paugh-Caugh Naugh-Sinque Tribe, I. O. R. M., was held last evening, and it was decided that the tribe will take no action in regard to the alleged sayings of Rev. G. Kennedy Newell.

SNOW KING IN HIS GLORY

COUNTRY COVERED OVER WITH A BLANKET OF THE BEAUTIFUL.

As Predicted, the Excessive Cold Season Ended With Frozen Tears, Already to a Depth Nearly a Foot—Traffic Impedded.

When the clouds began to break, yesterday afternoon, many thought that the storm was over but they didn't know the peculiarities of Jersey weather. The snow came, and it came thick and fast, so that when the weary citizen crawled from his downy couch he could see little else but snow out-of-doors. There was eight inches of the white blanket and it was still snowing.

It was predicted that the cold wave that has had the entire country in its grasp for the last few days, would be followed by a storm, and the prediction was right. The bitter north wind that has made things so unpleasant for the last few days died away yesterday and the sky, heretofore clear and bright, began to cloud up. The hazy gray clouds that precede the usual snow storm began to gather and early in the afternoon the snow began to fall. It was not steady, however, and the clouds began to break in the latter part of the afternoon and the blue horizon appeared. The storm was over, thought everybody, but it wasn't, for as the sun disappeared, the clouds gathered in greater force than before and soon after seven o'clock the snow began to fall steadily. There was no wind and the snow was fine and powdery, just the kind to drift. All night the snow continued to fall without interruption and the pedestrians who had to be out in the storm found the snow gathering rapidly.

It caught on the bare branches of the trees and transformed the city into a land of dazzling white. Great ridges gathered on the fences. The flower vases were transformed into domes of white. The sharp angles of the roofs were rounded off by the layer of snow and everything was white. The snow measured eight inches on the level and there seemed no signs of the storm abating.

The sleighs were out while the carriages had all assumed a wintry appearance. The horses puffed and struggled as they dragged the wheels through the deep snow and the pedestrians took to the trolley track in the streets where it was to be found in preference to wading through the snow in the sidewalks.

The street railway men were at work early in the morning trying to get the cars through. The snow ploughs were put at work and the deep snow removed from the tracks. The cars ran last evening up to their regular time of stopping although progression grew rather difficult after the storm had started in earnest.

The wind began to blow somewhat in the morning but it did not drift the snow much as it only came in fitful blasts and not at great velocity.

There was very little delay on the lines of the Jersey Central railroad this morning on account of the storm. A warning bulletin was sent out from Jersey City soon after midnight predicting a heavy fall of snow. The morning trains were a few minutes late, but the snow did not drift and the cuts along the line were comparatively clear. The cars had a very wintry appearance, with their covering of ice and snow. Long icycles hung down the sides of the cars while the windows were covered with frost.

The mails were delayed, especially those from New York, but the delay was occasioned in New York and at the ferry. The letter-carriers were out in their full winter garb with hip-boots and all, and made their rounds as usual. The walking was very bad, however, and they were much delayed by the storm so that some of the far outlying districts missed their morning delivery.

The employes of the Plainfield Street Railway started out at 2 o'clock and had five plows at work in removing the snow. Soon after 9 o'clock the different lines were opened up and cars were running on schedule time.

Some of the sidewalks, especially those in the business part of the city, were cleaned off in the morning, but many of the residents preferred to wait until the storm was over, so walking was very poor in most of the streets.

The last trace of the extreme cold wave seemed to have vanished with the appearance of the snow and the temperature moderated greatly. The mercury stood at 23 degrees early this morning, but rose to the freezing point towards noon. Aside from the snow, the pedestrians found the day a good one as the cold was not at all severe and there was but little wind.

On account of the storm James R. Morris, of Passaic, State Superintendent of the Christian Alliance, will postpone his coming until Thursday, Feb. 4th.

MERRELL-SOULE CO., SYRACUSE, N Y

ISTHMUS CANAL BILL

The Vexed Subject Still Occupies the Attention of the Senate.

MAY BE SHELVED FOR THIS SESSION

Military Academy Bill Brings Out a Somewhat Amusing Controversy, Indulged in by Senators Allen and Gray—House of Representatives.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Mr. Vilas' motion to recommit the Nicaraguan canal bill was the pending question when the Senate convened to-day, and the much vexed subject, which has given rise to so many spirited debates during the past few days, will now probably be shelved for the next session of congress. The military academy appropriation bill passed the senate after a long and somewhat amusing controversy over an amendment providing for the attendance of the West Point cadets at the inauguration parade. The proposition was made the text by Mr. Allen pop., Neb., of a dissertation on the virtues of the old Jeffersonian democratic simplicity, of the "dry rot" which is destroying the American republic as it destroyed the Roman empire, and of an attack on Mr. Gray, dem., Del., for inconsistency in attending democratic caucuses and claiming to be a democrat while "to all intents and purposes, he had been a republican for the last three or four years." And there was another distinguished senator, Mr. Allen added, pointing to the seat of Mr. Hill, dem., N. Y., who said that he, too, was a democrat. These remarks made with all seriousness characteristic of the Nebraska populist senator were received with smiles by the two senators alluded to, and by the whole senate. Mr. Gray contented himself with the remark that Mr. Allen was a melancholly example of the effect of populistice notions and that he would probably prefer to shave a contingent of Coxey's army to attend the inauguration parade; and Mr. Allen admitted that that would be a little more relevant. Finally the amendment was rejected: Yeas, 20; nays, 28; and the bill was passed. It appropriates $479,572, or $5,000 more than the bill as it passed the house. This $5,000 is for the purchase of one Maxim semi-automatic five-pounder quick-firing gun. The memorial of Henry A. Dupont of Delaware, in which he asserts that his claim to a seat in the senate was defeated last session through a mistake about pairs, was presented by Mr. Chandler, rep., N. H., and was referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

House of Representatives.

By a vote of 131 to 118 the house agreed to the conference report on the immigration bill, which embodied substantially a new measure, being different in some respects from either the senate or house bill. Speeches in favor of the report were made by Messrs. Danford, rep., O., who presented it for the conference; C. W. Stone, rep., Penn.; Johnson, rep., Ind.; Corliss, rep., Mich.; Morse, rep., Mass.; Wilson, dem., S. C.; Taylor, rep., O., and Hepburn, rep., Ia; and in opposition to it by Messrs. Bartholdt, rep., Mo., chairman of the house committee on immigration; Buck, dem., La.; Parker, rep., N. J.; Walker, rep., Mass.; Cannon, rep., Ill.; Grosvenor, rep., O.; Dolliver, rep., Ia., and Boatner, dem., La. The principal objection to the bill was the clause requiring immigrants to read and write "in the language of their native or resident country." This, it was pointed out, whould prevent several classes of people in Europe and Central America and Mexico from gaining admission to the United States, because they do not speak either of the languages to which the clause limits. It was admitted that the language was intended to prevent the coming of the great body of Russian Jews.

Sheldon Murder Trial Begun.

Auburn, N. Y., Jan. 28.—The taking of testimony in the trial of Frank N. Sheldon, charged with the murder of his wife in April last, was begun today. The defense will claim that Mrs. Sheldon committed suicide. The accused belongs to one of the most prominent families in northern Cayuga county, and is a brother of assemblyman Clan Sheldon, who is now serving his second term in the lower house of the state legislature.

Exodus from the North for Florida.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The recent cold weather has had the effect of greatly increasing travel from the north to the south. Yesterday evening's Florida limited train on the Southern railway carried more than a hundred passengers from New York to Florida and nearly an equal number joined the train here.

Thousands of Cattle Killed.

Denison, Tex., Jan. 28.—Prominent stockmen of the Indian Territory and the Pan Handle report that the recent blizzard has resulted in the death of thousands of cattle on the range. For the first time in a number of years large water courses are frozen over.

CAPTURE OF PALMER

The Slayer of Mother and Brother Apprehended at St. Louis.

HIS MIND PLAINLY UNBALANCED

He Is Suffering with Ague, General Debility and His Condition Is Pitiful. Finally Admitted His Identity, But Denies the Crimes.

St. Louis, Jan. 28.—Arthur Palmer, the murderer of his mother and brother at Mameroneck, N. Y., about ten days ago, who was arrested at the Planters' hotel here yesterday afternoon, is held to await the arrival of extradition papers from the governor of New York. Palmer is a handsome, well dressed man about 45 years old and has been at the hotel for a week registered as Paul Jones. The arrest was made on a long distance telephone message from Sheriff Johnson of Westchester county, N. Y. The sheriff telephoned that Palmer had been traced to St. Louis and could probably be found at one of the hotels. During his stay at the hotel Palmer kept closely to his room. When on the ground floor he would find a secluded corner in the library away from the crowd. When told that he was a prisoner Palmer collapsed and had to be helped to the patrol wagon. He was in such apparent helplessness that officers did not at once press him with questions.

Broke Down and Confessed His Identity.

On arriving at the Four Courts, Palmer was taken to the sick ward of the prison and Dr. Lippe of the city dispensary was summoned. The physician found the prisoner suffering from ague and general debility. It was 8 p. m. before Palmer was sufficiently revived to be questioned. At 8:30 p. m. he was brought into the office of Chief of Detective Desmond. Under a steady fire of questions Palmer at first made a weak show of indignation at his arrest. He denied that his name was Palmer and claimed to be a land speculator from Denver, Col. His mental distress and physical weakness was not long proof against the searching questions, and by degrees he broke down. At 9 o'clock he admitted that his name was Arthur Palmer and that he had assumed the name of Paul Jones for business reasons. He declared that he had left home on Sunday, the day preceding the triple murder. Without baggage he walked to Larchmont, two miles from his home, where he boarded the last car of an express train as it left the station for the west. This western trip, he said, had been in his mind for a month, and when he left home all his people were well. His mission in the west was to seek a location for a dairy.

His Mind Plainly Unbalanced.

By 9:30 p. m. he had admitted every collateral fact necessary for conviction upon circumstantial evidence of the triple murder, but stoutly denies all knowledge of the crimes. His constantly repeated remark is: "Wait till I get back to New York. Then you'll know everything." Palmer's conflicting admissions and denials, his sunken features, restless eyes and hesitating vacant manner of speech, plainly indicate an unbalanced mind.

GYSPY RIGO IN TROUBLE.

After a Violent Quarrel Princess Chimay Leaves Him with Unpaid Board Bills.

London, Jan. 28.—A dispatch to the Mail from Vienna says that a violent quarrel occurred at Milan between the Princess Chimay, formerly Miss Clara Ward of Detroit, Mich., and Janos Rigo, the Hungarian gypsy musician, for whom the princess recently deserted her husband. The screams of the princess and the violent language of Rigo created great excitement and alarm among the guests of the hotel at which the couple wers staying, and complaint was made to the landlord. The affair ended by the departure of the princess, who started unattended by the gypsy for Monte Carlo. Before leaving the princess paid her own share of the bill due at the hotel, but refused to pay that incurred by Rigo, who is, consequently, in an awkward position, being in need of money to settle his account.

Death of James Howell.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Ex-Mayor James Howell, who died yesterday, was an Englishman by birth and came to this country in 1835. In 1845 he became foreman in an iron foundry and ten years later started in business for himself. He became senior partner in the firm of Howell & Saxton. In 1877 Mr. Howell was elected mayor on the democratic ticket. He was subsequently appointed a trustee of the Brooklyn bridge, in which capacity he served for six years. He was made president of the board of trustees in 1885.

Work of the Dawes Commission.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The Dawes commission, after years of labor, has finally succeeded, as appears from a report just sent to the senate, in securing an agreement with the Choctaw Indians, of the five civilized tribes, for the division of their lands in severalty. The Chickasaws, who own the land in common with the Choctaws, have not yet signed the agreement.

Immigration Into Canada.

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 28.—The number of immigrants who arrived in Canada during 1898 was 25,478, as against 25,571 in 1895. Of these, 8,643 went through to the United States as against 6,954 the previous year.

Senator George's Condition.

Washington, Jan. 28. — Senator George of Mississippi is reported as resting easily this morning. There is no change in his condition.

ART OF GETTING ON.

Have a Definite Knowledge of Some One Thing.

I recall with shame how earnestly and how vainly a well-wisher of mine, an eminent publisher, tried many years ago to impress this fact upon my mind: "You will succeed," he used to say, "as soon as you produce what somebody wants; but not so long as your merit is only that of a woman who is struggling." In common with a great many other women not brought up to work, I had a vague sort of idea that my misfortunes were a passport and would gain me an income, says a writer in Lippincott's. Let me assure every woman similarly placed that they never will. Sympathy is readily awakened, but it is in the nature of things short-lived. Respect for effort earnest and continued is a much better ally. In an experience ranging over many years, I must honestly say that every time I have failed it has been through my own ignorance and incompetency, and that my success has been built upon failures many and severe. The best equipment that either men or women could have is definite knowledge, if it be only of one thing. The first question I ask of those who come to me for advice is: "What can you do?" If the answer is, as it almost invariably proves to be: "Anything," my heart fills with despair for the applicant. In the money-making world "anything" means "nothing." It is overrun with a vast army of incapables ready to rush in and undertake "anything." What is needed is some one who can do something as opposed as to anyone who can do anything. Competency is the only equipment that is worth anything nowadays.

FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.

Odd Bits of Information on Matters in General.

Browned flour is almost as necessary to keep on hand in the store closet as white flour. To brown flour put a thick layer of flour into a baking pan and place it in a hot oven. Watch it and stir with a spoon until the flour is well browned all through. When it becomes cold put it into empty preserve jars and cover them closely. It will then be ready to use in making gravies and sauces or whatever it is needed for.

An unusual and attractive hanging, intended for a closet door in a yellow room, was made of heavy linen of a golden brown shade, having a deep border at the top and bottom of yellow linen. The upper border was of a lighter shade than the lower. Upon the borders was a graceful design of oak leaves and acorns worked in light browns and veined with gold threads.

An excellent dinner sweet is stuffed figs. To prepare them, cut an opening in the side if nice, fresh figs, and take out the inside with a spoon. To this add some salted almonds or salted peanuts that have been chopped fine. Mix these thoroughly together and moisten them with a little brandy. Put this mixture into the fig shells and press the sides of the opening together. Roll the figs in powdered sugar.

If pie crust is desired to be brown when baked, it should be brushed over with sweet milk just as the pie is put into the oven for baking.—N. Y. Sun.

Cures Talk

"Cures talk" in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as for no other medicine. Its great cures recorded in truthful, convincing language of grateful men and women, constitute its most effective advertising. Many of these cures are marvelous. They have won the confidence of the people; have given Hood's Sarsaparilla the largest sales in the world, and have made necessary for its manufacture the greatest laboratory on earth. Hood's Sarsaparilla is known by the cures it has made—cures of scrofula, salt rheum and eczema, cures of rheumatism, neuralgia and weak nerves, cures of dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles, catarrh and malaria.

Such Cures as This Prove Merit.

"My little nephew was a plump and healthy baby until a year and a half old, then sores broke out behind his ears and spread rapidly over his head, hands and body. A physician said the trouble was scrofula humor in the blood. The child became one complete sore. We had to restrain his hands to keep him from scratching the sores. We were induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and in a short time he had more life. He improved rapidly, his skin became entirely clear of sores and he is now a healthy child." MRS. FLORENCE ANDREWS, Clearfield, Iowa.

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jone, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says, that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. ARMOR-CLADS FOR BERMUDA.

British Government To Strengthen Her Fleet in North American Waters.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The United States naval attache at London, Commander Cowles, sends the following to the navy department, dated January 13: "The British admiralty has given instructions for the Hotspur, coast defense ship, and the Monarch, third-class battle ship, to be commissioned at an early date for service in Bermuda." On receipt of this information Commander Wainwright, chief intelligence officer, reported to Secretary Herbert that "as there are at present no armor-clads in the British North American and West Indian squadron this indicates a considerable increase of naval strength in North American waters." Under ordinary circumstances these reports would possibly lead to an inquiry from Secretary Olney addressed to the British government as to the reason for such an order, but it cannot be learned at the state department whether such action has been taken or not. The stratigal importance of the Bermuda fortifications can be best appreciated by the statement that they are the center of a 700 miles circle which includes the North American coast line from Maine to Florida.

PROBABLY A MURDER.

Italian Child, with Face Badly Bruised, Found Frozen in an Alley.

Philadelphia, Jan. 28.—The body of Morristini Moffi, an Italian boy of four years, was found yesterday frozen stiff in an alley in the rear of 827 Bainbridge street. The face of the child was covered with bruises. On Monday evening an Italian named Pasquetta Baddero called at the home of little Morristini and took the child out, ostensibly to buy candy. The child did not return and the parents passed a night of anxiety. Early on Tuesday morning they swore out a warrant for Baddero on the charge of abduction. He was arrested and given a hearing before Magistrate Smith, who committed him in $600 bail. Since the discovery of the body of the child, a special detainer has been made out charging Baddero with murder and the police are investigating the case. The mother of the child is loud in her accusations against Baddero, whom she believes murdered her offspring.

POSTAL RECEIPTS.

Of Thirty Large Offices Only Thirteen Show a Decrease.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Postmaster-General Wilson has made public the statement of postal receipts for the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1896, as compared with the receipts for the corresponding period of 1895, which shows a decrease of about $30,000, and is taken to be an indication of general business depression. New York city heads the list, the receipts for 1896 being $2,112,675; for 1895 they were $2,109,585, an increase of the former over the latter of $3,090 or the tenth of 1 per cent. The next cities in order were Chicago, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis and Brooklyn, all of which show a decided decrease. Of the thirty offices only thirteen show an increase, while seventeen show a decrease.

National Banks To Resume.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Two national banks which recently failed have been permitted to reopen their doors for business after notifying the comptroller of the currency that they had complied with all conditions imposed by him. They are the First National bank of Hollidaysburg, Pennsylvania, which suspended December 14, 1896, and the Merchants and Planters National bank of Bryan, Texas, which suspended December 23, 1896.

Bridgeport Hospital Gets $180,000.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 28.—The appraisers of the estate of the late Mrs. James C. Loomis of this city report to the probate court that the estate will aggregate in value $240,356. The testatrix made bequests amounting to about $50,000, and other expenses will bring the amount to about $60,000. The Bridgeport hospital is given all that remains after these claims have been paid. This will give that institution about $180,000.

Valuable Coal Vein Discovered.

Towanda, Pa., Jan. 28.—A 52-inch vein of bituminous coal has been discovered on Barclay mountain, about two miles from Leroy, Bradford county, and six miles from the now abandoned Barclay mines, from which millions of tons have been mined in past years. Experts claim that the new vein is superior to the Barclay coal and it is in the same belt as the bituminous mines of Tioga county.

L. J. GAGE AT CANTON

Probable Next Secretary of the Treasury Calls on McKinley.

CAME BY REQUEST OF THE LATTER

Hanna Also Visits the President-elect, But Inauguration Plans Only, It Is Said, Were Discussed---Cabinet Formation Nearing Completion.

Canton, O., Jan. 28.—The complex political problem surrounding the selection of Major McKinley's cabinet is now believed to be practically solved and Lyman J. Gage of Chicago as secretary of the treasury is regarded as the key to the situation and the almost certain choice of the president-elect. This moral certainty is strengthened by the fact that the president of the First National bank of Chicago arrived in Canton this afternoon, in response to the telegraphed request of the major to visit him. Chairman Hanna came here last evening and was engaged for several hours in secret conference with Mr. McKinley. It is the understanding that Mr. Hanna approved of Mr. Gage as chief of the treasury department. It is known that ever since the election of Mr. McKinley a powerful personal and political pressure has been exerted on the next president, especially from friends and political leaders in Chicago and the middle western states, to procure the appointment of Mr. Gage for the treasury portfolio. The work has been done in such a quiet and dignified manner that public attention has not been directed to the influence until recently. It is now believed that Mr. Gage's appointment to the treasury will be determined this week. When that position is filled the other portfolios can be easily disposed of, excepting that to be given to New York. That problem remains as intricate as ever, but the impression prevails here that Gen. Woodford has the best chance of the appointment. The president-elect does not seem to have been influenced against Gen. Woodford by the mild protest which was entered against him yesterday from eastern visitors. Col. John Hay is here in the interests of a friend and now does not expect a cabinet appointment for himself. Gen. W. M. Osborne, who has been the guest of Cornelius N. Bliss at Jekyll island, on the Georgia coast, will remain here until to-morrow and then return east. Mr. Hanna's visit is not taken to have any bearing on the Ohio sensatorial situation. Cabinet and inauguration matters engrossed the time of his conference with Major McKinley. Gov. Bushnell has received a letter from Senator Sherman, stating that he will not resign his seat in the senate until he is confirmed as secretary of state.

Sherman's Letter to Bushnell Private.

Columbus, O., Jan. 28.—Gov. Bushnell admitted to-day that it was true as telegraphed from Washington that senator Sherman had written a letter to him in regard to his proposed resignation from the senate and the filling of the vacancy. He said the letter was a private one, and he regarded it as confidential. He would still do so, though he might ultimately give it to the public. No one but himself had seen it.

Orders for the Inaugural Parade.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Gen. Horace Porter, grand marshal of the inaugural parade, was in conference last evening with D. Woodmansee, president of the national republican league clubs, and later issued an order placing the republican league clubs in one division, and ordered that they have the choice of position in the civic division. President Woodmansee is appointed marshal of the division, with the right to select a strff of fifty members. All league clubs are directed to report for assignment not later than Feb. 20. President Woodmansee, who was in Washington last evening says the league will furnish one of the most attractive features of the parade.

Dumb-bell Lifting Record.

Boston, Jan. 28.—The Record states that L. C. Rood, the young Harvard student who failed to break the amateur dumb-bell lifting record in his public trial in Hemenway gymnasium a week ago, has finally succeeded in accomplishing the feat. The last attempt was made in private to avoid a crowd, which had made Rood nervous. The record was 201 pounds, five ounces, and this record he broke by eleven ounces. R. A. Pennell of New York, the previous champion, used a swing, while Rood, on the other hand, made a straight lift.

Golden Wedding Celebration at Newport.

Newport, N. H., Jan. 28.—A most brilliant and pleasing social event was the celebration last evening of the golden wedding anniversary of Hon. and Mrs. Dexter Richards, Newport's most distinguished son and daughter. A special train from Concord brought a large number of friends and relatives and the residence was thronged. Among the guests were Gov. Ramsdell and many state officials.

For Blockade Drill.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Admiral Bunce's squadron of evolution is timed to leave Hampton Roads early next week for two weeks' blockade drill off Charleston, S. C. The fleet is expected to return to Hampton Roads February 15. The coast defense vessels Terror and Puritan and the cruiser Marblehead have been ordered to join the squadron.

No Prison Labor for Uncle Sam.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The house committee on labor has ordered favorably reported the bill of Mr. Watson of Ohio prohibiting the use of prison labor on buildings erected for the United States.

BIENNIAL SESSIONS.

Governor Griggs has expressed himself as being in favor of biennial sessions of Legislature. He says that not only has he carefully considered the question but he has sought to obtain competent opinion upon the subject from outside the State. He has talked with Governor Hastings, of Pennsylvania, and Governor Lowndes of Maryland, and finds that those gentlemen, who have had practical experience to guide them, agreed with him. He found that biennial sessions were right in line with the almost universal demand for the restriction of legislation. The growth and complication of law making, as he recently pointed out in his message, were necessarily expensive, without affording adequate compensation, in any way, to the people. The expenses of the Legislature last year, the Governor says, amounted to about $80,000, which was the lowest since 1888. It would be safe to say that the expenses of a session would average $100,000. Thus it could be seen that biennial sessions would save the State about $50,000 per annum.

IS LOBBYING JUSTIFIABLE?

It remains to be seen if the courts will justify a claim for remuneration made by ex-Assemblyman Shann against the city of Rahway, the service given being that common to lobbyists. If lobbying is illegal, the courts cannot recognize the claim any more than they could a debt in gambling; but it would appear that it would have been to the advantage of Rahway to have paid the debt rather than have the world know that it resorted to lobbying to repudiate a part of its own obligations.—New York Press.

A VALUABLE FEATURE.

The lectures of Dr. D. M. Stearns on the Sunday-school lessons, delivered in this city fortnightly, have become one of most interesting and instructive features of local religious life, and in recognition of this fact The Daily Press has just completed arrangements whereby it will publish every Saturday a column about the Sunday-school lesson for the following day, edited by Dr. Stearns. It will be of inestimable value to all students of the Bible.

WORK OF CO-OPERATION.

First Quarterly Meeting of the Association Held Last Night.

The first quarterly meeting of the Co-Operative Association was held last evening. The report of Manager B. S. Braider showed that the total sales at the store during the past quarter amounted to $2,805.35. According to the report of the treasurer, Wm Oliver, the total receipts were $2,668 76, and the disbursements were $2,529.37, leaving a balance of $139.39.

Secretary S. R Struthers stated that after all bills had been paid there would be a deficit of about $55, due to the fact that all the members had not traded at the store. It was reported that there were about forty-five members out of a membership of 102 who were buying their goods at the store.

Neil Head and Samuel Smith were elected to fill vacancies in the advisory board.

From Cashier to Manager.

Fred Treuleen, who has been cashier at the office of the United States Express Company, under Manager Mills, in this city, for the past four years, has been promoted to manager of the office at Reading, Pa. He left today to assume the duties of his position. Mr. Treuleen well deserves the advancement, as he has proved himself a competent and faithful employe of the company. The position which he leaves vacant in this city has been filled by the promotion of F. S. Bowman from bill clerk.

For two years I have suffered from indigestion and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief. Cranberry sauce will come high next Thanksgiving Day, according to the estimates of the New Jersey cranberry growers, who held their annual meeting Tuesday in the State House, at Trenton. Crop reports indicate that the succulent berry is to be scarce.

Since Mayor Fisk has recovered from his illness he has been devoting a great deal of his time to city affairs. Most every day he can be found in his office, and yesterday he made a circuit of the city, to look after things in general. Plainfield is certainly fortunate in having a Mayor who is able to devote so much time to her interests.

* * * *

A new idea to widen Madison avenue has been proposed by a prominent city official. He suggests that the east side of the street be left as it is, and only widen the west side of it. He thinks that this plan could be carried out with great success. There seems to be plenty of room to do this, especially near the Jackson building, and in this way the objectors to the scheme would be left out of the deal.

A young man employed in a well-known Plainfield office met with a rather unpleasant experience the other morning. He came in and sat down at his desk as usual. After a time a friend came in and he started to rise but he soon changed his mind and sat still. It had happened that the office boy had upset the mucilage bottle on the chair of the young man early in the morning and had forgotten to inform the young man of the fact. Part of the mucilage had been wiped off but some remained and the young man was only extracted from his unpleasant position after considerable labor.

Thus far several sites have been offered for the proposed new city hall, and among them are the following: The vacant lot on West Front street adjoining the Babcock building; the property at the corner of East Front street and Watchung avenue; the Hand property at the corner of East Second street and Watchung avenue; the city park property; the property adjoining the Friends' Meeting house on Watchung avenue, and the Meeker property on the same avenue. In some cases the owners have stated their price, while in other cases the city officials have been asked to state how much they are willing to give.

A Word or Two

o sufferers from catarrh will not be amiss if a cure can be offered. Ely's Cream Balm has become a favorite in all sections of the United States. Your cold in the head will be quickly relieved by it, and the severest attack of catarrh will yield to, and be perfectly cured by a thorough treatment. Catarrh is not a blood disease, but an inflammation of the passages of the nose and throat, due to climatic changes.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Leroy Jennings, of North avenue, is suffering from an aggravated attack of mumps.

Miss Alice Seigfried, of Easton, is the guest of Mrs. Wm. Wilhelm, of Front street.

S. B. Merrell intends to run on the independent ticket for Mayor at the borough election.

Alvah Gray is the latest who would like to have the postoffice. He makes the seventh one who is after it.

Lake Hopatcong ice continues to come down the road in large quantities, and it is shipped direct to Jersey City.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Randolph have returned from Washington, D. C., where they have been visiting for some time.

The Euchre Club will meet at the residence of the Misses Barrett, in North Plainfield, on Friday evening of this week.

Ice cutting on the New Market pond was begun in earnest yesterday, and a force of men were kept busy nearly all night harvesting the crop.

The Dunellen fire department will hold a regular meeting this evening, when some definite action will be taken concerning the lighting of the building.

"Al" Randolph, who went to Washington on Saturday fully equipped with a long petition praying for his apointment to the postmastership here, arrived home late last evening. Mr. Randolph is a young man and is well and favorably known.

Messrs. Powlison & Jones, of Plainfield, are furnishing the new Town Hall. Yesterday the first installment of imitation white oak furniture was delivered in the building, and the remainder will be put in before the Council meets in its next regular session.

One man from Washington Valley was in town yesterday and reported at the depot, where he went for freight, that during the night his hennery had been raided, and out of sixteen chickens all that was left him in the morning was a two-year-old hen and a crippled rooster.

The Central Railroad detectives have been hustling the tramps from the Greenbrook tanks. Some years ago these vagrants were allowed to sleep in the sand-house, but they have become so obnoxious in late years that the railroad officials have declared that they must go.

Advices from A.A. Parker announce his arrival in Boston on Monday with his thoroughbred stock of fowls. Mr. Parker is acting as one of the judges at the annual poultry show in progress there, and on this account he is debarred from competing for the prizes. This is to be regretted, for it is acknowledged that Mr. Parker has some of the finest stock in the country.

The death was announced yesterday of Mrs. Fannie Jennings, wife of Henry Jennings, which occurred at her home near Greenbrook during the forenoon. Mrs. Jennings was thirty-five years old. The husband is the only surviving member of the family. Mrs. Jennings had recently undergone an operation for the removal of a tumor, at the New York Hospital, from the effects of which she was thought to have almost recovered. The direct cause of death was Bright's disease. The funeral will take place from the house on Saturday at 12:30 o'clock, and from the Presbyterian church at 1 o'clock.

SCOTCH PLAINS

The auction sale of goods in the late James A. Baker's store continues, but there is yet a considerable amount of stock to be disposed of.

At the meeting of the New Jersey Historical Society, held in the Supreme Court chamber at Trenton, on Tuesday, J. Ackerman Coles, M. D., of Scotch Plains was elected a member of the executive committee.

THEATRICAL.

The operatic comedy, "O'Dowd's Neighbors," which is to be presented at Music Hall, this evening, by Murry and Murphy's comedians, supporting Mark Murphy, is probably the boldest theatrical venture in the history of this class of amusement. In organizing this attraction nothing was done in haphazard shape. From the moment the comedy was written everything was operated in the most business like manner, the best of talent was engaged and the most skilled artists and costumers were put to work to even out-do themselves. The attraction is being boomed as no other has been and nothing is left undone to advise the multitude of its coming. "O'Dowd's Neighbors" is a most excellent operatic comedy, and everything connected with its production is of the very best that money could purchase.

Bonnie Thornton received a tumultuous welcome at the Pleasure Palace, in New York, last night, when she sang "Oh, Mr. Conductor, What Shall I Do?" and other piquant new ditties in her own peculiar way, and displayed some gorgeous gowns calculated to make the foreign stars turn pea-green with envy. The Five Osrains presented a very funny trick pantomine called "Yvette," depicting the absurdities of a thoroughly Parisian dinner party. The Power Brothers gave some clever exhibitions of trick bicycle riding, and Herr Grais put his donkey and equestrian baboon through their miniature circus act. Screaming negro fun of the good old ante-bellum plantation type was furnished by Riley and Hughes.

A MISTAKE.

A tadpole sat on a cool, gray stone,
And sadly thought of his life:
"Alas, must I live all alone!" said he,
"Or shall I espouse me a wife?"

A wise old frog on the brink of the stream,
Leaned over and said, with a sigh:
"Oh, wait till you're older, my dear young friend,
You'll have better taste by and by!

"Girls change, you know, and the pollywog slim,
That takes your fancy to-day,
May not be the polly at all you'd choose,
When the summer has passed away!"

But the tadpole rash thought he better knew,
And married a pollywog fair;
And before the summer was over he sat
On the brink of that stream in despair.

For, would you believe it? His fair, young bride
Proved to be but a stupid frog,
With never a trace of beauty and grace
Of young Miss Pollywog.

And although the tadpole himself had grown
Stout and stupid, too!
He only saw the faults of his wife,
As others sometimes do.

To all young tadpoles, my moral is this:
Before you settle in life,
Be sure you know, without any doubt,
What you want in the way of a wife!

ZEB'S PET SALMON.

BY VIRGIL G. EATON.

Rutherford, a domesticated and very intelligent salmon belonging to Zeb Atkins, of Hot Hole Mountain, Me., is dead. The immediate cause of his taking off was old age, though much handling and long journeys overland to the Dead River fish hatchery no doubt shortened his days. Zeb's liking for Rutherford was of an uncommon kind, even in these days of erratic and erotic affections. The tender and pink steaks, which make most salmon precious as well as palatable, were never taken into the account when Zeb made an inventory of Rutherford's assets. A fish that could keep a large spring of water free from frogs and insects for 20 years and earn in the same time $52.03 in cold cash was something uncommon, even in Maine, where the natural and supernatural walk hand in hand. It was obvious to everybody who knew the circumstances that Zeb prized Rutherford as a money winner and confidential companion, and liked him so well that no epicurean thought crossed his mind. In a case of live salmon and regular income against boiled salmon and green peas Zeb espoused the unpopular side, and Rutherford survived two decades.

Zeb is a farmer, who follows fishing for an avocation, preferring the joys of the gentle art to anything he can find around the loafers' bench at the grocery. Late in May, 1876, when his neighbors were saving their dollars to go to Philadelphia, he took his dip net and went down toward the bay, hoping to catch a few smelts. The second sweep of the net brought him in a gilded and vermillion-spotted salmon that weighed 18 pounds. By soaking his net occasionally in fresh water he got the fish home alive. He put it into the great boiling spring back of the house. In a few weeks it had devoured all the swimming and creeping things that made their home in the spring, and began to look to Zeb for sustenance. By carrying out chopped meat and scraps from the table whenever he went after a pail of water, Zeb soon tamed the fish so it would come and take the food from his hands. When the republican national convention met and nominated Gov. Hayes for president, Zeb named his fish Rutherford in honor of the winning candidate. After that the salmon was regarded as a member of the family and no longer was mentioned as "it."

The pinch of hard times, which was felt all over Maine in 1876, fell upon Zeb with the rest. One day when he was feeling unusually poor a neighbor asked him why he did not sell Rutherford to the fish hatchery. Zeb could not endure the thought of parting with his fish. Then he received a letter from a lawyer asking for immediate payment on a small bill that was long overdue. That night Rutherford was taken in a tub to the hatchery and Zeb went home with $3.96 in his pocket. He was very sad all through haying. In August, when his grass was in the barn, he went after berries. In his travels he came to the great pond where the hatchery fish are confined. He was picking berries and whistling an old tune when he heard a splash in the water. This was followed by another and another, until a great shining salmon dashed against the beach right at his feet. Zeb knew at once that it was Rutherford. He fed his pet with a few berries from his pail and went home to pass a bad night. Though he fought bravely, the temptation was strong, and the next day Rutherford was stolen from the pond and put back in the spring.

Fortune was kind to Zeb for three years, but in 1879 a fever broke out in his family that took his last cent and left him in debt. In his straits he again took Rutherford to the hatchery and offered him for sale. Mr. Buck looked the fish over, and, turning up the back of its dorsal fin, showed a tiny bronze tag which was attached to Rutherford's back with a platinum wire.

"This fish has been here before," said Mr. Buck. "There is my tag, No. 623. Wait a minute while I look up this record."

Zeb's knees knocked together with fear while Mr. Buck went to a book and read that No. 623 had been purchased on July 21, 1876, and that he weighed 18 pounds at that time. Zeb managed to ask him if the name of the seller was on this book, and when Mr. Buck said such records were unnecessary his heart turned somersaults of gladness inside of his ribs. Rutherford had gained considerably in the time, and now weighed 23 pounds. Zeb got $4.60 for the fish, live weight, and received one dollar extra as bounty on the tag, and went home feeling uncommonly well.

"If you ever catch him again," said Mr. Buck, "and the tag is still on him, bring him here and I'll give you the highest market price and another dollar in bounty."

The boiling spring above the barn was empty until December. By this time Zeb and his wife grew so lonesome that he made another unlawful journey to the hatchery pond. For two years Rutherford was undisturbed. In June, 1881, Zeb felt the need of new haying tools so keenly that Mr. Buck bought Rutherford again. He weighed 20 pounds, which, at 25 cents a pound, yielded five dollars, and the bounty swelled the sum to an even six dollars. After this Rutherford was taken and sold back every year or two though Zeb never received so much for him at any one time as he did in 1881. Prices varied according to the season and the plentifulness of salmon, but averaged about 20 cents a pound, taking one year with another. Though Rutherford was fed well, Zeb knew that his fish was shrinking in weight every year. Between 1881 and 1890 he had gone down from 20 to 12 pounds, despite the best of care. He was not sick or melancholy at any time, but the fountains of life were slowly wasting away under the combined influence of much moving and old age.

During the financial panic of 1893 Zeb felt considerably encouraged. In 1892 he had sold Rutherford, who weighed ten pounds, for 15 cents a pound, receiving with the bounty $2.50. A year later he took Rutherford to Mr. Buck and got $2.80 for him. Rutherford's weight had not changed an ounce, but the price of salmon had gone up three cents on the pound. This gave Zeb great hopes for the future. Fish were long lived, and it was possible that Rutherford having reached the turning point, would now fat up and earn more money. He was doomed to bitter disappointment, for when he sold him in 1894 the scales could not be induced to tip beyond the nine-pound notch. Tempting foods were brought to him during the winter of 1894-95, and for a month or more he seemed to rally, but with the advent of warm weather came a relapse that reduced his weight to eight pounds, when Mr. Buck bought him for the 13th time.

Zeb allowed Rutherford to remain in the pond until the day previous to turning all the old fish loose into the sea before he took him home in the autumn of 1895, hoping that the change would cheer him up and prolong his days. For awhile he seemed better, although his appetite was gone and dainty frogs brought from other springs at the mountain's base disported themselves about him daily, apparently knowing that Rutherford could do them no harm. During the cold of winter he stirred about very little. Selecting a spot where the water constantly bubbled up, he lay in a shower of golden mica scales, seemingly oblivious to everything. Toward summer, when the early mosquitoes laid their boat loads of fresh eggs, he fed sparingly upon the tender wigglers and then moved away to the shades of an overhanging elm root, as if the sunlight made him weary. For a month he remained here, refusing to come when Zeb called him and taking no heed of the throbbing new life which June had engendered. Then came the end. Early in July Zeb went to the spring to get water for his morning coffee, and saw Rutherford floating on top of the water. Zeb picked him up carefully and found he had been dead several hours.

Zeb put the body on the scales for the last time, and discovered that Rutherford had shrunk away to less than three pounds. Then he wrapped him in a cloth and buried him in the garden among the sweet peas. Later, with the aid of chalk and shingle, he added up Rutherford's earnings, and learned that by selling him 13 times to the same man he had obtained $32.06, which is probably a larger amount than ever was paid for any other salmon.—Bangor News.

Some Beresford Stories.

A laborer once wrote to Lord Charles Beresford saying that his wife had just had twins—a boy and a girl—and he wanted to call one "Lord Charles Beresford Brown" and the other "Princess of Wales Brown." Lord Charles gave his permission, and obtained that of the princess. Four months later the man wrote again: "I am happy to inform you that 'Lord Charles Beresford Brown' is well and strong, but that 'Princess of Wales Brown' died this morning." Lord Charles is a man of few words, and those very much to the point. Speaking in the house of commons one day, in reference to the Arab slave leaders, he said, with great emphasis: "Mr. Speaker, we ought to catch these men, give 'em a fair trial, and then hang 'em." Unconventional Lord Charles has always been. Receiving an invitation to dinner at Marlborough house one evening, he replied by wire: "Sorry can't come. Lie follows by post."—Strand Magazine.

Saved from the Guillotine.

During the reign of terror, David had Houdon, the sculptor, arrested, and wished to have him guillotined, as he had declared war against all the artists, his colleagues. Mme. Houdon went to Barrere and urged him to save her husband. "I see no way," Barrere said, "but tell me, for which of his works has he been imprisoned?" "For a statue of St. Scolastica," said Mme. Houdon. "What does she look like?" "A fine woman, with a scrap of paper in her hand." At that moment entered Collot-d'Herbois. Barrere said to him: "Houdon has made a statue of philosophy meditating on the revolution; you must have it bought by the assembly and placed in the room in front of the assembly-room, and declare that Houdon has deserved well of the country." This was done and Houdon was saved.—Chicago Chronicle.

QUAD'S QUEER TALES.

A Husband Who Didn't Scare.

There were a dozen or more of us waiting at the little depot for the south bound train, and one of the men pacing up and down the platform was a farmer who expected his wife by the coming train. It wasn't long before he had told everybody, and after a bit the man with the florid nose beckoned him aside and said:

"I understand that you are expecting your wife on this train?"

"Yes, sir."

"Second wife, I take it?"

"Waal, yes, though I waited two years afore I married ag'in."

"That was decent of you. Your wife has been to Cincinnati perhaps?"

"Yes."

"Been gone long?"

"Four weeks."

"I see. And you think she'll be on this train?"

"That's what she wrote. Why do you ask me?"

"Don't speak so loud. Can you control yourself if I tell you some news? Come, now, be a man. I'm sorry to have to tell you, but I feel it my duty."

"W-what is it?" gasped the farmer, growing as white as snow and beginning to tremble.

"It's about your wife. Don't scream out or faint away. Can you bear it?"

"Y-yes. Is she dead?"

"She has run off with another man and you will probably never see her again. Don't give way, now, but call up your courage."

"Stranger, air that yer bad news?" asked the farmer as a broad smile covered his face.

"Yes, that's it. I'm sorry for you."

"Waal, you needn't be. Thar's the train jest roundin the curve, and when my wife gits off you take a good look at her. Lands, but I thought the barn had burned up or one of the cows got mired!"

Two minutes later the train rolled in, and one of the first to alight was a woman, who rushed into the farmer's arms. After he had hugged and kissed her he turned her around to face the little group of us, who were on to the joke. She was red-headed, cross eyed, lacking in several front teeth and had a dozen moles on her face.

"Thar she am!" he triumphantly exclaimed to the man with the florid nose.

"Your wife, eh?"

"Yes, the wife you said had sloped with another man. Say, stranger, I grease my ha'r with mutton tallow and can't tell an elephant from a kangaroo when the circus comes along, but I'm no burdock. It took me two hull y'ars to find a woman so blamed humbly that no other man in America would want to run away with her, but I found her at last, and thar she am. And now you may wink and blink and go to grass and be hanged to you!"

A Drought on the Cumberland.

Half way up the side of the Cumberland range, as I took a short cut through the woods to save distance, I suddenly came upon a man with a ten gallon keg on his shoulder. I knew in a moment that he was a moonshiner and that the keg was full of corn juice which he was carrying off to sell to some crossroads store. He suspected that I knew it, for he came to a halt and brought down his rifle and showed considerable excitement as he demanded my name and errand. When I answered him, he stood in doubt, and I quietly observed:

"Pretty dry time up here on the mountains, isn't it?"

"Yes, I reckon," he replied.

"Most of the springs gone dry, I find. I stopped with Abraham Sweet last night, and his two boys had to bring water in kegs over a mile."

"Stranger," he said after a long look at me, "this ar' a ten gallon keg on my shoulder."

"Yes, ten gallons."

"She's full o' spring water."

"Yes, I know."

"I'm backin her home 'cause my spring has gin out."

"Certainly. If I were you, I'd do the same thing. We can't get along without water. Should I meet any one who seems to be a stranger to these parts, I'll"—

"I'll tell him that it's the driest season for 80 years, and that if he doesn't want to perish of thirst he'd better get down the mountains in a hurry."

He looked at me and grinned. Then he freed one hand and extended it for a shake and said:

"Yes, and if you stop at Bill Fisher's tonight I'll bring you some spring water in a bottle and see that you don't suffer!"

He was at Fisher's that night with half a dozen others, and when he was asked why he didn't pop me over for a revenue spy he laughingly replied:

"Why, the critter got in a slick, smooth talk about spring water befo' I could git my gun to bear on him, and he seemed so mighty arnest that I thought I'd take chances on him. Yere's yer water, stranger, and if she tastes of co'n juice I can't help it."

EDISON AND THE GIRL.

An Odd Sequel to the Wizard's Quest of Knowledge In Chicago.

The genius leaned back and puffed his cigar in patient attention until the tale of how two healthy young men dined on 5 cents was finished. Then he said:

"It was during the exposition, and at that time Edison, not knowing when he should visit Chicago again, was seeing everything in the electrical line to be found. One day while down town he happened to see the "shingle" of an electric belt concern—a belt you put around you, I mean, claimed to cure anything, you know. Well, thinking that perhaps there was something in the application of electricity which was new to him, he went up to the office.

"A very pert young lady immediately inquired what she could do for him.

"'Well,' began Edison, 'I wanted to know how these belts worked, and I thought I might learn by coming up here.'

"'Certainly,' said the young lady, picking up a belt. 'You see, the current of electricity goes from the copper to the zinc plate and then'—

"'Just a moment,' said Edison. 'I don't hear very well at times. Did you say the current went from the copper to the zinc plate?'

"'I certainly did. Then, as I was saying'—

"'Just one minute,' interrupted Edison. 'Let me understand this. You say it goes from the copper to the zinc?'

"'Yes, sir, it goes from the copper to the zinc.'

"'Well, do you know, I always thought it went from the zinc to the copper.'

"'Well, it don't.'

"'But are you sure?' Edison asked, smiling.

"'Well, maybe you know more about electricity than I do,' snapped the girl, and she threw the belt down and glared at the Wizard.

"'Perhaps I do,' Edison admitted, and he turned and left the place."—Chicago Times-Herald.

"THAR SHE AM!" HE TRIUMPHANTLY EXCLAIMED.

Too Good to Hope For.

Mamma—Freddie, Freddie, how often have I told you not to mock the peculiarities of others? If you do, you'll grow just like them.

Freddie (after a long pause)—Ma, if I mocked the elephant very hard, do you suppose I'd ever grow so's I could pick apples over a fence with my nose?—Truth.

An Awful Warning.

On the occasion of the lord mayor's visit to North London recently a captain was heard to remark to his corps: "Close up, boys; close up! If the enemy were to fire on you when you are straggling along like that, they wouldn't kill a single man of you. Close up!"—Tit-Bits.

Concealing His Crime.

Burdened with his sin, the cashier had confessed to a friend.

"But how do you cover it up on the books?" asked the latter.

"Oh, I insist on an expert examination every month."—Detroit News.

Slightly Ambiguous.

"What I want," said the lawyer, "is to prove that my client is mentally deficient."

"Certainly," replied the expert. "There won't be the least trouble in showing that, so long as he has employed you as his lawyer."—Washington Star.

Blissful Vision.

Perry Patettic—I see the coppers takin a feller to the station today dat thought he was a barrel of 20-year-old booze.

Wayworn Watson—Gee! Wot a delicious delusion!—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Its Usefulness Explained.

"What's a dictionary, Chris?"

"Oh, it's a book where you look up the words that other people don't know the meaning of."—Truth.

A Fair Proposition.

She—I'll not give you a kiss.

He—Don't want you to. Let's trade.—New York Journal.

A City Hold Up.

Two friends supported him as he
At morn from lodge returned—
A fact his wife had secretly
From window perch discerned.

At breakfast, quite oblivious
Of this detective feat,
Attentively he did discuss
The news as he did eat.

"'Tis startling," he exclaimed, as due
Surprise he tried to show,
"How hold ups in this country do Continually grow!"

She glanced at him a moment while
His words in silence died,
And then, with half contemptuous smile,
She raspingly replied:

"Yes, 'tis surprising, I'll allow,
Yet still the query'll come,
If 'twasn't for these hold ups how
Would some of you get home?"

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

EVILS OF COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

The Injurious Points Mentioned by President Eliot of Harvard.

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 28.—The annual reports of the president and trustees of Harvard university will be ready for distribution to-day. President Eliot's reference to athletics is briefer than last year. He says: "The conduct of intercollegiate sports during the year proved afresh that the management of those sports at Harvard has been for some years unintelligent, and for that reason unsuccessful. The evils of overtraining and excessive exertion on the part of the members of the principal teams were exhibited in high degree. A fundamental defect in the athletic organizations has been that coaches of limited experience, who may be either unobservant or obtuse, can override on the spot the advice of the trainer and physician. The result is that the principal players of football are almost all more or less injured early in the season and are then brought to the principal games in a crippled or exhausted condition, while the crew comes to the final race less capable of endurance that they were a month earlier. The remedies are the subordination of coaches to an expert in training or to a medical adviser, and the general adoption of more reasonable views about all training for athletic sports." He praises the new policy of voluntary attendance at chapel services and pays an eloquent tribute to the late Prof. Louis Agazziz.

SOUTH NORWALK ACCIDENT.

Remains of the Five Men Killed Removed to Their Respective Homes.

South Norwalk, Conn., Jan. 28.—The remains of the five men who were killed on the Consolidated road at South Norwalk yesterday afternoon have been removed to their respective homes. They were all employes of the road. Their names are J. J. Powers of South Norwalk, section foreman; John Griffin, Norwalk; John Shea, East Norwalk; John Callahan, Danbury, and Salvator Spana. Powers leaves a widow and son, Griffin a widow and large family; Shea a widow and six childern, and Callahan a widow and son. The men were all horribly mutilated. Two were thrown under the wheels and three on the outside of the track. The train which killed the men was a freight in charge of Conductor McIntyre. The men were standing on the westbound track, which is used for passenger service. The men stepped aside to avoid the Colonial express. The smoke and steam from the passenger train enveloped the men and obscured the approaching freight train on the next track, and the noise of the passenger train drowned the whistle of the freight engine. Engineer Field of the freight train lives within thirty feet of where the accident occurred. It has been his custom to whistle a greeting to his family as he goes by, and this custom he followed yesterday.

SEIZURE OF THE UNDINE.

Cruiser Newark's Commander Reports the Incident in Washington.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Commander Colby of the cruiser Newark reports to the navy department that on Jan. 23 stopped the launch Undine, which had acted mysteriously. The vessel came out of St. Johns harbor and he ordered a shot fired ahead of her to stop her. She continued to run so he chased her and fired several blank cartridges until he finally overhauled her. Her captain said he was from St. Augustine, Fla., but could not get over the St. Johns bar. He claimed to be the owner of the Undine and gave his name as John J. Jester, but a negro at the wheel said his real name was Collins. Under these circumstances Commander Colby turned the vessel back to St. Johns, where she was left.

FOR HIGH PROTECTION

Manufacturers Virtually Declare for the Old McKinley Bill.

CONSERVATIVE MEASURE VOTED DOWN

A California Delegate Starts the Opposition By Declaring That Importers' Interests Were Against Those of Manufacturers and Denouncing Congress.

Philadelphia, Jan. 28.—The most important work of the National Manufacturers' convention—changes in the tariff law to be urged upon congress—was not completed with that unanimity and speed that was expected. That part of the resolution declaring it to be the sense of the association of manufacturers that the rates of duty should be made "as low as possible consistent with adequate protection of our manufacturing and agricultural industries and the labor they employ," was the point of contention. On a motion to adopt the resolutions, Mr. Hamilton of California opened the discussion against their adoption. He contended that importers had no business in the convention as their interests are directly opposed to the interest of the manufacturers of the United States. He asserted that congress is composed largely of lawyers and scheming politicians, who "hold the country up" simply to get the popular vote of the country. Mr. Hamilton said that he had no use for the convention if it did not demand adequate protection. Mr. Hamilton charged that the importers of the country are lobbying to have the ways and means committee make the duties in the new bill as low as possible. Mr. Hamilton pleaded for a high protective tariff and was warmly applauded as he concluded. Mr. Hastings of Delaware criticised Mr. Hamilton's remarks as tending to mislead, probably unintentionally, the convention as to the sense of the resolutions. Mr. Hastings argued that the words in the resolution "should be made as low as possible" did not mean that American industries should receive full protection. Mr. Hamilton replied to Mr. Hastings and objected to the resolution being made to represent the sense of the association on the question of the tariff. Mr. Hamilton prophesied that the competition of Japan and other oriental countries would ruin the United States unless their goods are barred out. He asked that the words "as low as possible" in the resolution be stricken out. Mr. Solomon of Newark, N. J., also registered himself against the words "as low as possible." An amendment striking out the words "as low as possible" and substituting the words "shall be as low as consistent with" was offered. On a vote the amendment was agreed to by a vote of 75 to 51. On motion the words "rates of duty" were changed to read "that duties shall be as" etc. The resolutions were then adopted unanimously.

FORGED RAILROAD TICKETS.

A Gang of Wholesale Swindlers Indicted in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—The grand jury has indicted Wm. A. Burns and twelve others on a charge of victimizing the Baltimore & Ohio railroad out of thousands of dollars worth of transportation. Burns was the ringleader of the plot. The men are alleged to have forged tickets on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. The officials of the road who appeared before the grand jury had $4,000 worth of the forged tickets with them and the plates from which they were printed. These tickets were sold to scalpers, it is said, and hundreds of them were used before the counterfeit was discovered. The men engaged in the wholesale forgery are said to have been employed around railroad offices and all are familiar with railroad business.

She was the daughter of the late William Russell of St. Louis, a prominent civil engineer of that city, and married Mr. Allen in 1842. Nine children were born to them. Mrs. Allen was one of the wealthiest women of Berkshire county and much esteemed.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The bowling team of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. will accompany the basket ball team to Summit on Friday evening and roll two more games with the bowlers of that association.

A series of bowling games are being arranged between the team from the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. and a team composed of the old bowlers of the Crescent Wheelmen.

The bowling team of the Y. M. C. A. sent a challenge to the Park Club bowlers for a series of games but the challenge was refused on account of the lack of interest in bowling at the Park Club at present.

A game will be rolled on the Uhlrich alleys, Monday evening, between the Bachelors and the Benedicts of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps. The game is going to be an exciting one from all appearances.

The affairs of the Cranford Country Club are in a rather disordered state at present since the burning down of the club house on Monday. The club lost almost everything and it will be necessary to entirely equip the club again. The bowling team was to come to this city tomorrow night to roll a game with the Park Club team in the Central Journal League. At the request of the Cranford bowlers the game has been postponed until next Tuesdas evening. The game is likely to be postponed to a later date as the Cranford team wants more time to recover from the effects of the fire and then all the Plainfield bowlers want to attend the Crescent Wheelmen's minstrels, which comes the same night.

BASKET BALL.

The team from the Elizabeth Athletic Club will meet the basket ball players of the local association shortly and an exciting game is expected.

The basket ball players of Plainfield and Summit have met twice and each team was victorious in one of the games. The third and deciding game will be played tomorrow evening at Summit. The first game of the series was played in Summit aud resulted in a victory for the Summit team by one point. The Plainfield boys are playing a better game than they did at that time and unless the Summit players have equally improved the Plainfield team feels confident of the victory.

The basket ball team from the Summit Y. M. C. A. went to New York on last Saturday evening to meet the second team from the 23rd Street Branch of the New York Y. M. C. A. They were defeated, but not as badly as were the Plainfield boys. The score was 44 to 0 in favor of the New York team. The first team from the 23d Street Branch defeated the team team from the Paterson association by a score of 46 to 5, on the same evening. C. E. A. Heywood, physical director of the Plainfield association, acted as umpire in both game.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

A match is being arranged between the shooters of the Crescent Wheelmen and the members of the Climax Gun Club. It will probably be shot at the Crescent Oval the first part of next month.

Three medals will be offered in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium this year for the three highest percentages for gymnnsium work made during the year.

A meeting of the Game Propogating and Protective Association was held last night, at which time three new members were elected and several applications were received. Resolutions were passed favoring the proposed new game laws in the Legislature, making the open season for hunting many animals from October 15th to December 15th, and asking the local members of the Legislature to support the measure. Another meeting will be held next Wednesday.

DEATH OF HENRY SMITH.

He Was One of the Early Promoters of the Panama Railroad Company.

The death of Henry Smith occured this morning at the home of his son, Charles A. Smith, on Grove street, after a long illness of intense suffering caused by a cancer.

Mr. Smith was born in Brooklyn in 1833, and his early life was spent at Huntington, L. I., where he engaged in a mercantile business. In 1851 he moved to Brooklyn and remained in the same business until one year later when he became the treasurer of the Panama Railroad Company, which position he held for twenty one years. A few years after resigning his position with the latter company he secured a similar place with the Ansonia (Conn.) Clock Company, where he remained for six years. Two years ago he was taken ill and since that time he has not known what it was to be well.

He was a member of the First Baptist church for many years, until there was a division in the membership. He was then instrumental in having the Park Avenue Baptist Church built. When the First Baptist church was built he was a trustee of that church. During his absence from Plainfield he has lived at Bergen Point and Westfield, and it was about two years ago that he returned to this city, where he has lived with his son.

He leaves a widow, and two sons. Charles H. Smith, who is an architect, and Clarence Smith, who is associated with L. H. Biglow & Co., in New York.

At the Head of His Class.

The term examinations at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, are now being held and George A. Horne, of Willow avenue, who is a sophomore at that institution, has been excused from all but two of the ten examinations on account of his high standing during the year. Horne is now spending a few days at home while the rest of his classmates are working hard over their examinations. He will return to college tomorrow but will be back again on Tuesday of next week and will then remain in Plainfield for a week. Horne graduated from the Plainfield High School in 1895. He is now at the head of his class at the university.

The long expected contest between the Park Club and the Union County Country Club takes place at the Park Club house, this evening. The contests will be in bowling, pool, billiards and whist. The meeting of the representatives of the two clubs has been postponed several times but it is thought that they will meet tonight at last.

—Miss Catherine Wiggins, aged 74 years, died at her late home, 476 West Front street, early this morning, after a short illness with pneumonia. She came to this country fifty-six years ago from Ireland. She was a member of the Methodist church for forty years. She was the last one of the family to pass away. Funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 3:45.

—The annual statement of the condition of the Dimes Savings Institution makes a very creditable showing in all respects. The bonds that the bank hold are all of par value in actual worth and in many cases considerable more, showing careful management.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by T.S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner of Park and North avenues.

Desperate.

It is probable that few musicians ever became famous without wishing, at one time or another, that they might find a refuge from the reputation which precedes them wherever they go. At one time the celebrated composer, Verdi, went to the watering place of Montecatini for a much-needed holiday. In one of the apartments assigned to the veteran musician stood a grand piano of splendid tone. Verdi removed the score of "Il Trovatore," which had been laid on the rack by way of compliment, locked the instrument, and called for the son of his host, to whom he said, in solemn tones: "Lead me to the spot which overhangs the steepest precipice." On reaching the summit, the maestro, who was almost exhausted from fatigue, flung the key of the piano into the abyss, saying, with energy: "Now I have done something to secure rest and quiet. On the day of my departure I will send a locksmith to provide the piano with a new key, but while I am here let it remain as it is."—Youth's Companion.

Stub Ends of Thought.

Waited-for opportunities are usually more or less frazzled at the edges.

If a man can see good in anything, don't try to show him that there may be something else visible.

A handful of sunshine can knock out a cartload of clouds.

It's a cold day that can't get colder.

Work fast reaches rest first.

A man doesn't stand around with his hands in his pockets if there's money in them.

ALKALI IKE'S TRIP.

He Has an Experience That Makes Him Feel Like an Infant.

"Yep, I'm back," said Alkali Ike in reply to the inquiry of the able editor of The Weekly Clarion, "an I am yere to say that, no matter what a man runs up against, he never gets so full of experience that thar hain't nuthin new for him to encounter.

"Durin my long an somewhat useful career I've been mixed up in the usual run of shootin scrapes an cattle stampedes an blizzards an claim jumpin's an free for alls of every description. I've narrerly escaped bein lynched so many times that it's got monotonous. I've been knifed an drug around by the neck an tarred an feathered an so on, an once I gits myself chased all over town by an infuriated grass widder lady with a gun, owin to a trifiin misunderstandin. Lookin back over my trail, I gits to imaginin that I'm a plenty well seasoned old buck, but the experiences I'm meetin up with on my return trip from Arizony makes me aware that previous to that time I'm a mere infant, a-dribblin my bread an milk on my bib.

"In the first place, I hain't much more than got started for home till the train is held up by as scurvy a gang of road agents as I ever had the pleasure of meetin. I was asleep at the time, an instead of crackin me on the skull with a gun to wake me up one ornery cuss kicked me an broke my flask of as meller old 40 rod as you ever poured into your head. I was never more disgusted in my life than I was with the way them varmints operated—rippin an r'arin around enough to have carried an election instead of purseedin like gents an takin their plunder an shootin sech of us as resisted decently an in order. Business is business, an bur hanged if I don't like to see it done on business principles.

"Waal, it was all over at last, an the train started on its way amid the rejoicin of everybody except two persons. One of 'em was a gent from the east who didn't 'pear to be able to git used to our free western ways an was so skeered that he took to drink an done nuthin all the rest of the day but soak an shudder. The other was an English tourist that the robbers had took an beat an drug around by the heels for fun or jest bercuz he was an Englishman. He never said a word nor batted an eye more frequent than common while they were amusin themselves, an when it was over he jest brushed himself off an began ritin in his notebook.

"Nuthin of importance happened durin the rest of the day except that the bibulous gent continnered to imbibe an grow more wild eyed, an the Englishman made an entry in his notebook now an then. The train was two or three hours behind time, an the engineer, in his endeavor to make up the loss, ran by a tank whur he ort to have stopped for water. Water is of a heap more importance to an engine than it is to a man, an while the train was thunderin along at full speed the boiler exploded, an the whole blamed business piled up in one vast catastrophy, so to speak.

"You never saw sech a hoobly boobly in all your life. The cars was mixed up scandalous, an folks' heads an necks an legs broke like punkins; the engine man was blowed clear off the map; a batch of tramps ridin on the trucks under the cars was squanched flat. Everybody but the Englishman was hollerin all kinds of things but hooraw, an the mashed tramps was screechin shameful. The gent that had been indulgin in licker had been on the verge of the horrors for the last 90 miles, an this yere climax upset him complete. But, instead of seein snakes, he got the craze that he was married an pulled a pistol an blew his fool brains right out.

"Nacheral enough, this added to the excitement, but I observed that the Englishman was carm an serene through it all an purseeded to take some more notes. The fore part of the wreck caught fire, an we got to scuttlin around like rats in a trap lookin for a place of escape. An then we found that a hawk nosed gent from Connecticut had got the only ax in the car an cut a hole an posted himself outside with a big club, an thar that Shylock stood an made us pay a quarter apiece to come out through his hole, which was as little a piece of business as I ever seen. When I got out, I found myself close to the Englishman, still carm an unruffled.

"'Mighty bad affair, pardner,' says I, 'the worst I ever seen.'

"'Hindeed?' says he.

"'Waal, hain't it?' says I sorter crabbedly.

"'Hi don't know, Hi ham sure,' says he. 'Hi supposed such hincidents were common hoccurrences in Hamerican railway travel.'

"I reckon I must have been jolted up worse than I thought in the wreck, for right then I throwed up my hands an fainted, full an complete. When I came to, I— Ho! Thar's Whoop Rawson comin out of the Blue Light. I've got a little business with him. So long. See you later."—Tom P. Morgan in Truth.

11th DAY!

Today, Jan. 28th, is the eleventh day of Edsall's Great Retiring Sale, and we believe we can safely say that Plainfield has never before witnessed such marvelous merchandising as these eleven days. Every day both floors of the large store have been literally packed with eager buyers from early morning until closing time, 6 p. m.

Although we have put on a large force of extra salespeople, including two of Woodhull & Martin's head men from Morristown, yet we cannot wait on the people as promptly as we would like. The interest in the sale seems to increase each day, and the amount of sales each day is a little larger than the day before. It might be supposed that the goods would begin to give out, but when you think of a stock like ours, amounting to upwards of $80,000, comprising about everything anybody or any household would want, it cannot be sold in a few days. The people seem to have been taken as by storm; even the severe cold weather of the past few days did not lessen their enthusiasm, but they came out all the same. Such at which we are selling off the stock astonishes the New York shoppers even, and hundreds of our citizens who do their trading in New York are laying in their supplies for future use from our stock, saying that they cannot do near so well in New York. Those who wish to make a little money go a good ways, regard this sale as a great benefaction. The sale is known far and near, and is drawing trade from all around the country. No one has any idea of the magnitude of the sale, and the great crowds that visit the Commercial Palace during each day, unless they have been there to see for themselves.

The purchases are general; all kinds of goods sell, as every article in the store, from a pin to a moquette carpet, has been reduced to cost or below cost.

It seems as if everybody that we have ever seen, and hundreds of people we have never seen, have come to the sale, and reader, if you have not, we invite you to come right away, you will certainly see something that our wonderfully low prices will induce you to buy.

Our entire millinery stock, including velvets, ribbons, laces, chiffons, feathers, trimmed and untrimmed hats, in felts and straws, also straws, frames and flowers, to be closed out regardless of cost. Trimmed hats marked at $12, now $5. Everything to be sold at cost and below cost.

Come one, come all, you will find plenty of good cheerful company here, and everything bright and happy. All unpleasant sayings and things we leave out of our business and try to make everybody welcome and satisfied.

WELCOME TO A PASTOR.

BETHEL CHAPEL EVIDENCE THEIR HOSPITALITY TO REV. MR. TILTON.

The Affair in the Hands of Stephen A Ginna, the Superintendent.—Dr. Richards Made an Address Just to the Point.

The members of Bethel chapel gave a hearty welcome to their new pastor, Rev. Mr. Tilton, and Mrs. Tilton in the chapel, last evening. The ladies of the chapel had fitted up a cosy reception room during the day in which the pastor met and shook hands with many new friends.

The reception included a musical and literary entertainment and the several numbers on the informal programme were heartily applauded. It included piano solos, "Tam O'Shanter" and "The Midget" by Alfred White; a recitation, "The Welcome Raven," by Miss Lillie Jones; recitation, "The Model Church," Miss Edith Johnson; a song, "The teacher and the boy," by Walter Peterson and a soprano solo, "I love you too well," by Miss Kingsley. Stephen A. Ginna, in a few well-chosen words, introduced Rev. Mr. Tilton, who expressed his appreciation for the hospitality already extended to both himself and Mrs. Tilton. "We are reminded," said he, "of the patriarch Abraham, who looked from his window and saw three strangers, and he bade them enter and enjoy his hospitality. You have welcomed us to your homes and to your hearts, and we desire to show our appreciation of your hospitality. We hope as we go with you that we may be helpful."

Mr. Ginna called upon one whom he characterized as "Father Richards," of the Crescent Avenue church. Dr. Richards said this was the second pleasant service he had attended that day. During the day he was at work in his study when a carriage drove up and a young couple alighted and after the usual formalities they were pronounced man and wife.

In behalf of the whole church he extended a cordial welcome to Rev. and Mrs. Hilton and assured them that they will find a hearty welcome in Bethel chapel. Coffee, chocolate, cake, candy and fruit were then served in abundance, and Miss Lulu Douglas rendered some sweet piano music during the evening.

The reception committee consisted of Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Fisher, Miss Euphemia Dorsey and Miss Charlotte Dorsey.

The following ladies served tea, coffee and chocolate: Miss Phillis Holland, Miss Charlotte Dorsey and Miss Mary Brown. Those who passed the refreshments were Miss Bertha Anderson, Miss Mamie Hull and Miss Emma Marcellas.

A YEAR OLD AND PROSPEROUS.

Ladies Auxiliary of the A. O. H. Install Their Officers.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the A.O.H., held their first anniversary meeting last night, at which time the recently elected officers were installed by County Delegate Canty and State President Waldron. The new officers are: President, Mrs. Fitzgerald; vice-president, Miss McCue; financial secretary, Miss Moon; treasurer, Mrs. Berry.

After the installation was over ex-President P. Casey made a few remarks telling of the growth of the order since its organization a year ago. The present membership is sixty-five and they are doing a good work for the parent organization. There is $350 in the treasury.

State President Waldron also made remarks in which he fully explained the growth and benefits of the society.

At the conclusion of the meeting a supper was served.

For Protection Against Fire.

While there is so much snow on the ground the hook and ladder truck at fire headquarters will not be used unless undoubtedly necessary. A new arrangement has been adopted for the present and the team for the above apparatus is used for the No. 2 hose wagon, and the latter wagon carries several ladders in case they are needed. The Alert hose wagon and the chemical engine will only answer calls in and around the business part of the town. This arrangement is only applied while the streets are in their present condition.

A Drawing Room Meeting.

Invitations have been sent out for a drawing room meeting to be held at the residence of Mrs. Francis Wood, of 313 Franklin place, Wednesday afternoon, February 3d, at 3 o'clock. The meeting will be addressed by Mrs. E. E. Hornibrook, from the Homes in Paris for English Speaking Girls. The committee in charge consists of the following ladies: Mesdames Rowland Cox, Charles W. McCutchen, Isaac W. Rushmore, J. Kirtland Myer, Orville T. Waring and Joseph W. Yates.

CARLYLE AND HIS WIFE.

LEON VINCENT TALKS OF THE GREAT LITERARY MAN.

He Was a Man of Quiet Demeanor But of Wonderful Brilliancy in His Writings—His Wife Was a Great Help to Him.

The first of the series of three lectures by Leon Vincent, under the auspices of the Daughters of the Cross, was given yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. building before an audience that thoroughly appreciated the very complete and interesting review of the subject of "Carlyle and His Wife." The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Charles A. Reed, and after giving some of the details concerning the obsequies and interment of the noted historian, he spoke of the many things which made up the lives of both he and his wife.

Mr. Vincent gave an intensely interesting episode in the life of Carlyle when he was striving to make a livelihood through his work on the "French Revolution." The work was borrowed by a friend who wanted to read it, and while it was about the house the servant girl took occasion to use it to build fires in the stove. It so happened that it was the only copy and the notes had also been destroyed. The remorse of the friend as well as Carlyle could well be imagined, and the latter afterward said that the Infinite Schoolmaster had destroyed the copy and bid him write better. The great writer thought that if he had enough to keep himself and wife he ought to be satisfied and that he could not ask for much less. At the age of thirty-nine Carlyle's mind was superbly matured and he was really at his best.

Emmerson and Carlyle became great friends and the former was anxious that the latter should come to this country and lecture, and he was sure that if he could not lecture in Boston he could not lecture anywhere. Carlyle had no oratorical art but he was a great conversationalist, and the fact that men of high sincerity do not speak well was evident in his case. He delivered six lectures in London and as a result cleared 135 pounds. He always called his lectures exhibitions for he disliked the term of lecture.

Concerning Carlyle's wife, Mr. Vincent said that she was a wonderful woman and was an equal companion for her husband. She was pretty and attractive, and in her last days she lost none of her vivacity. She died very suddenly one day while riding in her carriage. Mr. Vincent related many personal incidents regarding both Carlyle and his wife, and in all the lecture was a delightful one.

The next lecture will be given Thursday afternoon, February 4th, and the subject will be "George Elliot."

TO TAKE A SALARIED OFFICE.

COUNCILMAN RANDOLPH TO RESIGN.

It is Understood That He Will be the New Street Commissioner.

Among the politicians today it is generally understood that Councilman Isaac Randolph will hand in his resignation to the Common Council at the meeting next Monday night, and after that Mayor Fisk will nominate him for Street Commissioner to succeed Robert Meeker.

Mr. Randolph has had the matter under consideration for some time and has finally decided to accept the place. He has had considerable experience in street work and Mayor Fisk and Councilman Frost, the latter at the head of the street department, believe that he will be a creditable official.

The new Councilman for the Fourth ward who will be chosen to fill the place left vacant is a prominent German.

BACK TO THEIR OWN HOME.

First Church of Christ to Have a Special Service Sunday.

The First Church of Christ will hold a special home-coming service in their edifice on Grove street next Sunday. The circumstances under which they return to the building are especially gratifying to the members. Though they own the structure they have not occupied it for sometime, preferring to lease it to the Plymouth Brethern and take more modest quarters themselves in order that they might liquidate the debt that was hanging over them. The debt has been nearly wiped out and they return to their own home confident of being able to make both ends meet in the future.

The services next Sunday, at which Rev. W. O. Thomas, of New York, will preside, will be of a special nature. It will also be the commencement of a series of revival meetings to be conducted for the next two or three weeks.

JUST MUST BE MARRIED

CUPID GOT IN HIS FINE WORK RIGHT HERE IN PLAINFIELD

An Eloping Couple Who Were Going to New York Suddenly Got Off the Train in This City and Were Joined in Wedlock

He was a cool headed locomotive engineer and she was the pretty waitress at a hotel. They loved each other, but her parents objected to the match. They were not to be balked by such a little obstacle, and so it was that yesterday morning she left her home to meet him and they came to Plainfield to be married.

S. Gildersleeve is an engineer on one of the passenger locomotives on the Scranton Division of the New York, Ontario and Western Railroad. He is known as a careful man and one of the trusted employes of the road. His home is in Carbondale, and about a year ago Gildersleeve stopped at one of the hotels in the place and met one of the waitresses in the dining room by the name of Miss Minnie Westgate. He liked her from first acquaintance and she liked him. Their friendship ripened to something more, and he started to keep company with her.

Miss Westgate lived with her parents and they did not wish to lose their daughter, so they seriously objected to the suit of the young railroad man, and forbid the marriage. The daughter loved her parents, but the gallant young engineer was dear to her, and so they decided to get married despite the opposition of the parents. Miss Westgate left her position at the hotel and lived at home, but still contrived to see her sweetheart frequently. At last the day was set and the lovers prepared to leave yesterday morning. Then came the snow. Gildersleeve was not afraid of the snow, he had seen it too often, and Miss Westgate was not afraid of anything with her stalwart lover by her side, and so they made the venture. Miss Westgate left her home early in the morning without saying where she was going, and joined him outside. They went to Scranton, and from there took the express on the Jersey Central which leaves Scranton at 8:20 o'clock in the morning.

They had intended to go to New York and be married there and then take in the sights of the city, but New York was too far off and when the train pulled up in front of the Plainfield station at 2:07 o'clock yesterday afternoon, they decided to be married in this city. A hack took them to the home of W. R. Richards, D. D, on East Front street, and they asked him to marry them. Their story was told and then the matrimonial knot was tied without delay. The couple then came to the Hotel Grenada to await the arrival of the next train for New York.

The bride was a pretty brunette, rather tall and slim. Gildersleeve was a six-footer, well proportioned and powerfully built. He was a smooth faced young man of about twenty-five years, while his bride looked to be about twenty.

They went up to the station and caught the 3:51 train for New York, where they will spent the night and saw the sights. Gildersleeve was formerly from New York and he has a number of friends in that city. They will return to Scranton in a few days and start housekeeping in the "dearest little" cottage which the loving husband has already for his bride when they return.

"Yes," said Gildersleeve to a Press reporter, "it was an elopement but we are going back again soon. Her people objected to it so we came here. I'm taking a little vacation now but when I return I'll go back to my old position on the engine. We will live in Scranton." The train was coming then and he said good bye to the reporter and hurried over to his wife and carefully piloted her through the drifts to the warm coach which was to carry them to New York.

New Body of Pythians.

It may be of interest to the Knights of Pythias generally, and to Crescent Division especially, to know that a division of the Uniformed Rank K. of P., will be instituted at Dover, Morris county, at an early date. There are twenty-seven members enrolled and the uniforms have been purchased. On Wednesday evening last, J. C. Van Dyke, of this city, attended an entertainment given at the above place by local talent, for the purpose of assisting the new division.

A Private Road.

John H. Tier, a member of the Union County Board of Freeholders, says that there is no truth in the statement that the board is going to assist in the building of a macadam road from the Rahway bridge to Elizabethport. He also say that the scheme is a private enterprise and that the board will not have anything to do with it.

TURKEY AND THE FIXIN'S.

TRINITY CHURCH WOMEN CONDUCT A PLEASING EVENT.

Besides the Supper There Were Other Features That Made the Affair a Social One in All Respects—Those in Charge.

Last evening the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church realized in part that for which they have been most earnestly planning, for the turkey supper given for the purpose of securing money with which to purchase a carpet for the church was in every particular a success. Throughout the entire evening those in charge were kept busy in attending to the wants of those who had come to assist in the grand work. There were five tables and each one was filled continually with people who enjoyed the excellent menu provided, which included all the things that go to make up a first class turkey supper.

The parlors of the church where the supper was held assumed a festive appearance through the artful work of the women of the church, who devoted their best efforts in making the affair all that it should be, and the result was extremely gratifying.

While all the good things were being served, the Schubert Club ladies' orchestra discoursed their best selections, and this added not a little to the pleasure of the occasion.

The prevailing colors were green and pink, and these shades were used with pleasing effect through the use of roses and smilax. The lemonade booth was probably one of the most attractive features. It was placed in a prominent corner, and with a thatched roof of straw from which was suspended roses and lemons, fac simile, a most striking effect was obtained. The other decorations were equally attractive and won unlimited praise from all.

The entire affair was in charge of Mrs. E. T. VanWinkle, and she was assisted in a most efficient manner by the other members of the society. Those in charge of the supper room were Mrs. P. M. Demarest, Mrs. Frank Church, Mrs. Seaman Williams, Mrs. Gillam, Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr, Mrs. Krymer and Mrs. G. Q. Dolliver.

The five tables were in charge of the following women: Mrs. H. W. Marshall, Mrs. Will F. Williams, Miss Snediker, Mrs. J. Fred MacDonald, Mrs. B. D. Newell, assisted by Miss Grace Smith, Miss Minnie Arnold, Miss Mabelle Force, Miss Ross, Miss Cora Laire, Miss Alys Chandor, Miss Grace Emmons, Miss Nellie McGinnis, Miss Olive Newell and Miss Clara Long.

At the apron table Mrs Shepherd, Mrs. Garrett VanWinkle and Mrs. Lance were in charge, while the candy table was presided over by Mrs. E H. Bird and Mrs. Wm. Startup.

The lemonade booth was in charge of Miss Maude C. VanDyke and Miss Mabelle Schenck.

As the people arrived they were induced to leave their hats and coats, and H. W. Marshall and Harry C. Van Emburgh were placed in command of this department, while E. H. Bird and E. T. Van Winkle very carefully attended to the money as they received it at the door.

The supper will be continued this evening, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance so that the women may fully realize the object for which the supper is given.

J. G. R. Johnson Married.

The marriage of Miss Catharine C. Smith, daughter of W. P. Smith, of Lebanon, Hunterdon county, and J. G. R. Johnson, of Flemington, took place last Wednesday noon at the home of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. E. Davis pastor of the Reformed church at Lebanon. Mr. Johnson has just opened a produce store on Somerset street, this city, and he and his wife came to Plainfield yesterday where they will reside.

Horse Bit His Tongue.

A horse owned by Street Commissioner Emmons, of the borough, sustained a severe injury to his tongue Wednesday afternoon, while doing work on Tier's pond. The tongue was hanging out of the animals mouth when he slipped on the ice and at the same time bit the unruly member. It was found necessary to take several stitches in the cut.

A Lively Discussion.

Considering the weather, there was an excellent attendance at the meeting of the Parliamentary Club held yesterday morning at the Y. M. C. A. building. Mrs. E. C. Morse presided and the members took up a study of the by-laws, and a lively discussion followed. The latter part of the meeting was devoted to reading quotations from the writings of John Burroughs.

PARK'S SWEPT THE DECK

DEFEATED THE COUNTRY CLUB IN THEIR OWN HOME.

The Defeated Ones Put Up a Good Game Though and Made Things Interesting For the Visitors From Over the Brook

In whist, bowling, billiards and pool the champions of the Park Club of the borough, and the Union County Country Club, of this city, met last evening at the home of the Country Club. It was the occasion of the annual contest between these two clubs and finally resulted in a complete victory for the Park Club representatives who won in each of the four different contests.

Two years ago these clubs met twice, once at each of the club houses and the result was a tie, each club winning two events at each contest. Last year the contest was postponed from one date to another and finally given up for the year as it was then too late in the season.

Although the Parks won every contest, last evening, it must not be thought that they had any easy thing of it. On the contrary, the fight was a very close one and the Park's had several narrow escapes from defeat. Especially was this so in billiards and bowling when the Park's almost met their match. There were several games played in each contest but the result was decided by the aggregate score in all the games. Had it been otherwise, the score would have been somewhat different, as in two of the contests the clubs broke even, although the Park's scored the greater total number of points.

The Country Club house was a lively place with all the different contests going on. Besides the participants in the various contests, some of the rooters of the Park Club came over to see the fun and encourage their friends on to victory.

The first of the four contests to be completed was the billiard match. The Park Club was represented in this by Augustus Van Deventer and Charles H. Lyman while the home club had only one representative, George A. Chapman. Two games were played, Mr. Chapman playing against each of the Park Club men. The first game between Van Deventer and Chapman was exciting and the Plainfield man kept close to his borough opponent. The Park Club man made an extra effort at the end and left his opponent nine points behind. Chapman and Lyman played a game that was still more exciting. Lyman obtained a lead toward the last and was within one point of going out when luck seemed to go against him. Both the players missed easy shots, but at last Chapman braced up and went out with Lyman only one point behind.

The scores were as follows:

PARK CLUB.		COUNTRY CLUB.
First Game.
Aug. Van Deventer	100	G. A. Chapman	91
Second Game.
C. H. Lyman	99	G. A. Chapman	100
	199		191

It has been planned to let two entirely different teams play two games, but neither of the clubs had ten available men with them. All the regular team of the Park Club, except Ball, whose place was filled by his father, rolled in the first game against the Counties. It did not make the slightest difference to the latter team, however, for they took the lead at the start and proceeded to give the Park bowlers a lively race. The home team led almost all the game, and finallly defeated the Parks by 26 pins.

Te score for the first game was as follows:

PARK CLUB		COUNTRY CLUB.
VanBuren	152	Beebe	183
Ball	129	Smith	114
Matthews	131	Jackson	152
Worth	131	Kinney	138
Thiers	156	Fleming	128
	699		725

The visitors woke up for the second game, and after making several changes in the team, started in to turn the tables on the Country Club team. The Parks secured a lead in the first frame, and held it to the close, winning by 40 pins. VanBuren put up a great game, and more than made up for the hard luck that Murray had in upsetting the pins. The score was as follows:

PARK CLUB		COUNTRY CLUB.
VanBuren	196	Beebe	135
Wilson	160	Booth	157
Rushmore	139	Jackson	124
Smith	135	Kinney	129
Murphy	115	Fleming	150
	735		695

Total Aggregate Scores:

	Parks.	Countrys.
First game	699	725
Second game	735	695
	1434	1420

Teams of two represented each club in the pool match. The Country Club had H. G. Runkle and H. M. Stockton as their team, while the visitors were Elston M. French and Roger W. Erickson. In the first round, the clubs each won a game, but in the second the contestants were changed,

ROBE OF SNOW OVER ALL

STORM CAME ALL IN A HEAP AND NOW THE WEATHER IS FINE.

Heaviest Fall in Fourteen Hours For a Number of Years—Sleighing is Excellent and Strawrides are the Proper Caper.

When the Storm King departed from this region yesterday, old Boreas came out and roared most vigorously and started to blow the snow into drifts to the discomfort of the pedestrian as well as the driver.

While the sleighing was almost spoiled in some of the country roads, those where most of the travel goes are in good condition and the sleighs are out by the hundred. Already straw rides are being planned and there will be numerous parties out this evening to enjoy the pleasure of riding in the bottom of a box sleigh on a heap of straw in company with a score of other young people.

The snow fall was as great as in any snow storm this winter on the level and some of the drifts were very deep. Weather Observer Neagle makes the total fall of snow in the last storm to be nine and a half inches. While the snow was not deep in the streets in the residential part of the city, it was quite so in the business streets. The snow from the sidewalks was piled in the gutters and in the streets where the trolley is, the snow pushed from the track by the plough added to this. Early this morning Street Commissioner Meeker had a force of men and carts at work carting away the superflous snow from Park avenue and Front street. He also had a gang of men at work yesterday afternoon cleaning the crossings around the city. The cleaning of the crosswalks was greatly appreciated by residents in the neighborhood as it is usually done by private enterprise.

The Plainfield Street Railway kept its snow plows and men at work all last evening removing the deep snow from the track and the part of the street close to it. While one of the ploughs was at work on tne Netherwood extension, last evening, it was run into by one of the cars and the plough generally demoralized. The lantern of the car was also wrecked. No one was hurt.

The heavy fall of snow put a temporary stop to the ice cutting at Tier's pond but it is now being cleaned off and work has been resumed. The Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company is also cleaning off their pond near Washingtonville and will commence cutting ice at once.

There was some fear that the wind last evening would fill the Fanwood cut with drifted snow but the icy blasts swept the cut lengthwise and the traffic was not interrupted.

When the signs pointed to a heavy fall of snow, special arrangements were made by the fire department. All the single horses were run double on account of the deep snow. The old order was resumed again this morning however.

There was a small army of men and boys that started out yesterday afternoon armed with shovels and brooms, prepared to do battle with the snow that covered the sidewalks about the city. As fast as the snow was shoveled away, the wind blew it back again and many sidewalks had to be cleaned two or three times before the snow could be effectually removed.

The same army was out again this morning completing the work. Some of the sidewalks were not cleaned off but the little lesson of last year when a number of arrests were made and the offenders fined, was remembered and the police report that the ordinance regarding the cleaning is more generally obeyed at this storm than ever before. There were many who forgot to do so and Roundsman Frederickson was kept busy this morning notifying the property owners that the snow must be cleaned off at once.

Installation of Officers.

Lucetra Council, No. 28, Daughters of Liberty, installed the following officers in their rooms in the Coward building on Park avenue, Wednesday evening, Miss Jennie Nelson, of New Market, being the installing officer: Councillor, L. B. Dalrymple; vice-councillor, Mrs. S. Mattox; secretary, Miss L. Johnson; treasurer, William Coryer; financial secretary, W. W. Straton. On account of the severe storm which prevailed at the time, all the officers did not appear, so they will be installed at the next regular meeting. One new member was elected at the meeting.

Caste to be Presented Again.

There is a well defined rumor abroad that the local amateurs will repeat the comedy "Caste" for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital. It will probably take place in February.

Richard Randolph, of West Eighth street, is able to be out again after being confined to his home for several weeks with illness.

HUMOR IN THE HOUSE

An Otherwise Dull Day's Session Enlivened by De Armond.

ATTACKS SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

The Missouri Member Suggests That Mr Morgan Be Placed in a Museum as a Curiosity of Modern Political Life.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Several interesting and at times humorous and acrimonious political speeches were unexpectedly precipitated upon the house last evening, just at the close of an otherwise prosy and dull session, during which the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill, begun on Monday last, was concluded, and the bill passed with some material changes, all reducing the scope of the measure. Mr. Grosvenor, rep., Ohio, started the discussion in a defense of the state of Ohio from what he called false charges of ex-Governor Altgeld, made in the latter's speech at the banquet given him last week to mark the close of his gubernatorial term. These related to the great increase in the votes of several states at the November election, Ohio being one which Altgeld said was largely fraudulent and which had defrauded Mr. Bryan of a victory which he had fairly won. Mr. Grosvenor said the increase was in both the republican and democratic vote and had no taint of fraud in it. Mr. Grosvenor was followed in the same line, and then Mr. De Armond, dem., Mo., took the floor. He read from a newspaper article printed shortly after the November election, which went to show that Altgeld's charges regarding the vote of Ohio were well founded. As to Altgeld himself, Mr. De Armond said it might be that the ex-governor would have an opportunity to answer here the assertions of the gentleman from Ohio. Mr. De Armond then devoted himself to a topic having some relation to the bill, the bulletin issued by the department of agriculture, showing, as he said, the illiteracy and poverty of those states which had the temerity to declare their desire to see the restoration of free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. This he declared to be a slander upon the part of the people whom the secretary of agriculture in the administration of his department was supposed to particularly represent. W. A. Stone, rep., Penn.—The gentleman understands that the republicans are not responsible for the official. Mr. De Armond—Oh, certainly. And I can thoroughly appreciate the gratification you must feel over that fact. "Years ago," De Armond continued, "it was said of the secretary: 'The secretary stood alone; modern degeneracy has not reached him.' Now the language was different: 'The secretary stands alone; modern degeneracy has not passed him.'" (Laughter.) He appealed to the republicans to find him a place after the administration had ended. He understood, of course, that he would not be kept in his present place. In former times royal courts comprised such an individual, but there was no court now in which to place him. "But," he asked, "can't you put him on a shelf in the museum, labelled as a curiosity of modern political life and modern political administration?" Mr. De Armond, to the great amusement of the house, described Secretary Morton as a man who was always writing when he was not talking, and always talking when he was not writing, and always doing both when not thinking, and concluded with the following parody of Gray's lines:

"Full many a whim of purest ray serene
The dark unfathomable dreams of Morton bear;
Full many a wheel is formed to whir unseen,
And waste its fleetness 'neath J. Sterling's hair."

JEALOUS MAN'S DEED

Wounds a Rivial and Puts a Bullet in His Sweetheart's Breast.

THEN TRIES TO END HIS OWN LIFE

Exciting Scene in a Boarding House at Little Falls, N. Y.—All the Parties to the Affair Connected with Leading Families.

Little Falls, N. Y., Jan. 29.—Morris Jackson of this city shot Fred McIntosh and Miss Ella M. Ausman at their boarding house on John street last evening. He then attempted to kill himself. Jealousy was the cause. Jackson kept company with Miss Ausman for some months, and McIntosh, who is a bookkeeper at the Victor mills, also paid her attention. Last night Jackson went to the flat and asked for Miss Ausman. She went to the door and talked with Jackson for about five minutes. She then returned to the supper table. Jackson left the door, but returned, and entering the dining room shot at McIntosh across the table, the bullet passing through his wrist. He then clasped Miss Ausman around the neck and pressing the revolver to her chest fired. Her corset stays turned the bullet and it entered her left side near the heart. The other boarders then seized Jackson and threw him to the floor. During the struggle he tried to shoot himself through the heart, but the bullet only grazed his side. He was soon in the custody of the officers and the revolver was taken from him. McIntosh, when wounded, ran from the flat. Miss Ausman's condition is reported as critical. The parties to the affair are connected with the leading families of the county. Jackson, until a few weeks ago, was one of the proprietors of the Clinton Park hotel, in this city. McIntosh's home is in Ohio, this county, and his father is a republican leader. Miss Ausman's home is Ilion. She has been employed here in the Eagle mills about one year. The recorder and coroner have taken the ante-mortem statement of Miss Ausman.

CHARGED ONLY LEGAL RATES.

Defense of Buffalo Alms House Trustees Accused of Presenting Excessive Bills.

Buffalo, Jan. 29.—W. H. Ticknor, counsel for the eight supervisors charged with presenting excessive bills for audit in connection with an investigating trip to New York, stated to a United Associated Presses representative this morning that the defence would be based on the special law of 1895, which fixes the compensation and mileage for the committee work of the board of supervisors of Erie county. Under the law they are allowed four cents a mile each, which would make $36. They would be allowed $3 a day hotel expenses and a per diem allowance of the same sum which would make $30. This with sleeping car expenses, $4, would make the even $70, which is the amount of the bill each supervisor presented. Attorney Ticknor is of the opinion that the prosecution has no case whatever and the Good Government clubs are liable to suits for damages for false arrests.

Forger Jones To Be Extradited.

New York, Jan. 29.—Assistant District Attorney Battle has received information that Latimer E. Jones has been arrested at Scarborough, England, on a charge of forgery committed in this city. The amount of the alleged forgery is $150,000. He was arrested at the time, placed under $10,000 bail and disappeared. Bail was forfeited. The district attorney's office notified the Scotland Yard officials sometime ago about the man and he was arrested yesterday. There are seventeen indictments for forgery in the second degree against him. He will be extradited.

Absolute Freedom or Extermination.

New York, Jan. 29.—Senor T. Estrada Palma, of the Cuban junta in this city, when asked his opinion of the proposed home rule measure Spain is about to concede to Cuba, said: "Unconditional and absolute independence, as I have previously stated, is all that Cuba will ever accept from the government of Spain. If she cannot have it she prefers extermination."

Dublin, Jan. 29.—A manifesto, largely signed by the Catholic clergy, has been issued in denunciation of the recent course of the factions of the Irish party, and declaring that the Irish national party has now reached its lowest stage of efficiency.

MODES OF HAIRDRESSING.

Dress the Hair in the Style That Is Most Becoming.

What becomes a woman's face so well as a frame of her own silken tresses, especially if they curl softly and lovingly about her brow and ears and throat, as though their end and aim in life was to cling and nestle about so fair a resting place?

The hair should be trained to lend all its shining silkiness and possibilities to the glory and attractiveness of milady's face, and it should be carefully kept and coiffured with an eye always to the most becoming style. The Marie Antoinette mode of dressing the hair is in full fashion this season, and if the brow be smooth and low, and the shape of the head and face inclined to be classical, it is an altogether beautiful and becoming arrangement. Women should study their faces and the shape of the head and neck, and find out, by repeated efforts, the style of coiffure best suited to conceal deficiencies and to accentuate all good points. Soft, clustering, fluffy styles are usually becoming to the majority of women, the straight parting and perfectly smooth drawing of the hair away from the brow being very trying to any but the pure Greek face. And in these retrousse, aquiline and "mixed" times and styles of features, the goddess types are few and far between. The woman with naturally curly locks should be grateful forever more, for it is only her straight-haired sister who understands what anguish of spirit means, as she wrestles with curling-tongs, "bandoline," kid rollers and reeds, in a deep, desperate frame of mind that at times almost borders on lunacy.

A sweet, girlish face looks especially lovely when the hair is curled loosely and naturally, and held in position by a plain bandeau. Soft curls about the back of the neck are absolutely necessary to women who are thin.

The English girls are wearing their hair waved and drawn down over their ears, completely concealing them, after the manner of the Bottiecelli coiffure, in Paris. At the back it is caught up in a soft knot. The hair is merely waved for this style, curls being more in vogue when the coiffure is high on top of the head.

Great care should be taken to keep the hair clean and glossy, and the scalp in a healthy condition. Every three or four weeks the ends should be singed off and the hair thoroughly washed. Quinine is an excellent tonic, promoting its growth more satisfactorily than almost any other remedy. But it has a tendency to darken the hair, and, unless you want the gold "shaded" off your locks, you would best be very careful as to its too frequent use.

Brushing the hair regularly at night is good. It grows glossy from this treatment, since the oil cells are induced to freer action by a vigorous brushing. When you have finished, plait it loosely before you go to bed. Red hair is, at present, extremely fashionable, and it seems a pity that we cannot keep all stylish colors "on tap," as it were, so we could appear in the prevailing vogue on a moment's notice. But place red hair next to the majority of eyes and complexions, and—picture the result! The freak museums would get the most of us!

Do not "friz" the hair. It not only ruins it in time, but it is rarely becoming to anyone. Indulge in curls and waves to your heart's content, but draw the line on "frizzing."

The small combs are still worn, but not so much as a few months ago.

SUNNY ROOMS.

They Do Much Toward Making Sunny Lives.

Light is one of the most active agencies in enlivening and beautifying a home. We all know the value of sunlight as a health-giving agent to the physical system; it is not less so to our moral and spiritual natures. We absorb light, and it nourishes us with strange powers. We are more active under its influence—can think better and work more vigorously. Let us take the airiest, choicest room in the house for our living room — the workshop where brain and body are built up and renewed. And let us there have a bay window, no matter how plain in structure, through which the good twin angels of nature, sunlight and pure air, can freely enter. We can hang no picture on our walls that can compare with the living and everlasting pictures which God shall paint for us through our ample window—rosy dawns, golden-hearted sunsets, the tender green and changing tints of spring, the white of winter, storm and shine, glimmer and gloom—all these we can have and enjoy while we sit in our sheltered room, as the changing days glide on. Dark rooms bring depression of spirits, imparting a sense of confinement, of isolation, of powerlessness, which is chilling to energy and vigor; but in light is good cheer. Even in a gloomy house, where walls and furniture are dingy and brown, you have but to take down the heavy curtains, open wide the windows, let light stream in, and gloom vanishes and care and sadness flee. Keep your house sunny, and keep your soul sunny. Let the Sun of Righteousness arise on you with healing in his wings, and you shall find that "light is sown for the righteous, and gladness for the upright in heart."—Detroit Free

Constipation

Causes fully half the sickness in the world. It retains the digested food too long in the bowels and produces biliousness, torpid liver, indigestion, bad taste, coated tongue, sick headache, insomnia, etc. Hood's Pills cure constipation and all its results, easily and thoroughly. 25c. All druggists. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. The only Pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills

Common Oatmeal

Sold from barrels or oftentimes in fancy packages (but still common oatmeal) is hard to cook, bitter in taste and overheating to the system. It overtaxes the digestive organs and the body derives no benefit from it—it injures rather than helps.

H-O

gets rid of all that is objectionable in oatmeal and preserves all that is valuable. It makes oatmeal a human food, palatable and easy of digestion, without taking away any of the elements needed for the building up of body, bone and brain. All other oatmeals—"steam-dried," "kiln-dried" and "partly cooked"—leave off just where H-O begins.

BON VOYAGE TO MR. AND MRS. GILBERT

Friends Filled Their Stateroom With Kind Remembrances.

Ex-Mayor and Mrs. Alex Gilbert, of West Eighth street, sailed on the Fuerst Bismarck Wednesday, and they were given a right royal send-off when they started on their trip across the water and through the Holy Land. They had the largest stateroom on the steamer. When they reached their room they were met with a pleasant surprise. The cause of this was that kind and loving friends had sent them so many presents of fruits and flowers that the room was well filled. One very large basket of fruit was the gift of all the employes of the Market and Fulton Bank, New York, of which Mr. Gilbert is the president. There were other gifts equally choice, and they will not easily forget the start on their journey. Mr. and Mrs. F. O Herring, of Park avenue, were the only Plainfielders present to see them off, but their many friends wish them a bon voyage and safe return to their native land.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of William H. Penn, chief clerk in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Colera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief. Price 25 and 50 cents; sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jone, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says, that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

—A meeting of Warren Engine Co., No. 1, will be held next Tuesday evening when matters of great importance will be considered.

—A horse belonging to Veterianary Surgeon Knott ran away yesterday noon on North avenue. The sleigh attached was wrecked in front of Robert's livery stable. The horse was caught after a long run.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. E. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject. He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—G. W. Squiers, of the borough, has just opened a produce store in the basement under the store recently occupied by Coddington & Ackerman, on Somerset street.

TWO FATALLY INJURED.

A Brooklyn Elevated Road Engine and Car Fall to the Street.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 29.—The ice and snow, with an open switch, was the cause of an engine and one car of the Brooklyn Elevated railroad leaving the structure at Fulton and Bradford streets last night, andfalling to the ground, a distance of twenty-five feet. Several persons were injured, as well as the car and engine being entirely demolished. Two persons, it is said will die. The injured are: Thomas Gaffney, who had his skull fractured and is fatally hurt. George Thomas, fireman, was badly scalded on face and arms by escaping steam. Thomas Heath, another fireman, had his left leg amputated and cannot recover. A dozen or more passengers were more or less injured. An open switch caused two trains to come together head on with a crash that could be heard blocks away, and a second later engine 74 toppled over leaving the rails and dragging the first car with it to the street. The breaking of the coupling on the second car prevented the three other coaches from leaving the rails. The noise of the crash was heard by the firemen stationed in truck No. 7. They hurriedly notified police headquarters and soon 200 policemen were on hand to keep the crowd back an also to assist the injured. Ambulances were summoned and the injured removed to hospitals.

THE STORM IN NEW ENGLAND.

Not Since 1888 Has There Been a Blizzard of Such Severity.

Boston, Jan. 29.—Not since the blizzard of 1888 has there been a storm of such severity throughout New England as that which prevailed for over thirty hours. All sections report heavy snow varying all the way from fifteen to thirty-four inches on the level while the high wind that prevailed, in many places, piled up drifts of five to ten feet in height. Country roads are everywhere rendered almost impassable while steam railroad, electric railway, telegraph and telephone service has been pretty thoroughly demoralized. In many places schools have closed, portions of mills shut down and business of all kinds practically suspended. All sorts of rumors have been afloat in regard to vessels being ashore at Nahant, Winthrop, Galloupes island and other points below, but diligent inquiry has failed to confirm any of them.

Government May Stand the Loss.

Washington, Jan. 29.—The house committee on claims will report favorably on the petition of Bosbyshell, superintendent of the Philadelphia mint, praying that he and his sureties be relieved from the payment of the judgment against them of $14,448, being the amount still due the government as the result of the loss of gold bullion stolen by Henry S. Cochran, weigher of the mint in 1893. Cochran stole $40,000 worth of gold and the government recovered a part of the amount through judgment against his estate.

Hawaiian Cable Bill.

Washington, Jan. 29.—The senate republican steering committee has decided to make the Hawaiian cable bill the order of business after the Nicaraguan canal bill is out of the way. This action has been conveyed to the democratic committee, and while that committee has not formally concurred the majority of the members will consent to this order.

"Lost Him in the Snow."

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 29.—News has reached this city of a lynching in Bibb county, near Briarfield, of a young negro for assault. On being identified by the girl he was started toward the county jail, but according to the mob who had him in charge he was "lost somewhere in the snow."

Woman Suffrage Question.

Hartford, Jan. 29.—In the house Mr. Tucker of Ansonia has presented a bill repealing the law allowing women to vote on school matters. Representative Griffing of Hartford has presented a bill allowing women over 21 paying taxes on over $500 of property to vote in city or borough meetings.

Killed by a Bursted Fly Wheel.

Allentown, Pa., Jan. 29.—Ralph Reed was instantly killed last evening in the nail mill of the Consolidated Steel company by the fly wheel of an engine bursting. His head was cut in two by a flying piece and half of it was hurled through a transom over a door.

THEY FEAR PALMER

St. Louis Jail Officials Anxious To Get Rid of Him.

NOW CONFINED IN A STEEL CAGE

No Doubt That He Intended To Commit Suicide or Attack One of the Guards—Still Professes His Innocence.

St Louis, Jan. 29.—A deputy sheriff will arrive here to-day to take Palmer, the murderer of his brother and mother, to New York, and the jail officials here are extremely anxious to get rid of their troublesome charge. He has been confined in a steel cage in the basement of the jail closely guarded since the sharp piece of steel scrap which he had torn from the iron lattice work of the window was found upon him. There is no doubt that he contemplated suicide or an attack upon some of the guards. Palmer was taken to the Mississippi Valley Trust company's office yesterday afternoon, where he tried to check out the $350 he has on deposit. Payment was refused. The Trust company cashier says the money was deposited by Paul Jones, and affidavit that Palmer and Paul Jones are identical is necessary. A further reason for withholding payment is that the money may be stolen and should go to the rightful owners. Palmer still refuses to admit his guilt, and has evidently determined to rely upon his story of persecution and attempts upon his life by his mother, sister and brother by poison. The only anxiety he exhibits is for a speedy return to New York, where he can secure counsel.

Kennedy Poisoning Trial.

Salem, Mass., Jan. 29.—In the trial of Wm. Kennedy, charged with attempting to poison Albert F. Learoyd of Danvers on November 6, 1896, Mrs. Jessie Learoyd, wife of Mr. Learoyd, testified that Kennedy had visited her husband's farm since he quit work there and had come without her husband's knowledge. Kennedy told her that he had thought a great deal of her and that she was not properly treated by her husband. To the question: "Has Kennedy ever kissed you?" she said that she would rather not answer.

A NICE MOTTO.

"A business man's administration" is said to be the motto that Mayor Fisk has before his mind in making up his list of appointments to be sent to the Common Council Monday night for confirmation. Though there is very little danger of a Democrat slipping into any place on the municipal pay roll, it is the idea that every Republican appointed shall be a practical man at the work which he will be put in charge of.

UNEXPECTED PATRONAGE.

The Comman Council are better off in the matter of distributing patronage than they had any idea of when first elected, for the resignation of City Treasurer Titsworth and the prospective resignation of Councilman Randolph gives them two valuable places to fill that were unexpected.

HER HOME PRE-EMPTIED BY FRIENDS.

Mrs. Olive Wyckoff Given a Party by Her Many Friends.

Miss Olive Wyckoff, of East Sixth street, was completely surprised last evening by a few of her friends and an evening of pleasure followed. Those who planned the surprise were Miss Minnie Stiglitz and Frank Wyckoff, and they had it so arranged that the party was to meet at the home of the Misses Mills, of East Fifth street. In the meantime, the surprised went to the home of her sister, Mrs. Runyon, for the purpose of spending the evening, but the latter persuaded her sister to return home for something, and when she arrived she found that the house had been completely captured by the young people. After all had regained their composure, the balance of the time was passed in playing games of all sorts, and at a late hour refreshments was served. Those present were Miss Minnie Wiman, Miss Minnie Stiglits, Miss Ella Conover, and Julius Williams, John Stoker, Wm. Wimans, S. H. Fenner, Mr. and Mrs. Welsh.

At last his whines and barks attracted some of the neighbors and they tried to release him Finally, through the efforts of three men and an iron crowbar, he was released.

KELLER AND EDWIN BOOTH.

GREAT TRAGEDIAN ASSISTED IN ONE OF THE MAGICIAN'S MYSTERIES.

Professional People Are as Much in the Dark Regarding Keller's Manifestation as Are Those Not on the Stage.

Magician Kellar, who will be seen in this city tonight, narrates an interesting experiences he had with the late Edwin Booth. The story tends to show that professional people of the highest rank were as much in the dark regarding the methods Kellar pursues in his work, as are the average laymen, who do not see a show once a year. "On the 13th of April, 1885," said Mr. Kellar, "while I was permanently located at Egyptian Hall in Philadelphia, Mr. Booth, Mr. William M. Singerley and Dr. Furness, a member of the Seybert Commission, came to witness my 'Simla Seance,' which is the 'Spiritualistic' number on my programme to this day. The manifestations produced in this seance are the exact duplicates of those presented at Simla, in the Himalaya mountains, in India, once a year, by the most expert mediums the world has ever produced. They of course claim spiritualistic materializing power. I claim trickery and nothing else. When the cabinet seance was announced, a committee, as usual, was invited to come upon the stage and tie me so securely as to preclude the possibility of my doing anything with my hands. The gentlemen that I have named were members of the committee on that day. I took my place in the cabinet, which they had seen put together piece by piece before their eyes, and, when it was completed and the doors just about to be closed, I asked Mr. Booth to put his head into the cabinet where I was seated. He did so, and in a fraction of a second his hat was resting upon my head and my hat was jammed down almost to his ears. It was done so quickly that the tragedian had not the slightest idea as to how it was accomplished and a more surprised expression I never saw on a man's face. I tried to get him to come into the cabinet with me and allow me to close the doors, but he remarked that he still had a few unfilled engagements with the public, and he didn't care to disappoint. I then asked him to assist me with a number of so-called spiritualistic experiments, such as lifting tables, writing upon previously signed slates, and the like. This he did, but although a score of tricks were performed under his very nose, he was as much mystified as any one in the audience. When the seance was concluded he remarked to Dr. Furness, as he dodged a tambourine that came flying out of the cabinet, 'That is simply the devil and nothing else!' During my run at Egyptian Hall, which compassed 323 consecutive performances, all the noted mediums of America and Europe witnessed the 'Simla Seance.' Almost without exception they went away declaring that I was the most powerful medium they had ever seen, but that for some reason of my own, I denied the fact."

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Only one session is being held in the public schools for a day or two, while the walking is so bad.

Miss Caroline Hurd, of Davenport Centre, New York, is visiting Mrs. E. H. TenEyck, on Fairview avenue.

A few cases of frozen fingers and ears, were reported among the small boys, who persisted in riding on bobsleds, yesterday.

Miss Alice Hayden has returned to her home at South Deerfield, Mass., after a pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Whitney.

The mother of the late Mrs. A. I. Martine, who was here attending her daughter's funeral, left for her home in Flemington, last evening.

The members of the Dunellen Fire Department held a meeting in the new town hall, last evening, but only business of a routine nature was transacted.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Henry Jennings, who died on Wednesday, will take place from the Presbyterian church tomorrow at 1 p. m. Interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

Out of the twenty-five or thirty pupils in the principal's class at the Whittier school, yesterday, only six boys and one girl braved the storm and attended the morning session. They were dismissed at noon.

Mrs. Laura Earl, who had anticipated erecting a large barn to replace the one burned some weeks ago, and who had the lumber all purchased has abandoned the project for the present, and will not begin operations until spring opens and the weather becomes more settled.

Rev. Mr. Custard, pastor of the M. E. church, is not enjoying the best of health, and Dr. Hedges, his physician, has ordered him to confine himself strictly to the home for a few weeks. About a year ago Rev. Mr. Custard was ill, and it is thought that he never fully recovered.

Acting Street Commissioner Samuel Merrill was out with his horse and snow plough at daylight yesterday, and by 10 o'clock he had cleaned off nearly all the sidewalks, thus opening up a four-foot passageway for the pedestrians. The snow drifted nearly all day, however, and before nightfall many of the walks did not look as though they had been opened at all.

A lively runaway occurred at Dunellen, yesterday, but very fortunately no one was seriously injured. Mrs. Kate Kuldosch's horse ran away on the New Market road, and in its flight the runaway rig collided with a horse and sleigh owned by Matthew Ageny, in which were seated Mr. Ageny and his three children. Mr. Ageny was driving his children to school, so they would avoid the deep snow drifts. When the crash came Mr. Ageny and his children were thrown promiscuously into a snow bank, but on account of the lightness of the snow, none of them were seriously injured. The sleigh was overturned and the dash board and shafts were wrecked. The horse was stopped near the station before doing any further damage.

The fourth or west bound coal and freight track on the Central Railroad, just west of Greenbrook, was rendered useless by the deep snow drifts, yesterday. Station Agent Charles English notified the section boss and drill engine 75 carried about a dozen of the trackmen to the place where they were put to work shoveling through the drifts The heavy engine, with its snow plow, plunged into the drifts and banked up the snow on each side of the track. 75 engine was on duty at Dunellen nearly all day, to be in readiness and to assist east bound coal and freight trains in climbing the heavy grade between Dunellen and Plainfield. A gang of track hands were also kept ready to respond on call in case the snow should drift in on the tracks during the night and interfere with the traffic.

WASHINGTONVILLE.

A private dance will be held at the home of Henry Rogers, on Mountain Park Farm, near Washingtonville, this evening. A party of young people from this city and the borough will go there in sleighs. The party is being gotten up by Charles Miles, of Somerset street.

—There will be a dance at the Park Club house, this evening.

—The Reform Club did not hold a meeting last evening, owing to the fact that there was not a quorum present.

BUT HOSTS EQUAL TO THE OCCASION.

Westfield Couple Happily Surprised Last Evening.

Amid jingling sleigh bells and tooting horns, last evening, a merry party comprising two sleigh loads left this city to attend an anniversary surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Darsh, of Westfield, it being their sixth wedding anniversary. Mrs. Darsh was delighted with the surprise and proved a hostess fully equal to the occasion.

The party had made arrangements to utilize the store occupied by George Voehl, the baker, and the entire party marched to the store where all was in readiness. The sound of Prof. Frazee's music could be heard and the merry party danced the hours away. At midnight Mrs. Darsh, assisted by Mrs. Taylor, Miss Marguerite Laughlin and Miss Decker, served refreshments, after which John H. Carney amused all with his droll dialect stories.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Darsh, Mr. and Mrs. John Darsh, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Taylor, William Heinecke, D. Campbell Austin, Henry Chas. Piker, F. Decker, Miss Anna Decker, Miss Louise Stauffer, Miss Minnie Monis, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Doener, Mrs Magaruite Langhlun, of Westfield; Miss Lillie Brogly, Miss Annie Gee, John Voehl of Bayonne; Miss Sarah Frazee, Peora, Ill; Mr. and Mrs. John F. Culp, Liberty, N. Y; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sebring, Monticello, N. Y; Mr. J. Higgins, New York; Mr. and Mrs. John H. Carney, Mrs. Magarauite Salter, Misses Tina and Della Voehl, Ellwood Sebring, Mr. and Mrs. George Voehl, Plainfield.

THEATRICAL.

Lillian Russell, confessedly the most beautiful woman the American stage has ever known, is in the first flush of another triumph at the Casino in New York. All the big dailies of the metropolis are unrestrained in their praise of her fresh essays and declare her talent better ventilated than in any work of her splendid career. Her engagement at the Casino ends in a few weeks and playgoers who have the diva on their lists of attractions to see will heed the note of warning. On Monday night, February 1st, the 150th performance of the comic opera is to be celebrated by the presentation of a token, which Canary & Lederer say will be found more unique than any souvenir ever issued by them.

Opie Read Tells How a Wise Man's Best Girl Took Advantage of Her Lover's Inexplicable Dullness.

[Written for This Paper.]

When Lagmon set about a thing everyone knew that it would be accomplished with a wholesale thoroughness. He was a sort of experimental scientist. He came to Chicago about two years ago, expecting to take a professorship in the university—came with strong letters from the big men at Harvard—but upon examination it was found that he presented too smooth an average, that he had no pronounced specialty; so an active identity with the great institution was refused him. He took up his residence in a large apartment house and busied himself with all sorts of experiments.

"THAT WOULDN'T BE A BAD IDEA."

Living in the same apartment house was a charming young woman, a sort of "Middlemarch Dorothy," a sweet creature with a great respect for learning. In the parlor one evening a number of thinking people met to discuss the hygienic possibilities of the dry earth system, and it was then that Lagmon and this young woman met each other. He made a speech as dry as the subject under discussion and this so charmed the girl that she sought his acquaintance. It seemed to have been a case of agreement at first sight. She knew that all dullness was bulged out with wisdom, a mango stuffed with knowledge; he knew that any handsome and sweet young woman who could listen to him was intended to be his wife. It was fate and therefore should not be questioned. For a time their meetings were measured by weekly doses, when the society assembled to discuss dry earth, but after awhile they began to take long walks in the park and on the lake shore to search for the perceptible tide. One evening when they had failed to find the perceptible tide, upon whose existence Lagmon had staked his reputation, they returned to the park and seated themselves on a rustic bench.

"Oh, I know it's there," he said.

And looking at him sweetly, she replied: "Who could doubt it?"

"No sane person, dear," he rejoined, "but you must remember that the mind of the public is turned by the crank of ignorance."

For a time they were silent, watching the shadowy "wheels" that sped past them. "But it strikes me," she said, "that from your vast amount of work you ought to realize something tangible. Don't you think you could invent something?"

He came within one of snorting at this, but he didn't. He swallowed and then said: "Elizabeth, I am not a mechanic. I might make a wheelbarrow and sell it to a contractor on the drainage canal, but I am not a carpenter."

"I know, dear, but that doesn't do away with the need of an income."

"Elizabeth, I shall not turn in resentment upon your wisdom. An income does seem to be necessary in this town of rabid materialism."

"I think that it must be necessary anywhere, dear," she replied.

She was silent, looking at the "wheels" that sped past them. If he could only invent a bicycle. But she was afraid to suggest this. It would make him angry; he would declare again that he was not a mechanic.

He let his brain work for quite awhile. The production of a popular novel would be an easy thing. It would simply be wisdom at play. And what could play so wisely as wisdom? He would not put his name to it; that would throw discredit upon the perceptible tide.

"Elizabeth, to give you an example of the swiftness of the human mind, I will say that my plan is already laid. My scheme is almost perfected. It is like the vine that came up in a night, but I will see that the coming of the sun does not wither it. And dear, you probably don't know how much you can help me with this book. Just listen to me a moment and I will give you an example of the quickness of a thoughtful mind at play. In the meshes of my mind—ah, how my thought leaps—in the meshes of my mind I hold a man that will make a startling character. You don't know him, but you shall. He is a tall, gaunt personage with a big nose; he is not particularly well-educated, surely is not handsome; but his influence over woman is wonderful. I put my mind on him and for a long time studied him, not that I ever expected to use him, but that I strove to get at the secret of his social success. I can discover nothing in him and so it is useless for me to try, but you with your keen discernment can find his secret. I will make an appointment to meet him and will introduce him to you. Then you can begin your part of the work. You may meet him as often as you think it necessary, write down your impressions from time to time and hand them to me. What do you think of the idea?"

"Delicious!" she cried. "And so novel, so like a newspaper. You see, I will go out as a reporter to bring in this character, and by keeping him actually flushed with life we can indeed startle society with him. Dear, I can see an income."

The name of this character was Tom Pugney, and the next day he was introduced to Elizabeth. He awkwardly shook hands with her, said that he had heard the "professor" speak of her and then, without any seeming cause, laughed like a horse. And as his merriment rolled and swayed Elizabeth thought that there must be a perceptible tide in his mirth.

Lagmon left them together and went away to muse over the minor characters of his book. The next night there was a meeting of the Dry Earth society. Lagmon was to have read a paper on "Dust as a protection against the early cut-worm," but excused himself on the ground—the dry ground—that another work of less importance but possibly of more interest had taken up his time. In a corner of the room he met Elizabeth and asked her regarding the progress she had made. She smiled and handed him a written report. "He has his secret well hidden," the report said. "Possibly it does not exist at all, but with regard to this I cannot as yet decide. The first impression was not agreeable. I thought that his laugh was unnecessary, but after a time I fancied that there was some little music in it. He does not choose his words well, but as a rule women do not like well-chosen words. They prefer the careless utterances of impulse rather rather than the chosen sentences of thought. In appearance he is surely awkward, but women can forget awkwardness in a man easier than men can blind their eyes to ungainliness in a woman. This is as far as I have progressed."

"Good," said Lagmon. "I am delighted to see that you are so thorough. Oh, you'll get at his secret after awhile. When are you to see him again?"

"Day after to-morrow."

"Good again. That's right, rush it, but above all hold to your thoroughness. You have already given me a dazzling glimpse of him, and I feel assured that we shall make of him a blinding presentation. That isn't bad, eh? Oh, we've got him."

A few days later Lagmon was busy in his library, measuring his plot and diagramming his thrills when Elizabeth entered. "Oh, on hand with another report, eh? Just in time, got a place for it right here."

She handed him a slip of paper and he read the following: "He does not agree with everything that a woman says. This gives a chance for discussion and is therefore pleasing, since nothing is more tiresome than the person who accepts everything one says. He professes to have been a pronounced cynic, but lets you see that your influence is curing him. He discovers what a woman thinks is wit and laughs at it. He laughs at the idea of love."

SHOOK HANDS WITH HER.

"Oh, you are getting at it," the novelist declared. "And what a character he will make."

"I am so glad you are pleased, dear," she said.

"Pleased! Why, I am delighted. You may not know it, but you are helping to make the great American novel. This one character will capture every critic in the country. But we must not let the work get cold."

Her next report was encouraging. "His smile which had at first escaped my notice I now find is pleasant," she said. "It holds the merest suggestion of sadness, and this shows sentiment. Once or twice I thought that I caught a glimpse of his real secret, but perhaps it was a mere fancy. But I am now convinced that he has a secret power. He shrewdly discovers something about a woman—something which she prides herself on and which she thinks has been kept hidden—and then comments upon it. To most women this is delicious. He blunders a compliment—or makes one think that it was strong upon his mind and that he uttered it by accident. This is charming. He declares that he is not emotional, but I know that he is. He tries to hide it, but cannot."

The novelist leaned back after reading the report and contentedly scratched his head. "We've got a fortune here," he remarked, nodding at his work. "But we must not let it get cool. I think you've got him. When do you see him again?"

"To-morrow evening."

"And I shouldn't wonder but that will finish him."

The next evening he sat in the library, waiting for the girl.

There came a tap at the door. "Come in," he cried. A messenger boy entered. She had sent her report, and this is the way it ran: "I have at last found his secret charm and it is his love for me or mine for him, I hardly know which. After awhile I may know exactly. You are welcome to the work that I have done for you. There is a perceptible tide in the affairs of man—but I will not quote. My husband sends his regards."

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text: "There is None Other Name Under Heaven Given Among Men Whereby We Must be Saved." Acts iv. 12. Jan. 31, 1897.

1. "And as they spake upon the people the priests and captain of the temple and the Sadducees came upon them." They spake of Jesus, His life, death, resurrection and return to restore all things of which the prophets had spoken; that He and all things concerning Him had been foretold by the prophets, and that now being raised from the dead, he was ready to bless Israel first. In all the prophets the Spirit had said that through Israel all nations of the earth should be blessed, and He spoke through them of a great Deliverer who would do this and make Israel the chief of all nations.

2. "Being grieved that they taught the people and preached through Jesus the resurrection of the dead." They would be grieved that men, in their eyes unlearned and ignorant (verse 13), should dare to teach. The priests were to teach the people (Mal. ii, 7; Lev. x, ii). While resurrection was plainly taught in the Old Testament (Job xix, 25-27; Ps. xvi, 10; Ezek. xxxvii, 12, 13; Hos. vi, 2), the Sadducees believed not in any (chapter xxiii, 8), so that anything on resurrection would grieve them. That Jesus of Nazareth, whom they crucified as a real malefactor should be risen from the dead, would prove that they were guilty and that He was what He said He was.

3. "And they laid hands upon them, put them in hold until the next day, for it was now eventide." They had been taught to expect this, and therefor may not have been surprised at it, though the first time that even a predicted event happens is often a surprise (John xv, 10; xvi, 2; Math. x, 16-20). The enmity against God and His word even on the part of those who, like the priests, are professedly His people, is still very marked and shall continue to be throughout this age.

4. "Howbeit many of them which heard the word believed, and the number of the men was about five thousand." If these are wholly in addition to those of chapter ii, 41, then here are already over eight thousand followers of the Lord Jesus Christ within a few days and apparently through two sermons and a miracle. What a contrast to the hundred and twenty of chapter i, 15, and what an illustration and proof of His words: "Greater works than these shall He do, because I go unto My Father" (John xiv, 12).

5, 6. "And it came to pass on the morrow that their rulers and elders and scribes * * * were gathered together at Jerusalem." This was a council of the highest religious body, or as we might say of the church authorities, and, therefore, one to be feared by ordinary men.

7. "And when they had set them in the midst they asked, By what power, or by what name have ye done this?" The phrase "in the midst" makes us think of the invisible Christ who was truly in the midst unseen by the religious dignitaries. Peter and John were there in His name and on His business, and He was surely with them in the midst (Math. xviii, 20).

8. "Then Peter, filled with the Holy Ghost said unto them, Ye rulers of the people and elders of Israel." The Holy Spirit is the key to the whole business, and the one great secret of every victory in the Christian life. He spake and wrought every word and act through Christ, and He is given to every believer to do the same in each one—that is, to speak and act through us.

9. "If we this day be examined of the good deed done by the impotent man, by what means he is made whole." The man was certainly utterly helpless, a truly impotent man, and it is on and in such that the gracious Lord loves to work. If we knew how helpless we are to save ourselves or to do any good thing when we are saved, we would stop trying and trust our mighty Saviour to work in us both to will and to do of His good pleasure. All our doing tends to exalt ourselves, and this is wrong, but His doing exalts Him, and that is right.

10. "By the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth doth this man stand here before you whole." The crucified and risen Christ, the despised Nazarene, still lives, and has all power, and He manifests it through His followers to His glory that His name may be known. The devil and the world and a worldly church hates to have His name made known (verse 17, 18), but a true believer will say with Peter and John, "We cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard" (verse 20). The apostles took no credit to themselves, saying, "He did it."

11. "This is the stone which was set at naught of you builders, which is become the head of the corner." This would or should have carried their thoughts to Ps. cxviii, 22; Isa. viii, 14; xxviii, 16; Gen. xlix, 24, and other texts where Israel's Messiah is compared to a stone. Some of these very men may have remembered his own words to this effect also. See Math. xxi, 23, 42-44. Some day, when the nation shall see Him coming in His glory, they will think of these things, and with true penitence they shall make the words of Isa. liii their own. See Zech. xii, 10.

12. "Neither is there salvation in any other, for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved." Whether it be for a nation or for an individual (Job xxxiv, 29), there is no salvation apart from Jesus Christ. In Him is life, and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life (John i, 4; John v, 11, 12).

13. "They took knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus." An unlikely instrument, humanly speaking, when controlled by God brings glory to God. The utterances and the fearlessness of these men before this great council convinced them that some great mind or power was controlling them. They probably remembered the boldness of Jesus, and saw in these men His Spirit. He had told them while yet with them that when brought before councils for His sake they were not to be anxious as to what they should say, for the Spirit of God would speak through them (Math. x, 18-20).

BE STRONG AND HEARTY.

HOW TO BE STRONG AND FULL OF LIFE AND VIGOR.

If you starved for two days you would feel as weak as a cat.

Proof enough that your food is the cause of your strength.

If your stomach is sick, you're starving away your strength. Slowly perhaps, but none the less surely.

You feel it yourself.

You have nausea, loss of appetite, headache, giddiness, pain in the stomach, loss of of strength, spirits and ambition.

What do you think? That it's your head?

But it's not. It's simply your stomach.

Food is strength. Stomach makes it available. If stomach won't work, food does not become available strength.

Shaker Digestive Cordial will, in a few doses, make your stomach well and help your food make you strong.

Who wouldn't be strong. Whoever won't take Shaker Digestive Cordial.

Sick, tired, weary men and women, those who are working their bodies and brains too hard, will find relief and strength in Shaker Digestive Cordial. It makes strength. It makes happiness.

It's not ordinary medicine, it's a cordial.

It's pleasant to take, and more than pleasant in its results. For sale by all druggists at 10, 25, 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry rivers will receive your work.

MORTALITY IN N. Y. STATE.

About 124,000 Deaths During the Past Year, or 19.00 Per 1,000 Population.

Albany, Jan. 29.—According to the annual bulletin of the state board of health there have been reported in the monthly bulletins during the year 120,683 deaths; this is 1,000 less than in 1895. Delayed returns, not recorded in the bulletin, increase the actual reported mortality to about 124,000, which makes the death rate for the year 19.00 per 1,000 population; that of 1895 was also 19.00. The infant mortality was the same as the average of the past year, 34.5 per cent. of deaths have occurred under the age of five years. The zymotic mortality constituted 16.0 per cent. of the deaths of the year and caused three deaths per 1,000 population for the year. The percentages of several years past have been about 18.0 of the total deaths. Grippe was epidemic early in the year and caused about 3,000 deaths. Typhoid fever caused 24.4 deaths per 100,000 population. Diphtheria caused 71 deaths per 100,000 population as compared with 78 in 1895. Scarlet fever caused the smallest mortality in ten years, measles the highest, having been excessive for two years. Diarrhoeal diseases caused nearly the average of the past ten years, about 9,000 deaths. Consumption caused the usual yearly mortality of a little over 13,000 deaths, and a little more than 10 per cent. of the total. From acute respiratory diseases, deducting deaths from grippe, there were 14,000 deaths.

VENEZUELA ARBITRATION.

Chief Justice Fuller and Justice Brewer To Act for the Republic.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Justice Brewer of the supreme court practically confirms the report that Chief Justice Fuller and himself have been selected as arbitrators on behalf of Venezuela in the matter of the settlement of the boundary line dispute between that country and Great Britain. The selection of Justice Brewer, who for a year or so has been at the head of the commission appointed by President Cleveland to make an investigation of the boundary line question for the United States, is accepted as proof that the conclusions reached by the commission, which as yet have been withheld from the public, are that Venezuela's claims are well founded. If otherwise, it is claimed, Venezuela would commit her case to an unfriendly arbitrator.

DUBOIS DEFEATED.

A German Populist Farmer To Succeed Him in the Senate from Idaho.

Boise City, Idaho, Jan. 29.—The senatorial contest in the Idaho state legislature terminated by the selection of Henry Heitfelt, a populist, to succeed Senator Dubois. The ballot was as follows: Heitfelt, 39; Dubois, silver republican, 30; T. F. Nelson, populist, 1. Twenty-five populists, thirteen democrats and one republican voted for the successful candidate. Heitfelt is of German birth with a limited command of the English language. He is 40 years old and is a farmer in Nez Perce county. He has several times represented his county in the state legislature and is at present a member of the state senate, but has never been known to make a speech. He has only a rudimentary education and is, of course, a free silver man.

White House Reception.

Washington, Jan. 29.—High winds and zero weather kept many people away from the reception given at the White House by the President and Mrs. Cleveland to congress and the judiciary. The function was nevertheless well attended and a large crowd of black-coated senators, representatives and judges, most of them accompanied by ladies, pushed their way through the reception rooms. In the public lobby the United States Marine band played during the evening.

The South Norwalk Accident.

South Norwalk, Conn., Jan. 29.—The five victims of the accident on the Consolidated road near here Wednesday will be buried this afternoon. The coroner's verdict that the accident was unavoidable and that neither of the engineers were criminally negligent or in any way responsible is generally admitted to be in accordance with the evidence of the trainmen and eyewitnesses except, of course, by the widows and orphans of the victims.

Dinner to Mr. and Mrs. Hobart.

New York, Jan. 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Morton gave a dinner last evening at their Fifth avenue residence in honor of the Vice-President-elect and Mrs. Hobart. The guests included ex-Minister and Mrs. Edward J. Phelps, Jas. C. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Astor and others.

Two Reporters May Be Drowned.

New Orleans, Jan. 29.—A telegram from Port Eads says that the steamer Albert Dumois ran down and sank the steam yacht Argo. Two reporters of the Picayune who were on the Argo, Blessing and Hester, the latter a son of Secretary Hester of the Cotton exchange, are missing.

TWO PLACES FILLED

Cabinet Completion Now a Comparatively Easy Task.

SIX MEN PRACTICALLY DECIDED UPON

Mr. Gage, the Next Secretary of the Treasury, in Thorough Accord with the President-elect's Financial, Political and Economic Policies.

Canton, O., Jan. 29.—Now that the portfolio of the secretary of the treasury has been offered and accepted, the work of completing the cabinet will be practically an easy task. Mr. Gage meets all of the requirements, but his appointment does not remove from the list of cabinet possibilities the name of Charles Emory Smith, who would in all probability have been made secretary of state if the office had been filled by the appointment of an eastern man. It may be safely assumed that Major McKinley has decided at present upon six men for his cabinet, though he has not formally tendered all of them portfolios. The men who are regarded as certain of being in the cabinet are: John Sherman, Lyman J. Gage, Nathan Goff, Joseph McKenna, John D. Long and James Wilson of Iowa for secretary of agriculture. Gen. R. A. Alger's appointment as secretary of war is probable, but by no means certain. The one remaining portfolio which is not likely to be tendered before the middle or last of February will doubtless go to a New York or a Pennsylvania man. Mr. Gage said last evening and authorized the United Associated Presses to say: "I have been tendered the appointment of secretary of the treasury by Major McKinley and have accepted it."

In Thorough Accord.

The president-elect and Mr. Gage are in thorough accord upon all financial, political and economic policies. The demand for Mr. Gage's appointment came from nearly every commercial center in the country. He is indorsed, it is said, not only by the business world, but by many labor organizations as well. The direct claim is made that the effect of his appointment will be to hasten and render certain the restoration of confidence. Maj. McKinley has been thinking of Mr. Gage for several weeks in connection with the treasury portfolio, but has been led to believe that he could not accept it. It has also been Major McKinley's intention, from the day he was elected, to choose a western man for secretary of the treasury, if he could find an available man.

OPPOSE GAGE.

New York Bankers Remember a Letter He Wrote During the Panic of '93.

New York, Jan. 29.—Within the the past two or three days there has developed in New York banking circles somewhat of an opposition to the movement to make Lyman J. Gage the next secretary of the treasury. During the 1893 panic Mr. Gage, as president of the First National bank of Chicago, sent a circular letter to banks, generally throughout the west, in which he criticised the operations of the New York bankers. The latter were very much displeased with the utterances of Mr. Gage as set forth in his letter, and several of the leading bankers here expressed their opinion of Mr. Gage in no uncertain words. Although three years have passed the New Yorkers have not forgotten or forgiven the Chicago banker for his scoring of them, and now they propose to even up accounts and are taking steps to checkmate his appointment.

THE ARBITRATION TREATY.

Senate Will Not Be Hurried in the Matter by Outside Petitions.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Senator Sherman was asked this morning if a petition by the Foreign Arbitration association in favor of the senate ratifying the arbitration treaty had come to the notice of the committee. He replied: "No, it had not. They need be in no hurry about the arbitration treaty. It requires and will receive careful consideration by the senate."

Arbitration Treaty in Illinois House.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 29.—When the resolution of Representative Busse denouncing the pending treaty between Great Britain and the United States for arbitration came up in the house several members attacked and endorsed the resolution in turn, until it was finally referred by a vote of 90 to 37 to committee on federal relations. It will probably sleep there for the remainder of the session.

Massachusetts' House Favors Arbitration.

Boston, Jan. 29.—In the house of representatives yesterday afternoon the resolution offered by Mr. Myers of Cambridge endorsing the proposed treaty of arbitration between the United States and England was adopted after a long debate by a vote of 141 to 11.

Urges the Senate to Ratify the Treaty.

London, Jan. 29.—The British and Foreign Arbitration association has cabled to Washington a petition to the United States senate in favor of the ratification of the Anglo-American arbitration treaty.

Canadians Want an Alien Labor Law.

Ottawa, Jan. 29.—A delegation from the local trades and labor councils waited on Premier Laurier and asked the government to introduce an alien labor law. The premier replied that if the matter could not be settled amicably between Canada and the United States, this would be done.

Montgomery Sails for Key West.

Fort Monroe, Va., Jan. 29.—The cruiser Montgomery has left for Key West to relieve the Raleigh.

Fourth Game.

The last game was a particularly exciting one as Stockton at one time had the lead, and it was only by great playing that French finally recovered the same.

Three of the "big four" of the Park Club came over to play whist, and they had no trouble, with the aid of Senator Reed, in defeating the home team at whist by a score of 12 to 5. The Park team consisted of Messrs. Rogers, Townsend, Howell and Reed. The Country club team was made up of C. W. Beebe, F. C. Kirchoff, J. P. Mason and E. C. Perkins. The score by rounds was as follows:

First round	5	2
Second round	5	2

OF THE STAR COURSE.

A Fine Entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. Last Night.

The Star Course of entertainments at the Y. M. C. A. this winter have been unusually enjoyable and the one held last evening was particularly delightful. It was held in the regular hall of the association which was well-filled with an appreciative audience.

Miss Addie Parker Jackson, who gave several readings during the programme, is too well known to Plainfield audiences to need any comment as regards the excellence of her selections. They were given in a specially realistic manner and the audience showed its appreciation of her rendition by the hearty applause that followed all her selections.

Albert E. Smith was a new entertainer to Plainfield people and they found him very original and entertaining. His exhibition of prestidigitation was very good while his skill at shadowgraphy was remarkable. He also did well at ventriloquism and his facial imitations.

The soprano solos by Miss Agnes E. Bowen were well selected and her whistling solos were something rather novel and very well rendered.

Rheumatism Cured in 24 Hours.

T. J. Blackmore, of Haller & Blackmore, Pittsburg, Pa., says: "A short time since I procured a bottle of 'Mystic Cure.' It got me out of the house in twenty-four hours. I took to my bed with Rheumatism nine months ago and the 'Mystic Cure' is the only medicine that did me any good. I had five of the best physicians in the city, but I received very little relief from them. I know the 'Mystic Cure' to be what it is represented and take pleasure in recommending it to other poor sufferers." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

PASSING COMMENT.

Ex-Mayor Place has been mentioned as a possible candidate for Mayor of the borough.

* * * *

It has been authoritatively stated by a city official that it is not at all likely that the Council will allow politics to enter in the contest for the city treasurership, and there is every possibility that the salary of the office will be reduced.

* * * *

Rev. Dr. Robert Lowry, in speaking about the late Henry Smith, said that he was a useful citizen, a good counselor and a faithful friend, and in giving this testimony he voices the sentiment of a large number of people who were acquainted with Mr. Smith.

* * * *

R. M. Dawson, superintendent, and George R. Fairchild, assistant superintendent, of the Prudential Life Insurance Company in this city, have just received two beautiful presents from the company for the excellent record made in the local office during the month of December. Mr. Dawson's present is a gold cross stick pin, set with three diamonds, and Mr. Fairchild's a similar pin, also set with a diamond.

Are electric trolley poles soon to go? This question is now much considered by trolley railroad companies. The motor compressed air is thought to be the rival in the near future. This would be a neat improvement over the electric system, as it would rid the streets of poles and overhead wires. Also cars would not be subjected to the vexatious delays caused by thunder storms. It is said with authority that the Plainfield Street Railway Company are seriously looking into this matter with a view of the utilizing compressed air as a motor.

A safe in a business house is quite as often valuable from its fireproof qualities, which keep the books containing the records of the business in time of fire, as because it is burglar proof. Many safes contain only a minimum amount of money, if any. A large Jersey firm keeps a candle burning on the top of the safe in the office all night, lighting a placard, which reads: "This safe is unlocked. Please do not destroy the books." This is for the benefit of the stray burglar, and is a polite request for him to leave unharmed something which will be of no service to him.

Entertainment at Warren Chapel.

A literary and musical entertainment was given at Warren chapel last evening under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society, and was one of the best of the season. Miss Minnie Zeisz was the efficient chairman of the affair, and under her direction the following programme was given: Vocal solo, Miss E. Reynolds; reading, Miss Bach; piano solo, Miss Lillie Zeisz; reading, Mrs. Henry Seader; vocal solo, Miss Reynolds; recitation, Master Fred Bach; piano solo, Miss Zeisz.

Officers Presented With Jewels.

Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., held a very pleasant meeting last evening, and there were several surprises. After the initiation of three candidates and the reception of one proposition, Past Masters Rogers and Newcorn were each presented with jewels emblematic of their office. The recipients responded by making remarks suitable to the occasion. Following the meeting refreshments was served.

To Drop the Matter.

At the meeting of Paugh-Caugh-Naugh-Sinque Council, D. of P., held last evening, the members decided to recommend that no action be taken regarding the alleged remarks made by Rev. G. Kennedy Newell. In accordance with a request, Mrs. V. W. Nash and C. F. Stephens, were appointed a committee to confer with a like committee from Iona Council, regarding the above matter.

T. A. B. Dance.

The T. A. B. Society gave a dance last night in their hall on West Fourth street, at which a pleasant time was enjoyed by all. The committee of arrangements was: C. J. McCarty, chairman; T. Corrigan, D. Mack, Edward McCue, C. N. Powell. Dennis Keefe was floor manager and Michael Keefe and James Monahan the assistants.

E. B. Smith, professor at Leal's School, is the proud father of a little boy.

—Edward White will put on sale tomorrow a very handsome line of jardenierres at a very moderate price.

—Frank Day, liveryman, of 114 West Sixth street, near Park avenue, has both single and double sleighs with good horses to hire out.

—Muslin interests all housekeepers at this season, and if you will take the trouble to refer to VanEmburgh's "ad" you will find it will be to your interest to take advantage of their great sale. They have cut deep in the price of all their best brands of yard-wide pillow and sheetings. Sheets made to order.

SKETCHES BY M. QUAD

A Question of Ownership.

At high noon, as I rode across the wide spreading prairie, I halted at a squatter's cabin and inquired of the man sitting on the doorstep if I could get a bite to eat.

"I don't skassly think you kin," he replied as he looked me over.

"I'll pay you for it."

"Yes, I know, but that ain't the question. Fustly, the ole woman ain't yere to cook nuthin, and, secondly, nobody knows jest who owns this claim."

"Isn't it yours?" I asked.

"Waal, I sorter reckon to consider it was, but yisterday a feller cums along to jump me. He reckons to consider that he's got the best rights."

"Then it's a case of law?"

"Oh, no! Thar' won't be no goin to law about it. No, neither one of us want to go to law."

"How will it be decided?"

"Waal, he was in a hurry yisterday and didn't hev no gun along, but he's cumin back today to hev it out with me. That's why the ole woman has gone away. If he kin shoot me outer the shanty, his claim is good; if he can't, then I'm goin to bury him whar he fell."

"And you expect him today?"

"This arternoon, sah. I guess that's him down thar by the grove. If you want to git into that hole but thar and watch the scrimmage, neither one of us will object, but you'd better keep yer head down."

I thanked him kindly and rode on, as he was getting out his rifle and cartridges. Three days later I returned that way, and he greeted me with:

"Waal, stranger, you kin hev a bite to eat today."

"Is your wife home?"

"Right to home, sah."

"And how about the claim?"

"I own her."

"Then the man"—

"Yes, he cum, but he was a poor shot. That's whar I planted him—up thar on the hill. Git down, stranger, git down and hev a snack with us and feel yourself to home."

Mrs. Gallup's Tribulations.

"Samuel," said Mrs. Gallup as she awoke at midnight and gave him a dig in the ribs with her elbow, "I believe there's a robber trying to get into the house. There, don't you hear that noise?"

"I hear a noise," replied Mr. Gallup as he sat up in bed, "but it may be a robber, a cat, a rat or one of the blinds blowing in the wind."

"But get up and see."

"That would be going to trouble for nothing. If it's a robber, there is nothing for him to steal; if a cat, she will soon go away; if a rat, he won't do any hurt, and if a blind is loose I'll fix it in the morning."

"Mr. Gallup, will you wait to be murdered in your bed?" she exclaimed as she tumbled out on the floor.

"Ah, thanks! There is now no danger, as you are up and can raise a window and scream for the police in case of emergency."

When Mr. Gallup reached home the other evening, he found Mrs. Gallup with head and foot bandaged and was greeted with:

"Samuel, run for the doctor as fast as ever you can!"

"What has happened?" he inquired.

"I fell down stairs and bumped my head and run a nail into my foot."

"Um! Let us figure a moment. Bumping your head may lead to brain fever, and the nail in your foot may lead to lockjaw. If you have brain fever, you will be out of your head and might as well have lockjaw at the same time. If you have lockjaw, a case of brain fever won't make things any worse. Which way do you want it?"

"Samuel, I'm dying!" she moaned.

"Then it's useless to call a doctor at all, as there is no record of any doctor ever saving the life of a dying person. Can't be done, Mrs. Gallup; it's ag'in nature and science."

A Case of Paralysis.

When the negro drayman, who was a young man about 20 years of age, had landed my trunk at the depot and received his "two bits" therefor, he waited around as if there was something else, and presently I inquired if there was anything wrong.

"No, sah, boss. Eberyt'ing all right 'bout yo'r trunk," he replied. "Does yo' see dat black woman up dar on de bar'l?"

"Yes."

"I was dun ingaged to dat woman once, but she gimme de shake kase I wasn't eddecated. I wants to paralyze her now."

"How can you?"

"Yo' jist cum around here an gimme some big words an den watch my smoke."

We went around behind the cotton bales and held a five minute conversation, and then he walked up to the woman and pulled off his cap and said:

"Good mawnin, Missus Thompson; good mawnin. I hopes I sees yo' well."

"Yes, sah, I'ze well," she replied.

"Dat's bewtiful. While sumbody was tellin me dat yo'r husband wasn't dun occupyin his occupashun as much as he dun was, de diligence of de conflagrashun, added to de disaffected disability of de continuity, can't skassly overbalance de culpability of de eliminashun. Glad to see yo' well, Missus Thompson, an if de bombasticashun of de configurashun should upset de continuous pronosticashun I shall be happy to prevaricate de guyasticuts to de best of my ability."

And all that woman could say as she looked at him with wide open eyes was:

"Fo' de Lawd, George, but yo' has got to be a member of congriss."

11th DAY!

Today, Jan. 28th, is the eleventh day of Edsall's Great Retiring Sale, and we believe we can safely say that Plainfield has never before witnessed such marvelous merchandising as these eleven days. Every day both floors of the large store have been literally packed with eager buyers from early morning until closing time, 6 p. m.

Although we have put on a large force of extra salespeople, including two of Woodhull & Martin's head men from Morristown, yet we cannot wait on the people as promptly as we would like. The interest in the sale seems to increase each day, and the amount of sales each day is a little larger than the day before. It might be supposed that the goods would begin to give out, but when you think of a stock like ours, amounting to upwards of $80,000, comprising about everything anybody or any household would want, it cannot be sold in a few days. The people seem to have been taken as by storm; even the severe cold weather of the past few days did not lessen their enthusiasm, but they came out all the same. Such at which we are selling off the stock astonishes the New York shoppers even, and hundreds of our citizens who do their trading in New York are laying in their supplies for future use from our stock, saying that they cannot do near so well in New York. Those who wish to make a little money go a good ways, regard this sale as a great benefaction. The sale is known far and near, and is drawing trade from all around the country. No one has any idea of the magnitude of the sale, and the great crowds that visit the Commercial Palace during each day, unless they have been there to see for themselves

The purchases are general; all kinds of goods sell, as every article in the store, from a pin to a moquette carpet, has been reduced to cost or below cost.

It seems as if everybody that we have ever seen, and hundreds of people we have never seen, have come to the sale, and reader, if you have not, we invite you to come right away. you will certainly see something that our wonderfully low prices will induce you to buy.

Our entire millinery stock, including velvets, ribbons, laces, chiffons, feathers, trimmed and untrimmed hats, in felts and straws, also straws, frames and flowers, to be closed out regardless of cost. Trimmed hats marked at $12, now $5. Everything to be sold at cost and below cost.

Come one, come all, you will find plenty of good cheerful company here, and everything bright and happy. All unpleasant sayings and things we leave out of our business and try to make everybody welcome and satisfied.

A BOROUGHITE'S IDEAS.

A CORRESPONDENT SEES NO GOOD IN GREATER PLAINFIELD.

Thinks the Borough is a Nice Place to Live in and is Going to be Better in the Future Under Present Rule.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The article in Wednesday evening's Daily Press, detailing a meeting held at Mr. Woolston's house in the borough, was what will be called "mighty interesting reading" to most citizens of that "local Canada," as your headlines termed our fair and enterprising municipality. It was so for several reasons. Let me enumerate just four.

First, That nobody appeared in the to be present at the meeting except a "chairman" and a "secretary." A list of names who "favor the consideration" was given, but the statement was so worded as to avoid the assertion that they were present. I have the best of reasons for believing it was one of the smallest public meeting ever held in the borough, not half of the "sixteen" attending.

Second, That the only one man who had, apparently, a word to say, was ex-Mayor Saunders, and it is doubtful if he said what was reported. He had carefully prepared his long statement for publication and desired to shoot it off under the guise of a speech at a public meeting. It was like one of the "Congressional Record" addresses—not delivered.

Third—No public notice was given of the meeting and nobody who opposed the consolidation was invited to be present. Is it possible that, in a matter of such grave public interest to every citizen of North Plainfield, a few men can meet in private and then insist that they represent the views of the majority? Does the ex-Mayor not know, has he not heard, that there are a few citizens over here who propose to have a voice in the matter before it reaches the statute book? Or are we to be worse-treated than even Brooklyn was, so that not even one public vote is to be permitted? I do not see why these meetings should be in the dark.

Fourth—The signers to the published declaration of opinion that North Plainfield should surrender her independence are almost wholly from one coterie of citizens known as "The Parkites," and a very, very few of them. It is reasonable to suppose that a fair canvass was made and this is the showing the movement has—16 out of about 1,000 borough householders. I should think that is just very close to the real ballot there would be for consolidation, if it were to be cast tomorrow.

So much for the reasons why the disclosures in that article were so "mighty interesting" to some of us.

Of course, it is needless to take up your space to reply to the ex-Mayor's long argument. But I cheerfully note that he leads the movement; he is, in fact, responsible for it; he is the head and front and tail of it. Do you ask why? I answer as many others will—he only knows! Somehow, somewhere, sometime, he expects a great future—to Plainfield, or to North Plainfield, or to himself—to grow out of consolidation. His reasons don't give the real reason, and yet they are as strong a presentation of his side of the case as can be made. He has said well what he has to say, and he has said it all, and more beside.

In reading his views, I simply wondered if he thoroughly meant all that he did say.

Take his point, that people who are alike in temperament and interests should unite; that as the shops, stores, streets and clubs we use are the same, we, therefore, must be one municipality. If so, then what a tremendous mistake it is to keep up twenty churches instead of one; each with its pastor and janitor and fuel bills. What an erroneous idea to have nine townships in Somerset Co., each with its freeholders, assessors, collectors, town clerks; because, of course, one big township would be better. We all go to one county seat; let us have no township divisions. And so on, ad nauseam.

The second point is like unto the first. If city and borough tax rates are now "equal" and would so continue, what of it? I dispute the proposition, but what if it be true? Why change governments to continue an equal payment of taxes? And what of the Union County rate? Is it less than that of Somerset or is it more? He does not state. Nor does he say that, as soon as there is consolidation, every city official will expect an increased salary to at least equal what is paid now, on both sides of the brook.

A careful reading of all his "proofs" only goes to show that, if North Plainfield adheres to its present form

FINEST SODA FOUNTAIN.

RANDOLPH TO HAVE THE MOST ELABORATE IN THE COUNTRY.

Will be Constructed of Onyx and is Designed Especially for Mr. Randolph—Equipped With Every Convenience.

Plainfield is soon to see the handsomest soda water fountain in the country. That is no idle boast but a fact. The fountain is to be put up in Randolph's pharmacy on West Front street and while there are larger ones to be found in this country, there are to be found none that will equal it in design and beauty. It is the only fountain ever made completely of onyx and it will be a valuable one, indeed.

The new fountain was designed especially for Mr. Randolph and is a triump of decorative art. It will be a beauty in design and large enough to answer the requirements of the store. The fountain will be twenty-one feet five inches long. It will have thirty-six one gallon jars for the different syrups, and two two-gallon jars for chocolate. There are four draught arms for dispensing soda water and eight smaller ones for mineral waters. One of the latter will be devoted to city water so that a glass of water can be obtained at any time. Two others will be devoted to whipped cream. The syrup jars are arranged in two groups, one on each side of a central grotto, which will be one of the features of the new fountain. It is a recess in the middle of the fountain, lined with mirrors and handsomely decorated in marbles and onyx. In the center of the grotto is to hang a fancy globe which will be illuminated at night by three electric lights behind it.

The counter is to be Knoxvile marble, while the syrup tanks are to be faced with slabs of onyx, bounded with silver. Eleven Welshbach burners and electric lights will be placed on different parts of the fountain and inclosed in fancy globes.

The upper structure will be built in cabinet form, but completely of onyx, while fancy carvings will adorn it. Two large mirrors will be placed over the tanks, a round one over the grotto, and tall narrow ones at each end. A large clock, framed in onyx, will be placed in the centre of the top. The fountain will be ten feet high. Underneath the fountain will be the marble refrigerator and porcelain ice-cream cabinet. The front the counter will be made of onyx and white Italian marble, with the top of the latter. A metal floor will be laid behind the counter, and the wooden fixtures of the store will be decorated in accordance with the rest of the fittings.

The fountain is now being constructed by Charles Lippincott & Co., of Philadelphia, and will be placed in position about the middle of March.

COLLEGE BOYS PAID A VISIT.

Rutgers Students Eat Turkey at the Trinity Reformed Church.

The turkey supper was continued at Trinity Reformed church last evening with greater success than on the previous evening, and the attendance was very large. Those in charge had all they could do to wait on the people. At one table in charge of Mrs. Marshall seventy-four suppers were served, and the other tables did nearly as well. About 10:30 fourteen students from Rutgers College paid a visit to the church parlors and they were hospitably received by the women. They not only left some money but they favored those present with several college songs, thus making the occasion a lively one.

After all the people had left for home it was discovered that everything had been sold. It is quite likely that the women will realize a good profit from the supper, which they surely deserve.

Those who assisted in receiving were Mrs. C. Schenck, Mrs. G L. VanEmburgh, Mrs. O. W. Dunham, Mrs. A. L. Force, Mrs. R. A. Meeker. Mrs. W. A. Woodruff.

Funeral of Peter C. Adams.

The funeral services of Peter C. Adams were held yesterday afternoon at the residence of his son-in-law, E. L. Suffern, of Linden avenue. Mr. Adams' death occurred at the Hudson Street Hospital in New York on Tuesday night, the result of injuries received from a fall the noon of that day. Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, conducted the service, reading the burial service of the Episcopal church. A large number of friends and out-of-town relatives attended the funeral.

ON WITH THE GAY DANCE

O'ER WAXED PACE MANY FEET TRIPPLED AT THE PARK CLUB.

The Affair Conducted by the Park Club Juniors Who, From Past Experience, Know How to Entertain to a Nicety.

Another of the charming junior dances was given at the Park Club last night. The ball room was crowded with the young people and some of the older ones who had come to look on. Of course, the dance was a success, that goes without saying. There were no special decoration for the event although pink shades were placed over all the electric lights that illuminated the room. At 10:30 o'clock the guests flocked to the basement where Steward Jones and his assistants served ice cream and cake. The dancing then continued until about one o'clock.

As one of the regular junior events of the club, it was given under the supervision of the junior committee, which is composed of Charles S. Cook and Fred P. Taylor. Mr. Taylor was unable to be present on account of illness.

The patronesses for the beautiful affair were Mrs. Edwin T. Douglass, Mrs. George T. Rogers and Mrs. J. H. Howell.

Among those present during the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Dryden, Mr. and Mrs. W. E MacClymont, Mr. and Mrs. Will Worth, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Howell, Mr. and Mrs. George T. GIVEN IN HIS NAME.

A Pleasing Parlor Meeting Arranged by the King's Daughter's.

A pleasing parlor entertainment was given last evening at the home of Councilman and Mrs. John Valiant, of Myrtle avenue, under the auspices of the Golden Rule Circle, King's Daughters. The object for which the entertainment was given was to raise money to assist in the support of the city nurse, and the collection which was taken during the evening was most gratifying. The following excellent programme was finely rendered: Instrumental trio, Misses Valiant and Van Fleet, recitation, Miss French; vocal solo, Miss Alice Carroll; violin solo, Dykeman Winckler; recitation, Miss Pond; vocal solo, Miss Grace Carroll; piano solo, Mrs. Johnston.

The president, Mrs. Most, had charge of the affair, and Miss Lizzie Hoagland, Miss Bertha Stevens and Miss Minnie Marsh, composing the literary committee, arranged the programme. The refreshment committee consisted of Miss Lizzie Valiant and Miss Clara Van Fleet.

The collection amounted to $5.55, which is excellent considering the number of very young people present.

FATHER'S BOOTS COST HIS LIFE.

Young Cooper, Who Wore Them, Fell on the Tracks and Run Over.

Louis Cooper, fifteen years old, was playing on the tracks of the New Jersey Railroad, near Raritan, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The lads placed a row of pebbles on the rails and were waiting for the Easton express to go along and crush them.

Young Cooper wore his father's big rubber boots, and in attempting to get out of the way of the fast approaching train tripped and fell across the track. The train ran over his legs. He died at 9 o'clock last night.

POLICE EXAMINATIONS.

APPLICANTS MUST ANSWER QUESTIONS TO DETERMINE KNOWLEDGE

The Test Conducted by a Private Tutor Behind Closed Doors in the City Council Rooms—Some of the Questions Asked.

If Plainfield doesn't have a model police department it will not be the fault of the powers that be. Everything possible has been done to bring about this result. Not only have the new applicants been thoroughly examined but the regulars, as well have taken a course in the same school. Yesterday afternoon the last batch appeared at the City Council rooms for examination which was held behind closed doors. Each knight of the club was given a desk and no talking was allowed. The examination was conducted by Mr. Hoe, a private tutor, and each man was required to write the answers to the questions, a sample of which was to draw a map of New Jersey, name some of the principal places, locate the city public schools and fire department houses, name the four principal holidays celebrated in this country. Examples in arithmetic were given every man. They were allowed about so much time to make their answers and the examination was very rigid. All of the men have now been up for examination except a few of the older men and as the slate has probably been made up by this time it is not likely that they will appear.

CONTEMPT NOT INTENDED.

CONGER WAS ON THE WRONG TRAIN.

County Clerk Explains That He Was Carried Past Somerville.

Sheriff Litterest yesterday morning, under an order issued by the Somerset County Court, escorted County Clerk John H. Conger, of Middlesex county, to Somerville. The order was an attachment of the person for contempt of court. The County Clerk failed to file an accounting in the estate of James Wood, who died some years ago at Bound Brook. Mr. Conger's wife is a daughter of Mr. Wood. Mr. Conger and Mrs. Wood were the executors of the will.

When Somerville was reached Mr. Conger explained to the court that on the day the order to show cause was returnable he and his counsel started for Somerville. At New Brunswick they boarded the wrong train and when Somerville was reached the train was travelling at the rate of sixty miles an hour and did not stop until it was clear across the State. There was no train back which reached Somerville until after court had risen. He thus explained his failure to file the accounting.

The court accepted the explanations and allowed the accounting to be filed, but did not discharge the contempt proceedings, although he intimated he would do so.

WENT FOR A PAPER, LOST HIS LIFE.

Gauld Struck by a Royal Blue Liner and Instantly Killed.

George Gould, formerly a blacksmith at Roselle, was instantly killed yesterday morning at Roselle station by a train of the Royal Blue Line, that was fifteen minutes late.

Mr. Gould was employed in the Central Railroad shops at Elizabethport and resided in Union township. He went to the station to take a train to his work and crossed the tracks to the news-stand to get a paper. At this moment the express came whirling along. Gould became confused, and before he could get out of the way the train was upon him. His body was tossed high in the air and his skull fractured. He was dead when picked up. Mr. Gould was fifty-six years old and a widower.

George and Charles Gould, of this city, are his sons.

M. L. BULLOCK FOR TREASURER.

Many Friends are Urging His Name For the Support of Councilmen.

The name of M. L. Bullock is now very prominently mentioned for the position of City Treasurer. Mr. Bullock is Regent of the Royal Arcanum and has a large circle of friends among Plainfield's business and professional leaders. For years before making this city his residence Mr. Bullock was financial partner in the large manufacturing drug firm of Bullock Brothers at Passaic, N. J.

During his residence in the latter city he held various public offices of trust and emolument.

HIGH SCHOOL AFFAIRS.

SEMI-ANNUAL EXAMINATIONS OVER AND SCHOLARS GLAD.

The Tests Have Been Occupying Their Attention for Some Time, But Now the Debates, Drills, Etc., Will be Resumed.

A sigh of relief passed over the students of the Plainfield High School yesterday afternoon, for the semi-annual examinations were past and the long dreaded week was over. In many of the cases the realization was not found equal to the anticipation and the examinations were not as difficult as was expected. Now the different classes will settle down to the regular routine of duty until commencement and the final examinations come in June.

There has been but little time for anything else except the examinations this week but the committee in charge of the coming entertainment of the Athletic Association has held a meeting and appointed the various subcommittees. Plans for the entertainment are being made and from present appearances, it will be a very creditable performance.

The cadets of the school have been hard at work all the winter and now they have decided to show what they can do. An exhibition drill and inspection will be held on Thursday evening at the Jersey Cycle Academy. It will be an invitation affair. The company will meet for a practice drill on Tuesday afternoon at the Academy.

The glee club is still in existence although the members have not met this week on account of the examinations. The work of the club will be continued until the end of the school year.

There has been no lack of interest among the members of the Kappa Delta Phi, this winter, and the interest is increasing all the time. A regular meeting of that organization was held yesterday afternoon at the High School building and most of the members were present. The programme consisted of a hat talk in which the speakers and their subjects were as follows: Henry W. Brower, Should Bicycles be Taxed; Arthur W. Lederer, Have the Cubans lost any encouragement by the death of Maceeo; Charles Noble, Advantages of College Life; E. Stanley Peck, Does the Kappa Delta Phi encourage interest in the school; George Proctor Smith, Why would Joseph Choate make a better Senator than Thomas Platt; Willian A. DeLong, The Pleasures of Winter; Willian A. Fisher, The Baby Incubator; Lindley Hillman, Will Women's Suffrage ever exist in the United States; Henry Edderding, The Rebellion in the Phillipines.

It was decided to give up the mock session of the United States Senate on account of the recent changes in the Cuban question and hold it at some other time. Instead, as a programme for the next meeting, it was decided to have a debate on the subject: Would it be advantageous to the United States to annex Cuba as a part of the United States? William A. Fisher and Lindley Hillman were appointed to speak for the affirmative and William A. DeLong and George Proctor Smith for the negative.

There will be no meeting of the Society on Friday, February 12, as it is a holiday, Lincoln's birth day, but the programme for the meeting on February 19 was arranged and it was decided to have the president assign the name of some modern invention to each of the members and they were to look it up and speak on it at the meeting.

The election of officers for the next two months was the last of the business for the afternoon and it resulted as follows; President, William A. Fisher; vice-president, Charles Noble; secretary treasurer, Sydney R. Titsworth; critic, Henry Edderding; sergeant-at-arms, Lindley Hillman.

The Fair Lillian's Return.

The announcement that the pretty and charming soubrette, Miss Lillian Kennedy, will appear for one night in her great New York success, "The Deacon's Daughter," will be greeted with delight by our many thaatregoers. It will be given with the same cast as it was presented in all the large cities, the same has the endorsement of the press and clergy of the entire country.

New Factory at Garwood.

Work was started yesterday at Garwood for the new factory for the A. J. Beckley Company. The lumber has been received and the work will be pushed as rapidly as the weather will permit. A. D. Washburn, superintendent for the company, is in charge and is supervising the erection of the factory.

REALITY OF RELIGION.

PROF. FISKE EXPLAINS THE CREDENTIALS OF A SUPREME BEING.

The Age is a Critical One, He Says, But Modern Scientific Thought Believes in a First Cause, and He Calls it God.

Prof. John Fiske delivered his lecture on the "Everlasting Reality of Religion" in the Y. M. C. A. hall last night before an interested audience.

Prof. Fiske began his lecture by paying a tribute to Voltaire for never denying the everlasting reality of religion when the great men of letters of his time gloried in atheism. He also spoke of disagreeing with Prof. Haeckel, who asserted that because the doctrine of evolution is true there is an end of God, religion and the soul. Prof. Haeckel has not been driven to his conclusion, he said, "by evolution, but by a mental kink."

Prof. Fiske went on to say that the skepticism of today is no frivolous mockery. The age is critical. Everything in heaven and earth must show its credentials. We do know that everything in creation is according to law. One part of the story does not give the lie to the other. Modern scientific thought believes in a first cause which he preferred to call God. Prof. Fiske then spoke of the idea of God as a universal idea and that belief in personal identity after death was very ancient. For more than 100,000 years mankind regarded themselves as interested in two worlds.

Not only is the belief in God and the unseen world a natural belief of man but inextricably intertwined with the notion of Deity and the unseen world there has been the ethical element the distinction between right and wrong.

Mr. Fiske then drew some weighty lessons from the definition of life by Herbert Spencer, "Life is the continuous adjustment of internal with external relations." Poke a dog with a stick and you soon discern whether he is dead or merely asleep. A living dog responds to the external impression. Pour water on a drooping plant and it raises its head if alive. The shapes of animals and their capacities are determined by this adjustment. Such is the deepest law of life which we have been able to detect. There is in man a desire to put himself in relation with the unseen world. Is the law of life not operative now?

If the relation thus established in the morning twilight of man's existence suddenly change, and there is no adjustment of the inner longing with an external reality, then it is utterly without precedent in the whole realm of creation. Such a thought does violence to logic and common sense.

The scientific presumption is on the side of religion and against the materialistic interpretations of the universe. It is daily becoming more apparent that the antagonism between science and religion are at end.

LOCKED IN A FOLDING BED.

It Closed Up When Howard Went to Look for Burglars.

Mrs. John F. Howard, of Roselle, was nearly suffocated and received a severe shock early yesterday morning by the folding bed in which she had sleeping suddenly closing up and enclosing her within its embrace.

Mr. Howard was awakened at 2 o'clock yesterday morning by a noise on the lower floor. Suspecting that burglars had effected an entrance, he arose and crept noiselessly down the stairs. He had hardly got to the foot of the stairway when he was startled by muffled screams from the room in which he had just left his wife. Rushing back Mr. Howard saw that the patent folding bed had done its work too well and had almost closed up, with his wife inside, screaming and struggling to release herself. It took but a moment for Mr. Howard to release his wife, who was hysterical from fright. Only a small space admitted air to the imprisoned woman for the few moments she was a prisoner.

Mrs. Howard slept on an old-fashioned bed last night. It was the cat who had knocked over some flower pots and not burglars that made the noise.

Hanging Lamp Fell.

Wm. Addis, of North avenue, had a narrow escape from a serious fire a few nights ago. He was sitting beneath a hanging lamp and the wire which held it was burned in two by the heat. This allowed the lamp to drop on the floor. The oil spread rapidly and the flames soon burned fiercely. Mr. Addis as soon as possible threw the lamp out, but not before his hands were quite badly burned. Otherwise there was no damage.

Charles French, of East Front street, is able to be out after his recent illness and expects to return to his duties at Rogers, Peet & Co., in New York, the first of the week.

THE MONETARY BILL

Senators Informally Discussing Its Prospects in the House.

PROVISIONS OF THE MEASURE

Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Bill Precipitates a Miniature Civil War in the House---Massachusetts and Vermont the Belligerent States.

Washington, Jan. 30.—The senate is not in session to-day, having adjourned until Monday, but the members are informally discussing the prospects of passage in the house of the bill passed by the senate yesterday by a vote of 46 to 4 for the representation of the United States upon any international monetary conference that may be called. This measure, which almost exclusively occupied the senate's attention yesterday, authorizes the president to appoint five or more commissioners to any international conference, with a view to securing a fixity of relative value between gold and silver as money, by means of a common ratio between the metals with free mintage at such ratio; and it also authorizes the president to call, in his discretion, such conference to assemble at such point as may be agreed upon. The debate on the bill was long and interesting; but by far the most important speech was that made by Mr. Hoar. He took the ground that a very large majority of the people of the civilized world was in favor of the double standard of gold and silver. He quoted two distinguished French statesmen as strongly in favor of bimetallism, and said that a resolution introduced in the French assembly had the support of 367 out of 450 delegates, or a majority of between three-fifths and four-fifths. Mr. Hoar also named as among the principal European advocates of bimetallism Mr. Balfour, the leader of the English house of commons, and recalled the remark made to him in a brilliant company in England, by a member of the present British cabinet, when he (Mr. Hoar) declined to repeat what Mr. Balfour had said to him: "Why, Mr. Hoar, it is no secret that Mr Balfour's opinions upon this matter are those of a majority of her majesty's government." Mr. Hoar also mentioned the likelihood of Germany and Russia joining in the bimetallic movement; and he declared in conclusion, that the time had come for making another effort in that direction.

House of Representatives.

War between the states of Massachusetts and Vermont raged for a brief period on the floor of the house over allegations of railroad wrecking in those commonwealths. The combatants were Messrs. Powers of Vermont and Barrett of Massachusetts and the occasion of strife was the consideration of the report of the conferees upon the bill providing for the incorporation of the purchases of the Atlantic & Pacific railroad. The provisions of the bill were antagonized by Mr. Barrett, who charged that they concealed a gigantic scheme of stock jobbery. Mr. Powers denied that there was anything of the sort in the bill, and added that if there had been any wrecking of the road, as suggested by the gentleman from Massachusetts, it had been done by the people in and around Boston. In this connection he sarcastically referred to Mr. Barrett's congressional experience, which he compared to that of a rose which withered and wasted its sweetness on the desert air. In reply, Mr. Barrett gave the house the history of the receiverships of the Central Vermont railroad, conducted by the supreme court of that state, and extending over a period of thirty years, which he said was the most fraudulent case of railroad wrecking the country had ever seen. The report of the conference was rejected—71 to 143—and the conferees were instructed to insist upon the retention in the bill of the house amendments, the principal one of which forbids the issue of stock except for par value received. The bill making appropriations for the military academy was sent to conference on the senate amendments thereto, the house conferees being Messrs. Curtis, Griffin and Tyler. The house refused to take up bills on the private calendar, but for nearly an hour continued in committee of the whole, considering the agricultural bill, without completing it. In the course of its discussion Mr. Hardy began a speech in favor of the acquisition of Cuba, and being refused permission to conclude, the five-minute rule being in operation, gave notice that no bill should pass the house by unanimous consent for the remainder of the session. The evening session was devoted to the consideration of private pension bills.

Both His Hands Amputated.

Schenectady, N. Y., Jan. 30.—Ferdinand Glast, 57 years of age, who was brought to the hospital here on the 13th inst. with both hands badly frostbitten, from sleeping in a wagon while under the influence of liquor, was obliged to have his hands amputated yesterday.

PORTFOLIO OF WAR

Gen. R. A. Alger Offered the Place and Accepts It.

THREE CABINET BERTHS NOW FILLED

A Friend of Gen. Woodford Discusses the New York Situation with the President-elect --- Empire State Likely To Be Represented.

Canton, O., Jan. 30.—The proffer by the president-elect and acceptance by Gen. Russell A. Alger of the portfolio of war completes three places in the next cabinet beyond all speculation. General Alger arrived yesterday afternoon and lunched with Major McKinley. Ex-congressman A. M. Thompson of Ohio and ex-Speaker Sheard of New York were the other guests. After luncheon Major McKinley and General Alger retired for a private talk and at the expiration of two hours General Alger came out and made the announcement that he had been offered and had accepted the war portfolio. He left for Detroit last evening. General Alger was in a happy frame of mind and was frankly pleased with the result of his visit to Canton. He said he was not personally acquainted with all of the men who are likely to be in the cabinet and said that three of them he did not know by sight. He said the appointment of Mr. Gage had made a remarkably favorable impression on the business and commercial world and would hasten the return of confidence. Ex-Speaker Sheard of New York talked for two hours last evening with the president-elect. He said: "My interview was a pleasant and in a way a very satisfactory one. We discussed the New York situation in respect to the cabinet and I urged the appointment of General Woodford on the ground that he is a clean, strong, capable man about whom very much that is good can be said. His appointment would be acceptable to the organizations in New York and that fact ought not to make it unacceptable to any fair-minded citizen. Major McKinley has a high opinion of Gen. Woodford and may appoint him, but I do not think he has decided what to do in respect to New York. My conviction is that New York will be represented in the cabinet by a thoroughly satisfactory man." Col. J. J. McCook of New York, who called on Major McKinley Wednesday night, is mentioned to-day as a cabinet possibility. Yesterday was Major McKinley's birthday and he dined with his mother in the evening.

STATEMENT BY MR. GAGE.

Says He Will Conduct the Treasury Department on Business Principles.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—When the next secretary of the treasury, Lyman J. Gage, was called upon by a reporter at his office this morning, he consented to make the following statement for publication: "It will be my chief aim to see that the country is given a businesslike administration so far as the duties of the secretary of the treasury are concerned. My appointments will be made with regard to merit and not because of political obligation. I shall be very busy in the next thirty days putting my affairs in proper shape and getting my bearings for the change to Washington, so that I can give my utmost attention to the position entrusted to me. I shall at once tender my resignation of the presidency of the bank to the directors. I expect to go to Washington shortly before March 1 to select a residence. All questions of theory and policy will be decided by the president and are questions I cannot discuss now."

New York Bankers Not Opposed to Gage.

New York, Jan. 30.—The statement that the bankers of New York were displeased with Mr. Gage's appointment as secretary of the treasury is now denied in banking circles here. As proof of this, Edward Simmons, president of the Fourth National bank of this city and of the clearing house, showed to a reporter to-day a telegram sent by him to Mr. Gage on Jan. 23, as soon as the latter's name was mentioned in connection with the portfolio of the treasury. In this telegram Mr. Simmons expressed his pleasure that Mr. Gage had signified a willingness to accept the office, and speaks in the highest terms of Mr. Gage's ability and qualifications for the office.

American Armor Plate in Russia.

Bethlehem, Pa., Jan. 30.—The Bethlehem Iron company has been cabled from Russia particulars of a very successful test there of the company's armor plate. The tested plate was one representing 1,500 tons of Harveyized nickel steel side armor for the Russian battleship Rostivlov, all of which will now be accepted. The company has received a contract for making the shaftings and engine forgings for two big cruisers for the Japanese government.

An Immense Locomotive.

Schnectady, N. Y., Jan. 30.—One of the largest locomotives ever built in America has just been completed at the Schnectady Locomotive works, for the Northern Pacific railroad. It is a compound, twelve wheeler and weighs ninety-two tons, and when ready for duty will weigh one hundred and two tons. It carries a steam pressure of two hundred pounds to the square inch of boiler surface, and is equipped with the most modern improvements.

Mrs. Beecher Very Ill.

Stamford, Conn., Jan. 30.—Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher is again very ill. Dr. Samuel Pierson, the attending physician, this morning gave out the following statement: "Mrs. Beecher is suffering again from an old ailment, but her condition is not what can be called serious."

THE SAGE BACHELOR.

His Views of Men, Women, Babies and Their Affairs.

A baby suggests a soul a good deal less than it does curdled milk.

If a man sets out to do it, he can win any woman that wants him to.

No man can be a hopeless cynic who has never attended a pink tea.

The surest sign that a woman wants you to love her is when she begins to comb her hair the way she thinks you like it.

A man is never beaten until he admits it; a woman isn't beaten even then.

A married man likes to have a dog around because it always looks as if it were sorry for him.

When a man is said to be "attentive" to a young woman, it means that they aren't married yet.

When some women get to heaven, they will pick out extra big wings so they can fly away from the men angels.

When a man takes his sister out, he always acts as though he wanted everybody to know she wasn't his best girl.

It is beautiful and poetical to refer to a caterpillar as an "unfinished butterfly," but it is mean and cynical to call a butterfly an overdone caterpillar.

The man who sneers at a woman for not giving up her fare on a street car is the same one who borrows his neighbor's pass when he has to go to Chicago.

A girl who can't see an old dead horse in the street without crying will walk a mile to look at a lot of dead birds stuck on bonnets in a shop window.

When a girl has a red mark on her forehead which she takes the trouble to say was caused by the rim of her hat, you may know she burned herself with a curling iron.

Maybe the women like small waists so they won't have to wear suspenders to keep their clothes up.

No matter how regularly a man goes to church, as soon as he gets baldheaded the women all get suspicious of him.

The object of women's suffrage clubs is to convince other women that domestic life means nothing more than washing dishes and darning stockings.—New York Press

You Can't Do It

It isn't possible to boil any oatmeal long enough to break the starch-cells, and so render it digestible. Starch is not converted into digestible material until 250 degrees is reached, and 212 degrees is the maximum boiling temperature. Oatmeal can only be made digestible by dry heat, and is the only oatmeal in which the starch is rendered soluble by bursting the starch granules. This makes it the only safe oatmeal for infants, children, and those of weak digestion.

Be sure and get the package with the big H-O on the end.

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jone, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says, that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it: Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

—Chas. M. Ulrich is having shuffleboards erected at his clubhouse on East Second street. They will be the most improved style and will be run in a first-class manner.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. E. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject. He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

SENATOR ALLEN EXPLAINS.

His Speech Does Not Mean That He Will Support Republicans.

Washington, Jan. 30.—"If the short speech I made in the senate yesterday has been construed by any one to mean that I will support the republicans in their proposed tariff legislation, such conclusion is erroneous," said Senator Allen of Nebraska this morning. "I have said that I believed that the resolution for an international monetary conference and the proposed tariff measure of the republicans ought to be permitted to pass, if there were sufficient votes to pass them, after a reasonable debate. I do not, for one, propose to place any obstruction in the way, for I want the country to see that neither of these things will give the needed relief. This does not mean, however, that I will vote for a republican tariff bill. On the contrary, I shall vote against it."

CADETS FOR THE INAUGURAL.

Ebbitt House Will Entertain the West Point Boys Free of Charge.

Washington, Jan. 30.—The secretary of war some time ago arranged for the West Point cadets to come to Washington and participate in the inaugural ceremonies on March 4. A controversy arose over the matter of the expense of the trip, and it became necessary that some arrangement be made for their subsistence while here. Congress having so far failed to make an appropriation for that purpose, H. C. Burch, manager of the Ebbitt house, where Major McKinley will have his headquarters, has written to Secretary Lamont offering to entertain the cadets free of charge at that hotel during their stay here.

OFFICIAL CHANGES IN CUBA.

Reported That Weyler's Power Is To Be Reduced.

Madrid, Jan. 30.—A report is in circulation here that General Azcarraga, minister of war, is to be appointed governor general of Cuba, and that General Weyler, the present governor general is to be retained as commander-in-chief of the troops. It is also stated that it has been decided to make some changes in the minstry by which Senor Castellanos, minister of the colonies, and Senor Cos-Gayen, minister of the interior, will retire and be replaced respectively by Senors Saulos Guzman and Robledo.

Terrible Sufferings of a Shipwrecked Crew

Gloucester, Mass., Jan. 30.—Mate Rose, one of the crew of the schooner Yosemite, wrecked near Lockport, N. S., has just arrived home. Before being rescued, he says, the crew remained on a desolate island for twenty-four hours without food or shelter, suffering from the intense cold. Capt. McKinnon, when the vessel broke in two and the mast went overboard, was swept into the sea and against the rocks, breaking his leg, while Philip Feander was seriously injured and died from exposure. The captain and the rest of the crew remained in Nova Scotia, being unable to come home on account of injuries received.

Another Appeal for the Peace Treaty.

Washington, Jan. 30.—A petition elaborately printed on parchment and signed by an even hundred of the leading citizens of Philadelphia urging the senate to ratify the treaty of arbitration now pending between this country and Great Britain has been presented to the senate. The memorial is signed by Mayor Warwick, the judges of the various courts, ex-Senator Edmunds, formerly of Vermont, and bankers and capitalists representing money valued at away up in the millions.

Sale of Tom Boy Gold Mine.

New York, Jan. 30.—The sale of the Tom Boy gold mine, one of the best gold mines in the country, to the Exploration company of London, otherwise the Rothschild syndicate, has been consummated. The syndicate bought fifty-one per cent. of the capital stock of $1,000,000 at an appraised valuation of $1,500,000, which made the cost of the $1,020,000 stock required $765,000.

Three Murderers' Sentenced.

New York, Jan. 30.—Justice Smyth, in the criminal branch of the supreme court, sentenced Michael Costello to twenty years' imprisonment for the killing of James Purcell. He also sentenced John Murphy to twenty years' imprisonment for the murder of William Whalen, and Edward Dinen to seven years in states prison for the killing of James Reynolds.

Connecticut's Last Toll Gate.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 30.—The Derby turnpike, containing the last toll gate in the state, is to be opened for free travel on February 6. The various towns through which the turnpike passes have assumed control of it by purchasing the company's stock. The company has been in existence since the early years of the present century.

Shot His Mother-in-Law.

Highland Falls, N. Y., Jan. 30.—While intoxicated, James Cox, a hackman, last night drew a revolver and fired four shots at his wife, but missed his aim. One of the bullets, however, passed through the right hand of his mother-in-law. He was arrested and was remanded to the Newburgh jail.

Creditors Agree to Accept 20 Per Cent.

TALKS TO DOCTORS

Cleveland Attends a Celebration of the Medical Academy.

INDULGES SOMEWHAT IN HUMOR

Apologized for His Presence and Said He Boldly Determined To Speak as a Representative of the Vast Army of Patients.

New York, Jan. 30.—The Academy of Medicine celebrated its semi-centennial last night in Carnegie Music hall. The exercises consisted of addresses by Dr. Joseph D. Bryant, the president, and other members of the academy, and an address by the president of the United States, Grover Cleveland. The hall was crowded with doctors and their friends, and the boxes were brilliant with color and pretty women in rich costumes and evening dress. "Hail to the chief," greeted the president when he entered the hall on the arm of Dr. Bryant, the audience rising out of repect to the nation's executive. When President Cleveland was introduced by Chairman Bryant he was received with applause. Mr. Cleveland's remarks were mostly of a humorous nature. He said in part:

Cleveland's Address.

"Mr. President and ladies and gentlemen: I have anticipated the share assigned to me on this occasion with considerable trepidation for various reasons. I have been chiefly disturbed, I believe, because of my inability to discover sufficient ground for my right to join those who celebrate the semi-centennial of a medical association. If, in passing through that period in boyhood when the desirable choice of future activity seemed to rest between running away from home to be a sailor and staying at home to be a doctor, I inclined to the more quiet and orderly of those pursuits, this surely furnishes no basis at this late day for a claim of relationship to the medical fraternity. Confessing, therefore, that I have no right to even standing-room within the inner circle of the profession, I have boldly and without the least authority determined to speak to you as a representative of the vast army of patients and laymen. At the outset I desire to remind you that you owe us much. Though largely in the majority and with plenty of members to spare, those who are well conducted among us do not vex you with hurtful competition. Instead of making life hard for you by an observance of the laws of health we assist you by indulging in all sorts of irregularities. We are obedient and submissive to your commands—that is, when we are sick—and we sometimes pay your bills even after a recovery to health, which we are always certain would have resulted without your interference."

Twenty Years for a Fire Bug.

New York, Jan. 30.—When Adolph Meyer, the fireburg, was arraigned before Justice Smyth for sentence he withdrew his plea of not guilty to the indictment charging him with arson of the first degree in setting fire to the house on East 113th street, and pleaded guilty of an attempt to commit arson. Attorney O'Hare made an eloquent plea in defense of the man, and Meyer wept. The justice announced that he had had his doubts as to whether a jury would have convicted Meyer of arson of the first degree and agreed to accept a plea of guilty of attempt at arson. He then sentenced Meyer to state prison at hard labor for twenty years, the full term for the crime of which the man had pleaded guilty.

Olympia, Wash., Jan. 30.—After many days unsuccessful balloting, George F. Turner, the well known lawyer of Spokane, who received the caucus nomination of the populists and free silver republicans, was elected United States senator by the legislature yesterday afternoon on the first ballot, receiving sixty-seven votes.

Japan and the United States.

Washington, Jan. 30.—It is understood that a treaty is soon to be sent to the senate negotiated between this country and Japan on the subject of trade marks and copyrights. American business men who have suffered from the absence of such treaty agreements have been urging the establishment of such relations for several months.

BOARD OF HEALTH CHANGES.

The term of Health Inspector P. V. Weaver expires this year, and it is said that there are any number of people who are looking for the position. The term of President Rockfellow and O. T. Neuman, of the Board of Health, also expires this year and it is said that neither one of the men will accept a re-appointment. It will depend a great deal on the two men elected as to who will be appointed inspector.

A POLITICAL CONFERENCE.

The conference of the city council to be held this evening is for the purpose of deciding what action will be taken Monday evening in regard to filling the office of treasurer for the city. Those who are supposed to be on the inside are as much in doubt as to who the man will be as those who know nothing about the matter.

MAY BE MR. LIEFKE.

Henry Liefke, of West End Park, is mentioned as a possible successor to Councilman Randolph, who will no doubt be the new street commissioner Mr. Liefke is a large property owner and is very popular in his party.

A bill now pending in the Legislature requires that all health inspectors in the cities shall be regular practicing physicians.

Killed on the Track.

William Tray, a resident of South Bound Brook, and a coal train brakeman on the New Jersey Central Railroad, was killed at Allentown on Thursday night, while his train was lying at that place awaiting orders. He was walking towards the rear of his train with his head down to avoid the driving snow, when passenger train No. 17, leaving Bound Brook at 8:34, came up behind him and threw him from the track. When picked up he was dead, and the remains were brought to Bound Brook, and placed in charge of Undertaker DeMott. Mr. Gray was an active soldier in the ranks of the American Volunteers, and leaves a widow and one child.

Suffering in the South.

Sometime ago the women of Warren chapel sent a barrel of useful articles to Miss Francis Ufford, who is doing missionary work at Albermarle, Stanley county, N. C. Yesterday, Mrs. William Wilson, of the borough, received a reply from Miss Ufford regarding the barrel. The latter expressed her gratitude for the articles, and said that they would be put to the best possible use. She also said that many were suffering in that locality for the necessaries of life, and the articles received would go a great way in helping those in need.

A Tribute to the Departed.

Died at her home on West Front street, Thursday morning, January 28th, 1897, Miss Catherine Wiggins, aged 74. She was born at Moata Valley, Longford county, Ireland, and came with her family to Washington Valley, New Jersey, fifty-six years ago. She was a woman of sterling character, and her patriotism for her native land was undying. To the older residents of Plainfield she was well and favorably known for her quiet worth and many kindly qualities.

Semper Fidellis.

Plainfield's Busiest Store.

Edward White is naming prices on all lines of goods in his store that you cannot afford to pass by. The reputation that this house has for selling goods on a close margin is well-known and having unlimited cash capital at his command places him in a position to buy goods at the lowest possible price. You will find complete assortments in every department, and will save money by going there.

About the Famine in India

A missionary meeting was held at Warren chapel last evening at which time Miss Street, a returned missionary from India, spoke regarding the work at that place. She told in a very interesting manner many things about the famine in that country. The meeting was one of the first missionary services held in sometime.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by T.S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner of Park and North avenues.

THE GARBAGE QUESTION

A CORRESPONDENT POINTS OUT A NEED OF PLAINFIELD

The Method of Disposing of Refuse at Present is Very Crude and Unsanitary—A Modernized System Advocated.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The garbage and refuse disposal question is to be considered by the City Council at its next meeting, and it is surely a subject of greater importance, from a sanitary point, than most people think to inland cities and in fact to all cities.

In the past Plainfield and North Plainfield have had a crude and unsanitary way for disposing of their kitchen and other house waste. Most of the householders are now paying fifty cents and some of them as much as seventy-five cents and one dollar per month for the disposal of their garbage alone, but complaints, especially in the hot months, are continually made to the Board of Health, of the neglect and carelessness of the licensed scavengers. They seem to adopt the plan of come when they please and if any is spilled in dumping into their buckets, they never think of cleaning it up.

Decaying garbage is surely very dangerous to health, also burning in the ranges is dangerous, on account of the gases which are generated. Many sanitary experts contend that many diseases that people have and cannot imagine where they have been exposed, are traceable to the unsanitary conditions around the house, generally the careless way in disposing of the garbage.

All of these dangers and annoyances will positively be avoided by the "air tight can process" for gathering adopted by the Plainfield Sanitary Company, a full description of which was published in The Daily Press of May 28th, 1896.

Plainfield stands to the front in most of the modern improvements; our water system cannot be equalled, our sewage, electric light, street railway and many other improvements are second to none, but we are way behind the age in our sanitary methods, relative to the collection and disposal of house refuse and there should be no delay in improvements in this line.

The business and financial standing of the incorporators and officers of the Plainfield Sanitary Company, (all but one, being residents of our city, as published in The Press of Saturday, January 16th,) is a positive guarantee that every detail will be carried out in an unquestionable business way and it cannot be charged that their sole object is mercenary.

They undoubtedly recognize the importance for such an improvement and come to the front with a model system and merely ask the governing board of our city for the privilege of locating within the city limits and what is most fair, agreeing to give absolute control to our Board of Health.

By granting this request it in no way places the city in a position so that, if at any time the city should be in shape to desire the ownership of any system, they can do so, as no franchise is given; until that time comes the city should avail itself of this greatly needed sanitary improvement. The Press in Saturday's issue, January 16, quoted from the Mayor's annual message and the annual report of the Board of Health of Scranton, Pa., where the system for final disposal proposed to be adopted by the Plainfield Sanitary Company, has been in operation for nearly four years. These are convincing proofs of the practicability of the system.

At the joint meeting of the Council, Board of Health and the company, held Saturday, January 9th, 1897, President Rockfellow of the Board of Health, in his remarks giving the results of their inspection at Scranton, made one all important statement, which was "that they visited many of the neighbors around the plant and in all cases they said that they had never noticed any smell from the plant."

Mayor Fisk has done some investigating on his own account by correspondence with prominent business men in Scranton, they state that they have never heard any complaints.

Plainfield should have relief from the present crude and unhealthy method, and as soon as possible.

Sanitary.

Old People.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey nor other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic or alterative. It acts mildly on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs, thereby aiding Nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old people find it just exactly what they need. Price 50c and $1 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

The Potter and Cleveland Cycles bowling teams rolled a match on the Ulrich alleys last evening. The former team made a score of 1286, and the score of the latter team was 1171.

of government and does as well in the future as in the past, it will possess:

1—More and better street improvements than Plainfield.

2—Just as good officials as Plainfield has or will have, and men closer to our own people.

3—A better system of sewerage than Plainfield has adopted—which we mean to get soon.

4—Just as excellent a public school as there is anywhere.

5—An inexpensive police and fire department, quite as efficient as we need.

6—Plenty of people who are willing to pay $2 a year to the Plainfield Public Library, if they desire its books, rather than to give up their local government to please a very few persons—say 16 out of a population of 5,000.

7—And plenty of other quiet, pleasant privileges which we have long since learned to enjoy, and hope to hold.

PASSING COMMENT.

The chapel to be erected on East Third street under the auspices of the First Baptist church will cost between $4,000 and $5,000. It will be a structure worthy in every particular of the denomination which it will represent.

It has been suggested that inasmuch as the city fathers are requiring rigid examinations on the part of those who are applying for positions on the city government, it would not be an altogether bad idea if the members of the city council were obliged to pass through a similar regime.

The monument to Samuel Read, the first Grand Chancellor of New Jersey and the first Supreme Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, will be unveiled at Mount Holly on February 17. Mr. Read was an enthusiastic society man, and to his efforts the Knights of Pythias are largely indebted for their great growth. The funds for the monument were contributed by the New Jersey lodges.

There was an interesting competition for the best definition of "the new woman" which was conducted recently by an English newspaper. The prize went to this saying: "A fresh darn on the original blue stocking." Among other suggestions were "Six of one and a half a dozen of the other," "One who has not yet attained to be a gentleman," "Man's newest and best reason for remaining single," "Mannishness minus manliness."

A theatrical manager well-known in the small towns for his ambitious demands in regard to scenery and stage effects, yet who was equally satisfied with the most meagre provision, said one morning to the lesses of a wooden booth:

"In the first act I shall require a regiment of soldiers on the right, a posse of policemen on the left, and a crowd of peasants on the bridge in the centre. Now, how many supers have you?"

"Two, sir."

To which he composedly replied: "That will do beautifully."

In connection with the painful silence on the part of the city officials, when some people think that they know more than the officials do, there is at least one city officer who is willing to express himself. He is a man that keeps in close touch with the powers that be and knows whereof he speaks. A Daily Press reporter met him a few days ago and asked him his opinion regarding the city treasurership. In reply he said that he thought that the salary of the office was all out of proportion for the amount of work required, and he felt confident that the council would reduce it. His idea is to give the office to someone associated with a bank, for he thinks that the work does not require over five days a month at the most. For this work he thinks that a salary of about $700 is too much.

Savings.

Madame Swetchine has written "youth ought to be a savings-bank, since the practice of early saving is frequently the foundation stone of prosperity." But saving money is no more essential to prosperity than saving the sight is essential to health, and the first step in this direction is to have your eyes examined at Colliers, where all examinations are free.

New Bank Cashier.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the First National Bank, of Bound Brook, held yesterday morning, H. G. Herbert was elected cashier in place of R. H. Brokaw, whose resignation takes effect on Monday, February 1st.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

A three-year-old daughter of Mrs. John Cronin, of Second street, is ill with the whooping cough.

Ice cutting was resumed again at New Market today for the first time since the snowstorm. The snow was cleaned from the lake yesterday.

The condition of Rev. Mr. Custard, pastor of the Dunellen M. E. church, has taken a sudden and unexpected change, and he is now sufferiug from pleurisy.

After an absence of nearly two months in New York visiting among relatives and friends, Miss Josephine Trust returned to her Greenbrook home yesterday.

Samuel Merrill and a force of men went about the streets of the borough yesterday with a horse and snow-plough, cleaning out the drifts. Some of the deep drifts on the road leading to New Market were removed and that thoroughfare was again opened for pedestrians.

Peter Sutphen, who moved his family to Dunellen three years ago next month, will next week remove to a four-acre plot of land at Centreville, Hunterdon county, where he will engage in the trucking business. He thinks by so doing he can live cheaper and can earn his first year's rent by painting up the farm buildings.

There was an amateur minstrel show at a Dunellen residence Thursday afternoon, which proved very successful from an artistic point of view. A number of the young men remained away from their duties at New York on account of the severe storm. They were assisted in the performance by a number of the young women of the place. Burnt cork was lavishly used and a dozen of Dunellen's young people were transformed into dusky minstrels.

At the regular meeting of the Dunellen fire department, held in the new Town Hall Thursday evening, Counselor Dungan, of Somerville, was on hand and explained to the members the conditions under which the department could become an incorporated body under the State laws. He stated that under an act of 1875, which had never been repealed, the matter would necessarily have to be advertised in one of the county papers for two consecutive weeks before final action could be taken. The meeting adjourned to Feb. 18th. The active members in the department now number 43.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

The condition of Mrs. W. H. Turton is today reported as much improved, and it is now thought that she has passed the critical point.

The snow has retarded the progress of the ice gatherers in this vicinity, but most of them have enough ice already stored to carry them well through next season.

Joseph Schmidt attended the Baker auction sale yesterday, and bid in two dozen sun umbrellas for $2. An hour later he was offering them for sale at prices ranging from 50 to 75 cents.

Twilight Council, No. 7, Jr. O. U. A. M., met in Goodwill Lodge rooms last evening, and accepted one new member. The lodge is growing rapidly, and its membership includes many of the most prominent young men in the town.

Executor William Stansbury of the James A. Baker estate had hoped to close up the auction sale today, but it was found that there was such an unexpected amount of stock on hand, that it will take at least two or three days yet to dispose of.

The committee appointed to solicit subscriptions for the Young Men's League are meeting with marked success. No report has yet been submitted, but it is understood that the success of their labors has already exceeded their expectations.

The members of the Ladies League of the Baptist church will give a rainbow tea in the parlors of the church, on the evening of February 27th. The league has given frequent entertainments in times past, and they have always proved very enjoyable.

John R. Marsh, an old and highly respected resident and merchant in this place, is lying dangerously ill with the grip. Dr. Westcott is the attending physician. This is the second time within the past two years that Mr. Marsh has been confined to his bed by illness.

The second union Sunday-school service will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. in the M. E. church. All the Sunday-schools will participate in the services. Corydon E. Tyler, formerly of Plainfield, will address the schools. Short addresses will also be made by the superintendents of each school.

Station Agent Erickson, of Nether wood, was agreeably surprised at his South avenue home Thursday evening, by about twenty young and middle aged people who called and spent the evening at his home. The party was arranged by Miss Erickson and Fred Schriner, and the guests took their music for dancing along with them. Dancing and games were indulged in until an early hour the next morning, interspersed with the serving of refreshments and singing.

THEATRICAL.

Gus Williams and his comedians will appear at Music Hall next Wednesday in the well known police play, "One of the Finest." The piece has been before the American public a number of years, and is one of the most successful comedies ever produced. It abounds in many thrilling and comical situations, and is replete with new songs and dances. The company carry a large amount of their own special scenery in order to give this production the proper effect. The play depicts New York police life and portrays the lights and shadows, both in day and gas light, of the metropolitan city. It abounds in good fun and lots of new songs and dances, and has won particular favor with lady patrons of the drama. The company is a strong one and all the theatre-goers should see this performance.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary corner Park and North avenues.

THE HOURS.

Behind each hour there always lies another
More like the first than brother unto brother,
And thought can never find the first one or the last,
In endless future nor in endless past.

No ending to the line and no beginning,
Simply the clock of time forever ringing.
A solemn fog bell tolling everlastingly
Above the wan waves of a level sea!

What does it mean, this ceaseless, sad procession
Of hours? No halt, no change, no retrogression,
No haste, no swerving, no delaying, no retreat,
Each like the last as pendulum beat to beat.

The earth and moon grow ever old and older,
And human hearts grow warmer or grow colder,
While stealthy death creeps up all ties to sever,
The hours move in unbroken file forever.

For they alone are free from all mutation,
Exempt alike from death and from creation;
They pass, and pass, and pass, and passing testify
To infinite and imminent eternity.

CAP'N DICKEY'S CAPTIVES.

How His Crew of Cripples Recovered in a Night.

One Day Late the Schooner Hester Sailed into Bristol Harbor with Rum, Molasses, Sundries and "Cinq Hommes."

The only words that Capt. John Dickey, of the Bristol schooner Hester, had understood were "cinq hommes."

"Five on 'em," he muttered. "That's odds for the frog-eaters."

And in the depths of his gloom he fell to cutting off a pipeful of tobacco.

Truly, Capt. John couldn't be very sanguine. He had sailed from Boston several days before, bound for Bristol town, or ancient Pemaquid, with a general cargo for the storekeepers of the settlement, and alas! a French privateersman had overhauled him away off the mouth of the Kennebec. The Hester had fled, but her flight was about as nimble as the scuttling away of an old hen floundering through a barnyard to escape a tormenting dog. The Hester was all right for conveying rum, molasses, and other necessaries—broad of beam and tight of seam. But she couldn't run away. Her blunt nose bumped against the waves, her heavy sides smashed clumsily down upon the brimming swell. The tough old bird spread all sail and bowled along, like a Brahma scudding before the wind with tail spread, but up came the privateeersman, his frisky nose dipping, his clean sides flashing back the glint of the wave, and the spume whizzing through the lee braces.

"Schoonaire, ahoi!" shouted a little man from over the taffrail, his knurly, red nose gleaming from under his cap. The pursuer had edged up on the Hester's quarter, and Capt. Dickey and his men were surlily eying the small craft.

"What do you want?" roared back the captain, hoarsely, just as though he didn't know all too well.

The man with the knurly red nose screamed back:

"Heaf' to; stand by for bot'!"

Capt. Dickey didn't haul around at once, however. He turned to Mate Constant Judkins.

"S'pose we've got to, Jud?" he remarked, gloomily. "Course you know what it means. We're gobbled."

"Yes, and it's jest as well to be gobbled whole as piecemeal," remarked Mate Judkins, carefully throwing his quid to lee.

This was wisdom. So in a moment or so the Hester came slapping and clanging and foaming around into the wind. Not a moment too soon, for the privateersman's long Tom had taken a rather determined squint at the mainmast of the schooner.

Then Capt. Dickey, listening attentively and with saturnine face, heard a gobble of French, in which he distinguished "cinq hommes," and that alone, for he wasn't a linguist.

"Sank 'om," he growled; "wal, come along and sank 'om more if you want to."

Constant Judkins listened to the soliloquy with puzzled face.

"If I may be so questioniferous, cap'n," he asked, "who's this 'ere Sank Orm who is coming aboard?"

The captain didn't smile. "I heard 'em say in We-we lingo," he explained, "that they're going to put five prize men aboard us, and the Lord only knows where they'll take us!"

The crew of the Hester were four—the skipper, the mate—Ozarias Hodson, A. B., able-bodied seaman, and Berual Joquith, cook and before the mast.

Now, as the captain strode forward front of the house to see about throwing over the stern ladder, he saw Ozarias Hodson sitting on a rope coil in the waist, with head tied up.

"What ails you?" snapped the skipper.

"Toot'ache, sir, and dum'd bad, too!"

Ozarias evidently was more distracted by toothache than by a privateersman. Berual Joquith, who had had the lively suspicion that the privateersman would pop a few shots at them by way of exercise and practice, dodged out of sight into his sanctuary.

Just as Capt. Dickey threw over the stern ladder a thought struck him.

"By ginger!" said he, and he jumped as though he had suddenly taken in a mouthful of that condiment.

He threw a hasty look over the side. The privateersman was just getting its long boat in the water with the "sank'oms" and their sea chests.

"Jud," he called back to the mate, "make fast the wheel and dodge down here into the waist under the lee of the bulwark."

Judkins looked surprised, but he did so.

"Come along below," commanded the skipper, and both men followed him Down in his bunk they found the cook.

"Boys," said the captain, "there ain't time to go into long explanations, but I want you to know right now that you're all in awful bad shape, and I'm the only man about ship who can keep on his pegs."

The amazement on the faces of the three gradually grew into shrewd intelligence as they stared into the twinkling eyes of the "old man."

"Tell us what the trouble is with us," requested Berual, "and we'll be the sickest fellows you ever seed in about two flips of the flyin' jib."

"Wall," said the captain, "I ain't as good a liar as I wish I was, but I guess it'll be likely enough if a truck fell and smashed your jaw, Ozarias, fractured your collar-bone and broke Berual's leg, eh?" And the skipper extended a grin from his wrinkles.

"Hain't that putting consid'able responsibility on one truck, cap'n?"

"There ain't no telling what a truck will do on a rampage," cheerfully replied the captain.

Forthwith he bundled the toothachy Ozarias into his bunk and made him wrap more elaborate bandages about his head and shoulders.

Then he obliged Berual to remove his trousers, and hastily but neatly he strapped a bit of board upon the cook's leg, bandaging it with strips from his dishcloths.

"I'd kind of like to know the nature of my complaint," broke in Constant Judkins, "so that I can be practicin'."

The captain pondered. "I suppose I might have your arm broken," he said, dubiously. "But one block couldn't very well knock out the whole crew. We've got to have a little variety, for them frog-eaters are suspicious cusses. Ever have yaller janders?" he asked of Judkins.

"No."

"Well, all you've got to do is to lay still and haul your mouth down. I'll daub on a little slush," and the captain skillfully rubbed some of the yellow oil over the mate's face.

"Now look sick, all of you," said the captain as he prepared to go on deck and receive the prize crew. "It'll help you to look sicker if you recollect that the frog eaters have a way of slitting wizens when they suspicion shenanigan."

Of the Frenchmen who came over the rail none could talk English, and the captain couldn't talk French. Yes, he could—he could say "Bong shur," but he loftily forebore.

However, when the new arrivals looked around suspiciously for the crew, and unslung their carbines and appeared to apprehend ambush, the captain, with many waves of his hands and much "we-ing," led two of the five below with an air like a rooster gallantly conducting pullets to a worm banquet. In pantomime he explained the sad plight he was in, and his crew groaned dolefully at the proper times. He tried to explain to the Frenchmen how glad he was they had come and taken the Hester at this time of danger. The men didn't seem to grasp that part of the story, however. But the captain didn't care. The prize men were evidently thoroughly convinced that below decks was just the hospital it claimed to be, and after much ineffectual jargon and much gesturing they made the captain understand that he was to stay down and nurse his men. The captain was a good nurse. He must have worked the faith cure on his devoted crew, for in the deep gloom of the dog watch three very determined-looking convalescents sneaked barefooted at his heels as he wormed aft in the shadow of the Hester's bulwark.

The night was made for the enterprise. 'Twas clouded, and from the murk of the west a humming breeze sang in the shrouds and murmured down out of the hollows of the sails. One Frenchman was at the wheel and one pendulumed back and forward at the head of the companionway. Another was doubled up on a coil of rope in the lee of the house and the other two were presumably below. All the men on deck were unarmed, for it wasn't to be supposed that they would lug about an arsenal to protect themselves against a nautical invalids' home. So Capt. Dickey's miraculously healed bodyguard had little trouble in downing and tying all three before their surprise was over.

The only casualty was when a squirming Frenchman trod upon Berual's bare foot. In his anguish the cook let out a howl that started the two men below on a rush for the deck. They bobbed out of the companion-hatch like two jacks-in-the-box, saw the situation and as quickly jerked themselves back.

They stayed barricaded in the cabin till the schooner came up into Bristol harbor, 24 hours later, with a bone in her mouth and the foam bells tinkling off her rudder. Capt. Dickey would, in the kindness of his heart, have fed the garrison in his cabin on plum duff and salt horse; but every time he tried to explain his wishes through the cabin window they poked their gunbarrels at him. The poor chaps evidently thought their companions had been made way with, and that the bluff-faced old skipper was cajoling them to a similar fate.

"What's your cargo, John, this trip?" roared Job Brasmon, from the wharf as he waited to catch the line and fling it over a spiling.

"Rum, molasses, sundries, and Frenchmen," shouted back the captain; "and if you'll bear a hand with a plank we'll unload the Frenchmen fust."

And all Bristol flocked down to fling a sarcastic "polly voo" at Capt. John Dickey's unhappy captives.—Lewiston Journal.

Keeping Broth.

All soups can be preserved in a good condition for some days by taking great care, when freshly made, to skim well, and to remove every particle of fat from the surface. The broth should be kept in a very cool larder and uncovered; in very hot weather it should be strained every day, and poured into a perfectly clean vessel.—Albany Journal.

A HOPELESS CASE.

BY CLARA MULHOLLAND.

"It will pinch me sore, Lydia," said Mr. Waddilove, sadly. "Things are in a bad way with me just now, and it will be a great expense."

"We must make sacrifices sometimes for the sake of our children, James," replied his wife, severely. "I wonder you could hesitate for a moment."

"Do you? Well, don't, and I can't see the necessity for such a move. Why shouldn't the girls be happy at home? Why should they require a season in London? What good will it do them?"

"Had I not spent those two months in town with Aunt Susan long ago, James, I'd never have met you."

"Humph," he grunted, "how do you know? You were my fate. I'd have met you somehow."

Mrs. Waddilove shrugged her shoulders and smiled; then, folding her arms upon her lap, sighed heavily.

"I'm not a believer in fate. I pin my faith on opportunity."

"Well, who knows, an opportunity may arise."

"Here? In this quiet country place, where no man comes from year end to year end? Impossible. Miriam and Selina are 23 and 22. They are pretty, fair, attractive girls, but their youth is passing, and if they go on as they are doing, they must live and die unknown and unsought. We shall have three old maids to provide for—"

"Poor little Madge, too. Well, you do look far ahead. The child is barely 18."

"O," with a quick decision, "she is a hopeless case. A plain girl like Madge is as well in the country as in town. Fate or opportunity would do little for her. But the others are different."

"Very," he said, grimly. "So you would not take Madge to London?"

"Of course not. She will keep house and look after you."

"Yet she would enjoy the theaters and the various sights. At 18—"

"It would be a waste of money to take Madge, and she is quite happy at home."

He smiled, and the expression of his face changed; his eyes grew soft and tender.

"Thank God, yes. And Madge and I will be very happy together."

"She was always your favorite; so it's a good thing you are not likely to lose her."

"Yes," thoughtfully, "and yet, if anyone came to know her and her sweet, bright nature, he—"

"Don't be afraid. Sweet natures don't count for much nowadays. Beauty or money is a necessity. As Madge has neither—"

"Poor little girl. Then the love of her old father must suffice. When do you think of going?"

"At once," Mrs. Waddilove cried, rejoiced to find him give in so easily. "Lady Grantley has a ball on Thursday, Mrs. Townley one on the following Monday, and more are sure to turn up. As soon as Miriam and Salina are seen invitations will pour in. They will both be engaged before the end of the season, of that I am certain."

II.

The Manor house was flooded with sunshine. Every window was wide open, and every room full of the scent of roses, the perfume of new mown hay.

Mrs. Waddilove and her two handsome daughters, Miriam and Selina, had been gone some six weeks, and as yet showed no signs of returning. Madge and her father had grown accustomed to their absence, and felt no very strong desire to see them come back. They were the best of friends, these two, and perfectly happy in each other's society.

In the presence of her mother and her good-looking sisters, Madge had been shy, quiet and reserved. But alone with her dear old father, whom she adored, the gayety of her heart asserted itself, her whole nature expanded, and she became what she had never been before—a merry, laughing, bewitching little maiden.

"With such a pair of dancing dark eyes, and such a bright, happy face, who could call my Madge plain?" thought her father one day as he watched her flit backwards and forwards among the roses. "But I'm glad she did not go to London. Somehow, the world might rub off the bloom—bring sorrow to her loving little heart—and I want her to be happy always."

Across the lawn came one of the gardeners in hot baste.

"If you please, sir," he said, pausing in front of his master, "there's been an accident, just at the gate—a gentleman thrown from his bicycle by a—"

"Dear me, dear me, is he hurt?" cried the old man, starting up.

"I'm afraid, sir, he's sprained his ankle. He seemed in pain."

"He must come in, Madge," he called. "Madge, get the vinegar, bandages; there has been an accident. I'm going to bring the man in. Get everything ready."

"Yes," answered Madge, and laying aside her roses, she ran into the house.

III.

Three weeks later Madge strolled beneath the lime trees, a tall, fair man by her side.

"You are walking better to-day," she said. "I think your ankle is almost well."

He sighed and dug his stick into the sward.

"I fear so."

Madge laughed merrily. "How ungrateful! And surely a sprained ankle is not a pleasant thing?"

"It has been a piece of real good fortune to me," he replied, earnestly, "for through it I made the best friends I ever had—you and your father."

"I'm glad you think so, and I assure you," looking up with a bright, sweet glance, "father and I feel it was a lucky accident for us, Gilbert. We have had a pleasant time since you came to us."

"And I? O, Madge, if you could only realize what it has been for me! Since my father and mother died, when I was nine, 18 years ago, I have known little but loneliness; and I came down to the Warren for the first time since I came of age, never guessing the delightful neighbors I should find there. That evening I went out on my bicycle to while away an hour, when luck, in the shape of a clumsy van, bowled me over in front of your gate. But now the happy time is at an end, and I feel that I must go home."

"Yes," Madge sighed, "I suppose you must. And, you see, perhaps it is just as well. Mother and the girls are coming back, and then things will be different."

"But you will be the same?"

"I?" blushing and dimpling. "Not quite; everyone, even the dear old dad, changes when they are about. You see, our positions are not what they are when far away. We are no longer master and mistress. We go nowhere, see no one, speak when we're spoken to—"

"O, Madge!" He reddened and looked at her in dismay. "That's rather much. But I'll tell you what—you and your father must come and pay me a long visit. My home is charming. I've got servants and horses, and—and everything to make you happy, and we'll have all our nice time over again."

"It—it sounds delightful. But," her lips trembled, "mother would not allow me to go. You see, I am not out. I am the youngest. Miriam would go. She's the eldest, and very handsome, with a tall, slight figure, fair hair, blue—" Her eyes filled with tears. "O, you—you will surely like Miriam, and—and forget your poor Madge."

"You know I won't," he cried, vehemently. "And I don't want Miriam, and I don't care whether she's handsome or not. I want you. And, what's more, I'll insist upon your coming."

Madge gazed at him in open-eyed astonishment.

"You don't know mother, Gilbert," she said, solemnly. "Not one of us dare turn the word with her, and if she told me—"

"But if it—if it—if the Warren was to be one day your home," he stammered, catching her hand and drawing her towards him. "If—O, Madge; we have known each other three whole weeks. We have spent hours of the day together, we have talk over everything. You know me, all about me, bad and good, and I know you"—his voice shook with emotion—"and I love you."

"O, Gilbert," she gasped. "Gilbert."

"My darling, I have startled, alarmed you. But if you could love me—be my wife?"

"Poor, plain little me?" She raised her eyes, then turned them quickly away, her face crimson, her whole frame trembling, her heart full of a new-sweet joy.

"To me, as you stand thus and always, you are beautiful, for I love you above everything on earth. Madge, answer me."

"Yes," she whispered low; "yes"—then laid her face upon his breast.

The following afternoon, some three or four hours earlier than they were expected, Mrs. Waddilove, Miriam and Selina arrived at the Manor house.

As he stood watching his men stacking the hay, Mr. Waddilove was informed that his wife and daughters had come home, and, without an instant's delay, he hurried to greet them. The three ladies were tired after their journey, and answered his various inquiries with but scant courtesy. Then, as Madge did not appear to welcome her, her mother became extremely irate.

"My dear, she has gone for a walk," her husband said, soothingly. "She—she will not be long."

"A walk alone at this late hour? You are a strange person to have charge of a young girl, James. I suppose Madge has done exactly as she pleased while I was away? But that will soon be changed. Out for a walk alone—"

"She is not alone, dear," he began, knowing full well she was with Gilbert, and wondering how he should break the news of her engagement to her mother. "She's with—a friend."

"Well, this sort of thing must be put a stop to."

"Yes, yes, of course. But have you any news for me, Lydia?"

She glared at him. "None," she answered sharply.

"Then your time has been wasted. The opportunities were of no avail? Miriam and Selina have made no conquest."

"You are rude, Mr. Wadd—. And I am glad the poor girls have gone upstairs."

"I don't mean to be rude, dear. I am content to keep my daughters at home. I was only following up the conversation that led to your going to London. I believed in a sweet, bright nature, and fate. You put faith in what you called beauty—and opportunities. Without boasting or in any way annoying you, I wish to say, without taking any credit to myself, that my idea was the right one; that here, in our home, Madge and I have been more successful."

Mrs. Waddilove flounced over to the window.

"Pray explain—"

She stopped abruptly and put up her pince-nez, as a slim little girl in pink cotton walked across the lawn in close conversation with a fair, blue-eyed man.

"Madge?" she cried. "And who, pray, is her companion?"

"That," he said, hurrying to her side, "is Gilbert Hastings, the wealthy young owner of the Warren, and our Madge's affianced husband."

"Good heavens." She sank into a chair with a cry. "But—but be generous, James. Do not triumph over me too much."

He took her hand and pressed it to his lips.

"Nothing, my dear, is farther from my thoughts, and I am very glad that you have come home to rejoice with me at our child's great happiness."—London Sketch.

HAD DYSPEPSIA TERRIBLY.

Dr. Greene's Nervura Astonished Him by a Wonderful Cure.

Mr. Barney Wilson, Champlain, N. Y., says:—"I could not think easily, my head felt dull and strange, and I was tired and weak all over. I knew my nerves were weak and prostrated, that I had dyspepsia terribly; why, I could scarcely eat anything from one day to another. I could not sleep nights, and woke mornings feeling weak, tired and dragged out.

MR. BARNEY WILSON.

"I saw the advertisement of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I procured some of the druggist at once, and before I had taken two bottles I was so much better that I was astonished! I continued its use, and now I am feeling as well and sound as I ever was in my life I can truly say that had it not been for Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy I should now be in my grave. I earnestly recommend it to all who are suffering from disease."

If constipated, use Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills with the Nervura. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Delicate Dress Goods.
Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

SAYS THE JUNTA DUPED HIM.

Capt. Hudson Explains Why He Turned State's Evidence in the Woodall Case.

Baltimore, Jan. 30.—The federal grand jury which is to hear the case against the Cuban sympathizers, Gen. Roloff and Dr. Luis, for violating the neutrality act in connection with the shipment of war supplies to Cuba by the steamship Woodall met in the U. S. court yesterday afternoon and listened to a vigorous charge by Judge Morris. The punishment for a high misdemeanor, such as is charged in this case, is a fine not exceeding $3.000 and imprisonment for not more than three years. United States District-Attorney Marbury was engaged in another trial and could not therefore go before the grand jury, but he expects to open the case this afternoon, when the government's witnesses against Gen. Roloff and Dr. Luis will give their testimony. Capt. John M. Hudson of Brooklyn, who commanded the alleged filibustering expedition which sailed on the James Woodall, will be the principal witness for the prosecution. In an interview to-day he told why he turned state's evidence and outlined the testimony he will give before the grand jury. Capt. Hudson claims that he was "dumped" by the Cuban junta, for which he risked his life and liberty; that a number of his crew have made sworn statements as to the facts of the expedition, and that he has been liable to arrest and imprisonment for violating the United States neutrality laws. Realizing that he could not rely on the Cuban junta to protect him, he says, he determined to protect himself by turning state's evidence, which he has done. "I shall make some disclosures at the trial which will surprise the Cuban junta," was Capt. Hudson's concluding statement.

WAR ON FILIBUSTERS.

Review By the Supreme Court of the Case Against the Three Friends.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Attorney Gen. Harmon has prepared a petition for a writ of certiorari to bring up for review by the supreme court the case of Three Friends, the alleged filibustering steamer from the United States court for the southern district of Florida, which he will present to the court at its session Monday next. An appeal from the decision of Judge Long in the case has been taken to the court of appeals from the fifth circuit, where it is now pending. In the petition, the attorney general says: "The question involved in this case is whether the words 'colony, district or people,' in section 5,283, R. S., are confined in application to political bodies whose belligerency has been formerly recognized, the Three Friends having been fitted out and armed in aid of the present insurrection in Cuba, which insurrection is sufficiehtly notorious and extensive to have received the attention of the government of this country for nearly two years past, although the insurgents have not received any recognition of belligerency—all of which the courts take judicial notice. The question is a very important one since if the section under consideration is not applicable to such expeditions in support of the present Cuban insurrection these expeditions are piratidal in character and prosecutions should be instituted under other provisions of the revised statutes."

TRADE STILL GAINS

The Improvement, However, Not Rapid Enough for Some.

MANY WHO ARE EXPECTING TOO MUCH

Prices Continue Low, But a Study of the Conditions Now Governing Business Indicates a Lasting Movement in the Proper Direction.

New York, Jan. 30.—Dun's weekly review of the state of trade for the week just ending will, to-day, says January has been a month of disappointment, but of real gain. Nearly everybody had promised himself a land of milk and honey after New Year's, and the slow progress looks like standing still to men in such a state of mind. Moreover, there are multitudes throughout the country who have been taking large ventures in advance of or apart from their regular business because they expected a rise in prices. But prices fail as yet to bring them profit. Wheat has declined severely, cotton has scarcely risen enough to pay brokerage, wool holds steady in spite of enormous buying, woolen goods hardly change in price, iron and its products decline, leather is sluggish, hides are lower, for some shoe manufacturers accept a shade lower prices; the average of railroad stocks is slightly lower than it was Dec. 31, and the advance in trust stocks has been small. To traders in such properties the month has been disappointing. Yet during the past week the record shows that ten iron works have started and only two have stopped, thirteen woolen works have started and nine more are about ready to start, while three have stopped. Similar things are seen in other industries, and the additional establishments are not starting without some increase in orders received.

Imports and Exports.

It would do more harm than good to exaggerate the improvement. Much harm was done in that way in 1895, and again last November. But a study of conditions governing business indicates that the wheels are on the right track and moving in the right direction. Men talked of a possible drain of gold a month ago, but January has passed and the liquidation of foreign indebtedness to this country seems farther off than ever. Merchandise exports from New York in January have been about 4 per cent. larger than last year and imports 15 per cent. smaller than last year, when the excess of exports was over $18,000,000, while cotton exports from other ports have also been larger. The month has not diminished but has increased the current balance due this country. Money markets become more easy and favorable to expansion of industries and legitimate business. Loans on the best paper are made at 3 per cent., and dealings and offerings are larger than since September, except for two weeks in November. About $10,000,000 of the long exchange held here against London has gone forward for settlement, which may possibly lead to imports of some gold, as balances on commercial account, though smaller than for some months, are still in favor of this country.

Wheat, Corn and Cotton.

The decline in wheat of over 6 cents, in spite of an official report of yield far below estimates generally accepted, reflects perception of the error of the report, and also of the influence of enormous exports of corn instead of wheat, 80,000,000 bushels in seven months. When two bushels of corn can be had for less than one bushel of wheat, it is largely preferred in European markets. As the great crop of corn prevents much advance in its price, its outgo affects the demand for wheat, and a heavy liquidation of speculation has occurred, with the price of corn scarcely changing. The largest article of export at this season goes out freely, but cotton look less attractive to traders, because American millers are laboring over plans to reduce a great surplus of goods, and prices of many have declined.

Leather, Hides and Metals.

The yielding in some grades of boots and shoes has not continued, leather is unchanged, and hides scarcely a shade lower, but shipments from the east for the month have been larger than last year, and only 3 per cent. less than in the largest previous year. The iron and steel manufacture shows little gain, production having increased so heavily before, and the gradual enlargement of demand for finished products has not overtaken that increase. Lower prices result for Bessemer pig, Grey forge, and for southern iron at Chicago, for angles and for cut nails and the average of all quotations is the lowest since early last year. For sheets there is active demand, and better also for bars, on account of much car building. Tin and copper are a shade stronger, but competition causes sales of tin plates below the agreed price.

SABBATH REFORM.

Seventh Day Baptist People Have an Interesting Discussion.

A special missionary meeting was held in the Seventh Day Baptist church last evening instead of Friday evening prayer meeting. The topic was the denominational work in regard to Sabbath reform. The meeting was led by pastor, Rev. A. E. Main.

A number of letters from the different churches in the country regarding the progress of the work, as puplished in the Sabbath Recorder, were read by D. E. Titsworth, Asa Randolph, Miss Louise Lewis, Miss Bessie Randolph, and Mrs. Amanda Maxson.

Sometime ago, Rev. A. H. Lewis, D. D., of this city wrote a series of twelve tracts on "Sabbath Reform," and one of them was read and explained at a meeting of the Seventh Day Baptist church, several weeks ago. Last night the second of the series was read and explained by Rev. A. E. Main. The subject of the tract was "The authority of the Sabbath and the authority of the Bible are inseparable." The argument of the tract was that there was no authority in the Bible for the observation of the Sabbath on Sunday, that it was merely the decree of the church, while the Bible states expressly how and when the sabbath shall be observed. The authority of the Bible is more reliable, it stated, than that of any church or council.

Wiman, Winfield Coddington, Jacob Shepherd, Wm. Messler, Garrett Mattis, Harry Mattis; Mrs. James Southard, and Mrs. George Shepherd, mother of the bride.

NEARLY PERISHED FROM COLD.

Italian Found Helpless in a Deserted Building Near Westfield.

Cries were heard early yesterday morning issuing from the deserted building at Graceland that was once a depot. Martin Crane, who happened to be passing along the county road, went to investigate. There he found an Italian who was nearly dead from cold and hunger.

Crane got the man into a wagon and took him to his countrymen at Westfield, who promised to care for him. The man said that he had been walking from Bound Brook to Westfield to look for work, and stopped in the station to rest. When he tried to resume his journey through the snow his feet were so swollen from the cold that he could not walk He said that he tried several times to attaact attention of men on passing trains, but they paid no attention to him.

A Word or Two

To sufferers from catarrh will not be amiss if a cure can be offered. Ely's Cream Balm has become a favorite in all sections of the United States. Your cold in the head will be quickly relieved by it, and the severest attack of catarrh will yield to, and be perfectly cured by a thorough treatment. Catarrh is not a blood disease, but an inflammation of the passages of the nose and throat, due to climatic changes.

SUED FOR A HORSE'S BOARD.

A Bound Brooker Lost His Suit Against a Netherwood Man.

The defendant said that he had paid the bill but the plaintiff said that he had not and so the case was tried. It was the suit on contract brought by Henry Garretson, a liveryman from Bound Brook against Andrew Guyer, of Netherwood, and the matter was brought up in Justice Nash's court. Guyer had a horse which he kept in Bound Brook for some time. Garretson looked after it for him and all was pleasant. Then Guyer took the horse away and now the Bound Brook man claims that he did not receive any recompense for his care of the horse. He brought suit for $100 for the keep of the horse.

The case was tried before Justice Nash and a jury of six men yesterday afternoon. The plaintiff was represented in court by Lawyer Fisher, of Somerville. Assemblyman W. R. Codington was the atterney for the Plainfield man. A number of receipts and checks were brought in as evidence and the jury, after being in about fifteen minutes, decided in favor of the defendant, bringing in a verdict of no cause of action.

11th DAY!

Today, Jan. 28th, is the eleventh day of Edsall's Great Retiring Sale, and we believe we can safely say that Plainfield has never before witnessed such marvelous merchandising as these eleven days. Every day both floors of the large store have been literally packed with eager buyers from early morning until closing time, 6 p. m.

Although we have put on a large force of extra salespeople, including two of Woodhull & Martin's head men from Morristown, yet we cannot wait on the people as promptly as we would like. The interest in the sale seems to increase each day, and the amount of sales each day is a little larger than the day before. It might be supposed that the goods would begin to give out, but when you think of a stock like ours, amounting to upwards of $80,000, comprising about everything anybody or any household would want, it cannot be sold in a few days. The people seem to have been taken as by storm; even the severe cold weather of the past few days did not lessen their enthusiasm, but they came out all the same. Such at which we are selling off the stock astonishes the New York shoppers even, and hundreds of our citizens who do their trading in New York are laying in their supplies for future use from our stock, saying that they cannot do near so well in New York. Those who wish to make a little money go a good ways, regard this sale as a great benefaction. The sale is known far and near, and is drawing trade from all around the country. No one has any idea of the magnitude of the sale, and the great crowds that visit the Commercial Palace during each day, unless they have been there to see for themselves.

The purchases are general; all kinds of goods sell, as every article in the store, from a pin to a moquette carpet, has been reduced to cost or below cost.

It seems as if everybody that we have ever seen, and hundreds of people we have never seen, have come to the sale, and reader, if you have not, we invite you to come right away, you will certainly see something that our wonderfully low prices will induce you to buy.

Our entire millinery stock, including velvets, ribbons, laces, chiffons, feathers, trimmed and untrimmed hats, in felts and straws, also straws, frames and flowers, to be closed out regardless of cost. Trimmed hats marked at $12, now $5. Everything to be sold at cost and below cost.

Come one, come all, you will find plenty of good cheerful company here, and everything bright and happy. All unpleasant sayings and things we leave out of our business and try to make everybody welcome and satisfied.
